SUBPART—DETAILED REGULATIONS GOVERNING POISONOUS ARTICLES

1. Section 146.25–25 is amended by changing paragraph (b) to read as follows:

§ 146.25–25 Exemptions for radioactive materials. • • •

(b) Manufactured articles other than liquids, such as instrument or clock dials or electronic tubes and apparatus, of which radioactive materials are a component part, and luminous compounds, when securely packed in strong outside containers are exempt from specification packaging, marking other than name of contents and labeling requirements provided the gamma radiation at any surface of the package is less than 10 milliroentgens in 24 hours.

2. Section 146.25–30 is amended by changing the text to read as follows:

§ 146.25–30 Packing and shielding of radioactive materials. (a) (1) Not more than 2,000 millicuries of radium, polonium, or other members of the radium family of elements, and not more than 2,700 millicuries (disintegration rate of 100,000 million (10^{11}) atoms per second) of any other radioactive substance may be packed in one outside container for shipment by water except by special arrangements and under conditions approved by the Commandant of the Coast Guard, or except as provided in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph.

(2) Not more than 300 curies of solid cesium 137, cobalt 60 or iridium 192 may be packed in one outside container for shipment by water except by special arrangements and under conditions approved by the Commandant of the Coast Guard.

(3) For the purposes of the regulations of 46 CFR 146, one millicurie is that amount of any radioactive material which disintegrates at the rate of 37 million atoms per second.

(b) Radioactive materials that present special hazards due to their tendency to remain fixed in the human body for long periods of time (i. e., radium, plutonium, and radioactive strontium, etc.) must, in addition to the packing prescribed in Section 146.25–400, Table H, be packed in inside metal containers specification 2R, or other container approved by the Bureau of Explosives and authorized by the Commandant of the Coast Guard.

(c) All radioactive materials must be so packed and shielded that the degree of fogging of undeveloped film under conditions normally incident to transportation (24 hours at 15 feet from the package) will not exceed that produced by 11.5 milliroentgens of penetrating gamma rays of radium filtered by ½ inch of lead.

(d) The design and preparation of the package must be such that there will be no significant radioactive surface contamination of any part of the container.

(e) The smallest dimension of any outside shipping container for radioactive materials must be not less than 4 inches.

(f) All outside shipping containers must be of such design that the gamma radiation will not exceed 200 milliroentgens per hour or equivalent at any point of readily accessible surface. Containers must be equipped with handles and protective devices when necessary in order to satisfy this requirement.

(g) Radioactive materials Group I, liquid, solid, or gaseous, must be packed in suitable inside containers completely surrounded by a shield of lead or other suitable material of such thickness that at any time during transportation the gamma radiation at one meter (39.3 inches) from any point on the radioactive source will not exceed 10 milliroentgens per hour. The shield must be so designed that it will not open or break under conditions incident to transportation. The minimum shielding must be sufficient to prevent the escape of any primary corpuscular radiation to the exterior of the outside shipping container.

(h) Radioactive materials Group II, liquid, solid, or gaseous, must be packed in suitable inside containers completely shielded so that at any time during transportation the radiation measured at right angles to any point on the long axis of the shipping container will not exceed the limits specified in subparagraphs (1) to (4) of this paragraph. The shielding must be designed so as to maintain its efficiency under conditions normally incident to transportation and must provide personnel protection against fast or slow neutrons and all other ionizing radiation originating in the radioactive materials or any part of the aggregate constituting the complete package.

(1) Gamma radiation of 10 mrhm.

(2) Electrically charged corpuscular radiation which is the physical equivalent (see note 1 of this paragraph) of 10 mrhm. of gamma radiation.

(3) Neutron radiation which is the physical equivalent (see note 1 of this paragraph) of 2 mrhm. of gamma radiation.

(4) If more than one of the types of radiation named in subparagraphs (1), (2), and/or (3) of this paragraph is present the radiation of each type must be reduced by shielding so that the total does not exceed the equivalent of subparagraphs (1), (2), or (3) of this paragraph.

NOTE 1: For purposes of the regulations in this section the "physical equivalent" of a roentgen is that amount of radiation that would be absorbed in tissue to the extent of approximately 100 ergs per gram (mrhm. is an abbreviation for milliroentgens per hour at 1 meter (39.3 inches)).

(j) Liquid radioactive materials Groups I, II or III must, in addition, be packed in tight glass, earthernware, or other suitable inside containers. The inside containers must be surrounded on all sides and within the shield by an absorbent material sufficient to absorb the entire liquid contents and of such nature that its efficiency will not be impaired by chemical reaction with the contents. If the container is packed in a metal container specification 2R or other container approved by the Bureau of Explosives, the absorbent cushioning is not required.

(k) Radioactive materials, Group III, liquid, solid or gaseous, must be packed in suitable inside containers completely wrapped and/or shielded with such material as will prevent the escape of primary corpuscular radiation to the exterior of the shipping container, and secondary radiation at the surface of the container must not exceed 10 milliroentgens per 24 hours, at any time during transportation.

TITLE 38—PENSIONS, BONUSES, AND VETERANS' RELIEF

Chapter I—Veterans Administration

PART 21—VOCATIONAL REHABILITATION AND EDUCATION

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

1. In § 21.205, paragraph (a) is amended and paragraphs (b) and (c) are revoked as follows:

§ 21.205 Adjusting the duration of the course. (a) It is the function and responsibility of the training officer to prescribe and arrange for that course of training to be provided which is necessary to restore employability in the occupation which has been approved through counseling. Although Certificate B, VA Form VB 7-1902a, provides for indicating the estimated length of the course, that estimate will not establish or control the length of the veteran's course. The duration of the course will be that period of training which is generally recognized as necessary to qualify for employment at the entry level for a trained worker in the selected occupation taking into account any applicable previous training or experience in the individual veteran's case. As the veteran proceeds with his course, the training officer, on the basis of a continuing appraisal of the veteran's progress toward satisfactory completion of his training and in accord with the provisions of applicable Veterans Administration regulations, will make any necessary adjustments in the previously planned period of training, i. e., lengthen or shorten the course, to assure that:

(1) The veteran upon completion of such training will be employable at the entry level for a trained worker in the selected occupation; and

(2) The duration of the veteran's course will not exceed the period necessary to make him employable in his objective.

(b) [Revoked.]

(c) [Revoked.]

2. In § 21.236, paragraph (a) (1) is amended to read as follows:

§ 21.236 Authority to furnish supplies to trainees in training on the job. (a) • • •

(1) Where the veteran is pursuing training for an occupation covered by an approved list in vocational rehabilitation and education procedures, the supplies furnished may not exceed those which appear on the approved list. Items not on the approved list for the trade or occupation for which the trainee is pursuing training shall not be furnished except under one of the following conditions:

(i) Although not on the approved list, an item required by the training establishment to be owned personally by all trainees may be substituted by the training officer for a corresponding item on the approved list if the item substituted will serve the same general purpose and the cost is less than or approximates the usual cost of the item for which substitution is made.

(ii) In the unusual situation where the approved list is not suitable because of the unique characteristics of job operations required by the training establishment, the training officer may authorize the issuance of necessary training supplies which will be suitable provided such items are required by the training establishment to be owned personally by all trainees pursuing the same course and trained workers employed in the occupation at that establishment and the total cost of the supplies furnished does not exceed the total cost of those which appear in the approved list for the particular occupation.

3. In § 21.237a, paragraph (a) (1) is amended to read as follows:

§ 21.237a Furnishing supplies to veterans pursuing training in the home. (a) • • •

(1) Where the veteran is pursuing training for an occupation covered by an approved list in vocational rehabilitation and education procedures, the supplies furnished may not exceed those which appear on the approved list. Items not on the approved list for the trade or occupation for which the trainee is pursuing training shall not be furnished except under one of the following conditions:

(i) Although not on the approved list, an item required by the instructor or institution furnishing the training in the home may be substituted by the training officer for a corresponding item on the approved list if the item substituted will serve the same general purpose and the cost is less than or approximates the usual cost of the item for which substitution is made.

(ii) In the unusual situation where the approved list is not suitable because of the unique method followed by the instructor or institution in conducting the course of training in the home, the training officer may authorize the issuance of supplies which will be suitable, provided he determines that such unique method of conducting the training is sound and necessary under the circumstances, the supplies are necessary for training purposes and the total cost of the supplies furnished does not exceed the total cost of those which appear on the approved list for the particular occupation.

4. In § 21.250, the introductory paragraph immediately preceding paragraph (a), and paragraph (b) are amended to read as follows:

§ 21.250 Adjustments in the training situation. The training officer must be continuously aware of the trainee's progress toward satisfactory vocational rehabilitation, i. e., toward becoming employable in the occupation for which he is training, and must determine at frequent intervals whether the trainee is progressing satisfactorily and whether he will be employable upon completion of the course which he is pursuing.

• • • • • •

(b) When a trainee indicates dissatisfaction with his course of vocational rehabilitation or when the training institution recommends a change or discontinuance of the veteran's course, the training officer should contact the instructor or faculty advisor of the veteran and arrange personal discussion with the trainee and/or an appropriate representative of the institution, individually or jointly, and effect, if possible, a satisfactory correction of the difficulty through a minor adjustment in the course or an adjustment on the part of the trainee as to attitude, performance, etc. The training officer should give the institution all possible cooperation toward accomplishing the adjustment of the veteran to the training situation and should assist the trainer or instructor in understanding the need for, and in adopting, any special procedures which may be necessary due to the particular disability of the veteran. If the dissatisfaction or difficulty cannot be corrected through a minor adjustment, the training officer should take action looking toward a change of training institution, a change of the trainee's employment objective, consideration by the Vocational Rehabilitation Board under § 21.256 (c) (1), placing the trainee in discontinued status or other action, as appropriate.

5. In § 21.252, paragraph (a) is amended to read as follows:

§ 21.252 Change of employment objective. (a) A veteran once inducted into training under Part VII, Veterans Regulation 1 (a), as amended (38 U. S. C. ch. 12A) (Public Law 16, 78th Cong., or Public Law 894, 81st Cong., as amended), ordinarily will be expected to pursue his training program to completion without changing his employment objective insofar as it is possible for him to do so. Accordingly, except under § 21.286 (b), a change of employment objective will be permitted only under one of the following conditions:

(1) It is determined by the training officer that continuance of the veteran in training for the present objective or to reenter him into training for the previous objective following interrupted or discontinued status will result in failure to accomplish bona fide vocational rehabilitation for reasons not within the veteran's control; or

(2) Although the veteran could continue and complete successfully the training for his present employment objective, the period of time which would be required to complete the training for the employment objective to which he desires to change will not exceed that which would be required to complete the training for his present objective and it is determined through counseling that the desired objective is more in keeping with the veteran's interests and aptitudes; or

(3) Although the veteran could continue and complete successfully the training for his present employment objective and the period of time which would be required to complete the training for the objective to which he desires to change will exceed that which would be required to complete the training for his present objective, the veteran's case meets the conditions of either subdivision (i) or subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph:

(i) The experience of the veteran and his performance in training have demonstrated that his aptitudes and interests or physical capacities are at considerable variance with the evaluation of his aptitudes and interests or physical capacities which was made at the time the present objective was selected and approved, and had current evidence about the veteran then been available the desired objective would have been approved if selected by the veteran: Provided,

(a) The total period of training time required under Part VII will not exceed a maximum of 48 months, nor will the aggregate amount of training provided under Part VII together with training provided under other laws exceed the maximum amount of training time stipulated in § 21.294, § 21.296, or § 21.2015, where applicable, and

(b) The change of objective is approved by a committee composed of the Chief of the Vocational Rehabilitation and Education Division, a designated representative of the education and training activity, and a designated representative of the counseling activity.

(ii) The veteran agrees to pursue independently of the Veterans' Administration a portion of the training for the desired objective sufficient to enable him to complete the training for the desired objective in no greater period of time under Part VII than completion of the training for his present objective would require and it is determined through counseling that the desired objective is more in keeping with the veteran's interests and aptitudes. Where the change of objective is approved under this condition, the veteran will be informed that upon completing the necessary portion of his training independently of the Veterans Administration he will be reentered into training provided in the meantime his disability rating is not reduced to less than compensable, and the service connection of his disability has not been severed.

VII, Veterans Regulation 1 (a), as amended (38 U. S. C. ch. 12A) (Public Law 16, 78th Cong., or Public Law 894, 81st Cong., as amended), due consideration will be given to the facts in the individual case and, if the reasons for discontinuance have been removed, and if the veteran's disability rating has not been reduced to less than a compensable degree, and if need for vocational rehabilitation is reestablished, the veteran may be reentered into training: Provided, That the veteran may be reentered into training for an employment objective other than the previous employment objective for which he was pursuing training at the time of discontinuance only in accord with the provisions of § 21.252.

(f) Immediately upon the appointment of a Personnel Security Board, the Manager will notify the individual of the identity of the members of the Personnel Security Board and of his right to challenge any member for cause, such challenge or challenges, accompanied by the reasons therefor, to be submitted to the Manager within seventy-two hours of the receipt of the notice;

(g) In the event that the individual challenges a member or members of the Personnel Security Board, the justification of the action of the individual shall be determined by the Manager. The individual shall have the right to challenge such new members for cause and such challenge shall be dealt with in the same manner as an original challenge. In performing their duties, the members of the Board shall avoid the attitude of a prosecutor and shall always bear in mind and make clear to all concerned that the proceeding is an administrative hearing and not a trial.

6. Paragraph (b) (1) of § 4.29 is amended to read as follows:

(1) Refer the matter to the Personnel Security Board which had been appointed in the individual's case when the Manager of Operations has not yet forwarded his recommendation to the General Manager. WAYNE BROADCASTING CO.

ORDER DESIGNATING APPLICATION FOR HEARING ON STATED ISSUES

In re application of T. O. Collins & Herman Morris, d/b as Wayne Broadcasting Company, Jesup, Georgia, Docket No. 11820, File No. BP-10375; for construction permit for new standard broadcast station.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 11th day of September 1956;

The Commission has before it for consideration the above-captioned application of T. O. Collins and Herman Morris, d/b as Wayne Broadcasting Company requesting a construction permit for a new standard broadcast station to operate on 990 kilocycles, with a power of 1 kilowatt, daytime only, at Jesup, Georgia;

It appearing that the above-captioned application was filed on February 16, 1956; that the applicant is legally and technically qualified to operate the proposed station; that in support of the applicant's financial qualifications, Exhibit No. 2 to the application was filed; and that said Exhibit contains a sworn statement by Mr. Vernon Rogers, dated January 25, 1956, in which he states that he will loan the Wayne Broadcasting Company the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000) to be used for the construction and operation of the proposed station; and

It further appearing that on May 9, 1956, the Altamaha Broadcasting Company, licensee of standard broadcast Station, WBGR, Jesup, Georgia, filed a petition requesting that the Wayne Broadcasting Company application be designated for hearing; that said petition contains an affidavit by Mr. Vernon Rogers and a copy of a letter, dated February 14, 1956, addressed to Mr. Rogers from the Wayne Broadcasting Company and signed by a partner therein, Mr. T. O. Collins; that said letter reads as follows:

It is recognized that you have this day stated that you will lend to Wayne Broadcasting Company the sum of Twenty-five Thousand Dollars ($25,000.00) for the purpose of building a radio station in Jesup. It is recognized that the purpose of this statement was to prove the solvency of Wayne Broadcasting Company.

This is to state to you that you are not legally bound to lend Wayne Broadcasting Company Twenty-five Thousand Dollars ($25,000.00) or any sum whatsoever unless you desire to do so on terms to be agreed upon, and we in nowise hold you legally responsible for the statement.

And it further appearing that pursuant to section 309 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the subject applicant was advised by letter dated July 18, 1956, of the aforementioned matters and that the Commission was unable to conclude that the application accurately and truely reflects the facts as to its financial qualifications and that a grant of its application for construction permit would serve the public interest; and

It further appearing that the reply filed on August 1, 1956, by the applicant's legal counsel has not resolved the questions raised by the Commission; and

It further appearing that since the information before the Commission indicates that the applicant may have concealed or misrepresented facts as to its financial qualifications, it cannot be found that the applicant is financially and otherwise qualified to construct and operate the proposed station; and

It further appearing that the Commission, after consideration of the above matters, is of the opinion that a hearing is necessary on the above-captioned application;

It is ordered, That pursuant to section 309 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the said application is designated for hearing, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine whether T. O. Collins and Herman Morris are financially qualified to construct and operate the proposed station.

2. To determine whether T. O. Collins and Herman Morris concealed or misrepresented facts as to their financial qualifications to the Commission and more particularly to obtain full information as to all negotiations, contracts, agreements or understandings, written or oral, past or present, between T. O. Collins and Herman Morris, on the one hand, collectively or individually, and Vernon Rogers, on the other hand, relating to a proposed loan of twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000.00) from Vernon Rogers to the applicant to be used in financing the construction of the proposed station.

3. To determine whether T. O. Collins and Herman Morris possess the requisite character qualifications to operate a broadcast station in the public interest, convenience and necessity.

4. To determine whether, in light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues, a grant of the above-captioned application would serve the public interest, convenience and necessity.

It is further ordered, That, William Glenn Thomas, tr/as Altamaha Broadcasting Company, licensee of Station WBGR, Jesup, Georgia, is made a party to the proceeding.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

UNITED GAS PIPE LINE CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION AND DATE OF HEARING

SEPTEMBER 13, 1956.

Take notice that United Gas Pipe Line Company (United), Applicant, a Delaware corporation with principal place of business at 1525 Fairfield Avenue, Shreveport, Louisiana, filed in Docket No. G-9543 on October 24, 1955, an application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity, pursuant to section 7 (c) of the Natural Gas Act, authorizing the construction and operation of certain natural gas facilities, as hereinafter described, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, all as more fully represented in the application and open for public inspection.

United proposes to construct (1) two 2-inch taps, a meter station and appurtenant facilities near Milepost 277 on its 18-inch pipe line which extends from Webster Compressor Station to Sterlington Compressor Station in Union Parish, Louisiana, and (2) one 4-inch tap, meter station and appurtenant facilities near Milepost 4 on its 12-inch pipe line which extends from Webster Compressor Station to International Paper Company's mill near Springhill, Louisiana. United States in its application that these facilities are needed for the sale of natural gas to Southwest Natural Gas Company (Southwest) to meet the latter's requirements for resale and distribution in the municipalities of Farmerville, Union Parish, and Sarepta and Springhill, Webster Parish, all in Louisiana. Interconnections with Southwest's facilities are proposed to be made at or very near the city limits of said communities.

United further states that Southwest's facilities have been completed and in operation for several years; that the supplies of natural gas available to Southwest are being rapidly depleted; and that through the proposed connections natural gas will be made available for continued use by the residents of said communities.

Southwest has advised United that its estimated peak day requirements for Farmerville will be 1,214 Mcf for the first year and 1,338 Mcf for the third year; the peak day requirements for Sarepta-Springhill (combined) will be 2,772 Mcf for the first year and 3,033 Mcf for the third year. Estimated annual requirements for Farmerville will be 156,835 Mcf the first year and 172,721 Mcf the third year; for Sarepta-Springhill, requirements for the first year are estimated at 270,011 Mcf and for the third year 295,523 Mcf. United believes that the small quantities of gas involved herein will not materially affect its reserves and that the construction and operation of the proposed facilities will in no wise impair the ability of United to serve any of its existing or prospective customers.

United has estimated the cost of constructing the necessary facilities required to provide the proposed service at $12,947, which will be financed from current working funds.

This matter is one that should be disposed of as promptly as possible under the applicable rules and regulations and to that end:

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on Monday, October 22, 1956, at 9:30 a. m., e. d. s. t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before October 2, 1956. [Docket No. G-10897]

MANUFACTURERS LIGHT AND HEAT CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION AND DATE OF HEARING

SEPTEMBER 13, 1956.

Take notice that The Manufacturers Light and Heat Company, Applicant, a Pennsylvania Corporation and a subsidiary of The Columbia Gas System, Inc., having its principal place of business located at 800 Union Trust Building, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, filed on August 13, 1956, an application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity, pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, authorizing it to construct and operate an additional 880 horsepower compressor unit at Adaline Compressor Station, Liberty District, Marshall County, West Virginia, as hereinafter described, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, all as more fully represented in the application which is on file with the Commission and open for public inspection.

Adaline Compressor Station is located at and utilized in connection with the operation of Applicant's Victory Storage Field. Applicant states that the proposed addition of 880 horsepower to the two 880 horsepower units already installed in the Adaline Compressor Station is necessary in order to enable it to utilize fully the gas to be available from this storage project beginning in the winter of 1956–57 and also to permit the development of the full potential of this storage project beginning in the summer of 1958.

The proposed compressor addition is necessary to handle a total of 56,000 Mcf on the peak day from the Victory Storage Pool. The discharge pressure of 600 psig for the Adaline Station as proposed together with its output will conform pressure-wise with the operation of Applicant's main transmission system supplying markets in western Pennsylvania, the northern panhandle of West Virginia, eastern Ohio and New York. That portion immediately affected is the Trussel Farm Gate Nest in West Finley Township, Washington County, Pennsylvania, near Pittsburgh, where several lines converge. It is planned to increase capacity of lines in this area by operation at higher pressures. The proposed compressor addition will provide means for the Victory Storage Pool to conform to this operation during withdrawals during the coming winter and to expedite input during 1958 when utilization of the two unused sectors of the Victory Storage Pool is initiated.

The estimated total cost of the proposed compressor addition is $352,000, which will be financed by The Columbia Gas System, Inc. The annual operating expense in connection therewith is estimated to be $37,000.

This matter is one that should be disposed of as promptly as possible under the applicable rules and regulations and to that end:

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on October 15, 1956, at 9:30 a. m., e. d. s. t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C., concerning the matters involved in and the issues presented by such application: Provided, however, That the Commission may, after a noncontested hearing, dispose of the proceedings pursuant to the provisions of § 1.30 (c) (1) or (2) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before October 3, 1956. Failure of any party to appear at and participate in the hearing shall be construed as waiver of and concurrence in omission herein of the intermediate decision procedure in cases where a request therefor is made. Under the procedure herein provided for unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[File No. 812-1030]

PETROLEUM CORPORATION OF AMERICA

NOTICE OF FILING OF APPLICATION FOR ORDER EXEMPTING PURCHASE OF SECURITIES FROM AFFILIATES DURING EXISTENCE OF UNDERWRITING SYNDICATE

SEPTEMBER 14, 1956.

Notice is hereby given that Petroleum Corporation of America ("Petroleum"), a registered closed-end, non-diversified investment company, has filed an application pursuant to sections 10 (f) and 17 (b) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("act") for an order of the Commission exempting from the provisions of sections 10 (f) and 17 (a) the proposed purchase by Petroleum of not to exceed 2,000 shares of Cumulative Convertible Second Preferred Stock ("preferred stock") of Tennessee Gas Transmission Company ("Tennessee") during the existence of the underwriting syndicate mentioned below.

The application states that on August 29, 1956, Tennessee filed a registration statement (File No. 2-12748) under the Securities Act of 1933 covering a proposed issue of 200,000 shares of preferred stock. The registration statement states that the preferred stock has a par value of $100 per share, and is convertible into common stock through September 1, 1966. Among the principal underwriters named or to be named in such registration statement are Glore, Forgan & Co. ("Glore, Forgan"), Kuhn, Loeb & Co. ("Kuhn, Loeb"), and E. F. Hutton & Co. ("Hutton"). Mr. Edward F. Hayes, a partner of Glore, Forgan; Mr. Robert E. Walker, a limited partner of Kuhn, Loeb; and Mr. Ruloff E. Cutten, a partner of Hutton, are members of the Board of Directors of Petroleum. By definition under the act, Messrs. Hayes, Walker and Cutten are affiliated persons of Glore, Forgan, Kuhn, Loeb, and Hutton, respectively, and all three are affiliated persons of Petroleum. Petroleum, which had total net assets as of August 31, 1956, of $40,829,487, may determine to purchase not to exceed 2,000 shares, which is 1 percent of the total issue, of the preferred stock being offered after Tennessee's registration statement has become effective, and the price and other terms of such offering have been made public. Such purchase may be made from Glore, Forgan, Kuhn, Loeb, or Hutton, or from any other underwriter of the preferred stock, and will be made at the price at which the preferred stock is offered to the general public, and the underwriter or underwriters selling the preferred stock to Petroleum will receive the same discounts or commissions in connection therewith as in the case of the preferred stock sold to the general public.

Section 10 (f) of the act provides, among other things, that no registered investment company shall knowingly purchase or otherwise acquire, during the existence of any underwriting or selling syndicate, any security (except a security of which such company is the issuer) a principal underwriter of which is an officer or director of such registered company or is a person of which any such officer or director is an affiliated person. The Commission may exempt a transaction from this prohibition if and to the extent that such exemption is consistent with the protection of investors. Since partners of Glore, Forgan, Kuhn, Loeb, and Hutton, all members of the principal underwriting group, are directors of Petroleum, the proposed purchase is prohibited by the provisions of section 10 (f) unless the Commission finds that the proposed acquisition of securities is consistent with the protection of investors.

Section 17 (a) of the act, among other things, prohibits an affiliated person of a registered investment company, or any affiliated person of such a person, from selling to such registered investment company any securities or property, subject to certain exceptions not pertinent here. The Commission upon application pursuant to section 17 (b) may grant an exemption from the prohibitions of section 17 (a) if it finds that the terms of the proposed transaction, including the consideration to be paid or received, are reasonable and fair and do not involve overreaching on the part of any person concerned, that the proposed transaction is consistent with the policy of the registered investment company concerned, as recited in its registration statement and reports filed under the act, and is consistent with the general purposes of the act.

In making such findings, the Commission must be satisfied that investment company assets are not being used to further the underwriting efforts of an affiliated underwriter rather than the best interest of the investment company. The Commission, however, does not pass upon the investment merits of the security proposed to be purchased, and the wisdom of the decision to purchase is solely the responsibility of Petroleum's management. Petroleum states in its application that its decision to purchase any of the preferred stock, if made, will be based upon the opinion of its management that purchase of such preferred stock, at the public offering price, will constitute a good investment for Petroleum. The application also states that Petroleum believes that the requested exemption is consistent with Petroleum's stated investment policies and with the protection of investors.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than September 27, 1956, at 5:30 p. m., submit to the Commission in writing any facts bearing upon the desirability of a hearing on the matter and may request that a hearing be held, such request stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request and the issues, if any, of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such communication or request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D. C. At any time after said date, the application may be granted as provided in Rule N-5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act.

By the Commission.

Notice is hereby given that Bankers Security Life Insurance Society ("Security"), 103 Park Avenue, New York, New York, has filed an application pursuant to section 17 (b) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("act") for an order of the Commission granting an exemption from the provisions of section 17 (a) (3) of the act so as to permit William R. Shipway ("Shipway") to borrow money on a mortgage from Security in the proposed transaction hereinafter set forth.

The Equity Corporation ("Equity"), a registered investment company controls Security and the Industrial Bank of Commerce, 56 East 42d Street, New York, New York. Shipway is a vice-president of Industrial Bank of Commerce. Under these circumstances, Shipway is an affiliated person of an affiliated person of Equity and under the provisions of section 17 (a) (3) of the act, it is unlawful for him to borrow money from Security, which is controlled by Equity, unless the Commission upon application pursuant to section 17 (b) of the act, grants an exemption from section 17 (a) of the act after finding that the terms of the proposed transaction, including the consideration to be paid, are reasonable and fair and do not involve overreaching on the part of any person concerned, that the proposed transaction is consistent with the policy of each registered investment company concerned, as recited in its Registration Statement and reports filed under the act, and is consistent with the general purposes of the act.

Following our issuance on September 28, 1951 of an order of exemption pursuant to section 17 (b) of the act, Shipway entered into a renewal loan agreement under which he became obligated to pay Security approximately $8,300 at 4½ percent interest which obligation was secured by a mortgage on residential property owned by him in Lynbrook, New York. Installment payments of principal and interest have reduced the mortgage debt to approximately $4,624. Shipway desires to borrow and Security proposes to lend, subject to the granting of the exemption herein requested, an additional $5,000 at 4½ percent interest, making a total of approximately $9,557, to be repaid in monthly installments of $99.11 over a period of approximately 10 years. The new advance will be consolidated with the existing mortgage debt. The property was appraised for mortgage purposes on August 28, 1956, at $20,108. The making of such loans to individuals secured by mortgages on approved residential property constitutes a portion of the regular business of Security.

For a more detailed statement of the matters of fact and law asserted, all interested persons are referred to said application which is on file in the office of the Commission in Washington, D. C.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than September 28, 1956, at 5:30 p. m., submit to the Commission in writing any facts bearing upon the desirability of a hearing on the matter and may request that a hearing be held, such request stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request and the issues, if any, of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such communication or request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D. C. At any time after said date, the application, as amended, may be granted as provided in Rule N-5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act.

By the Commission.

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

Internal Revenue Service

RELIEF FROM EXCESS PROFITS TAX BECAUSE OF AN INADEQUATE EXCESS PROFITS CREDIT

ALLOWANCE DURING FISCAL YEAR ENDED JUNE 30, 1956

Subchapter E of Chapter 2 of the 1939 Internal Revenue Code imposes an excess profits tax on corporations for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1939. Under the provisions of this subchapter excess profits are measured by comparing the earnings for the current taxable year with a statutory excess profits credit.

Section 722 of Subchapter E reflects the recognition by Congress of the desirability and necessity of granting relief in meritorious cases to corporations which bear an excessive burden because of an inadequate excess profits credit. This section provides for the recomputation of excess profits tax on the basis of a reconstructed excess profits credit.

As required by section 6105 the following list, containing the cases arranged alphabetically by internal revenue districts, shows the name and address of each corporation to which relief has been allowed, business, taxable years involved, excess profits credit before allowance of relief, increase in excess profits credit claimed, increase in excess profits credit allowed, decrease in excess profits tax, and increase in income tax. Allowance pursuant to decisions entered by The Tax Court of the United States have been made in forty-nine docketed cases. These are included in the list with appropriate notations. There are included as a supplemental to this list nine cases in which relief was allowed by the Commissioner and fourteen docketed cases in which relief was allowed by The Tax Court of the United States during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1955. These cases were not included in the list of allowances made during the fiscal year 1955 previously published.

In order to determine the relief granted and the relevant data required to be published, intermediate computations of the excess profits tax and the income tax showing the amounts of taxes which would have been due without the benefits of section 722 were made. Comparison of the pertinent items and figures appearing in the application for relief and the tax computations after allowance of relief with those appearing in the intermediate tax computations developed the required data.

Explanations of certain items, as displayed in their respective column headings of the list, and the data evolved follows:

Business in Which Engaged, Column 2. The business in which taxpayer is engaged is that reported in the income tax return of the corporation for the taxable year or years involved, therefore, it does not necessarily correspond with the business during the base period. In those instances where the return for the year involved failed to disclose the nature of the business, information from other sources was utilized. Moreover, since the nature of business shown usually represents a general description of the predominate business activity, it does not necessarily represent or reflect the business activity with respect to which an inadequate excess profits credit was established.

Excess Profits Credit Before Allowance of Relief, Column 4. The excess profits credit before allowance of relief is the credit originally claimed by the taxpayer, as corrected, whether based on income or capital.

Increase in the Amount of Excess Profits Credit Claimed by Taxpayer, Column 5. The increase in the amount of excess profits credit claimed by taxpayer is the excess of the credit based on the constructive income claimed by the taxpayer over the credit before allowance of relief shown in column 4.

Increase in the Amount of Excess Profits Credit Allowed Column 6. This increase in the amount of excess profits credit allowed is the excess of the recomputed credit based on constructive income finally allowed over the credit before allowance of relief shown in column 4.

Gross Reduction in the Excess Profits Tax, Column 7.

Gross Increase in the Income Tax, Column 8. The gross reduction in the excess profits tax and the gross increase in the income tax resulting from the operation of section 722 are the difference between the gross taxes which would have been due without the benefits of section 722 and the gross taxes due after relief has been granted. The gross excess profits tax is the tax due prior to the deferment under section 710 (a) (5), the foreign tax credit under section 729, the credit for debt retirement under section 783, the ten percent credit under section 784, and the adjustment under section 734. The gross income tax is the tax prior to the foreign tax credit under section 131.

The changes in the income and excess profits taxes shown reflect the effect of the increase attributable to section 722 in the unused excess profits credit carried forwarded from prior taxable years as well as the effect of the increase in unused excess profits credit carried back from subsequent years to the extent that claims with respect to unused credit carry-overs and carry-backs determined under section 722 were allowed within the same fiscal year.

While the decrease in excess profits tax is directly related to the increase in excess profits credit allowed, a number of factors serve to invalidate a comparison of the relationship of these two items applicable to a corporation for different taxable years or to different corporations for the same taxable year. Among the most important factors affecting this comparison are (1) increase in excess profits tax rates, (2) changes in rate structure from a graduated to a flat rate system, (3) effect of unused excess profits credits of prior and subsequent years attributable to section 722, (4) variations of provisions applicable to fiscal years, (5) limitation of excess profits tax to the amount of which 80 percent of net income exceeds the income tax, applicable to certain taxable years, and (6) relation of excess profits before the application of section 722 to the increase in excess profits credit allowed.

For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1940, a portion of the amount by which the excess profits tax is reduced by reason of the application of section 722 is offset by an increase in income tax. This offset arises from the provisions which permit the deduction of the income subject to excess profits tax (or excess profits tax in certain taxable years) in arriving at income subject to income tax.

Lists containing the cases in which relief has been allowed for prior fiscal years have been published in the various issues of the FEDERAL REGISTER as follows:

Sec.
421.1743 Determination of support rates.
421.1744 Warehouse charges.
421.1745 Liquidation of loans and delivery under purchase agreements.
421.1746 Settlement.

AUTHORITY: §§ 421.1736 to 421.1746 issued under sec. 4, 62 Stat. 1070, as amended; 15 U. S. C. 714b. Interpret or apply sec. 5, 62 Stat. 1072, secs. 101, 401, 63 Stat. 1051, 1054; sec. 308, 70 Stat. 206; 15 U. S. C. 714c, 7 U. S. C. 1441, 1421.

§ 421.1736 Purpose. Sections 421.1736 to 421.1746 state additional specific requirements which, together with the general regulations contained in the 1956 C. C. C. Grain Price Support Bulletin 1 (§§ 421.1601 to 421.1622), apply to loans and purchase agreements under the 1956-Crop Corn Price Support Program.

§ 421.1737 Availability of price support—(a) Method of support. Price support will be made available through farm-storage and warehouse-storage loans and through purchase agreements.

(b) Area. Farm-storage and warehouse-storage loans and purchase agreements will be available wherever corn is grown in the continental United States, except that farm-storage loans will not be available in areas where the State committee determines that corn cannot be safely stored on the farm.

(c) Where to apply. Application for price support should be made at the office of the county committee which keeps the farm-program records for the farm.

(d) When to apply. Loans and purchase agreements will be available from the time of harvest through May 31, 1957: Provided, That in areas where it is determined by the State committee that producers may not be, or are not, in a position to store corn safely for the full storage period because of infestation by angoumois moths or other insects, adverse climatic conditions, or other factors affecting the safe storage of corn, the final date of availability for loans and purchase agreements shall be such earlier date as may be determined by the State committee. The State committee shall notify producers in the area through public announcement sufficiently in advance of such date in order to allow producers a reasonable period of time in which to place their corn under loans or purchase agreements. The applicable documents must be signed by the producer and delivered to the county committee not later than the final date of availability for loans and purchase agreements in the area. Applicable documents include the Producer's Note and Loan Agreement for warehouse-storage loans, the Producer's Note and Supplemental Loan Agreement and the Commodity Chattel Mortgage for farm-storage loans, and the Purchase Agreement for purchase agreements.

(e) Eligible producer. An eligible producer shall be an individual, partnership, association, corporation, estate, trust, or other business enterprise, or legal entity, and wherever applicable, a State, political subdivision of a State, or any agency thereof producing corn in 1956 as a landowner, landlord, tenant, or sharecropper. The level of price support for which a producer is eligible shall be determined in accordance with 1956 CCC Corn Bulletin A, and any amendments thereto. Two or more eligible producers may obtain a joint loan on eligible corn harvested by them if stored in the same farm-storage facility. In the case of joint loans, each person signing the note shall be held jointly and severally responsible for the loan. Where the county office has experienced difficulties in settling farm-storage loans with a producer, the county committee shall determine that he is not eligible for a farm-storage loan. He shall be eligible, however, to obtain a warehouse-storage loan or sign a purchase agreement.

§ 421.1738 Eligible corn. Corn, when placed under loan or delivered under a purchase agreement, must meet the following requirements:

(a) The corn must be of the classes Yellow Corn (Class I), White Corn (Class II), or Mixed Corn (Class III) and must have been produced in the continental United States in 1956 by an eligible producer.

(b) The corn must be ear or shelled corn: Provided, That ear corn must be shelled before delivery is made in liquidation of a loan or under a purchase agreement. If the corn is not shelled prior to delivery, the cost of shelling on or after delivery shall be for the account of the producer.

(c) (1) The beneficial interest in the corn must be in the eligible producer tendering the corn for loan or for delivery under a purchase agreement, and must always have been in him, or must have been in him and a former producer whom he succeeded before the corn was harvested.

(2) To meet the requirements of succession to a former producer, the rights, responsibilities and interest of the former producer with respect to the farming unit on which the corn was produced shall have been substantially assumed by the person claiming succession. Mere purchase of the crop prior to harvest, without acquisition of any additional interest in the farming unit, shall not constitute succession. The county committee shall determine whether the requirements with respect to succession have been met.

(d) Corn placed under loan must, except for moisture content, grade No. 3 or better, or No. 4 on the factor of test weight only, but otherwise No. 3 or better, and must meet the following requirements:

(1) For ear corn placed under a farm-storage loan, the moisture content must not exceed 20.5 percent if the corn is tested for loan from time of harvest through February 1957; 19.0 percent if tested for loan during March 1957; 17.5 percent if tested for loan during April 1957; and 15.5 percent if tested for loan during May 1957.

(2) For corn placed under a warehouse-storage loan, and for shelled corn placed under a farm-storage loan, the moisture content must not exceed 13.5 percent irrespective of when the corn is tested for loan.

(3) Corn placed under loan must not grade "weevily," and must not contain mercurial compounds or other substances poisonous to man or animals.

(e) Corn delivered to CCC under a purchase agreement must meet the following requirements:

(1) The corn must not contain mercurial compounds or other substances poisonous to man or animals.

(2) Corn delivered to CCC from other than approved warehouse storage must grade No. 5 or better, except that such corn may bear the special grade "Weevily" in addition to the numerical grade.

(3) Corn placed in approved warehouse storage prior to the time that the producer notifies the county committee of his intention to sell the corn to CCC must grade No. 3 or better or No. 4 on the factor of test weight only but otherwise No. 3 or better, must not contain in excess of 13.5 percent moisture, and must not grade "weevily."

§ 421.1739 Warehouse receipts. Warehouse receipts, representing corn in approved warehouse storage to be placed under loan or delivered under a purchase agreement, must meet the requirements of this section:

(a) Warehouse receipts must be issued in the name of the producer, must be properly endorsed in blank so as to vest title in the holder, and must be receipts issued by a warehouse approved by CCC under the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement which indicate that the corn is insured, or must be receipts issued on warehouses operated by Eastern common carriers under tariffs approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission for which custodian agreements are in effect.

(b) Each warehouse receipt, or the warehouseman's supplemental certificate (in duplicate), properly identified with the warehouse receipt, must show: (1) Gross weight or bushels, (2) class, (3) grade, (4) test weight, (5) moisture, and (6) any other grading factor(s), when such factor(s), and not test weight or moisture, determine the grade. In areas where licensed inspectors are not available at terminal and subterminal warehouses, CCC will accept inspection certificates based on representative samples which have been forwarded to and graded by a licensed grain inspector.

(c) In the case of warehouse receipts issued for corn delivered by rail or barge, CCC will accept inbound weight and inspection certificates properly identified with the corn covered thereby in lieu of the information required by paragraph (b) of this section.

(d) A separate warehouse receipt must be submitted for each grade and class of corn.

(e) The warehouse receipt may be subject to liens for warehouse charges only to the extent indicated in § 421.1744.

§ 421.1740 Determination of quantity. (a) The quantity of corn placed under farm-storage loan may be determined either by weight or by measurement. The quantity of corn placed under a warehouse-storage loan or delivered under a farm-storage loan, a warehouse-storage loan, or under a purchase agreement shall be determined by weight.

(b) When determined by measurement, a bushel of ear corn shall be 2.5 cubic feet of ear corn testing not more than 15.5 percent in moisture content An adjustment in the number of bushels of ear corn will be made for moisture content in excess of 15.5 percent in accordance with the following schedule:

Moisture content (percent):	Adjustment factor (percent)
15.6 to 16.5, both inclusive	98
16.6 to 17.5, both inclusive	96
17.6 to 18.5, both inclusive	94
18.6 to 19.5, both inclusive	92
19.6 to 20.5, both inclusive	90

(c) A bushel of shelled corn, when determined by measurement, shall be 1.25 cubic feet of shelled corn testing not more than 13.5 percent in moisture content.

(d) In determining the quantity of sacked corn by weight, a deduction of ¾ of a pound for each sack will be made.

(e) Since dockage is not a grade factor in the case of corn, the quantity of corn will be determined without reference to dockage.

§ 421.1741 Determination of quality. The class, grade, grading factors, and all other quality factors shall be determined in accordance with the method set forth in the Official Grain Standards of the United States for Corn, whether or not such determinations are made on the basis of an official inspection.

§ 421.1742 Maturity of loans and delivery. (a) Loans mature on demand but not later than July 31, 1957.

(b) Corn may be delivered in satisfaction of farm-storage loans after maturity in accordance with § 421.1618 (a) (1). Corn may be delivered under purchase agreement after maturity in accordance with § 421.1745 (b).

(c) In areas where it is determined by the State committee that some producers may not be in a position to store corn safely for the full storage period (for reasons set forth in § 421.1737 (d)), the State committee may establish an earlier delivery period prior to maturity (in addition to the regular delivery period) during which any producer in such areas may voluntarily deliver corn which is held in farm storage under loans and purchase agreements. Such earlier delivery period, if established, shall begin at least 30 days after the final date of availability of loans and purchase agreements established by the State committee, and not before April 1, 1957. CCC will accept deliveries of corn during such early delivery period, provided the producer notifies the county committee at least 10 days prior to the date that he desires to deliver the corn.

(d) If the State committee determines that producers in any area are not in a position to safely store corn for the full storage period (For reasons set forth in § 421.1737 (d)), all farm-storage loans in such area shall be called promptly by the State committee, and producers who elect to make deliveries from farm storage under purchase agreements shall be required to do so during the delivery period for loans. Such earlier delivery period, if established, shall begin at least 30 days after the final date of availability of loans and purchase agreements established by the State committee, and not before April 1, 1957.

(e) Corn under farm-storage loan may be delivered before maturity, upon prior approval of the county committee, for any of the reasons stated in § 421.1618 (a) (1), of if the corn is threatened with damage by flood or other conditions which are beyond the control of the producer.

§ 421.1743 Determination of support rates. Basic county support rates, and the schedule of premiums and discounts, for corn will be set forth in 1956 C. C. C. Grain Price Support Bulletin 1, Supplement 2, Corn. Both warehouse-storage and farm-storage loans will be made on the basis of the rate established for the county in which the corn is produced.

§ 421.1744 Warehouse charges. (a) Warehouse receipts and the corn represented thereby stored in approved warehouses operating under the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement may be subject to liens for warehouse handling and storage charges at not to exceed the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement rates from the date the corn is deposited in the warehouse for storage.

(b) Where the date of deposit (the date of the warehouse receipt if the date of deposit is not shown) on warehouse receipts representing corn stored in warehouses operating under the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement is on or before July 31, 1957, there shall be deducted in computing the amount of the loan or purchase price the storage charges per bushel as shown in the following table unless written evidence has been submitted with the warehouse receipt that all warehouse charges, except receiving and loading out charges, have been prepaid through the maturity date, July 31, 1957.

(c) Warehouse receipts and the corn represented thereby stored in approved warehouses operated by Eastern common carriers may be subject to liens for warehouse elevation (receiving and delivering) and storage charges from the date of deposit at rates approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission. There shall be deducted in computing the amount of the loan or purchase price the amount of the approved tariff rate for storage (not including elevation) which will accumulate from the date of deposit through July 31, 1957, unless written evidence has been submitted with the warehouse receipt that the storage charges have been prepaid. The county office shall request the CSS commodity office to determine the amount of such charges. Where the producer presents evidence showing that elevation charges have been prepaid, the amount of the storage charges to be deducted shall be reduced by the amount of the elevation charges prepaid by the producer.

§ 421.1745 Liquidation of loans and delivery under purchase agreements—(a) Loans. The provisions of § 421.1618 shall apply to the liquidation of farm-storage and warehouse storage corn loans.

(b) Purchase agreements. The producer who files a purchase agreement (Commodity Purchase Form 1) will not be obligated to sell any quantity of corn to CCC. However, he may sell to CCC any quantity of eligible corn not in excess of the quantity stated in the purchase agreement. If the producer who files a purchase agreement wishes to sell corn to CCC, he will have a 30-day period during which he must notify the county committee in writing of his intentions to sell. Such periods shall end on the loan maturity date as specified in § 421.1742 (a) or such earlier date as may be prescribed by the Executive Vice President, CCC.

(1) Delivery from warehouse-storage. In the case of eligible corn stored commingled in an approved warehouse, the producer must, not later than the day following the final date of such 30-day period, or during such period of time thereafter as may be specified by the county committee, submit to the office of the county committee warehouse receipts under which the warehouseman guarantees quality and quantity for the quantity of corn he elects to sell to CCC. Such corn will be purchased on the basis of the weight, grade, and other quality factors shown on the warehouse receipts and/or accompanying documents at the applicable support rate for the county in which the corn was produced.

(2) Delivery from other than approved warehouse storage—(i) Pre-delivery inspection. Where the producer has given written notice within the 30-day period prior to the loan maturity date of his intent to sell his corn stored in other than approved warehouse storage under purchase agreement to CCC an inspection of the corn shall be made within the 30-day period, or in any event, prior to delivery of the corn. The primary importance of this inspection is to discuss with the producer the condition of his corn and the method for making settlement for corn delivered. This pre-delivery inspection shall not be used for settlement. If the corn, on the basis of the pre-delivery inspection, is determined to be eligible for delivery to CCC in accordance with § 421.1738 (e) (1) and (2), the county committee will issue delivery instructions on or after the final date of the 30-day period or the date of inspection, whichever is later. The producer must then complete delivery within a 15-day period immediately following the date the county committee issues delivery instructions, unless the county committee determines that more time is needed for delivery.

(ii) Storage after maturity date. The producer may be required to retain the corn stored in other than approved warehouse storage for a period of 60 days after the loan maturity date without any cost to CCC. CCC will not assume any loss in quantity or quality of the corn covered by a purchase agreement occurring prior to delivery to CCC, except for quality deterioration under the following circumstances. If a producer has properly requested delivery instructions for corn which was determined to be of an eligible grade and quality at the time of the pre-delivery inspection, and CCC cannot accept delivery within the 60-day period following the loan maturity date, the producer may notify the county committee at any time after such 60-day period that the corn is going out of condition or is in danger of going out of condition. Such notice must be confirmed in writing. If the county committee determines that the corn is going out of condition or is in danger of going out of condition, and that the corn cannot be satisfactorily conditioned by the producer, and delivery cannot be accepted within a reasonable length of time, the county committee shall obtain an inspection and grade and quality determination. When delivery is completed, settlement shall be made on the basis of such grade and quality determination or on the basis of the grade and quality determination made at the time of delivery, whichever is higher, and on the basis of the quantity actually delivered.

§ 421.1746 Settlement—(a) Settlement value—(1) Farm-storage loans. In the case of corn delivered to CCC under farm-storage loans grading No. 3 or better, or No. 4 on the factor of test weight only but otherwise grading No. 3 or better, settlement shall be made at the applicable support rate for the county in which the corn was produced. The support rate shall be for the grade and quality of the total quantity of corn eligible for delivery subject to premiums and discounts shown in the "Schedule of Premiums and Discounts" in 1956 C. C. C. Grain Price Support Bulletin 1, Supplement 2, Corn. If upon delivery the corn under farm-storage loan grades sour or heating, or otherwise does not meet the requirements set forth in the "Schedule of Premiums and Discounts," or is of a grade and/or quality for which no support rate has been established, the settlement value shall be computed at the support rate established for the grade and/or quality of the corn placed under loan, less the difference, if any, at the time of delivery, between the market price of the grade and/or quality (except for the factor of moisture) placed under loan and the market price of the corn delivered, as determined by CCC: Provided, however, That if such corn is sold by CCC in order to determine its market price the settlement value shall not be less than such sales price: And provided further, That if upon delivery the corn contains mercurial compounds or other substances poisonous to man or animals, such corn shall be sold for seed (in accordance with applicable State seed laws and regulations), fuel or industrial uses where the end product will not be consumed by man or animals, and the settlement value shall be the same as the sales price, except that if CCC is unable to sell such corn for the use specified above, the settlement value shall be the market value, if any, as determined by CCC, as of the date of delivery.

(2) Warehouse-storage loans. Settlement for eligible corn under warehouse-storage loans not redeemed on maturity and represented by warehouse receipts issued by an approved warehouse shall be made on the basis of the weight, grade, and other quality factors shown on the warehouse receipts or accompanying documents at the applicable support rate for the county in which the corn was produced.

(3) Purchase agreements. Settlement for corn delivered to and purchased by CCC under a purchase agreement shall be made as provided in this subsection and subject to the provisions of § 421.1745 (b).

(i) Delivery from other than approved warehouse storage. Settlement for corn delivered to CCC from other than approved warehouse storage and purchased by CCC under a purchase agreement shall be made on the basis of weight, grade, and other quality factors determined at the time of delivery in accordance with §§ 421.1740 and 421.1741, except as provided in § 421.1745 (b) (2) (ii). Settlement for eligible corn grading No. 3 or better, or No. 4 on the factor of test weight only but otherwise No. 3 or better, and for corn of such grades bearing the special grade "Weevily" in addition to the numerical grade shall be made on the basis of the applicable basic county support rate and the "Schedule of Premiums and Discounts" contained in the 1956 C. C. C. Grain Price Support Bulletin 1, Supplement 2, Corn. Settlement for eligible corn grading No. 4 on the basis of factors other than test weight and corn grading No. 5, and for corn of such grades bearing the special grade "Weevily" in addition to the numerical grade, shall be computed on the basis of the applicable basic county support rate applicable for corn grading No. 3 except for moisture, less the difference, if any at the time of delivery, between the market price for No. 3 corn and the market price of the corn delivered, as determined by CCC: Provided, however, That if such corn is sold by CCC in order to determine its market price, the settlement value shall not be less than such sales price.

(ii) Delivery from approved warehouse storage. Settlement for eligible corn delivered to CCC by submission of warehouse receipts issued by an approved warehouse shall be made on the basis of the weight, grade, and other quality factors shown on the warehouse receipt or accompanying documents and on the basis of the applicable basic county support rate and the "Schedule of Premiums and Discounts" contained in the 1956 C. C. C. Grain Price Support Bulletin 1, Supplement 2, Corn.

(iii) Corn grading "sample" or "sample weevily" and excess delivery which is inadvertently accepted. In the event that any corn grading "sample" or "sample weevily," or any corn in excess of the maximum stated in the purchase agreement is delivered to CCC under a purchase agreement and is inadvertently accepted and CCC determines that it is not in a position to reject the corn to the producer, the settlement value shall be the market price of such corn, as determined by CCC on the date of delivery to CCC: Provided, however, That if such corn is sold by CCC in order to determine its market price, the settlement value shall be not less than the sales price: And provided further, That if upon delivery the corn contains mercurial compounds or other substances poisonous to man or animals, such corn shall be sold for seed (in accordance with applicable State seed laws and regulations), fuel or industrial uses where the end product will not be consumed by man or animals, and the settlement value shall be the same as the sales price, except that if CCC is unable to sell such corn for the use specified above, the settlement value shall be the market value, if any, as determined by CCC, as of the date of delivery.

(b) Storage deduction for early delivery. No deduction for storage shall be made for farm-stored corn under loan or purchase agreement authorized to be delivered to CCC prior to July 31, 1957, or such earlier maturity date as may be established by the State committee in accordance with § 421.1742 (d) except where it is necessary to call the loan through fault or negligence on the part of the producer or where the producer requests early delivery and the county committee approves the early delivery and determines such early delivery is solely for the convenience of the producer. The deduction for storage shall be made in accordance with the schedule of deductions for warehouse charges in § 421.1744.

(c) Refund of prepaid handling charges. In case a warehouseman charges the producer for the receiving or the receiving and loading out charges on corn under loan or purchase agreement, stored in a warehouse under the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement, the producer shall, upon delivery of the corn to CCC, be reimbursed or given credit by the county office for such prepaid charges in an amount not to exceed the charges authorized under the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement, provided the producer furnishes to the county committee written evidence signed by the warehouseman that such charges have been paid.

(d) Compensation for hauling. The provisions of § 421.1618 (f) applicable to farm-storage loans shall also apply in cases where a producer is ordered by the county committee to deliver his corn under purchase agreement to a shipping point of greater distance than his customary shipping point.

(e) Storage payment where CCC is unable to take delivery of corn stored in other than an approved warehouse under loan or purchase agreement. The producer may be required to retain corn stored in other than an approved warehouse under loan or purchase agreement for a period of 60 days after the applicable maturity date without any cost to CCC. However, if CCC is unable to take delivery of such corn within the 60-day period after maturity, the producer shall be paid a storage payment upon delivery of the corn to CCC: Provided, however, That a storage payment shall be paid a producer whose corn is stored in other than approved warehouse under purchase agreement only if he has properly given notice of his intention to sell the corn to CCC and delivery cannot be accepted within the 60-day period after maturity. The period for earning such storage payment shall begin the day following the expiration of the 60-day period after the applicable maturity date and extend through the final date of delivery, or the final date for delivery as specified in the delivery instructions issued to the producer by the county office, whichever is earlier. The storage payment shall be computed at the rate of $0.00045 per bushel a day for the corn accepted for sale or delivery to CCC.

(f) Track-loading payment. A track-loading payment of 3 cents per bushel shall be made to the producer on corn delivered to CCC on track at a country point.

(g) Method of payment under purchase agreement settlements. When delivery of the corn under purchase agreement is completed, payment will be made by sight draft drawn on CCC by the county office. The producer shall direct on Commodity Purchase Form 4 to whom payment of the proceeds shall be made.

Issued this 14th day of September 1956.

(a) Basic rates. The basic support rate per 100 pounds of rough rice in approved storage and with all accrued charges paid through the applicable maturity date for loans, including all receiving and loading out charges, accrued or to accrue, shall be computed as follows: Multiply the yield (in pounds per hundredweight) of head rice by the applicable value factor for head rice (as shown in the table below according to class or variety). Similarly, multiply the difference between the total yield and head rice yield (in pounds per hundredweight) by the applicable value factor for broken rice. Add the results of these two computations to obtain the basic loan or purchase rate per 100 pounds of rough rice and express such rate in dollars and cents, rounded to the nearest whole cent.

PART 151—RECOGNITION OF BREEDS AND BOOKS OF RECORD OF PUREBRED ANIMALS

ARABIAN AND THOROUGHBRED HORSES

Pursuant to the provisions of section 201, paragraph 1606 of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended (19 U. S. C. 1201, par. 1606), paragraph (a) of § 151.9 of the regulations governing the recognition of breeds and books of record of purebred animals (9 CFR, 1955 Supp., 151.9), is hereby amended by deleting the name "Registro Genealogico Nacional de Caballos S. P. C." from the list of names of books of record for horses of the Arabian breed and deleting such name from the list of names of books of record for horses of the Thoroughbred breed, and inserting the name "Stud Book Argentino" in lieu thereof, in each instance; and by deleting, in the column "By whom published", in each instance, "Ministerio de Hacienda de la Nacion, Loteria de Beneficencia Nacional y Casinos, Enzo Valenti Ferro, Chief, National Genealogical Register for Horses, Buenos Aires, Argentina" and inserting in lieu thereof "Ministerio de Hacienda de la Nacion, Loteria de Beneficencia Nacional y Casinos, Departamento de Hipodromos, Ricardo A. Maestri, Chief, Stud Book Argentino, Rivadavia 1655, Buenos Aires, Argentina".

The Department has been advised that the name of the book of record for Arabian and Thoroughbred horses published by the Ministerio de Hacienda de la Nacion, Loteria de Beneficencia Nacional y Casinos, Buenos Aires, Argentina, has been changed from "Registro Genealogical Nacional de Caballos S. This amendment does not affect the recognition of the book of record published by the agency and does not affect the eligibility of animals registered in the book for certification under the regulations in Part 151 of Title 9 of the Code of Federal Regulations. Accordingly, under section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003), it is found upon good cause that notice and other public procedure with respect to the foregoing amendment are impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest, and good cause is found for making the amendment effective less than 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The foregoing amendment shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

In the Matter of Woonsocket Spinning Company, a Corporation, and Theodore Birnbaum, Individually and as an Officer of Said Corporation

This proceeding was heard by a hearing examiner on the complaint of the Commission, charging a corporate manufacturer and its officers with violating the Wool Products Labeling Act and the Federal Trade Commission Act by failing to stamp, tag, or label certain cones of yarn as required, labeling certain of said products falsely as to fiber content, and making misstatements on invoices and shipping memoranda concerning the fiber content of yarns they sold, such as that certain yarns contained 30 percent mink fur fibers and certain others contained 65 percent beaver fur fibers, when in fact the products contained substantially less than such amounts of fur fibers.

Counsel for the parties entered into an agreement containing consent order. On this basis, the hearing examiner made his initial decision and order to cease and desist which became, on September 5, the decision of the Commission.

The order to cease and desist is as follows:

It is ordered, That the respondent, Woonsocket Spinning Company, a corporation, the officers of said corporation, and said respondent's representatives, agents and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the introduction or manufacture for introduction into commerce, or the offering for sale, sale, transportation or distribution in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act and the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939, of cones of yarn or other wool products, as such products are defined in and subject to the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939, which products contain or purport to contain, or in any way are represented as containing "wool", "reprocessed wool" or "reused wool", as those terms are defined in said act, do forthwith cease and desist from misbranding such products by:

1. Falsely or deceptively stamping, tagging, labeling or otherwise identifying such products as to the character or amount of the constituent fibers included therein.

2. Failing to securely affix or place on each such product a stamp, tag, label or other means of identification showing in a clear and conspicuous manner:

(a) The percentage of the total fiber weight of such wool products, exclusive of ornamentation not exceeding five percentum of said total fiber weight of (1) wool, (2) reprocessed wool, (3) reused wool, (4) each fiber other than wool where said percentage by weight of such fiber is five percentum or more, and (5) the aggregate of all other fibers;

(b) The maximum percentage of the total weight of such wool products of any nonfibrous loading, filling or adulterating matter;

(c) The name or the registered identification number of the manufacturer of such wool product or of one or more persons engaged in introducing such wool products into commerce, or in the offering for sale, sale, transportation, distribution, or delivery for shipment thereof in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939;

Provided, That the foregoing provisions concerning misbranding shall not be construed to prohibit acts permitted by paragraphs (a) and (b) of section 3 of the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939; and Provided further, That nothing contained in this order shall be construed as limiting any applicable provisions of said act or the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder.

It is further ordered, That the respondent, Woonsocket Spinning Company, a corporation, the officers of said corporation, and respondent's representatives, agents and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the offering for sale, sale or distribution of yarns or other merchandise, in commerce, do forthwith cease and desist from, directly or indirectly: Misrepresenting in sales invoices, shipping memoranda, or in any other manner the fiber content of said products.

It is further ordered, That the complaint herein, insofar as it relates to Theodore Birnbaum individually, be, and the same hereby is, dismissed.

By "Decision of the Commission", etc., report of compliance was required as follows:

It is ordered, That respondent Woonsocket Spinning Company, a corporation, shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon it of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which it has complied with the order to cease and desist.

Issued: September 5, 1956.

By the Commission.

Rudin, Individually and as Copartners Trading Under the Firm Name and Style of Rudin & Roth; Jamee Knit Hosiery Mills, Inc., a Corporation; Superbilt Hosiery Mills, Inc., a Corporation, and Stephen M. Roth and Fred D. Rudin, Individually and As Officers of Said Corporations

This proceeding was heard by a hearing examiner on the complaint of the Commission charging two individuals, trading as copartners, and two corporations of which they were officers, with common offices in New York City, with misrepresenting the customary retail prices of the men's hosiery they sold to wholesalers, jobbers, supermarkets, and super-market chains by attaching to them tickets bearing fictitious and exaggerated prices, and with representing through use of the word "Mills" in their corporate names, that they manufactured the hosiery they sold.

Following respondents' joint answers and hearings in due course, the hearing examiner rejected proposed findings of fact, conclusions of law, and orders submitted by all parties, and made his own initial decision and order to cease and desist, which became on September 5 the decision of the Commission.

The order to cease and desist is as follows:

It is ordered, That respondents Jamee Knit Hosiery Mills, Inc., a corporation, Superbilt Hosiery Mills, Inc., a corporation, Stephen M. Roth and Fred D. Rudin, individually, as officers of said corporations, and as co-partners trading under the firm name and style of Rudin & Roth, or under any other name, and their agents, representatives and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the offering for sale, sale or distribution of hosiery in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Act, do forthwith cease and desist from:

As to respondents Rudin and Roth:

1. Representing in any manner that certain amounts are the regular and usual retail prices of hosiery when such amounts are in excess of the prices at which such hosiery is usually and regularly sold at retail;

2. Putting into operation any plan whereby retailers or others may misrepresent the regular and usual retail prices of merchandise; and

As to respondents Jamee Knit Hosiery Mills, Inc., Superbilt Hosiery Mills, Inc. and Messrs. Rudin and Roth, individually and as officers of said corporations:

1. Representing, through the use of the word "mills" or any other word or words of similar import or meaning in their corporate or firm name, or otherwise, that they, or any of them, manufacture the hosiery or other merchandise sold by them.

By "Decision of the Commission", etc., report of compliance was required as follows:

It is ordered, That the respondents herein shall within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with the order to cease and desist.

Issued: September 5, 1956.

By the Commission.

1. Section 195.12 is amended by adding thereto new paragraph (c), as follows:

§ 195.12 Reward for discovery. • • •

(c) If the permittee dies before the lease is issued, the lease will be issued to the executor or administrator of the estate if probate of the estate has not been completed; if probate has been completed, or is not required, to the heirs or devisees; and if there are minor heirs or devisees, to their legal guardian or trustee in his name, provided there is filed in all cases the following information:

(1) Where probate of the estate has not been completed:

(i) Evidence that the person, who as executor or administrator submits forms of lease and bond, has authority to act in that capacity and to sign such forms.

(ii) Evidence that the heirs or devisees are the heirs or devisees of the deceased permittee and are the only heirs or devisees of the deceased.

(iii) A statement over the signature of each heir or devisee concerning citizenship and holdings similar to that required by § 195.4 (c) (1) and (4).

(2) Where the executor or administrator has been discharged or no probate proceedings are required:

(i) A certified copy of the will or decree of distribution, if any, and if not, a statement signed by the heirs that they are the only heirs of the permittee and citing the provisions of the law of the deceased's last domicile showing no probate is required.

(ii) A statement over the signature of each of the heirs or devisees with reference to citizenship and holdings similar to that required by § 195.4 (c) (1) and (4), except that if the heir or devisee is a minor, the statement must be over the signature of the guardian or trustee.

(3) Where there is a legal guardian or trustee:

If a bidder, after being awarded a lease, fails to execute it or otherwise comply with the applicable regulations, his deposit will be forfeited and disposed of as other receipts under the Mineral Leasing Act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), as amended. If the lease awarded to the successful bidder is executed by an attorney acting in behalf of the bidder, the lease must be accompanied by evidence that the bidder authorized the attorney to execute the lease. If the bidder dies before the lease is issued, evidence such as specified in § 195.12 (c) must be filed before it can be determined to whom the lease may be issued.

UNCLASSIFIED

§ 51.1089 Unclassified. "Unclassified" consists of oranges which have not been classified in accordance with any of the foregoing grades. The term "unclassified" is not a grade within the meaning of these standards but is provided as a designation to show that no grade has been applied to the lot.

TOLERANCES

§ 51.1090 Tolerances. In order to allow for variations incident to proper

[1] Packing of the product in conformity with the requirements of these standards shall not excuse failure to comply with the provisions of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act.

grading and handling in each of the foregoing grades, the tolerances set forth in §§ 51.1091 and 51.1092 are provided as specified.

§ 51.1091 U. S. Fancy, U. S. No. 1, and U. S. No. 2 grades. Not more than 10 percent, by count, of the oranges in any lot may fail to meet the requirements relating to color. In addition, not more than 10 percent, by count, of the oranges in any lot may fail to meet the remaining requirements of the specified grade, but not more than one-twentieth of this amount, or one-half of 1 percent, shall be allowed for decay at shipping point: Provided, That an additional tolerance of 2½ percent, or a total of not more than 3 percent, shall be allowed for decay en route or at destination.

§ 51.1092 U. S. Combination grade. Not more than 10 percent, by count, of the oranges in any lot may fail to meet the requirements of the U. S. No. 2 grade relating to color. In addition, not more than 10 percent, by count, of the oranges in any lot may fail to meet the remaining requirements of the U. S. No. 2 grade, but not more than one-twentieth of this amount, or one-half of 1 percent, shall be allowed for decay at shipping point: Provided, That an additional tolerance of 2½ percent, or a total of not more than 3 percent, shall be allowed for decay en route or at destination.

(a) No part of any tolerance shall be allowed to reduce for the lot as a whole the percentage of U. S. No. 1 required in the combination, but individual containers may have not more than a total of 10 percent less than the percentage of U. S. No. 1 required: Provided, That the entire lot averages within the percentage required.

APPLICATION OF TOLERANCES

§ 51.1093 Application of tolerances. (a) Except when applying the tolerances for "Standards for Export", the contents of individual packages in the lot, based on sample inspection, are subject to the following limitations: Provided, That the averages for the entire lot are within the tolerances specified for the grade:

(1) For packages which contain more than 10 pounds, and a tolerance of 10 percent or more is provided, individual packages in any lot shall have not more than one and one-half times the tolerance specified. For packages which contain more than 10 pounds and a tolerance of less than 10 percent is provided, individual packages in any lot shall have not more than double the tolerance specified, except that at least one decayed or very seriously damaged orange may be permitted in any package.

(2) For packages which contain 10 pounds or less, individual packages in any lot are not restricted as to the percentage of defects: Provided, That not more than one orange which is seriously damaged by dryness or mushy condition or very seriously damaged by other means may be permitted in any package and, in addition, en route or at destination not more than 10 percent of the packages may have more than one decayed orange.

STANDARD PACK

§ 51.1094 Standard pack. (a) Oranges shall be fairly uniform in size and shall be packed in boxes or cartons and arranged according to the approved and recognized methods. Each wrapped fruit shall be fairly well enclosed by its individual wrapper.

(b) All containers shall be tightly packed and well filled but the contents shall not show excessive or unnecessary bruising because of overfilled containers. When oranges are packed in standard nailed boxes, each box shall have a minimum bulge of 1¼ inches; when packed in cartons or in wire-bound boxes, each container shall be at least level full at shipping point.

(c) "Fairly uniform in size" means that not more than a total of 10 percent, by count, of the oranges in any container are smaller than the minimum diameters given for various packs in the following table:

TABLE I

Count in box pack	Approximate count in half-box carton pack	Minimum diameter in inches
80	40	3.38
100	50	3.19
126	63	3.00
200	100	2.63
252	126	2.38

(1) "Diameter" means the greatest dimension measured at right angles to a line from stem to blossom end of the fruit expressed in whole inches or whole inches and hundredths thereof.

(d) In order to allow for variations incident to proper packing, when oranges are wrapped not more than 10 percent of the wrapped fruit in any container may fail to meet the requirements pertaining to wrapping; and, not more than 10 percent of the containers in any lot may fail to meet the requirements for standard pack.

STANDARD SIZING AND FILL

§ 51.1095 Standard sizing and fill. (a) Containers in which oranges are not packed according to a definite pattern do not meet the requirements of standard pack, but may be certified as meeting the requirements of standard sizing and fill: Provided, That the oranges in the containers are fairly uniform in size as defined in § 51.1094 and: Provided further, That the contents have been properly shaken down and the container is at least level full at shipping point. Oranges which are generally elongated in shape need not meet the size requirements when containers are well filled and the number of oranges in the container does not vary more than 5 percent from the marked count.

(b) In order to allow for variations incident to proper packing, not more than 10 percent of the containers in any lot may fail to meet the requirements of standard sizing and fill.

STANDARDS FOR EXPORT

§ 51.1096 Standards for export. (a) Not more than a total of 10 percent, by count, of the oranges in any container may be soft, affected by decay, have broken skins which are not healed, growth cracks, or be damaged by creasing or skin breakdown, or seriously damaged by split or protruding navels, or by dryness or mushy condition, except that:

(1) Not more than one-half of 1 percent shall be allowed for oranges affected by decay;

(2) Not more than 3 percent shall have broken skins which are not healed;

(3) Not more than 3 percent shall have growth cracks;

(4) Not more than 5 percent shall be soft;

(5) Not more than 5 percent shall be damaged by creasing;

(6) Not more than 5 percent shall be seriously damaged by split or protruding navels;

(7) Not more than 5 percent shall be seriously damaged by dryness or mushy condition; and,

(8) Not more than 5 percent shall be damaged by skin breakdown.

(b) Any lot of oranges shall be considered as meeting the standards for export if the entire lot averages within the requirements specified: Provided, That no sample from the containers in any lot shall have more than double the percentage specified for any one defect, and that not more than a total of 10 percent, by count, of the oranges in any container has any of the defects enumerated in the standards for export.

DEFINITIONS

§ 51.1097 Similar varietal characteristics. "Similar varietal characteristics" means that the oranges in any container are similar in color and type.

§ 51.1098 Well colored. "Well colored" means that the fruit is at least light orange in color, with not more than a trace of green at the stem end, and not more than 15 percent of the remainder of the surface of the fruit shows green color.

§ 51.1099 Firm. "Firm" means that the fruit does not yield more than slightly to moderate pressure.

§ 51.1100 Well formed. "Well formed" means that the fruit shows the normal shape characteristic of the variety.

§ 51.1101 Smooth texture. "Smooth texture" means that the skin is of fairly fine grain for the variety, the "pebbling" is not pronounced, and any furrows radiating from the stem end are shallow.

§ 51.1102 Injury. "Injury" means that any defect which more than slightly affects the appearance, or the edible or shipping quality of the fruit. Any one of the following defects, or any combination of defects the seriousness of which exceeds the maximum allowed for any one defect, shall be considered as injury:

(a) Split, rough, wide, or protruding navels when a split is unhealed or is more than one-eighth inch in length; or when the navel protrudes beyond the general contour of the fruit; or when flush with the contour but with the opening so wide, considering the size of the fruit, or the navel growth so folded and ridged that it detracts noticeably from the appearance of the fruit;

(b) Slight creasing which is more than barely visible, or which extends over more than 20 percent of the fruit surface;

(c) Scars (including sprayburn and fumigation injury) which exceed the following aggregate areas of different types of scars, or a combination of two or more types of scars the seriousness of which exceeds the maximum allowed for any one type:

(1) Scars which are very dark and which have an aggregate area exceeding that of a circle one-eighth inch in diameter;

(2) Scars which are dark, rough or deep and which have an aggregate area exceeding that of a circle one-fourth inch in diameter;

(3) Scars which are fairly light in color, slightly rough, or with slight depth and which have an aggregate area exceeding that of a circle one-half inch in diameter; and,

(4) Scars which are light in color, fairly smooth, with no depth and which have an aggregate area of more than 5 percent of the fruit surface;

(d) Oil spots (oleocellosis or similar injuries) which are depressed or soft, or which have an aggregate area of more than 2½ percent of the fruit surface, or which are green and more than 4 in number;

(e) Scale when medium or large and more than 5 are present; and,

(f) Sunburn which appreciably changes the normal color or shape of the fruit, or which affects more than 10 percent of the fruit surface.

§ 51.1103 Fairly smooth texture. "Fairly smooth texture" means that the skin does not feel noticeably rough or coarse for the variety. The size of the fruit should be considered in judging texture, as large fruit is not usually as smooth as smaller fruit. It is common for the fruit to show larger and coarser "pebbling" on the stem end portion than on the blossom end. The presence of furrows or grooves on the stem end portion of the fruit is a common condition in certain varieties, and the fruit shall not be considered as slightly rough unless the furrows or grooves are of sufficient depth, length, and number as to materially affect the appearance and smoothness of the orange.

§ 51.1104 Damage. "Damage" means any defect which materially affects the appearance, or the edible or shipping quality of the fruit. Any one of the following defects, or any combination of defects the seriousness of which exceeds the maximum allowed for any one defect, shall be considered as damage:

(a) Dryness or mushy condition when affecting all segments more than one-fourth inch at the stem end, or the equivalent of this amount, by volume, when occurring in other portions of the fruit;

(b) Split, rough, wide or protruding navels when there are more than three splits, or when any split is unhealed or is more than one-fourth inch in length; or navels which flare, bulge, or protrude materially beyond the general contour of the fruit; or when the navel opening is so wide, considering the size of the fruit, or the navel growth so folded and ridged that it detracts materially from the appearence of the fruit;

(c) Creasing which materially weakens the skin, or which extends over more than one-third of the fruit surface;

(d) Scars (including sprayburn and fumigation injury) which exceed the following aggregate areas of different types of scars, or a combination of two or more types of scars the seriousness of which exceeds the maximum allowed for any one type;

(1) Scars which are very dark, with slight depth, and which have an aggregate area exceeding that of a circle one-fourth inch in diameter;

(2) Scars which are very dark, with no depth, and which have an aggregate area exceeding that of a circle one-half inch in diameter;

(3) Scars which are dark, and rough or deep, and which have an aggregate area exceeding that of a circle one-half inch in diameter;

(4) Scars which are dark, and slightly rough or with slight depth, and which have an aggregate area exceeding that of a circle three-fourths inch in diameter;

(5) Scars which are fairly light in color, slightly rough or with slight depth, and which have an aggregate area of more than 5 percent of the fruit surface; and,

(6) Scars which are light in color, fairly smooth, with no depth, and which have an aggregate area of more than 10 percent of the fruit surface;

(e) Oil spots (oleocellosis or similar injuries) which are depressed or soft, or which have an aggregate area of more than 5 percent of the fruit surface, or which are green and more than 7 in number;

(f) Scale when medium or large and more than 3 scales are present in each of 3 circular areas 1 inch in diameter, selected as the worst infested areas, or when more than 7 scales are present in one of these areas: Provided, That scale within a circle five-eighths inch in diameter centered at the stem button or button socket shall not be considered in determining whether an orange is damaged; and,

(g) Sunburn which causes appreciable flattening of the fruit, drying or darkening of the skin, or affects more than 25 percent of the fruit surface.

§ 51.1105 Fairly well colored. "Fairly well colored" means that the yellow or orange color predominates on the fruit.

§ 51.1106 Fairly firm. "Fairly firm" means that the fruit may yield to moderate pressure but is not soft.

§ 51.1107 Fairly well formed. "Fairly well formed" means that the fruit is not of the shape characteristic of the variety but is not decidedly flattened, pointed, extremely elongated, or otherwise badly deformed.

§ 51.1108 Slightly rough texture. "Slightly rough texture" means that the skin is not decidedly rough, badly folded, badly ridged, or decidedly lumpy. Heavily "pebbled" skin shall be considered as slightly rough.

§ 51.1109 Serious damage. "Serious damage" means any defect which seriously affects the appearance, or the edible or shipping quality of the fruit. Any one of the following defects, or any combination of defects the seriousness of which exceeds the maximum allowed for any one defect, shall be considered as serious damage:

(a) Dryness or mushy condition when affecting all segments more than one-half inch at the stem end, or the equivalent of this amount, by volume, when occurring in other portions of the fruit;

(b) Split or protruding navels when any split is unhealed or is more than one-half inch in length, or when two or more splits aggregate more than 1 inch in length; or navels which protrude seriously beyond the general contour of the fruit; or when the navel opening is so wide, considering the size of the fruit, or the navel growth so badly folded and ridged that it detracts seriously from the appearance of the fruit;

(c) Creasing which seriously weakens the skin, or which is distributed over practically the entire fruit surface;

(d) Scars (including sprayburn and fumigation injury) which exceed the following aggregate areas of different types of scars, or a combination of two or more types of scars the seriousness of which exceeds the maximum allowed for any one type:

(1) Scars which are very dark, very rough or very deep, and which have an aggregate area of more than 5 percent of the fruit surface;

(2) Scars which are dark, rough or deep, and which have an aggregate area of more than 10 percent of the fruit surface;

(3) Scars which are fairly light in color, slightly rough or of slight depth, and which have an aggregate area of more than 15 percent of the fruit surface; and,

(4) Scars which are light in color, fairly smooth, with no depth, and which have an aggregate area of more than 25 percent of the fruit surface;

(e) Oil spots (oleocellosis or similar injuries) which are depressed or soft, or which have an aggregate area of more than 10 percent of the fruit surface;

(f) Scale when medium or large and more than 9 scales are present in each of 3 circular areas 1 inch in diameter; selected as the worst infested areas, or if more than 19 scales are present in one of these areas: Provided, That scale within a circle five-eighths inch in diameter centered at the stem button or button socket shall not be considered in determining whether an orange is seriously damaged;

(g) Sunburn which causes decided flattening of the fruit, drying or dark discoloration of the skin, or which affects more than one-third of the fruit surface; and,

(h) Growth cracks which are leaking, gummy, or not well healed.

§ 51.1110 Very serious damage. "Very serious damage" means any defect which very seriously affects the appearance, or the edible or shipping quality of the fruit.

2. The rate of adjustment of the Class I price based on utilization.

3. Need for emergency action to amend the order with respect to issues No. 1 and No. 2.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions are based on the evidence presented at the hearing and the record thereof:

1. Seasonal pricing. The period in which the higher seasonal Class I price differential should apply should include the months of August through January, except that for the year 1957, the month of February should be included.

A proposal made by producers would change the seasonal pattern of prices for Class I milk by beginning the period with the higher differential over the basic formula price one month earlier than now provided in the order. The Class I price differentials now provided in the order are $1.40 for the months of September through February, and $1.10 for the months of March through August. The producer proposal would make the $1.40 differential regularly apply in the months of August through February.

Producers based the need for including August in the months with seasonally higher prices on the increased cost of milk production in this month compared to earlier months of spring and summer. Another reason given was the desirability of having the higher seasonal prices apply in the months when producers earn their bases. In this connection producer representatives pointed out that an amendment to the order effective July 1, 1956, moved the base-earning period forward one month by changing it from September through February, to August through January, beginning with August 1957.

In the decision issued by the Under Secretary on June 22, 1956 (21 F. R. 4678), it was stated that: "The present base-excess plan for distributing the market returns from milk among producers was established in the order as the result of a hearing held in August 1951. At the time the present base-excess plan was adopted, the months September through February were normally those of relatively low production in relation to fluid sales. Since that time, producer receipts during the month of August have generally been below average deliveries computed for each year. Likewise, deliveries of producer milk during the month of February have increased each year since 1951 to the point where such deliveries during the past two years have been above the average computed for each year. It is concluded that the base-excess plan should be revised to provide that the months August through January should include the base-forming period." It was also noted in that decision that, in view of the evidence presented concerning months of generally high and low production in connection with the base-excess plan, that consideration might need to be given in a further hearing to changing the months in which the seasonal Class I differentials apply. No such change had been considered at the hearing on which the July 1 amendment was based.

In this market, seasonal changes in the Class I price differentials have served as an incentive to producers to adjust their production to the needs of the fluid market. This pattern of prices has served conjointly with the base plan to accomplish such purpose.

In this connection, some consideration needs to be given, also, to seasonal changes in sales of Class I milk of Nashville handlers. The record data indicate that Class I sales, characteristically, are lower during the summer months of June, July and August than during other months of the year. Deliveries by producers, on the other hand, have usually been highest in the month of May, and by the end of summer are in a declining trend.

The relationship of deliveries by producers to handlers' Class I sales during the month of August each year has become closer in recent years. In August 1955, deliveries by producers were 114 percent of Class I sales as compared to 136 percent of Class I sales in August 1953. The relationship of producer deliveries to Class I sales in the month of February each year has varied considerably from year to year. Although the relation of supply to sales in February has shown a decrease in recent years, the supply has remained ample and higher in relation to sales than in August.

The request made by producers that the $1.40 Class I differential apply in the period August through February each year involves the problem of the annual level of the Class I price, since this change would mean that seven months instead of six would be at the higher level. The problem of the general level of the Class I price is dealt with elsewhere in this decision. in connection with the supply-demand adjustment. With respect to seasonal pricing, it does not appear from this record that February needs to be regularly a month with the higher seasonal price. (An exception is made with respect to February 1957.) The record shows that the supply of milk in February has generally been adequate for market needs. Furthermore, inasmuch as February is at the beginning of, or just prior to, the flush production season, it would appear unnecessary to give producers a seasonal incentive to increase their production in this month. It is concluded that the months in which the higher Class I price differentials regularly apply should be August through January.

Following the hearing, an order suspending certain provisions of the Nashville order was issued July 31, 1956. This suspension order made the $1.40 Class I differential effective for August 1956.

With respect to the month of February 1957, however, producer representatives at the hearing stressed that this would be a base-forming month and that, therefore, the seasonal drop in the Class I price should not be changed until the year following. Because of this factor, it is concluded that the change in the seasonal pricing should be made fully effective at the same time as the change in the months of the base-forming period which will begin in August 1957.

2. Supply-demand adjustment. The rate of change in the Class I price based on the supply-demand adjustment, should be increased from one cent per percentage change in the utilization ratio, to two cents per percentage point. For the months of October 1956 through January 1957, the order should provide that the supply-demand adjustment will be based only on the utilization in the twelve-month period ending with the second preceding month.

The order provides that the Class I price shall be adjusted each month on the basis of utilization of producer milk in the twelve-month period ending with the second preceding month, plus or minus the change from utilization similarly calculated for the twelve-month period ending with the fifth preceding month. The utilization ratio so calculated, which is in terms of the percentage that producer milk is of Class I sales, results in an increase of one cent per hundredweight in the Class I price for each percentage point that the utilization ratio is less than 125, and results in a decrease at the same rate if the utilization ratio exceeds 130 percent.

The producer association proposed that the rate of price adjustment be increased from one cent per percentage point, to four cents per point, whenever the utilization ratio is less than 125 percent. The association requested that no change be made from the present rate of price adjustment when the utilization ratio is more than 130 percent.

The computation of the supply-demand price adjustment was modified by an amendment to the order effective July 1, 1956. Prior to that time, the computation of the utilization ratio was based entirely on average utilization in the twelve-month period ending with the second preceding month. A further change at that time was the elimination from the supply-demand computation of receipts and sales of plants disposing of less than an average of 1,000 pounds of fluid milk products per day in the marketing area. These changes were designed to make the supply-demand adjustment more representative of market conditions and to make it respond faster to changes in conditions.

No supply-demand adjustment was effective from the time the individual-handler pooling arrangement was instituted (April 1955), through March 1956.

Producer witnesses pointed out that the one cent per percentage point is a relatively low rate of price adjustment compared to the rates of price adjustments in other markets, based on utilization. The record shows that the supply-demand adjustment has had little effect on prices during the period in which it has been effective.

Because of recent changes in computation of the supply-demand adjustment, it is not possible, from the record, to reconstruct precisely a supply-demand adjustment on the basis proposed by producers, for periods prior to July 1956. The record does show, however, that for the twelve-month period ending with February 1956, the average ratio of producer milk to Class I sales (excluding handlers with less than 1,000 pounds daily in the marketing area) was 117.7 percent. If the new type of adjustor had been in effect at that time, the amount of adjustment would have reflected also a decreased supply-sales ratio of the three-month period ending with February 1956, compared to a year earlier. From this it appears that the resulting price adjustment at the rate proposed by producers would have been an addition of at least 32 cents per hundredweight.

The most recent data in the record show that the ratio of producer deliveries to Class I sales (excluding handlers with less than 1,000 pounds daily in the marketing area) during the twelve-month period ending with June 1956, was 120.8 percent. This percentage, which is part of the computation for the August Class I price, is modified by the change from the twelve-month period ending with March 1956, which was 117.8 percent. The increase in the ratio of supply to sales between these two twelve-month periods results in an adjusted utilization ratio of 124 percent, or a price adjustment of one cent added to the August Class I price.

Producer and handler witnesses estimated the supply-sales relationship would be about the same for August and fall months this year as occurred in 1955. If this proves to be true, it may be estimated that, during the late fall and winter period, the supply-demand adjustment (at the current rate) would add about four cents. Furthermore, if the utilization of producer milk in Class I this year in July and months following is higher than a year previous, the amount of price adjustment in fall months would be greater.

It is apparent, from the record, that the rate of price adjustment tends to be relatively slow as presently calculated, even with the modifications of the supply-demand adjustor made effective July 1, 1956. On the other hand, the rate of price adjustment proposed by producers, which would increase the rate of change four times, could result in relatively large price adjustments. Comparison with the rates of price change per percentage point used in other Federal orders, as made in the record, is not a sufficient indication as to the most desirable rate for this market, because of different marketing conditions and because of differences in the types of supply-demand adjustors used. In view of the recent changes in the supply-demand adjustment computation and short experience as to their effect, it appears advisable to make a more moderate change in the rate of adjustment than that proposed by producers. It is concluded that a rate of adjustment of two cents per percentage point of the utilization ratio should be used until further experience is gained. Furthermore, it is concluded that, for a preliminary period, the effect of the increased rate of price adjustment should be based only on the utilization in the twelve-month period ending with the second preceding month. The complete change should become effective in February 1957.

Producers also proposed that when the ratio exceeds 130 percent, the present rate of price adjustment should be retained, so that the producers who have entered the market or increased their production at a time when the market needs additional milk do not suffer financial loss if the market subsequently becomes over-supplied. It was contended that a producer cannot readily reduce his level of production in response to price changes, and that, therefore, a higher rate of price decline does not benefit the market.

It is here concluded that this proposal should be denied, since such a pattern of price adjustments could result in serious misalignment of prices with the supply and demand situation.

3. Emergency action. A price adjustment for the month of August 1956 was effected by the Assistant Secretary in an order suspending certain provisions, issued July 31, 1956. It is concurred that no further emergency action concerning the proposed amendments was necessary.

Ruling on exceptions. Within the period reserved therefor, interested parties filed exceptions to certain of the findings, conclusions and actions recommended by the Deputy Administrator. In arriving at the findings, conclusions, and regulatory provisions of this decision, each of such exceptions was carefully and fully considered in conjunction with the record evidence pertaining thereto. To the extent that findings, conclusions and actions decided upon herein are at variance with any of the exceptions, such exceptions are overruled.

Determination of representative period. The month of July 1956 is hereby determined to be the representative period for the purpose of ascertaining whether the issuance of the order amending the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Nashville, Tennessee, marketing area, in the manner set forth in the attached amending order, is approved or favored by producers, as defined in the order, as amended, and as proposed hereby to be further amended, who during such representative period were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area as defined in the order, as amended, and as proposed hereby to be further amended.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for milk in the marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(c) The proposed order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Marketing agreement and Order, amending the Order, as amended. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled respectively, "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Nashville, Tennessee, Marketing Area", and "Order Amending the Order, as amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Nashville, Tennessee, Marketing Area", which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of §900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered that all of this decision, except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the order, as amended, and proposed to be hereby further amended.

This decision filed at Washington, D. C., this 17th day of September 1956.

[SEAL] TRUE D. MORSE,
Acting Secretary.

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The parity prices of milk produced for sale in the said marketing area as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supplies of and demand for such milk, and the minimum prices specified in the order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity and pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, that on and after the effective date hereof the handling of milk in the Nashville, Tennessee, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby further amended as follows:

1. In § 978.51 (a) (1) (ii), add the following words: "except that such amount shall not be added or subtracted in computing prices for the months of October 1956 through January 1957, inclusive, and".

2. In § 978.51 (a), delete subparagraph (2) and substitute the following:

(2) For each percentage by which the utilization ratio calculated for the month pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph exceeds 130, subtract from, or for each percentage by which it is less than 125, add to, the Class I price, two cents.

3. In § 978.51 (a), delete subparagraph (3).

4. In § 978.51 (e), delete the language before the proviso, and substitute the following:

(a) Class I milk price. The Class I milk price shall be the basic formula price for the preceding month, plus $1.40 during the months of August through January, except that for the year 1957, the month of February shall be included; and plus $1.10 during all other months, plus or minus a supply-demand adjustment calculated for each month as follows:

[F. R. Doc. 56-7591; Filed, Sept. 20, 1956; 8:47 a. m.]

MATSON ORIENTAL LINE, INC.

NOTICE OF HEARING

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held under section 605 (c) and section 805 (a) of the Merchant Marine Act, 1936, as amended, upon an application of Matson Oriental Line, Inc., for an operating-differential subsidy contract for operation on Trade Route No. 12, described as follows:

U. S. Atlantic/Far East—Between United States Atlantic Ports (Maine-Atlantic Coast Florida to but not including Key West), and ports in the Far East (Japan, Formosa, the Philippines, and Continent of Asia from Union of Soviet Socialist Republics to Siam, inclusive), with the privilege of calling in the Hawaiian Islands.

The purpose of the hearing under section 605 (c) is to receive evidence relevant to the following: (1) Whether the application with respect to operations from United States Atlantic ports (Maine to but not including Key West, Florida) to ports in the Far East, with the privilege of calling in the Hawaiian Islands, is one with respect to a vessel or vessels to be operated on a service, route, or line served by citizens of the United States which would be in addition to the existing service or services and, if so, whether the service already provided by vessels of United States registry in such service, route, or line is inadequate, and in the accomplishment of the purposes and policy of the act, additional vessels should be operated thereon; (2) Whether the application covering the aforesaid operations is one with respect to a vessel or vessels operated or to be operated in a service, route or line served by two or more citizens of the United States with vessels of United States registry and, if so, whether the effect of such a contract would be to give undue advantage or be unduly prejudicial as between citizens of the United States in the operation of vessels in competitive services, routes or lines; and (3) Whether it is necessary to enter into a contract covering the aforesaid operations from ports in the United States Atlantic Coast to the Far East ports in order to provide adequate service by vessels of the United States registry.

The purpose of the hearing under section 805 (a) is to receive evidence relevant to whether the granting of such application (a) will result in unfair competition to any person, firm or corporation operating exclusively in the coastwise or intercoastal service, or (b) would be prejudicial to the objects and policy of the act.

The hearing will be conducted before an Examiner at a time and place to be announced, in accordance with the Board's rules of practice and procedure, and a recommended decision will be issued.

All persons (including individuals, corporations, associations, firms, partnerships, and public bodies) desiring to intervene in the proceeding are requested to notify the Secretary of the Board within fifteen (15) days from publication hereof, and should promptly file petitions for leave to intervene in accordance with said rules of practice and procedure.

GENERAL

§ 723.811 Basis and purpose. (a) The regulations contained in §§ 723.811 to 723.828 are issued pursuant to the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, and govern the establishment of 1957 farm acreage allotments and normal yields for cigar-filler and binder tobacco. The purpose of the regulations in §§ 723.811 to 723.828 is to provide the procedure for allocating, on an acreage basis, the national marketing quota for cigar-filler and binder tobacco for the 1957–58 marketing year among farms and for determining normal yields. Prior to preparing the regulations in §§ 723.811 to 723.828, public notice (21 F. R. 5114) was given in accordance with the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003). The data, views, and recommendations pertaining to the regulations in §§ 723.811 to 723.828 which were submitted have been duly considered within the limits permitted by the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended.

(b) In order that State and county committees may prepare and mail notices of farm acreage allotments as early as possible prior to the referendum, it is essential that the regulations in §§ 723.811 to 723.828 inclusive, be made effective as soon as possible. Accordingly, it is hereby determined and found that compliance with the 30-day effective date provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act is impracticable and contrary to the public interest, and such regulations shall be effective upon filing of this document with the Director, Division of the Federal Register.

§ 723.814 Instructions and forms. The director, Tobacco Division Commodity Stabilization Service, shall cause to be prepared and issued such forms as are necessary, and shall cause to be prepared such instructions for internal management as are necessary for carrying out §§ 723.811 to 723.828. The forms and instructions shall be issued by, and the instructions shall be issued by, the Deputy Administrator for Production Adjustment, Commodity Stabilization Service.

§ 723.815 Applicability of §§ 723.811 to 723.828. Sections 723.811 to 723.828 govern the establishment of farm acreage allotments and normal yields for tobacco in connection with farm marketing quotas for the marketing year beginning October 1, 1957. The applicability of §§ 723.811 to 723.828 is contingent upon the proclamation of a national marketing quota for tobacco for the three marketing years beginning October 1, 1957, by the Secretary of Agriculture and approval thereof by growers voting in a referendum pursuant to section 312 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended.

ACREAGE ALLOTMENTS AND NORMAL YIELDS FOR OLD FARMS

§ 723.816 Determination of 1957, preliminary acreage allotments for old farms. The 1957 preliminary acreage allotment for an old tobacco farm shall be the 1956 farm acreage allotment with the following exceptions:

(a) If the harvested acreage (as that term is explained in paragraph (b) of this section) of tobacco on the farm in each of the three years 1954–56 was less than 75 percent of the farm acreage allotment for each of such respective years, the preliminary allotment shall be the larger of (1) the largest acreage of tobacco harvested on the farm in any one of such three years, or (2) the average acreage of tobacco harvested on the farm in the five years 1952–56: Provided, That any 1957 preliminary allotment shall not exceed the 1956 farm acreage allotment or be less than 0.01 acre.

(b) For the purposes of paragraph (a) of this section, the 1956 harvested acreage shall include any acreage on the farm applicable to tobacco which is devoted in 1956 to participation in the Acreage Reserve Program or the Conservation Reserve Program. Also, for such purposes, the 1956 harvested acreage shall be deemed to be the 1956 farm acreage allotment in any case in which (1) the tobacco planted acreage in 1956 was less than the acreage allotment for such farm, (2) the owner or operator of such farm notified the county committee not later than August 1, 1956, that he desired to preserve such allotment; and (3) no quantity of excess tobacco produced on the farm prior to January 1, 1956, and carried over or stored to postpone or avoid payment of penalty, has been reduced because the 1956 acreage allotment was not fully planted.

(c) If the county and State committees determine that a farm has been retired from agricultural production, no 1957 preliminary acreage allotment (or 1957 farm tobacco acreage allotment) shall be determined for such farm; Provided, That this paragraph shall not preclude the determination of a preliminary acreage allotment for an old farm returned to agricultural production.

(d) For the purpose of determining 1957 preliminary acreage allotments, the 1956 farm acreage allotment shall mean the correctly determined 1956 farm acreage allotment prior to reduction, if any, because of a violation of the tobacco marketing quota regulations for a prior marketing year, except that the 1956 farm acreage allotment as referred to in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section shall mean the 1956 allotment after any such reduction.

§ 723.817 1957 old farm tobacco acreage allotment. The preliminary allotments calculated for all old farms in the State pursuant to § 723.816 shall be adjusted uniformly so that the total of such allotments plus the acreage available for adjusting acreage allotments for old farms, correction of errors, and for allotments for overlooked old farms pursuant to § 723.818 shall not exceed the State acreage allotment.

§ 723.818 Adjustment of acreage allotments for old farms, correction of errors, and allotments for overlooked old farms. Notwithstanding the limitations contained in § 723.816, the individual 1957 farm acreage allotment heretofore established for an old farm may be increased if the county committee justifies such increase to the satisfaction of the State committee or its representative as being necessary to establish an allotment for such farm which is fair and equitable in relation to the allotments for other old farms in the community, on the basis of the past acreage of tobacco, making due allowances for drought, flood, hail, other abnormal weather conditions, plant bed, and other diseases; land, labor and equipment available for the production of tobacco; crop rotation practices; and the soil and other physical factors affecting the production of tobacco. The acreage available in the State for increasing allotments as above described under this section, correction of errors, and providing acreage allotments for overlooked farms shall not exceed one percent of the total acreage allotted to all tobacco farms in the State for the 1956–57 marketing year.

§ 723.819 Reduction of acreage allotment for violation of the marketing quota regulations for a prior marketing year. (a) If tobacco was marketed or was permitted to be marketed in any marketing year as having been produced on the acreage allotment for any farm which in fact was produced on a different farm, the acreage allotments established for both such farms for 1957 shall be reduced as hereinafter provided, except that such reduction for any such farm shall not be made if the county committee determines that no person connected with such farm caused, aided, or acquiesced in such marketing.

(b) The operator of the farm shall furnish complete and accurate proof of the disposition of all tobacco produced on the farm at such time and in such manner as will insure payment of the penalty due at the time the tobacco is marketed and in the event of failure for any reason to furnish such proof, the acreage allotment for the farm shall be reduced, except that if the farm operator established to the satisfaction of the county and State committees that failure to furnish such proof of disposition was unintentional on his part and that he could not reasonably have been expected to furnish accurate proof of disposition, reduction of the allotment will not be required if the failure to furnish proof of disposition is corrected and payment of all additional penalty is made.

(c) If any producer files, or aids or acquiesces in the filing of, any false report with respect to the acreage of tobacco grown on the farm in 1956, the acreage allotment for the farm shall be reduced as provided in this section, except that if each producer on the farm establishes to the satisfaction of the county and State committees that the filing of, or aiding or acquiescing in the filing of, the false report was unintentional on his part and that he could not reasonably have been expected to know that the report was false, reduction of the allotment will not be required if the report is corrected and payment of all additional penalty is made.

(d) Any such reduction shall be made with respect to the 1957 farm acreage allotment, provided it can be made no later than May 1, 1957. If the reduction cannot be so made effective with respect to the 1957 allotment, such reduction shall be made with respect to the farm acreage allotment next established for the farm where the reduction can be made no later than a corresponding date to be specified in a subsequent year. This section shall not apply if the allotment for any prior year was reduced on account of the same violation.

(e) The amount of reduction in the 1957 allotment shall be that percentage which the amount of tobacco involved in the violation is of the respective farm marketing quota for the farm for the year in which the violation occurred. Where the amount of such tobacco involved in the violation equals or exceeds the amount of the farm marketing quota the amount of reduction shall be 100 percent. The amount of tobacco determined by the county committee to have been falsely identified or for which satisfactory proof of disposition has not been furnished, or with respect to which a false acreage report was filed, shall be considered the amount of tobacco involved in the violation. If the actual production of tobacco on the farm is not known, the county committee shall estimate such actual production, taking into consideration the condition of the tobacco crop during production, if known, and the actual yield per acre of tobacco on other farms in the locality on which the soil and other physical factors affecting the production of tobacco are similar: Provided, That the estimate of such actual production of tobacco on the farm shall not exceed the harvested acreage of tobacco on the farm multiplied by the average actual yield on farms in the locality on which the soil and other physical factors affecting the production of tobacco are similar. The actual yield of tobacco on the farm as so estimated by the county committee multiplied by the farm acreage allotment shall be considered the farm marketing quota for the purposes of this section. In determining the amount of tobacco for which satisfactory proof of disposition has not been shown or with respect to which a false acreage report was filed in case the actual production of tobacco on the farm is not known, the amount of tobacco involved in the violation shall be deemed to be the actual production of tobacco on the farm, estimated as above, less the amount of tobacco for which satisfactory proof of disposition has been shown.

(f) If the farm involved in the violation is combined with another farm prior to the reduciton, the reduction shall be applied to that portion of the allotment for which a reduction is required under paragraph (a), (b) or (c) of this section.

(g) If the farm involved in the violation has been divided prior to the reduction, the reduction shall be applied to the allotments for the divided farms as required under paragraph (a), (b) or (c) of this section.

§ 723.820 Reallocation of allotments released from farms removed from agricultural production or shifted from production of cigar-filler and binder (types 42–55) tobacco to production of shade-grown cigar-leaf (type 61) wrapper tobacco. (a) The allotment determined or which would have been determined for any land which is removed from agricultural production for any purpose because of acquisition by any Federal, State, or other agency having a right of eminent domain shall be place in a State pool and shall be available to the State committee for use in providing equitable allotments for farms owned or purchased by owners displaced because of acquisition of their farms by such agencies. Upon application to the county committee, within five years from the date of such acquisition of the farm, any owner so displaced shall be entitled to have an allotment for any other farm owned or purchased by him equal to an allotment which would have been determined for such other farm plus the allotment which would have been determined for the farm so acquired: Provided, That such allotment shall not exceed 20 percent of the acreage of cropland on the farm. The provisions of this paragraph shall not be applicable if (1) there is any marketing quota penalty due with respect to the marketing of tobacco from the farm or by the owner of the farm at the time of its acquisition by the Federal, State, or other agency; (2) any tobacco produced on such farm has not been accounted for as required by the Secretary; or (3) the allotment next to be established for the farm acquired by the Federal, State, or other agency would have been reduced because of false or improper identification of tobacco produced on or marketed from such farm, or due to a false acreage report.

(b) The allotment determined or which would have been determined for any land which has been used for the production of cigar-filler and binder (types 42–44, 51–55) tobacco but which will be used in 1957 for the production of cigar wrapper (type 61) tobacco shall be placed in a State pool and shall be available to the State committee to establish allotments pursuant to § 723.826 (b).

§ 723.821 Farms divided or combined. (a) If land operated as a single farm in 1956 will be operated in 1957 as two or more farms, or is otherwise required under the definition of a farm to be divided for 1957, the 1957 tobacco acreage allotment determined or which otherwise would have been determined for the entire farm shall be apportioned among the tracts in the same proportion as the acreage of cropland available for the production of tobacco in each such tract in 1956 bore to the total number of acres of cropland available for the production of tobacco on the entire farm in such year, except that, upon recommendation of the county committee and with State committee approval and agreement of the interested parties in writing, the 1957 tobacco acreage allotment determined or which otherwise would have been determined for the entire farm may be apportioned among the tracts (1) in the same proportion as the five-year average acreage of tobacco harvested on each such tract during the years 1952–56 bore to the five-year average acreage of tobacco harvested on the entire farm during 1952–56 or (2) if the farm to be divided in 1957 consists of two or more tracts which were separate and distinct farms, or distinct portions of such farms, before being combined for 1956, in the same proportion that each contributed to the farm acreage allotment: Provided, That with the recommendation of the county committee and approval of the State committee and with the written agreement of all interested persons, the tobacco acreage allotment determined for a tract under the provisions of this paragraph may be increased or decreased by not more than the larger of one-hundredth acre or 10 percent of the 1957 acreage allotment determined for the entire farm with corresponding increases or decreases made in the acreage allotment apportioned to the other tract or tracts.

(b) If two or more farms operated separately in 1956 are combined and operated in 1957 as a single farm, the 1957 allotment shall be the sum of the 1957 allotments determined for each of the farms comprising the combination.

(c) If a farm is to be divided in 1957 in settling an estate the allotment may be divided among the various tracts in accordance with paragraph (a) of this section, or on such other basis as the State committee determines will result in equitable farm allotments.

§ 723.822 Determination of normal yields for old farms. The county committee will determine a normal yield for each farm for which a 1957 tobacco acreage allotment was established by first obtaining the average of the two highest yields for such farms in the three years 1951, 1953 and 1954, or if tobacco was grown in less than two of such years the yield for the one year will be used in lieu of the average yield of two years. If in any case the yield so obtained exceeds 125 percent or is less than 80 percent of the county check yield (to be ascertained as hereafter provided) such yield shall be adjusted to the applicable percentage, and any yield may be also adjusted for drought, flood or other abnormal conditions affecting the yield, but the yield so adjusted shall not exceed 125 percent or be less than 80 percent of the county check yield. If the total production extension for all farms in the county in 1956 obtained by multiplying the 1956 acreage allotment for each farm by the yield so computed for such farm varies more than one percent from the total production extension obtained by multiplying the county check yield by the total of all allotted tobacco acreage in the county for 1956, the yield for each farm will then be factored to the extent required to eliminate any variance. Subject to the approval of the State committee, the yields may be further factored to provide a yield for each farm in the county that is not more than 125 percent or less than 80 percent of the county check yield. The yield for the farm thus determined shall be the normal yield for the farm: Provided, That if the farm has been reconstituted since 1950, the normal yield for such farm shall be determined by the county committee by appraisal taking into consideration available yield data for the land involved and yields established as heretofore provided in this section for similar farms in the community. The county check yield shall be determined by the Deputy Administrator on the basis of the average of the two highest yields in the county in the three years 1951, 1953 and 1954 adjusted where necessary so as to conform with and, except for factoring, to not exceed 125 percent or be less than 80 percent of the State check yield; such State check yield to be determined by the Deputy Administrator on the basis of the average of the two highest yields in the State in the three years 1951, 1953 and 1954, but not to exceed 125 percent or be less than 80 percent of the average of the two high year averages of all States which grow the type of tobacco indicated in each of the following groups: (a) Types 51–52, (b) Types 42–44, and (c) Types 54 and 55.

ACREAGE ALLOTMENTS AND NORMAL YIELDS FOR NEW FARMS

§ 723.823 Determination of acreage allotments for new farms. (a) The acreage allotment, other than an allotment made under § 723.820, for a new farm shall be that acreage which the county committee determines is fair and reasonable for the farm taking into consideration the past tobacco experience of the farm operator; the land, labor, and equipment available for the production of tobacco; crop rotation practices; and the soil and other physical factors affecting the production of tobacco: Provided, That the acreage allotment so determined shall not exceed 50 percent of the allotments for old farms which are similar with respect to land, labor, and equipment available for the production of tobacco, crop rotation practices, and the soil and other physical factors affecting the production of tobacco.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provisions of this section, a tobacco acreage allotment shall not be established for any new farm unless each of the following conditions has been met:

(1) The farm operator shall have had experience during one of the past five years in the kind of tobacco for which an allotment is requested and such experience shall have been for the entire crop year beginning with the preparation of the plant bed and extending through preparation of the tobacco for market: Provided, That a farm operator who was in the armed services after September 16, 1940, shall be deemed to have met the requirements hereof if he has had such experience during one year either within the five years immediately prior to his entry into the armed services or within the five years immediately following his discharge from the armed services and if he files an application for an allotment within five crop years from date of discharge: And provided further, That production of tobacco on a farm in 1955 or 1956 for which in accordance with applicable law and regulations no 1955 or 1956 tobacco acreage allotment respectively, was determined shall not be deemed such experience for any producer.

(2) The farm operator shall live on and obtain 50 percent or more of his livelihood from the farm covered by the application.

(3) The farm covered by the application shall be the only farm owned or operated by the farm operator for which a cigar-filler and binder (types 42–44, 51–55) tobacco allotment is established for the 1957–58 marketing year.

(4) The farm shall be operated by the owner thereof.

(5) The farm or any portion thereof shall not have been a part of another farm during any of the five years 1952–56 for which an old farm tobacco acreage allotment was determined, except that this provision shall not of itself make a farm ineligible for a new farm allotment (i) if it is the same farm or a portion of the same farm for which an old farm allotment was cancelled since 1951 due to no tobacco being produced thereon for five years, or (ii) if it was a portion of an old farm during any of the years 1952–56 and at time of division of the farm contained cropland but received no part of the allotment due (a) to division of the allotment on a contribution basis, or (b) to agreement and approval of all interested parties as provided in the section of these regulations governing divisions and combinations of allotments.

(c) The acreage allotments established as provided in this section shall be subject to such downward adjustment as is necessary to bring such allotments in line with the total acreage available for allotment to all new farms. One half of one percent of the 1957 national marketing quota shall, when converted to an acreage allotment by the use of the national average yield, be available for establishing allotments for new farms. The national average yield shall be the average of the several State yields used in converting the State marketing quota into State acreage allotments.

§ 723.824 Time for filing application. An application for a new farm allotment shall be filed with the ASC county office not later than March 11, 1957, unless the farm operator was discharged from the armed services subsequent to December 31, 1956 in which case such application shall be filed within a reasonable period prior to planting tobacco on the farm.

§ 723.825 Determination of normal yields for new farms. The normal yield for a new farm shall be that yield per acre which the county committee determines by appraisal, taking into consideration available yield data for the land involved and yields established as provided in § 723.822 for similar farms in the community.

MISCELLANEOUS

§ 723.826 Determination of acreage allotments and normal yields for farms returned to agricultural production or shifted from production of shade-grown cigar-leaf (type 61) wrapper tobacco to production of cigar-filler and binder (types 42–44, 51–55) tobacco. (a) Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of §§ 723.811 to 723.825, the acreage allotment for any farm which was acquired by any Federal, State, or other agency having the right of eminent domain for any purpose and which is returned to agricultural production in 1957 or which was returned to agricultural production in 1956 too late for the 1956 allotment to be established, shall be determined by one of the following methods:

(1) If the land is acquired by the original owner, any part of the acreage allotment which was or could have been established for such farm prior to its retirement from agricultural production which remains in the State pool (adjusted to reflect the uniform increases and decreases in comparable old farm allotments since the farm was acquired) may be established as the 1957 allotment for such farm by transfer from the pool, and if any part of the allotment for such land was transferred by the original owner through the State pool to another farm now owned by him, such owner may elect to transfer all or any part of such allotment (as adjusted) to the farm which is returned to agricultural production.

(2) If the land is acquired by a person other than the original owner, or if all of the allotment was transferred through the State pools to another farm and the original owner does not now own the farm to which the allotment was transferred, the farm returned to agricultural production shall be regarded as a new farm.

(b) Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of §§ 723.811 to 723.825, an allotment may be established by the county and State committees for a farm which in 1956 was producing shade-grown cigar-leaf (type 61) wrapper tobacco but on which cigar-filler and binder (types 42–44, 51–55) tobacco will be produced in 1957. The acreage used for such purpose will be limited to that placed in the State pool pursuant to § 723.820 (b). Any allotment established pursuant to this paragraph shall, to the extent of available acreage in such pool, be determined by the county and State committees so as to be fair and equitable in relation to the allotments for other old farms in the community, on the basis of the past acreage of tobacco, making due allowances for drought, flood, hail, other abnormal weather conditions, plant bed, and other diseases; land, labor, and equipment available for the production of tobacco; crop rotation practices; and the soil and other physical factors affecting the production of tobacco. Allotments established pursuant to this paragraph are eligible for consideration for adjustments under § 723.818.

(c) The normal yield for any such farm under paragraph (a) or (b) of this section shall be that yield per acre which the county committee determines by appraisal, taking into consideration available yield data for the land involved and yields established as provided in § 723.822 for similar farms in the community.

§ 723.827 Approval of determinations made under §§ 723.811 to 723.826, and notices of farm acreage allotments. (a) All farm acreage allotments and yields shall be determined by the county committee of the county in which the farm is located and shall be reviewed by or on behalf of the State committee and the State committee may revise or require revision of any determinations made under §§ 723.811 to 723.826. All acreage allotments and yields shall be approved by or on behalf of the State committee and no official notice of acreage allotment shall be mailed to a grower until such allotment has been approved by or on behalf of the State committee.

(b) The county committee shall mail a written notice of the farm acreage allotment and marketing quota to the operator of each farm shown by the records of the county committee to be entitled to such allotment. Insofar as practical all allotment notices shall be mailed in time to be received prior to the date of any tobacco marketing quota referendum. The notice to the operator of the farm shall constitute notice to all persons who as operator, landlord, tenant, or sharecropper are interested in the farm for which the allotment is established. A copy of such notice, containing thereon the date of mailing, shall be kept among the records of the county committee, and, upon request, a copy of such notice certified as true and correct shall be furnished without charge to any person interested in the farm in respect to which the allotment is established.

(c) If the records of the county committee indicate that the allotment established for any farm may be changed because of (1) a violation of the marketing quota regulations for a prior marketing year, (2) removal of the farm from agricultural production, (3) division of the farm, or (4) combination of the farm, no notice of such allotment shall be mailed until the proper allotment is determined for the farm by the county committee with the approval of the State committee: Provided, That the notice of allotment for any farm shall, insofar as practicable, be mailed no later than May 1, 1957.

(d) If the county committee determines with the approval of the State committee that the official written notice of the farm acreage allotment issued for any farm erroneously stated the acreage allotment to be larger than the correct allotment, and the county committee also determines that the error was not so gross as to place the operator on notice thereof, and that the operator, relying upon such notice and acting in good faith, planted an acreage of tobacco in excess of the correct farm acreage allotment, the acreage allotment shown on the erroneous notice shall be deemed to be the tobacco acreage allotment for the farm for all purposes in connection with the tobacco marketing quota program for the 1957–58 marketing year, provided the acreage of tobacco harvested from the farm is not in excess of the acreage shown on the erroneous notice. In the event the acreage of tobacco harvested exceeds the farm acreage allotment shown on the erroneous notice, the acreage allotment for the farm as correctly determined and shown on a revised notice of farm acreage allotment and marketing quota shall be the tobacco acreage allotment for the farm for all purposes in connection with the tobacco marketing quota program for the 1957-58 marketing year.

§ 723.828 Application for review. Any producer who is dissatisfied with the farm acreage allotment and marketing quota established for his farm may, within fifteen days after mailing of the official notice of the farm acreage allotment and marketing quota, file application in writing with the ASC county office to have such allotment reviewed by a review committee. The procedures governing the review of farm acreage allotments and marketing quotas are contained in the regulations issued by the Secretary (Part 711 of this chapter) which are available at the office of the ASC county office.

NOTE: The record keeping and reporting requirements of these regulations have been approved by and subsequent reporting requirements will be subject to the approval of the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 18th day of September 1956. Witness my hand and seal of the Department of Agriculture.

[SEAL] TRUE D. MORSE,
Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

Chapter VIII—Commodity Stabilization Service (Sugar) Department of Agriculture

Subchapter B—Sugar Requirements and Quotas

[Sugar Reg. 811, Amdt. 5]

PART 811—CONTINENTAL SUGAR REQUIREMENTS AND AREA QUOTAS

PRORATION OF DEFICITS IN QUOTA OF "FULL-DUTY" COUNTRIES AND INCREASE IN DIRECT-CONSUMPTION PRORATION TO PUERTO RICO

Basis and purpose. This amendment, issued pursuant to the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended, hereinafter referred to as the "act", is made for the purposes of (1) prorating among foreign countries other than Cuba and the Republic of the Philippines, pursuant to sections 204 (b) and 411 of the act, that part of the basic quota for all such foreign countries which will not be filled as originally prorated, and (2) increasing the portion of the 1956 sugar quota for Puerto Rico that may be filled by direct-consumption sugar, pursuant to sections 207 (b) of the act, and in accordance with the increase in such 1956 quota established in Sugar Regulation 811, Amendment 4 (21 F. R. 6009).

In order to afford adequate opportunity to ship the sugar as authorized by this amendment, it is essential that the revised prorations be made effective immediately. Therefore, it is hereby found that compliance with the notice, procedure, and effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act is unnecessary, impracticable and contrary to the public interest and the amendment herein made shall become effective on the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By virtue of the authority vested in the Secretary of Agriculture by the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended (61 Stat. 922, 65 Stat. 318, 7 U. S. C. 1100, Public Law 545, 84th Congress), and the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237), §§ 811.84 and 811.85 of Sugar Regulation 811, as amended (20 F. R. 9848; 21 F. R. 2805, 4653, 5709, 6009), are further amended to read as hereinafter set forth.

1. Section 811.84 (a) is amended to read as follows:

§ 811.84 Proration of quotas for foreign countries other than Cuba and the Republic of the Philippines—(a) Prorations and apportionment of deficits. Pursuant to section 202 (c) of the Act the 1956 quota for foreign countries other than Cuba and the Republic of the Philippines is prorated; pursuant to section 204 (b) it is found that El Salvador and Nicaragua are unable to utilize their prorations of such quota in the respective quantities of 4,141 and 3,293 short tons, raw value, and such deficits are apportioned; and pursuant to section 411 adjustments are made and the following adjusted prorations are established:

Country:	Prorations as adjusted short tons, raw value
Dominican Republic	35,008
El Salvador	------
Haiti	3,388
Mexico	14,515
Nicaragua	4,530
Peru	59,305
Unspecified countries	6,144
Total	122,890

2. Paragraph (a) of § 811.85 is amended to read as follows:

§ 811.85 Direct-consumption portion of quota or prorations—(a) Domestic areas. Pursuant to subsections (a), (b) and (c) of section 207 of the act the quotas established in § 811.81 for offshore domestic areas may be filled by direct-consumption sugar not exceeding the following quantity for each such areas:

Area:	Short tons, raw value
Hawaii	59,616
Puerto Rico	127,638
Virgin Islands	0

Of the quantity for Puerto Rico which may be filled by direct-consumption sugar, 125,033 short tons, raw value, may be filled only by sugar principally of crystalline structure.

STATEMENT OF BASES AND CONSIDERATIONS

This apportionment of deficits in prorations and the adjusted prorations herein established have been made in accordance with the provisions of section 204 (b) of the act which provides that whenever the Secretary finds that any country will be unable to fill the proration to such country of the quota for foreign countries other than Cuba and the Republic of the Philippines established under section 202 (c) he may apportion such unfilled amount on such basis and to such countries as he determines is required to fill such proration.

El Salvador has informed the Department that it will not utilize any of its proration of the "full duty" quota, amounting to 4,141 short tons, raw value, nor has any sugar been entered from this country since 1949.

Nicaragua has informed the Department that it will be able to supply only direct-consumption sugar. This country thus can utilize only 4,530 short tons, raw value, of its proration of 7,823 short tons, raw value, leaving a deficit of 3,293 short tons, raw value.

All other countries receiving specific prorations have either filled their quota by September 1 or indicated their intention and ability to do so by December 31.

The deficit occurs with respect to countries which are not members of the International Sugar Agreement. Inasmuch as the proration effected by previous orders limited the prorations to all specified non-member countries to a total of 63,835 tons, the prorations to member countries already have been increased by quantities larger than would result from proportional participation in the deficit now declared. Accordingly, the entire deficit must be apportioned within the non-member group and, therefore, is assigned to Peru as the only specified country in the group which can supply additional sugar. In view of the limitations imposed by section 411 of the act, section 204 (c) is inapplicable with respect to the prorations originally made to El Salvador and Nicaragua.

Section 207 (h) of the act provides that not more than 126,033 short tons, raw value, of the quota for Puerto Rico for any calendar year may be filled by direct-consumption sugar which shall be principally of crystalline structure, plus an amount equal to the same percentage of 126,033 short tons, raw value, that the increase in the quota for Puerto Rico under section 202 is of 1,080,000 short tons, raw value, which latter amount may be filled by direct-consumption sugar whether or not principally of crystalline structure. Under section 202 of the act, the quota for Puerto Rico has been increased from 1,080,000 short tons, raw value, to 1,093,750 short tons, raw value (21 F R. 6009). Accordingly, this amendment increases the direct-consumption portion of the quota for Puerto Rico by 1,605 short tons, raw value, and provision is made for this additional quantity to be brought in as sugar principally of either crystalline or non-crystalline structure.

PART 814—ALLOTMENT OF SUGAR QUOTAS

QUOTAS AND DIRECT CONSUMPTION PORTION PUERTO RICO, 1956

Basis and purpose. These amendments are issued under section 205 (a) of the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended (hereinafter called the "Act"), for the purpose of amending Sugar Regulations 814.15, as amended, and 814.16 (20 F. R. 9901; 21 F. R. 105, 5819) which established allotments of the 1956 mainland quota for Puerto Rico totaling 1,080,000 short tons, raw value, and established allotments of the direct-consumption portion of the quota amounting to 126,033 short tons, raw value. These amendments are necessary to allot the increase in mainland quota for the area established by Sugar Regulation 811, Amendment 4 (21 F. R. 6009), to allot the increase in the direct-consumption portion of the mainland quota established by Sugar Regulation 811, Amendment 5,[1] and to allot to the specified allottees, as provided for in § 814.16, 50 short tons, raw value, of the 200 tons of the direct-consumption portion of the mainland quota allotted in § 814.16 to "All other persons".

Omission of recommended decision and effective date. On the basis of the record of the reopened hearing held in this proceeding it is found and determined that a delay in the issuance of the allotments would be a detriment to orderly marketing of the additional quantity of sugar to be allotted and thus the orders should be issued at the earliest possible date (R. 45). It is hereby found that due and timely execution of the functions imposed upon the Secretary under the act imperatively and unavoidably requires omission of a recommended decision in this proceeding and that compliance with the 30-day effective date requirement of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237), is impracticable and contrary to the public interest and, consequently, this order shall be effective when published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. To the extent that findings and conclusions proposed by interested persons are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions contained herein, the specific or implied requests to make such findings and reach such conclusions are denied on the basis of the facts found and stated in connection with the conclusions herein set forth.

Preliminary statement. Pursuant to the applicable rules of practice and procedure (7 CFR 801.1 et. seq.), the 1956 mainland quota of 1,080,000 short tons, raw value, and the direct-consumption portion thereof amounting to 126,033 short tons, raw value, for Puerto Rico as established by Sugar Regulation 811 (20 F. R. 9848) and the local quota of 100,000 short tons, raw value, for Puerto Rico as established in Sugar Regulation 812 (20 F. R. 9850) were allotted in Sugar Regulation 814.15, Amendment 1 (21 F. R. 5819) and 814.16 (20 F. R. 9901; 21 F. R. 105). The act was amended by Public Law 545, 84th Congress, approved May 29, 1956, which provided, among other things, for increases in the mainland and direct-consumption quotas for Puerto Rico above the previously fixed levels when total sugar requirements exceed 8,650,000 short tons, raws value. In accordance therewith, the 1956 mainland quota for Puerto Rico was increased by 13,750 short tons, raw value, to total 1,093,750 short tons, raw value, by Sugar Regulation 811, Amendment 4, and the 1956 direct-consumption portion of the quota for Puerto Rico was increased by 1,605 short tons, raw value, to total 127,638 by Sugar Regulation 811, Amendment 5.

Pursuant to the rules of practice and procedure, as amended (21 F. R. 4251), a notice was issued August 21, 1956 (21 F. R. 6277), reopening the hearing in this proceeding in Room 2W, Administration Building of the Department at 9:30 a. m., e. d. s. t., on August 31, 1956, to permit presentation of evidence relating to the allotment of the increase in quota for Puerto Rico established by Sugar Regulation 811, Amendment 4, or any subsequent change arising from actions taken pursuant to sections 201 and 202 of the act, as amended. The reopened hearing was held at the place and time specified in the notice.

Basis for findings and conclusions. In the reopened hearing the Government witness proposed that (1) the increase of 13,750 short tons, raw value, in the 1956 mainland sugar quota for Puerto Rico be allotted in the same manner used in determining local and mainland allotments as established in S. R. 814.15, Amendment 1, and (2) the increase of 1,605 short tons, raw value, in the portion of the quota for Puerto Rico which may be filled by direct-consumption sugar be allotted in the same manner used in determining allotments established in S. R. 814.16 (R. 42, 46) and (3) any further increases or decreases in the mainland quota, the direct-consumption portion thereof, or the local quota, also be allotted by the method applied in allotting 1,080,000 short tons, raw value, 126,033 short tons, raw value, and 100,000 short tons, raw value, respectively, in S. R. 814.15, Amendment 1 and S. R. 814.16, without further notice or hearing.

To deal with cases of succession of interest in allotments, which require review of facts not available in the record, the Government witness proposed that provision be made for dealing with any succession in interest in allotments without further notice or hearing (R. 44).

No exceptions were taken to the proposals made either in testimony or briefs.

Findings and conclusions. In addition to the findings and conclusions made in S. R. 814.15, Amendment 1 thereto, and 814.16, and on the basis of the record of the hearing (including the reopened portion), I hereby further find and conclude that in regard to:

A. Allotment of mainland and local quotas. (1) Allotting any 1956 mainland and local quota established for Puerto Rico in the same manner as provided for the distribution of 1,080,000 short tons, raw value, of mainland quota and 100,000 short tons, raw value, of local quota, in S. R. 814.15, Amendment 1, is fair, efficient and equitable and meets the requirements of section 205 (a) of the act.

(2) This order shall be revised without further notice or hearing to adjust allotments to take account of any change in the quota due to actions pursuant to sections 201 and 202 (a) of the act, on the same basis as the mainland and local quotas were allotted in Sugar Regulation 814.15, Amendment 1.

(3) In order that appropriate and proper utilization of allotments may be made, it is necessary that the allotment order provide that the Director of the Sugar Division, Commodity Stabilization Service, may permit marketings of sugar for local consumption in Puerto Rico and bringing sugar into the continental United States for consumption therein by one allottee, or other person, within the allotment or portion thereof established for another allottee, upon receipt of evidence satisfactory to him of a merger, consolidation, transfer of sugar processing facilities or other action of similar effect upon the allottees or persons involved, and upon relinquishment by one of the allottees of all or a portion of its allotment.

B. Allotment of direct-consumption portion of the mainland quota. (1) Allotting any direct-consumption portion of the 1956 quota established for Puerto Rico in the same manner as provided for the distribution of 126,033 short tons, raw value, in S. R. 814.16 is fair, efficient and equitable and meets the requirements of section 205 (a) of the act.

(2) This order shall be revised without further notice of hearing to adjust allotments to take account of any change in the direct-consumption portion of the 1956 quota for Puerto Rico due to actions pursuant to secs. 201 and 202 (a) of the Act, on the same basis as the 126,033 short tons, raw value, was alloted in Sugar Regulation 814.16.

(3) In order that appropriate and proper utilization of allotments may be made, it is necessary that the allotment order provide that the Director of the Sugar Division, Commodity Stabilization Service, may permit bringing direct-consumption sugar into the continental United States for consumption therein by one allottee, or other person, within the allotment or portion thereof established for another allottee, upon receipt of evidence satisfactory to him of a merger, consolidation, transfer of sugar processing facilities or other action of similar effect upon the allottees or persons involved, and upon relinquishment by one of the allottees of all or a portion of its allotment.

(4) The finding heretofore made to reserve 200 short tons, raw value, of the mainland quota, finding B (8) (20 F. R. 9901), is revised to read: A small part of the direct-consumption portion of the mainland quota is normally marketed in the continental United States as raw sugar for direct consumption. One hundred and fifty short tons, raw value, should be reserved for this purpose.

Order. Pursuant to the authority vested in the Secretary of Agriculture by section 205 (a) of the act: It is hereby ordered, That § 814.15, as amended, be further amended by amending paragraph (a) and adding a paragraph (f), and that § 814.16 be amended by amending paragraph (a) and by adding a subparagraph (3) to paragraph (b) and a new paragraph (c). The amended and added paragraphs shall read as follows:

[1] Until further order of the Commission, the showing that the applicant actually operated an amateur radio station or stations for the periods of time specified in § 12.27 will not be required in cases where it is shown that the applicant was unable to conduct such operation because he was on active duty in the armed forces of the United States or was duly enrolled as an employee of an agency of the Federal Government and in the course of such employment was on duty in a foreign country continuously during the last year of the license term: Provided, That any such employee of the Federal Government shall submit with his application for renewal of license a statement signed by his agency head, or the chief of the Bureau or Division in which he is employed attesting to such employment.

renewed upon proper application in which it is stated that the applicant has lawfully accumulated, at an amateur station licensed by the Commission, a minimum total of either 2 hours operating time during the last 3 months or 5 hours operating time during the last 12 months of the license term. Such operating time, for the purpose of renewal, shall be counted as the total of all that time between the entries in the station log showing the beginning and end of transmissions as required in § 12.136 (a), both during single transmissions and during a sequence of transmissions. The application shall, in addition to the foregoing, include a statement that the applicant can send by hand key, i. e., straight key or any other type of hand operated key such as a semi-automatic or electronic key, and receive by ear, in plain language, messages in the International Morse Code at a speed of not less than that which is required in qualifying for an original license of the class being renewed.

(b) The Novice Class license will not be renewed.

(c) The applicant shall qualify for a new license by examination if the requirements of this section are not fulfilled.

(d) A renewal application which includes a modification (change of address) shall be submitted on FCC Form 610 and shall be accompanied by the applicant's amateur operator license, and also by his amateur station license if he holds one.

(e) Application for renewal of an amateur operator license without modification shall be submitted on FCC Form 405–A. Applications on Form 405–A should not be accompanied by the applicant's license. Unless otherwise directed by the Commission, each application for renewal of license shall be filed during the last 120 days of the license term or within a period of grace of one year after the expiration date of such license. During this one year period of grace an expired license is not valid. A renewed license issued upon the basis of an application filed during the grace period will be dated currently and will not be back-dated to the date of expiration of the license being renewed. In any case in which the licensee has, in accordance with the Commission's rules made timely and sufficient application for renewal of license, no license with reference to any activity of a continuing nature shall expire until such application shall have been finally determined.

(f) Renewal applications shall be governed by applicable rules in force on the date when application is filed.

§ 12.28 Who may operate an amateur station. An amateur radio station may be operated only by a person holding a valid amateur operator license. Such station may be operated by the licensee only in the manner and to the extent provided in his amateur operator license. Persons other than the station licensee, when operating such station, may operate it only to the extent and in the manner authorized to the licensee of the station and not exceeding the operating authority of such person's own amateur operator license. When an amateur station is used for telephony, the station licensee may permit any person to transmit by voice, provided during such transmission call signs are announced as prescribed by § 12.82 and a duly licensed amateur operator maintains actual control over the emissions, including turning the carrier on and off for each transmission and signing the station off after communication with each station has been completed.

§ 12.29 License term. Amateur operator licenses are normally valid for a period of 5 years from the date of issuance of a new or renewed license, except the Novice Class which is normally valid for a period of 1 year from the date of issuance. Modified and duplicate licenses shall bear the same date of expiration as the licenses for which they are modifications or duplicates.

§ 12.30 Order of suspension. No order of suspension of any operator's license shall take effect until 15 days' notice in writing thereof, stating the cause for the proposed suspension, has been given to the operator licensee who may make written application to the Commission at any time within said 15 days for a hearing upon such order. The notice to the operator licensee shall not be effective until actually received by him, and from that time he shall have 15 days in which to mail the said application. In the event that physical conditions prevent mailing of the application at the expiration of the 15-day period, the application shall then be mailed as soon as possible thereafter, accompanied by a satisfactory explanation of the delay. Upon receipt by the Commission of such application for hearing, said order of suspension shall be held in abeyance until the conclusion of the hearing which shall be conducted under such rules as the Commission shall deem appropriate. Upon the conclusion of said hearing the Commission may affirm, modify, or revoke said order of suspension.

§ 12.31 Proceedings. Proceedings for the suspension of an operator's license shall in all cases be initiated by the entry of an order of suspension. Respondent will be given notice thereof together with notice of his right to be heard and to contest the proceeding. The effective date of the suspension will not be specified in the original order but will be fixed by subsequent motion of the Commission in accordance with the conditions specified above. Notice of the effective date of suspension will be given respondent who shall send his operator license to the office of the Commission in Washington, D. C., on or before the said effective date, or, if the effective date has passed at the time notice is received, the license shall be sent to the Commission forthwith.

EXAMINATIONS

§ 12.41 When examination is required. Examination is required for the issuance of a new amateur operator license, and for a change in class of operating privileges. Credit may be given, however, for certain elements of examination as provided in § 12.46.

§ 12.42 Examination elements. Examinations for amateur operator privileges will comprise one or more of the following examination elements:

Element 1 (A): Beginner's code test. Code test at five (5) words per minute.

§ 12.43 Examination requirements. Applicants for original licenses will be required to pass examinations as follows:

(a) Amateur extra class. Elements 1 (C), 2, 3 (B) and 4 (B).

(b) General class. Elements 1 (B), (2) and 3 (B).

(c) Conditional class. Elements 1 (B), 2 and 3 (B).

(e) Novice class. Elements 1 (A) and 3 (A).

EXAMINATIONS

§ 12.44 Manner of conducting examinations. (a) The examinations for Extra and General Classes of amateur operator licenses will be conducted by an authorized Commission employee or representative at locations and at times specified by the Commission. The examinations for Conditional Class, as well as Technician and Novice Class licenses, will be conducted in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (c) of this section. The examinations for Conditional Class will be available only under one or more of the following conditions:

(1) If the applicant's actual residence and proposed amateur station location are more than 75 miles airline distance from the nearest location at which examinations are conducted by an authorized Commission employee or representative at intervals of not more than 3 months for amateur operator licenses; or

(2) If the applicant is shown by physician's certificate to be unable to appear for examination because of protracted disability; or

(3) If the applicant is shown by certificate of the commanding officer to be in the armed forces of the United States at an Army, Navy, Air Force, or Coast Guard station and, for that reason, to be unable to appear for examination at the time and place designated by the Commission.

(b) A holder of a Conditional, Technician, or Novice Class, license obtained on the basis of an examination under the provisions of paragraph (c) of this section is not required to be re-examined when changing residence and station location to within a regular examination area, nor when a new examination location is established within 75 miles of such licensee's residence and station location.

(c) Each examination for Conditional Class license, or for Technician, or Novice Class license shall be conducted and supervised by not more than two volunteer examiners, whom the Commission may designate or permit the applicant to select (not more than one examiner for the code test and not more than one examiner for the complete written examination). In the event the examiner for the code test is selected by the applicant, such examiner shall be the holder of an Extra Class, Advanced Class, or General Class amateur operator license; or shall have held, within the 5 years prior to the date of the examination, a commercial radiotelegraph operator license issued by the Commission, or within that time shall have been employed in the service of the United States as the operator of a manually operated radiotelegraph station. The examiner for the written test shall be at least 21 years of age. Examinations for Conditional Class will be available only under special conditions set forth in paragraph (a) (1), (2), or (3) of this section.

§ 12.45 Additional examination for holders of Conditional Class operator licenses. (a) The Commission may require a licensee holding a Conditional Class of operator license to appear for a General Class license examination at a location designated by the Commission. If the licensee fails to appear for the General Class examination when directed to do so, or fails to pass such examination, the Conditional Class operator license previously issued shall be subject to cancellation and, upon cancellation, a new license will not be issued for the Conditional Class privileges.

(b) Whenever the holder of a conditional class amateur operator license is required by the Commission to restrict the operation of his amateur station, in accordance with the provisions of §§ 12.152, 12.153 and 12.154, the necessity for those restrictions shall be considered sufficient grounds to require the holder of the Conditional Class license to appear for the General Class examination.

§ 12.46 Examination credit. (a) An applicant for a higher class of amateur operator license who holds a valid amateur operator license issued upon the basis of an examination by the Commission will be required to pass only those elements of the higher class examination that were not included in the examination for the amateur license held when such application was filed. However, credit will not be allowed for licenses issued on the basis of an examination given under the provisions of § 12.44 (c).

(b) An applicant for any class of amateur operator license, except the Extra Class, will be given credit for the telegraph code element if within five years prior to the receipt of his application by the Commission he held a commercial radiotelegraph operator license or permit issued by the Federal Communications Commission.

(c) An applicant for Amateur Extra Class operator license will be given credit for examination elements 1 (C) and 4 (B) if he so requests and submits evidence of having held a valid amateur radio station or operator license issued by any agency of the United States Government during or prior to April 1917, and qualifies for or currently holds a valid amateur operator license of the General or Advanced Class.

(d) No examination credit, except as herein provided, shall be allowed on the basis of holding or having held any amateur or commercial operator license.

§ 12.47 Examination procedure. All written portions of the examinations for amateur operator privileges shall be completed by the applicant in legible handwriting or hand printing, and diagrams shall be drawn by hand, by means of either pen and ink or pencil. Whenever the applicant's signature is required, his normal signature shall be used. Applicants unable to comply with these requirements, because of physical disability, may dictate their answers to the examination questions and the receiving code test and if unable to draw required diagrams, may dictate a detailed description essentially equivalent. If the examination or any part thereof is dictated, the examiner shall certify the nature of the applicant's disability and the name and address of the person(s) taking and transcribing the applicant's dictation.

§ 12.48 Grading. (a) Code tests for sending and receiving are graded separately. Failure to pass the required code test for either sending or receiving will terminate the examination.

(b) Seventy-four percent is the passing grade for written examinations. For the purpose of grading, all elements, other than element 4 (B), required in qualifying for a particular license will be considered a single examination, and element 4 (B), will be considered as a separate examination.

§ 12.49 Eligibility for reexamination. An applicant who fails examination for an amateur operator license may not take another examination for the same or a higher class amateur operator license within 30 days, except that this limitation shall not apply to an examination for a General Class license following an examination conducted by a volunteer examiner for a Novice, Technician, or Conditional Class license.

§ 12.50 Code test procedure. The code test required of an applicant for amateur radio operator license, in accordance with the provisions of §§ 12.42 and 12.43 shall determine the applicant's ability to transmit by hand key (straight key or if supplied by the applicant, any other type of hand operated key such as a semi-automatic or electronic key) and to receive by ear, in plain language, messages in the International Morse Code at not less than the prescribed speed, free from omission or other error for a continuous period of at least 1 minute during a test period of 5 minutes counting five characters to the word, each numeral or punctuation mark counting as two characters.

AMATEUR RADIO STATIONS

LICENSES

§ 12.60 Limitations on antenna structures. (a) No new antenna structure shall be erected for use by any station in the Amateur Radio Service, and no change shall be made in any existing antenna structure used or intended to be used by any station in the Amateur Radio Service so as to increase its overall height above ground level, without prior approval by the Commission, in any case when either (1) the antenna structure proposed to be erected will exceed an overall height of 170 feet above ground level, except where the antenna is mounted on an existing man-made structure other than an antenna structure and does not increase the overall height of such man-made structure by more than 20 feet, or (2) the antenna structure proposed to be erected will exceed an overall height of one foot above the established airport (landing area) elevation for each 200 feet of distance, or fraction thereof, from the nearest boundary of such landing area, except where the antenna does not exceed 20 feet above the ground or if the antenna is mounted on an existing man-made structure other than an antenna structure or natural formation and does not increase the overall height of such man-made structure or natural formation by more than 20 feet as a result of such mounting. Application for Commission approval, when such approval is required, shall be submitted on FCC Form 401–A (revised), in triplicate.

(b) In cases where FCC Form 401–A (revised) is required to be filed, further details as to whether an aeronautical study and/or obstruction marking may be required, and specifications for obstruction marking when required, may be obtained from Part 17 of this chapter, "Construction, Marking and Lighting of Antenna Structures." Information regarding requirements as to inspection of obstruction marking, recording of information regarding such inspection, and maintenance of antenna structures is also contained in Part 17 of this chapter.

§ 12.61 Eligibility for amateur station license. A license for an amateur station will be issued in response to proper application therefor to a licensed amateur operator who has made a satisfactory showing of control of the transmitting station for which license is desired and of control of the specific premises upon which all of the station apparatus is to be located, at a designated fixed location. An amateur station license may be issued to an individual, not a licensed amateur operator (other than an alien or a representative of an alien or of a foreign government), who is in charge of a proposed amateur station located in approved public quarters and established for training purposes in connection with the armed forces of the United States, but not operated by the United States Government.

§ 12.62 Eligibility of corporations or organizations to hold license. An amateur station license will not be issued to a school, company, corporation, association, or other organization, nor for its use, except that in the case of a bona fide amateur radio organization or society, a station license may be issued to a licensed amateur operator, other than the holder of a Novice Class license, as trustee for such society.

§ 12.63 Application for amateur station license. (a) Each application for an amateur station license shall comply with the Commission's rules and regulations and shall be made in writing, subscribed and verified on FCC Form No. 610 (application for amateur operator and/or station license). FCC Form No. 602 should be used where the applicant is in charge of a proposed amateur station located in approved public quarters and established for training purposes in connection with the armed forces of the United States, but not operated by the United States Government.

(b) One application and all papers incorporated therein and made a part thereof shall be submitted for each amateur station license. If the application is for station license only, it shall be filed directly with the Commission at its Washington 25, D. C. office. If the application also contains application for any class of amateum operator license, it shall be filed in accordance with the provisions of § 12.22.

§ 12.64 Location of station. (a) Every amateur station shall have a fixed transmitter location. Only one fixed transmitter location will be authorized and will be designated on the license for each amateur station, except that when remote control is authorized, the location of the remote control position as well as the location of the remotely controlled transmitter shall be considered as fixed transmitter locations and will be so designated on the station license. Unless remote control of the transmitting apparatus is authorized, such apparatus shall be operated only by a duly licensed amateur radio operator present at the location of such apparatus.

(b) Authority for operation of an amateur station with the licensed operator on duty at a specific remote control point in lieu of the remote transmitter location may be granted upon filing an application for a modified station license on FCC Form No. 610 or FCC Form No. 602, as appropriate, and provided that the following conditions are met:

(1) The remote control point as well as the remotely controlled transmitter, shall be located on premises controlled by the licensee.

(2) The remotely controlled transmitter shall be so installed and protected that it is inaccessible to other than duly authorized persons.

(3) In addition to the requirements of § 12.68 a photocopy of the amateur station license shall be posted in a conspicuous place at the location of the remotely controlled transmitter.

(4) Means shall be provided at the control point to permit the continuous monitoring of the emissions of the remotely controlled transmitter, and it shall be continuously monitored when in operation.

(5) Means shall be provided at the remote control point immediately to suspend the radiation of the transmitter when there is any deviation from the terms of the station license or from the Rules Governing Amateur Radio Service.

(6) In the event that operation of an amateur transmitter from a remote control point by radio is desired, an application for a modified station license on FCC Form No. 610 or FCC Form No. 602, as appropriate, should be submitted with a letter requesting authority to operate in such a manner stating that the controlling transmitter at the remote location will operate within amateur frequency bands 420 megacycles or higher and that there will be full compliance with subparagraphs (1) through (5) of this paragraph. Supplemental statements and diagrams should accompany the application and show how radio remote control will be accomplished and what means will be employed to prevent unauthorized operation of the transmitter by signals other than those from the controlling unit. There should be included complete data on control channels, relays and functions of each, directional antenna design for the transmitter and receiver in the control circuit, and means employed for turning on and off the main transmitter from the remote control location.

(c) An amateur transmitter may be operated from a remote control point in lieu of the remote transmitter location without special authorization by the Commission when there is direct mechanical control or direct electrical control by wired connections of the transmitter from a point located in the same or closely adjoining building or structure provided there is full compliance with the conditions set forth in paragraph (b) (1) through (5) of this section.

§ 12.65 License period. The license for an amateur station is normally valid for a period of 5 years from the date of issuance of a new or renewed license except that an amateur station license issued to the holder of a Novice Class amateur operator license is normally valid for a period of 1 year from the date of issuance. Any modified or duplicate license shall bear the same expiration date as the license for which it is a modification or duplicate.

§ 12.66 Authorized apparatus. An amateur station license authorizes the use under control of the licensee of all transmitting apparatus at the fixed location specified in the station license which is operated on any frequency, or frequencies allocated to the amateur service, and in addition authorizes the use, under control of the licensee, of portable and mobile transmitting apparatus operated at other locations.

§ 12.67 Renewal of amateur station license. (a) Application for renewal of station license without modification shall be submitted on FCC Form 405–A. Applications on Form 405–A should not be accompanied by the applicant's license. Unless otherwise directed by the Commission, each application for renewal of license shall be filed during the last 120 days of the license term or within a period of grace of one year after the expiration date of such license. During this one year period of grace an expired license is not valid. A renewed license issued upon the basis of an application filed during the grace period will be dated currently and will not be back-dated to the date of expiration of the license being renewed. This one year period of grace shall apply only to licenses expiring on or after January 1, 1951. In any case in which the licensee has, in accordance with the Commission's rules made timely and sufficient application for renewal of license, no license with reference to any activity of a continuing nature shall expire until such application shall have been finally determined.

(b) A renewal application which includes a modification (change of address) shall be submitted on FCC Form 610 and shall be accompanied by the applicant's amateur station license, and also by his amateur operator license if he holds one.

(c) Renewal applications shall be governed by applicable rules in force on the date when application is filed.

§ 12.68 Availability of station license. The original license of each amateur station or a photocopy thereof shall be posted in a conspicuous place in the room occupied by the licensed operator while the station is being operated at a fixed location or shall be kept in his personal possession. When the station is operated at other than a fixed location, the original station license or a photocopy thereof shall be kept in the personal possession of the station licensee (or a licensed representative) who shall be present at the station while it is being operated as a portable or mobile station. The original station license shall be available for inspection by any authorized Government official at all times while the station is being operated and at other times upon request made by an authorized representative of the Commission, except when such license has been filed with application for modification or renewal thereof, or has been mutilated, lost, or destroyed, and application has been made for a duplicate license in accordance with § 12.26.

§ 12.69 Revocation of station license and issuance of cease and desist orders. (a) Whenever it appears that a station license should be revoked for any of the reasons set forth in section 312 (a) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, or a cease and desist order should be issued for any of the reasons specified in section 312 (b) of the act, the Commission will issue an order directing the licensee to show cause why an order of revocation or a cease and desist order, as the case may be, should not be issued.

(b) Any order to show cause issued in accordance with paragraph (a) of this section will contain a statement of matters with respect to which the Commission is inquiring and will call upon the licensee to appear before the Commission at a time and place stated in the order, but in no event less than thirty

(30) days after the receipt of such order, and give evidence upon the matter specified therein; except that where safety of life or property is involved, the Commission may provide in the order for a shorter period.

(c) In order to avail himself of the opportunity to appear before the Commission at the time and place stated in the show cause order to give evidence upon the matter specified therein, the licensee, in person or by his attorney, shall, within 30 days of the receipt of the order, or such shorter period as may be specified therein if the safety of life and property is involved, file with the Commission, in triplicate, a written appearance stating that he will appear and present evidence on the matter specified in the order.

(d) The hearing on the matter specified in the order to show cause, and the practice and procedure in connection therewith, shall accord with the provisions of Subparts F and G of Part 1 of this chapter, except that in all such hearings the burden of proof shall be upon the Commission.

(e) If the licensee does not desire to appear before the Commission and give evidence upon the matter specified in the show cause order, he shall, within 30 days of the receipt of the order, or such shorter period as may be specified therein if the safety of life or property is involved, file with the Commission, in triplicate, a written waiver of hearing. Such waiver, which shall include the name of the licensee to whom the show cause order was addressed, the call letters of his station, if any, and the docket number of the proceeding, may be accompanied by a statement of reasons why the licensee believes that the order of revocation or a cease and desist order, as the case may be, should not be issued.

(f) If the licensee fails timely to respond to an order to show cause or fails to appear at a hearing, such failure will be deemed a waiver of hearing.

(g) If the licensee waives a hearing in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (e) of this section and fails to submit a statement therewith showing why he believes an order of revocation or a cease and desist order should not be issued, or if he is deemed to waive a hearing in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (f) of this section, the allegations specified in the order to show cause will be deemed to be admitted and a decision will be issued by the Commission invoking the sanction specified in the order to show cause. If a hearing is waived pursuant to paragraph (e) of this section but a written statement as to why an order of revocation or cease and desist order should not be issued is submitted, the Commission will, on the basis of the facts before it as supplemented by such written statement, issue a decision stating its reasons for invoking the sanction specified in the order to show cause or for dismissing the proceeding, as the case may be: Provided, That where the written statement contains factual allegations contrary to those upon which the show cause order was based, the Commission may call upon the submitting party to furnish additional information under oath, or, if necessary, designate the proceeding for oral hearing. The decisions of the Commission referred to in this paragraph shall have the same effect as an initial decision, and the procedure to be followed thereafter shall be the same as in the case of an initial decision issued in the course of the regular hearing procedure (see §§ 1.853–1.857 of this chapter).

(h) Any order of revocation or cease and desist order issued pursuant to this section shall include a statement of the findings and the grounds and reasons therefor and specify the effective date of the order, and shall be served on said licensee.

§ 12.70 Modification of station license. (a) Whenever the Commission shall determine that public interest, convenience, and necessity would be served, or any treaty ratified by the United States will be more fully complied with, by the modification of any radio station license either for a limited time, or for the duration of the term thereof, it shall issue an order for such licensee to show cause why such license should not be modified.

(b) Such order to show cause shall contain a statement of the grounds and reasons for such proposed modification, and shall specify wherein the said license is required to be modified. It shall require the licensee against whom it is directed to appear at a place and time therein named, in no event to be less than 30 days from the date of receipt of the order to show cause why the proposed modification should not be made and the order of modification issued.

(c) If the licensee against whom the order to show cause is directed does not appear at the time and place provided in said order, a final order of modification shall issue forthwith.

CALL SIGNS

§ 12.81 Assignment of call signs. (a) The call signs of amateur stations will be assigned systematically by the Commission with the following exceptions:

(1) A specific unassigned call sign may be reassigned to the most recent holder thereof;

(2) A specific unassigned call sign may be assigned to a previous holder if not under license during the past 5 years;

(3) A specific unassigned call sign may be assigned to an amateur organization in memoriam to a deceased member and former holder thereof;

(4) A specific call sign may be temporarily assigned to a station connected with an event, or events, of general public interest;

(5) An unassigned "two-letter call sign" (a call sign having two letters following the numeral) may be assigned to a previous holder of a two-letter call sign the prefix of which consisted of not more than a single letter.

(b) An amateur call sign will consist of a sequence of one or two letters, a numeral designating the call sign area, and two or three letters. The call sign areas are as follows:

No.
1. Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut.
2. New York, New Jersey.
3. Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia.
4. Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky, Puerto Rico and Virgin Islands.
5. Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico.
6. California, Hawaii and Pacific possessions except those included in area 7.
7. Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Arizona, Nevada, Utah, Alaska and adjacent islands.
8. Michigan, Ohio, West Virginia.
9. Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana.
0. Colorado, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Kansas, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri.

§ 12.82 Transmission of call signs. (a) (1) The operator of an amateur station shall transmit the call sign of the station or stations (or may transmit the generally accepted identification of the network) being called or communicated with, or shall identify appropriately any other purpose of a transmission, followed by the authorized call sign of the station transmitting:

(i) At the beginning and end of each single transmission or;

(ii) At the beginning and end of a series of transmissions between stations having established communication, each transmission of which is of less than three minutes duration (the identification at the end of such a series may be omitted when the duration of the entire series is less than three minutes), and;

(iii) At least once every ten minutes or as soon thereafter as possible during a series of transmissions between stations having established communication, and;

(iv) At least once every ten minutes during any single transmission of more than ten minutes duration.

(2) The required identification shall be transmitted on the frequency or frequencies being employed at the time and, in accordance with the type of emission authorized thereon, shall be by either telegraphy using the International Morse Code, or telephony. In addition to the foregoing, when a method of communication other than telephony or telegraphy using the International Morse Code is being used or attempted, the prescribed identification shall also be transmitted by that method.

(b) In addition to complying with the requirements of paragraph (a) of this section, an operator of an amateur station operated as a portable or mobile station using radiotelegraphy shall transmit immediately after the call sign of such station, the fraction-bar character (DN) followed by the number of the amateur call sign area in which the portable or mobile amateur station is then being operated, as for example:

Example 1. Portable or mobile amateur station operating in the third amateur call sign area calls a fixed amateur station: W1ABC W1ABC W1ABC DE W2DEF DN 3 W2DEF DN 3 W2DEF DN 3 AR.

Example 2. Fixed amateur station answers the portable or mobile amateur station: W2DEF W2DEF W2DEF DE W1ABC K.

Example 3. Portable or mobile amateur station calls a portable or mobile amateur station: W3GHI W3GHI W3GHI DE W4JKL DN 4 W4JKL DN 4 W4JKL DN 4 AR.

When telephony is used, the call sign of the station shall be preceded by the words "this is" or the word "from" instead of the letters "de," followed by an announcement of the geographical location in which the portable or mobile station is being operated.

Example 4. Portable or mobile amateur radiotelephone station operating in the third call area calls a fixed amateur station: W1ABC W1ABC W1ABC "this is" or the word "from" W2DEF W2DEF W2DEF operating portable (or mobile) 3 miles north of Bethesda, Md., over.

(c) When telephony is used, the transmission of call signs prescribed by paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section may be made by the person transmitting by voice in lieu of a duly licensed operator provided the licensed operator maintains the control required by § 12.28.

(d) When using telephony, phonetic aids to identify the call sign of the station may be employed.

(e) In addition to complying with the requirements of paragraph (a) of this section, an operator of an amateur station operated as a mobile station aboard a vessel on the high seas, or aboard an aircraft en route on an international flight, shall, when the vessel or aircraft is outside the 10 call sign areas prescribed by the Commission in § 12.81 (b), comply with the following calling procedure:

(1) Mobile operations aboard a vessel.

(i) When using telegraphy the amateur operator shall transmit immediately after the call sign of the station the fraction bar $\overline{DN}$ followed by the designator MM to indicate that the station is being operated as a mobile station aboard a vessel. In addition, the name of the vessel and its approximate geographical location shall be transmitted at the end of each transmission immediately prior to signing off. If the vessel does not have a name, the number of the vessel shall be transmitted in lieu of the name of the vessel.

(ii) When using telephony the call sign of the station shall be preceded by the words "this is", or the word "from" followed by the words "maritime mobile" to indicate that the station is being operated as a mobile station aboard a vessel. In addition the name of the vessel, and its approximate geographical location shall be transmitted at the end of each transmission immediately prior to signing off. If the vessel does not have a name, the number of the vessel shall be transmitted in lieu of the name of the vessel.

(2) Mobile operations aboard aircraft.

(i) When using telegraphy the amateur operator shall transmit immediately after the call sign of the station the fraction bar $\overline{DN}$ followed by the designator AM to indicate that the station is being operated as a mobile station aboard an aircraft. In addition, the number of the aircraft and its approximate geographical location shall be transmitted at the end of each transmission immediately prior to signing off.

(ii) When using telephony the call sign of the station shall be preceded by the words "this is", or the word "from" followed by the words "aeronautical mobile", to indicate that the station is being operated as a mobile station aboard an aircraft. In addition, the number of the aircraft and its approximate geographical location shall be transmitted at the end of each transmission immediately prior to signing off.

PORTABLE AND MOBILE STATIONS

§ 12.91 Requirements for portable and mobile operation. (a) Within the continental limits of the United States, its territories, or possessions, an amateur station may be operated as either a portable or a mobile station on any frequency authorized and available for the amateur radio service. Whenever portable operation is, or is likely to be, for an over-all period in excess of 48 hours away from the fixed transmitter location designated in the station license, the licensee shall give prior written notice to the Engineer in Charge of the radio inspection district in which such portable operation is intended. This notice is required even though the station is, or is likely to be, operated during any part of this over-all period at the fixed transmitter location. Whenever mobile operation is, or is likely to be, for a period in excess of 48 hours without return to the fixed transmitter location designated in the station license, the licensee shall give prior written notice to the Engineer in Charge of the radio inspection district in which such mobile operation is intended. The notice required for either portable or mobile operation shall state the station call sign, the name of the licensee, the date or dates of proposed operation and the contemplated portable station locations, or mobile station itinerary, as specifically as possible. Additional advanced written notice shall also be given, in accordance with the foregoing, whenever such operation away from the fixed station location designated in the station license exceeds one month, and for each additional month of such operation.

(b) When outside the continental limits of the United States, its territories, or possessions, an amateur radio station may be operated as portable or mobile only under the following conditions:

(1) Operation may not be conducted within the jurisdiction of a foreign government except pursuant to, and in accordance with, expressed authority granted to the licensee by such foreign government.

(2) Operation may be conducted only in the amateur frequency bands 21.0 to 21.45 Mc and 28.0 to 29.7 Mc: Provided, That this limitation shall not be construed to prevent the use of other amateur frequency bands where operation is within the jurisdiction of a foreign government which permits United States amateurs to operate within such foreign territory. (See Appendix 4 of this part for the text of treaties or agreements between the United States and foreign governments relative to reciprocal amateur radio operation.)

(3) Whenever portable or mobile operation is, or is likely to be, away from the territorial limits of the United States for a period in excess of 48 hours, the licensee shall give prior written notice thereof to the Engineer in Charge of the radio inspection district having jurisdiction of the authorized fixed transmitter site of the station; Provided, That only one such notice shall be required during any one continued absence.

§ 12.93 Special provisions for nonportable stations. The specific provisions of these rules relative to portable stations are not applicable to a nonportable station except that—

(a) An amateur station that has been moved from one permanent location to another permanent location may be operated at the latter location, in accordance with the provisions governing portable stations (including notice to the Engineer in Charge of the district in which the station is located) for a period not exceeding four consecutive months, but in no event beyond the expiration date of the license, provided a formal application for modification of license to change the permanent location has been filed with the Commission.

(b) The licensee of an amateur station who changes residence temporarily, but retains a permanent residence associated with the fixed station location designated in the station license, and moves his amateur station to a temporary location associated with his temporary residence, or the licensee-trustee for an amateur radio society which changes the normal location of its amateur station to a different and temporary location, may use the station at such temporary location under the following conditions:

(1) Advance notice in writing shall be given by the amateur station licensee or licensee-trustee to the Commission in Washington, D. C., and, for each month of such operation, to the Engineer in Charge of the radio inspection district in which the station is to be temporarily operated.

(2) Similar notice shall be given for each change in such temporary location, for the return of the station to the former permanent location, or for the establishment of a new permanent location: Provided, That additional monthly notices to the Engineer in Charge shall not be required when such operation takes place at the fixed station location designated in the station license held by the licensee.

(3) The notice of operation at a temporary location, as required under the preceding provisions of this paragraph, shall clearly identify the station call-sign and licensee or licensee-trustee, shall indicate both the permanent and the temporary station locations, shall indicate the address at which the licensee or licensee-trustee can be readily reached during such temporary operation, and shall show the reason why operation at that location is considered temporary rather than a change of permanent location.

(c) When the station is operated under the provisions of this section the calling procedure specified in § 12.82 shall be used, including transmissions of the fractional bar character when telegraphy is used followed by the number of the amateur call sign area in which the station is being operated. When telephony is used, an announcement shall be made of the geographical location in which the station is being operated.

§ 12.94 Special provisions for mobile stations aboard ships or aircraft. In addition to complying with all other applicable rules, an amateur mobile station operated on board a ship or aircraft must comply with all of the following special conditions: (a) The installation and operation of the amateur mobile station shall be approved by the master of the ship or captain of the aircraft; (b) The amateur mobile station shall be separate from and independent of all other radio equipment, if any, installed on board the same ship or aircraft; (c) The electrical installation of the amateur mobile station shall be in accord with the rules applicable to ships or aircraft as promulgated by the appropriate government agency; (d) The operation of the amateur mobile station shall not interfere with the efficient operation of any other radio equipment installed on board the same ship or aircraft; and (e) The amateur mobile station and its associated equipment, either in itself or in its method of operation, shall not constitute a hazard to the safety of life or property.

USE OF AMATEUR STATIONS

§ 12.101 Points of communications. An amateur station may be used to communicate only with other amateur stations, except that in emergencies or for test purposes it may also be used temporarily for communication with other classes of stations licensed by the Commission, and with United States Government stations. Amateur stations may also be used to communicate with any radio station other than amateur which is authorized by the Commission to communicate with amateur stations. Amateur stations may be used also for transmitting signals, or communications, or energy, to receiving apparatus for the measurement of emissions, temporary observation of transmission phenomena, radio control of remote objects, and for similar experimental purposes and for the purposes set forth in § 12.106.

§ 12.102 No remuneration for use of station. An amateur station shall not be used to transmit or receive messages for hire, nor for communication for material compensation, direct or indirect, paid or promised.

§ 12.103 Broadcasting prohibited. Subject to the provisions of § 12.106, an amateur station shall not be used to engage in any form of broadcasting, that is, the dissemination of radio communications intended to be received by the public directly or by the intermediary of relay stations, nor for the retransmission by automatic means of programs or signals emanating from any class of station other than amateur. The foregoing provision shall not be construed to prohibit amateur operators from giving their consent to the rebroadcast by broadcast stations of the transmissions of their amateur stations, provided, that the transmissions of the amateur stations shall not contain any direct or indirect reference to the rebroadcast.

§ 12.104 Radio telephone tests. The transmission of music by an amateur station is forbidden. However, single audio-frequency tones may be transmitted for test purposes of short duration for the development and perfection of amateur radio telephone equipment.

§ 12.105 Codes and ciphers prohibited. The transmission by radio of messages in codes or ciphers in domestic and international communications to or between amateur stations is prohibited. All communications regardless of type of emission employed shall be in plain language except that generally recognized abbreviations established by regulation or custom and usage are permissible as are any other abbreviations or signals where the intent is not to obscure the meaning but only to facilitate communications.

§ 12.106 One-way communications. In addition to the experimental one-way transmissions permitted by § 12.101, the following kinds of one-way communications, addressed to amateur stations, are authorized and will not be construed as broadcasting: (a) Emergency communications, including bona-fide emergency drill practice transmissions; (b) Information bulletins consisting solely of subject matter having direct interest to the amateur radio service as such; (c) Round-table discussions or net-type operations where more than two amateur stations are in communication, each station taking a turn at transmitting to other station(s) of the group; and (d) Code practice transmissions intended for persons learning or improving proficiency in the International Morse Code.

§ 12.107 Special provisions regarding radio teleprinter transmissions. The following special conditions shall be observed during the transmission of radio teleprinter signals on authorized frequencies by amateur stations:

(a) A single channel five-unit (start-stop) teleprinter code shall be used which shall correspond to the International Telegraphic Alphabet No. 2 with respect to all letters and numerals (including the slant sign or fraction bar) but special signals may be employed for the remote control of receiving printers, or for other purposes, in "figures" positions not utilized for numerals. In general, this code shall conform as nearly as possible to the teleprinter code or codes in common commercial usage in the United States.

(b) The nominal transmitting speed of the radio teleprinter signal keying equipment shall be adjusted as nearly as possible to the standard speed of 60 words per minute and, in any event, within the range 55 to 65 words per minute.

(c) When frequency shift keying (type F1 emission) is utilized, the deviation in frequency from the mark signal to space signal, or from the space signal to the mark signal, shall be less than 900 cycles per second.

(d) When audio frequency shift keying (type A2 or type F2 emission) is utilized, the highest fundamental modulating audio frequency shall not exceed 3000 cycles per second, and the difference between the modulating audio frequency for the mark signal and that for the space signal shall be less than 900 cycles per second.

ALLOCATION OF FREQUENCIES

§ 12.111 Frequencies and types of emission for use of amateur stations. Subject to the limitations and restrictions set forth in this section and in § 12.114, the following frequency bands and types of emissions are allocated and available for amateur station operation:

(a) 1800 to 2000 kc. Use of this band is on a shared basis with the Loran system of radionavigation. The amateur service may use, in any area, whichever bands, 1800–1825, 1875–1900, 1900–1925 or 1975–2000 kc, are not required for Loran in that area, in accordance with the following conditions:

(1) The use of these frequencies by the amateur service shall not be a bar to the expansion of the radionavigation (Loran) service.

(2) The use of these frequencies by stations in the amateur service shall not cause harmful interference to the Loran system of radionavigation. If an amateur station causes such interference, the station licensee shall, as directed by the Commission, immediately cease operation on the frequencies involved.

(3) Only type A1 or A3 emission shall be employed.

(4) Amateur operation shall be limited to the following areas, to the indicated frequency bands within each such area, and to the indicated maximum plate power input to the tube or tubes supplying energy to the antenna during day and night hours, respectively, on such frequencies:

Area	Authorized bands (kc)	DC plate input power in watts

(5) The provisions of this subparagraph shall be considered as temporary in the sense that they shall remain subject to cancellation or to revision, in whole or in part, by order of the Commission without hearing whenever the Commission shall deem such cancellation or revision to be necessary or desirable in the light of the priority within this band of the Loran system of radionavigation.

(b) 3500 to 4000 kc, using type A1 emission, and on frequencies 3500 to 3800 kc, using type F1 emission, and on frequencies 3800 to 4000 kc, using type A3 emission and narrow band frequency or phase modulation for radiotelephony; except that frequencies 3900 to 4000 kc are not available to stations located within the following United States possessions in Region 3, as defined in the Atlantic City, 1947, Radio Regulations: Baker, Canton, Enderbury, Guam, Howland, Jarvis, Palmyra, American Samoa, and Wake Islands.

(c) 7000 to 7300 kc, using type A1 emission and, on frequencies 7000 to 7200 kc, using type F1 emission and, on frequencies 7200 to 7300 kc, using type A3 emission or narrow band frequency or phase modulation for radiotelephony.

(d) 14,000 to 14,350 kc, using type A1 emission, 14,000 to 14,200 kc and 14,300 to 14,350 kc using type F1 emission and on frequencies 14,200 to 14,300 kc, type A3 emission or narrow band frequency or phase modulation for radiotelephony.

Operations in the frequency bands 2300 to 2450 Mc and 5650 to 5925 Mc are subject to such interference between 2400 and 2450 Mc and between 5775 and 5925 Mc, respectively, as may result from emissions of industrial, scientific and medical devices on the frequencies 2450 and 5850 Mc, respectively.

§ 12.113 Individual frequency not specified. Transmissions by an amateur station may be on any frequency within any authorized amateur band. Sideband frequencies resulting from keying or modulating a carrier wave shall be confined within the authorized amateur band.

§ 12.114 Types of emission. (a) Type AØ emission, where not specifically designated in the bands listed in § 12.111, may be used for short periods of time when required for authorized remote control purposes or for experimental purposes. However, these limitations do not apply where type AØ emission is specifically designated.

(b) Whenever code practice, in accordance with § 12.106 (d), is conducted in bands authorized for A3 emission, tone modulation of the radiotelephone transmitter may be utilized when interspersed with appropriate voice instructions.

(c) The use of narrow band frequency or phase modulation is subject to the conditions that the band-width of the modulated carrier shall not exceed the band-width occupied by an amplitude-modulated carrier of the same audio characteristics, and that the purity and stability of such emissions shall be maintained in accordance with the requirements of § 12.133.

EQUIPMENT AND OPERATION

§ 12.131 Maximum authorized power. Except on frequencies within the band 420 to 450 megacycles (where the maximum DC plate power input to the final stage of the transmitter shall not exceed 50 watts), each amateur transmitter may be operated with a power input not exceeding 1 kilowatt to the plate circuit of the final amplifier stage of an amplifier-oscillator transmitter or to the plate circuit of an oscillator transmitter. An amateur transmitter operating with a power input exceeding 900 watts to the plate circuit shall provide means for accurately measuring the plate power input to the vacuum tube or tubes supplying power to the antenna.

§ 12.132 Power supply to transmitter. The license of an amateur station using frequencies below 144 megacycles shall use adequately filtered direct-current plate power supply for the transmitting equipment to minimize modulation from this source.

§ 12.133 Purity and stability of emissions. Spurious radiation from an amateur station being operated with a carrier frequency below 144 megacycles shall be reduced or eliminated in accordance with good engineering practice. This spurious radiation shall not be of sufficient intensity to cause interference in receiving equipment of good engineering design including adequate selectivity characteristics, which is tuned to a frequency or frequencies outside the frequency band of emission normally required for the type of emission being employed by the amateur station. In the case of A3 emission, the amateur transmitter shall not be modulated to the extent that interfering spurious radiation occurs, and in no case shall the emitted carrier wave be amplitude-modulated in excess of 100 percent. Means shall be employed to insure that the transmitter is not modulated in excess of its modulation capability for proper technical operation. For the purposes of this section a spurious radiation is any radiation from a transmitter which is outside the frequency band of emission normal for the type of transmission employed, including any component whose frequency is an integral multiple or submultiple of the carrier frequency (harmonics and subharmonics), spurious modulation products, key clicks, and other transient effects, and parasitic oscillations. When using amplitude modulation on frequencies below 144 megacycles, simultaneous frequency modulation is not permitted and when using frequency modulation on frequencies below 144 megacycles simultaneous amplitude modulation is not permitted. The frequency of the emitted carrier wave shall be as constant as the state of the art permits.

§ 12.134 Modulation of carrier wave. Except for brief tests or adjustments and except for operation in the band 26.96 to 27.23 Mc, an amateur radiotelephone station shall not emit a carrier wave on frequencies below 51 Mc unless modulated for the purpose of communication.

§ 12.135 Frequency measurement and regular check. The licensee of an amateur station shall provide for measurement of the emitted carrier frequency or frequencies and shall establish procedure for making such measurement regularly. The measurement of the emitted carrier frequency or frequencies shall be made by means independent of the means used to control the radio frequency or frequencies generated by the transmitting apparatus and shall be of sufficient accuracy to assure operation within the amateur frequency band used.

§ 12.136 Logs. Each licensee of an amateur station shall keep an accurate log of station operation, which shall include the following:

(a) The date and time of each transmission. (The date need only be entered once for each day's operation. The expression "time of each transmission" means the time of making a call and need not be repeated during the sequence of communication which immediately follows; however, an entry shall be made in the log when signing off so as to show the period during which communication was carried on.)

(b) The signature of each licensed operator who manipulates the key of a radiotelegraph transmitter or the signature of each licensed operator who operates a transmitter of any other type and the name of any person not holding an amateur operator license who transmits by voice over a radiotelephone transmitter. The signature of the operator need only be entered once in the log, in those cases when all transmissions are made by or under the supervision of the signatory operator, provided a statement to that effect also is entered. The signature of any other operator who operated the station shall be entered in the proper space for that operator's transmission.

(c) Call sign of the station called. (This entry need not be repeated for calls made to the same station during any sequence of communication, provided the time of signing off is given.)

(d) The input power to the oscillator, or to the final amplifier stage where an oscillator-amplifier transmitter is employed. (This need be entered only once, provided the input power is not changed.)

(e) The frequency band used. (This information need be entered only once in the log for all transmissions until there is a change in frequency to another amateur band.)

(f) The type of emission used. (This need be entered only once until there is a change in the type of emission.)

(g) The location of the station (or the approximate geographical location of a mobile station) at the time of each transmission. (This need be entered only once provided the location of the station is not changed. However, suitable entry shall be made in the log upon changing the location. Where operating at other than a fixed location, the type and identity of the vehicle or other mobile unit in which the station is operated shall be shown.)

(h) The message traffic handled. (If record communications are handled in regular message form, a copy of each message sent and received shall be entered in the log or retained on file at the station for at least 1 year.)

§ 12.137 Retention of logs. The log shall be preserved for a period of at least 1 year following the last date of entry. The copies of record communications and station log required by § 12.136 shall be available for inspection by authorized representatives of the Commission.

SPECIAL CONDITIONS

§ 12.152 Restricted operation. (a) If the operation of an amateur station causes general interference to the reception of transmissions from stations operating in the domestic broadcast service when receivers of good engineering design including adequate selectivity characteristics are used to receive such transmissions and this fact is made known to the amateur station licensee, the amateur station shall not be operated during the hours from 8 p. m. to 10:30 p. m., local time, and on Sunday for the additional period from 10:30 a. m. until 1 p. m., local time, upon the frequency or frequencies used when the interference is created.

(b) In general, such steps as may be necessary to minimize interference to stations operating in other services may be required after investigation by the Commission.

§ 12.153 Second notice of same violation. In every case where an amateur station licensee is cited within a period of 12 consecutive months for the second violation of the provisions of §§ 12.111, 12.113, 12.114, 12.132, or 12.133, the station licensee, if directed to do so by the Commission, shall not operate the station and shall not permit it to be operated from 6 p. m. to 10:30 p. m., local time, until written notice has been received authorizing the resumption of full-time operation. This notice will not be issued until the licensee has reported on the results of tests which he has conducted with at least two other amateur stations at hours other than 6 p. m. to 10:30 p. m., local time. Such tests are to be made for the specific purposes of aiding the licensee in determining whether the emissions of the station are in accordance with the Commission's rules. The licensee shall report to the Commission the observations made by the cooperating amateur licensees in relation to the reported violations. This report shall include a statement as to the corrective measures taken to insure compliance with the rules.

§ 12.154 Third notice of same violation. In every case where an amateur station licensee is cited within a period of 12 consecutive months for the third violation of §§ 12.111, 12.113, 12.114, 12.132 or 12.133, the station licensee if directed by the Commission, shall not operate the station and shall not permit it to be operated from 8 a. m. to 12 midnight, local time, except for the purposes of transmitting a prearranged test to be observed by a monitoring station of the Commission to be designated in each particular case. The station shall not be permitted to resume operation during these hours until the licensee is authorized by the Commission, following the test, to resume full-time operation. The results of the test and the licensee's record shall be considered in determining the advisability of suspending the operator license or revoking the station license, or both.

§ 12.155 Answers to notices of violations. Any licensee receiving official notice of a violation of the terms of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, any legislative act, Executive order, treaty to which the United States is a party, or the rules and regulations of the Federal Communications Commission, shall, within 3 days from such receipt, send a written answer direct to the office of the Commission originating the official notice: Provided, however, That if an answer cannot be sent or an acknowledgment made within such 3-day period by reason of illness or other unavoidable circumstances, acknowledgment and answer shall be made at the earliest practicable date with a satisfactory explanation of the delay. The answer to each notice shall be complete in itself and shall not be abbreviated by reference to other communications or answers to other notices. If the notice relates to some violation that may be due to the physical or electrical characteristics of transmitting apparatus, the answer shall state fully what steps, if any, are taken to prevent future violations, and if any new apparatus is to be installed, the date such apparatus was ordered, the name of the manufacturer, and promised date of delivery. If the notice of violation relates to some lack of attention or improper operation of the transmitter, the name of the operator in charge shall be given.

§ 12.156 Operation in emergencies. In the event of an emergency disrupting normally available communication facilities in any widespread area or areas, the Commission, in its discretion, may declare that a general state of communications emergency exists, designate the area or areas concerned, and specify the amateur frequency bands, or segments of such bands, for use only by amateurs participating in emergency communication within or with such affected area or areas. Amateurs desiring to request the declaration of such a state of emergency should communicate with the Commission's Engineer in Charge of the area concerned. Whenever such declaration has been made, operation of and with amateur stations in the area concerned shall be only in accordance with the requirements hereinafter set forth, but such requirements shall in nowise affect other normal amateur communication in the affected area when conducted on frequencies not designated for emergency operation.

[1] In those portions of the States of Texas and New Mexico in the area bounded on the south by parallel 31°53′ N., on the east by longitude 105°40′ W., on the north by parallel 33°24′ N., and on the west by longitude 106°40′ W., the frequency band 220–225 Mc. is not available for use by amateur stations engaged in normal amateur operation between the hours of 0500 and 1800 local time Monday through Friday inclusive of each week. However, the entire frequency band 220–225 Mc. shall be applicable in all areas to those amateur stations authorized to operate in an organized civil defense network during all periods when civil defense emergencies exist and, in addition, special arrangements for civil defense drills between the hours and within the area set forth above may be made upon mutual agreement between the Federal Communications Commission Engineer in Charge at Dallas, Texas, and the Area Frequency Coordinator at White Sands, New Mexico, if it appears necessary to conduct such drills. Such arrangements shall specify dates and times, and will depend upon the degree of use of the frequency band at White Sands at any particular time.

(a) All transmissions within all designated amateur emergency comunication bands other than communications relating directly to relief work, emergency service, or the establishment and maintenance of efficient amateur radio networks for the handling of such communications, shall be suspended. Incidental calling, answering, testing or working (including casual conversation, remarks or messages) not pertinent to constructive handling of the emergency situation shall be prohibited within these bands.

(b) The Commission may designate certain amateur stations to assist in the promulgation of information relating to the declaration of a general state of communications emergency, to monitor the designated amateur emergency communications bands, and to warn noncomplying stations observed, to be operating in those bands. Such station, when so designated, may transmit for that purpose on any frequency or frequencies authorized to be used by that station, provided such transmissions do not interfere with essential emergency communications in progress; however, such transmissions shall preferably be made on authorized frequencies immediately adjacent to those segments of the amateur bands being cleared for the emergency. Individual transmissions for the purpose of advising other stations of the existence of the communications emergency shall refer to this section by number (§ 12.156) and shall specify, briefly and concisely, the date of the Commission's declaration, the area and nature of the emergency, and the amateur frequency bands or segments of such bands which constitute the amateur emergency communications bands at the time. The designated stations shall not enter into discussions with other stations beyond furnishing essential facts relative to the emergency, or acting as advisors to stations desiring to assist in the emergency, and the operators of such designated stations shall report fully to the Commission the identity of any stations failing to comply, after notice, with any of the pertinent provisions of this section.

(c) The special conditions imposed under the provisions of this section shall cease to apply only after the Commission, or its authorized representative, shall have declared such general state of communications emergency to be terminated; however, nothing in this paragraph shall be deemed to prevent the Commission from modifying the terms of its declaration from time to time as may be necessary during the period of a communications emergency, or from removing those conditions with respect to any amateur frequency band or segment of such band which no longer appears essential to the conduct of the emergency communications.

§ 12.157 Obscenity, indecency, profanity. No licensed radio operator or other person shall transmit communications containing obscene, indecent, or profane words, language, or meaning.

§ 12.158 False signals. No licensed radio operator shall transmit false or deceptive signals or communications by radio, or any call letter or signal which has not been assigned by proper authority to the radio station he is operating.

§ 12.159 Unidentified communications. No licensed radio operator shall transmit unidentified radio communications or signals.

§ 12.160 Interference. No licensed radio operator shall willfully or maliciously interfere with or cause interference to any radio communication or signal.

§ 12.161 Damage to apparatus. No licensed radio operator shall willfully damage, or cause or permit to be damaged, any radio apparatus or installation in any licensed radio station.

§ 12.162 Fraudulent licenses. No licensed radio operator or other person shall obtain or attempt to obtain, or assist another to obtain or attempt to obtain, an operator license by fraudulent means.

CONELRAD

NOTE: These rules apply to Continental U. S. only.

§ 12.190 Scope and objective of CONELRAD. Control of Electromagnetic Radiation applies to all radio stations in the Amateur Radio Service and is for the purpose of providing for the alerting and operation of radio stations in this service during periods of air attack or imminent threat thereof. The objective is to minimize the navigational aid that may be obtained by an enemy from the electromagnetic radiations emanating from radio stations in the Amateur Radio Service while simultaneously providing for a continued service under controlled conditions when such operation is essential to the public welfare.

§ 12.191 CONELRAD Radio Alert. The CONELRAD Radio Alert is the term applied to the Military Warning that an air attack is probable or imminent and which automatically orders the immediate implementation of CONELRAD procedures for all radio stations. The CONELRAD Radio Alert is distinct from the military or Civil Air Defense Warnings Yellow or Red, but may be coincidental with such warnings.

§ 12.192 Reception of Radio Alert. (a) The licensee of a station in the Amateur Radio Service is required to provide a means for reception of the CONELRAD Radio Alert or a means for the determination that such alert is in force.

(b) All operators of stations in the Amateur Radio Service will be responsible for the reception of the CONELRAD Radio Alert or indication that such alert is in force by:

(1) Reception of a CONELRAD Radio Alert message which will be broadcast by each standard, FM and TV broadcast station on its regular assigned frequency before they leave the air; or

(2) Reception of standard broadcast stations operating under CONELRAD requirements during the period of the alert on 640 or 1240 kc; or

(3) Determining that an alert is in force by lack of normal broadcast station operation (observations made before amateur station operation is begun and at least once every ten minutes during operation thereafter will be considered as sufficient for compliance with this section); or

(4) Other means if so authorized by the Federal Communications Commission.

§ 12.193 Operation during an alert. During a CONELRAD Radio Alert the operation of all amateur radio stations, except stations in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Services (RACES) and stations specifically authorized otherwise, will be immediately discontinued until the Radio All Clear is issued. Stations in the RACES and such others as are specifically authorized to operate during the alert will conduct operation under the following restrictions.

(a) No transmission shall be made unless it is of extreme emergency affecting the national safety or the safety of life and property.

(b) Transmissions shall be as short as possible.

(c) No station identification shall be given, either by transmission of call letters or by announcement of location (if station identification is necessary to carry on the service, tactical calls or other means of identification will be utilized in accordance with § 12.246).

(d) The radio station carrier shall be discontinued during periods of no message transmission.

§ 12.194 Special operation. In certain cases, the Federal Communications Commission may authorize specific stations to operate during a CONELRAD Radio Alert in a manner not governed by §§ 12.190 to 12.196, provided, such operation is determined to be necessary in the interest of National Defense or the public welfare.

§ 12.195 Resumption of normal operation. At the conclusion of a CONELRAD Radio Alert, each standard, FM and TV broadcast station will broadcast a CONELRAD Radio All Clear Message. Unless otherwise restricted by order of the Federal Communications Commission, normal operation of stations in the Amateur Radio Service may be resumed upon reception of the CONELRAD Radio All Clear. Only the CONELRAD Radio All Clear will authorize termination of the CONELRAD Radio Alert.

§ 12.196 CONELRAD tests. So far as practicable, tests and practice operation will be conducted at appropriate intervals.

SUBPART B—RADIO AMATEUR CIVIL EMERGENCY SERVICE

GENERAL

§ 12.200 Temporary nature of this service. (a) The Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service provides a temporary phase of amateur operation for Civil Defense communications purposes only, and the rules are limited in their force and effect to the period of the present national emergency, including any emergency which may necessitate invoking of the President's War Emergency Powers under the provisions of section 606 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

(b) Pursuant to the provisions of section 4 (j) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, records relating to the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service shall not be open to general public inspection.

§ 12.201 Definitions. For the purposes of this subpart, the following definitions are applicable:

(a) Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service. A temporary radio-communication service carried on by licensed amateur radio stations while operating on specifically designated segments of the regularly allocated amateur frequency bands under the direction of authorized local, regional, or federal civil defense officials pursuant to an approved civil defense communications plan.

(b) Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Station. An amateur radio station which is authorized to operate in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service for the purpose of transmitting and receiving civil defense communications.

(c) Civil defense communications. Communications or signals essential to the conduct of civil defense activities of duly authorized civil defense organizations, including communications directly concerning safety of life, preservation of property, maintenance of law and order, alleviation of human suffering and need and dissemination of warnings of enemy attack to the civilian population in case of actual or impending armed attack or in any disaster or other incident endangering the public welfare. Such communications may also include transmissions necessary to establishment and maintenance of the radio system and communications essential to the training of civil defense personnel.

(d) Civil defense authority. The legally appointed Director of Civil Defense, or his authorized alternate or representative, for the particular geographical area (city, county, etc.) which a proposed radio station is intended to serve, and who is responsible to local governmental authority for protection and aid to the civilian population in the event of armed attack or of any disaster or other incident endangering public safety.

(e) Civil Defense Communications Officer. The official of any duly constituted civil defense organization having direct responsibility under the Director of that organization for the provision, organization, maintenance, readiness, and utilization of all means of communication to be used by such civil defense organization in the performance of its lawful functions.

(f) Civil Defense Radio Officer. The duly designated official of a legally constituted civil defense organization who is directly responsible either to the Communications Officer or to the Director of such civil defense organization for the provision, organization, maintenance, readiness, and utilization of radio communications facilities for civil defense use.

(g) Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Network. All radio amateur civil emergency stations intended to be included in the civil defense communications plan of the area concerned and which operate, or are to operate, in conjunction with a single control station. Such network may be made up of several separately authorized radio amateur civil emergency stations or units of such stations, or may be made up of several units of the same station operated at different locations. In addition, the same radio amateur civil emergency station or any unit of such station may be a part of more than one network; e. g., the control station of one network may also be the control station or a member station of another network operated in conjunction therewith.

(h) Control station. The term "control station" or "net control station" means any authorized Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Station unit designated by the civil defense radio officer, with the approval of the Director of Civil Defense or the Civil Defense Communications Officer, to direct the use and operation of other station units of the same Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Network.

(i) Civil defense communications plan. A civil defense communications plan is the plan under which communications facilities are provided to all branches and phases of the civil defense organization in the area concerned and for all of its activities. Such plan may be drawn up in accordance with the needs of the particular area affected and the facilities, including licensed radio operators and stations, available in that particular area. Plans need not be uniform, but to be acceptable to the Commission they must comply with the following:

(1) The plan must be clearly described in writing, and it may include diagrams and sketches. It must include a general description of the facilities and personnel available to provide communications for civil defense purposes and the expected usage to be made thereof.

(2) The plan must have been approved by the state or territorial and federal civil defense authorities having jurisdiction of the area affected.

(3) The plan must include the name, address, official title, and a statement of the qualifications of the Civil Defense Radio Officer (and of any and all alternate Radio Officers) responsible for the organization, training, and utilization of the radio amateur civil emergency station networks under that plan, and the name, address, and official title of the civil defense official responsible for the coordination of all civil defense activities of the area concerned.

(4) The plan must include a general description of each radio amateur civil emergency station network under the jurisdiction of each respective Civil Defense Radio Officer, showing location of fixed installations, purpose, area of activity to be served, an estimate of the number of radio amateur stations and independent operating units of such stations intended to be used in the network, and a description, including the location and call sign, of its control station and any alternate control station or stations.

(5) The plan must include a general statement as to the frequency bands to be used by the radio amateur civil emergency station networks and the approximate number of stations, or units of such stations, to be operated in each such band, together with a description of the method which has been adopted for liaison and coordination of frequency usage with other similar networks in the same and adjacent areas.

(6) The plan must include a statement setting forth the facilities available to the area and the procedures to be followed in determining the loyalty and general reliability of all civil defense Radio Officers, amateur radio station licensees and radio operators intended to be utilized in the implementation of that plan. (See §§ 12.214 (b), 12.215 (c) and 12.241 (a).)

§ 12.202 Applicability of rules governing amateur radio stations and operators. In all cases not specifically covered by the regulations contained in this subpart, licensed amateur stations authorized to be operated in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service shall be governed by the provisions of the rules governing amateur radio stations and operators (Subpart A of this part) which are not in conflict herewith. In any case of conflict, the rules governing the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service shall govern in respect to any station operated in that service.

ORGANIZATION

§ 12.211 Organization of networks. To supplement or extend other means of communication available to the civil defense organization or to provide necessary communications for which no other means exist, local radio amateur civil emergency station networks shall be organized by the civil defense authority of the area concerned and under the immediate direction of the Civil Defense Radio Officer. Such networks shall include all licensed amateur radio stations which are intended to be included in the civil defense comunications plan of the area concerned. In any particular area there may be several such networks and each network may be independent of the others. Whenever there is more than one network in the same area, all such networks must share, under a single civil defense communications plan, the available frequencies in an efficient and orderly manner. The various networks in adjacent areas shall establish proper liaison and a description of the arrangements made shall become a part of their respective civil defense communications plans. Such arrangements shall provide for the efficient sharing of frequencies, plans for operating procedure designed to avoid mutual interference, and the exchange of communications facilities upon an inter-area basis where need for such exchange may arise.

§ 12.212 Approval of civil defense communications plans. (a) All civil defense communications plans which provide for the utilization of radio amateur civil emergency stations for civil defense purposes must be submitted to and approved by the responsible state (or territorial) and federal civil defense authorities before the licensed amateur stations intended to be used will be authorized to operate in the radio amateur civil emergency service.

(b) Material changes or modifications in such civil defense communications plans which alter the basic information required shall be submitted for approval in the same manner as the original plans.

(c) Written certification of approval by the competent state (or territorial) and federal civil defense authorities of each civil defense communications plan, or of any changes or modifications thereof, shall accompany the copies of such plans, changes, or modifications, which are submitted to the Commission in accordance with the provisions of this part.

§ 12.213 Certification of Civil Defense Radio Officer. (a) Certification of the Civil Defense Radio Officer shall be made on FCC Form 482. Such form shall be executed by the civil defense authority responsible for the coordination of all civil defense activities of the area concerned and show: (1) The name, address, and area of responsibility of such civil defense radio officer, (2) statement by him that he has accepted such appointment and agrees to perform faithfully the duties of that office, including those prescribed by this subpart, (3) a certification by the responsible civil defense authority that he has satisfied himself that the named civil defense radio officer is fully qualified in accordance with the provisions of § 12.214, and (4) the effective date of the appointment of the civil defense radio officer and the name of any previous civil defense radio officer whose appointment is terminated.

(b) FCC Form No. 482, when completed in accordance with this section, shall be forwarded to the Commission via the responsible state (or territorial) and federal civil defense officials whose approval (or disapproval) shall be clearly indicated on the form.

§ 12.214 Qualifications of Civil Defense Radio Officer. No person shall be considered qualified as a civil defense radio officer until he shall have been found to satisfy the following minimum requirements:

(a) He shall hold either (1) a valid commercial radio operator's license of either first or second class (radiotelegraph or radiotelephone) issued by the Commission, or (2) a valid amateur operator license issued by the Commission, other than the Technician or Novice Class.

(b) A determination shall have been made as to his loyalty to the United States and his general reliability, in accordance with the procedures provided in the approved civil defense communications plan of the area concerned.

(c) It shall have been determined that his technical and administrative qualifications are adequate for the proper performance of his duties.

§ 12.215 Duties of Civil Defense Radio Officer. The duties of the Civil Defense Radio Officer shall include among such other duties as may be assigned or as may be required in accordance with the provisions of this subpart.

(a) The direction and supervision of all radio stations forming the radio amateur civil emergency networks in accordance with the approved civil defense communications plan for the area involved.

(b) Provision for adequate monitoring of all transmissions of the stations under his supervision to assure compliance with the rules and regulations of the Commission, and to guard against improper use of the radio stations and intentional or inadvertent transmissions which might jeopardize the defense or security of the United States.

(c) The recommendation to the Commission for the granting of authorizations to individual amateurs for operation in this service, and certification to the Commission as to the loyalty to the United States and reliability of such individuals and the certification required in accordance with § 12.223.

(d) The recommendation to the Commission for cancellation of any authorization previously recommended or certified whenever subsequent investigation or circumstances indicate that the original recommendation or certification should not have been made.

STATION AUTHORIZATIONS

§ 12.221 Station authorization required. No radio station may be operated in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service except pursuant to an authorization for such operation issued by the Federal Communications Commission.

§ 12.222 Eligibility for station authorization. An authorization to operate a station in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service will be issued only to a person who holds an amateur radio operator license, other than Technician or Novice Class, and an appropriate amateur radio station license.

§ 12.223 Filing of application. Each application for a station authorization or for renewal thereof shall be submitted on FCC Form 481–1, signed under oath or affirmation by the applicant and countersigned by the appropriate civil defense radio officer, who shall certify to the following:

(a) That the applicant has satisfied all requirements (both local and federal) for participation in the civil defense organization and is actually enrolled as a member of the local organization which serves the area where the station will operate.

(b) That the amateur station licensed in the name of the applicant has been approved for and, when authorized by the Commission, will actually constitute a unit of a civil defense communications network in accordance with an approved civil defense communications plan or amendment thereof.

§ 12.224 Additional data required. Each application for a station authorization in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service shall be accompanied by the following data unless such material has already been submitted to the Commission, in which case the application shall clearly identify the material previously submitted:

(a) A copy of the approved communications plan (as defined in this part) for the civil defense communications network in which the station will operate, together with a copy of each approved amendment, change or modification of that plan.

(b) The official certification of the Civil Defense Radio Officer as provided in this subpart.

§ 12.225 Single application for all equipment under one amateur station license. Only one application need be filed for any one amateur station, including all transmitting equipment under the control of the licensee of that station, even though individual units of such station are capable of being operated and are intended to be operated independently at different locations, or as portable or mobile stations with no fixed locations. No distinction need be made between those units which are personally owned by the amateur station licensee and those units which are otherwise under his technical control for operation in this service.

§ 12.226 Issuance of station authorization. An authorization to operate in this service, will be issued in the discretion of the Commission upon satisfactory completion of all requirements of this subpart and proper certification that the requirements of the civil defense organization for which the station will be used have been or are being complied with. The station authorization (Form 481–2) will be forwarded to the Civil Defense Radio Officer for delivery to the applicant. Such authorization will be accompanied by a stub (Form 481–3) which may be retained by the civil defense radio officer for his records.

§ 12.227 Term of station authorization. (a) Authorization to operate an amateur station in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service will be issued for a term running concurrently with the term of the amateur radio station license. Application for renewal of such authorization shall be filed concurrently with application for renewal of the basic amateur radio station license.

(b) Whenever, under rules contained in Subpart A of this part, modification of the basic amateur station license becomes necessary, if such modification affects the information submitted with the original application for a license in this service, application for modification of the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency station license shall be submitted concurrently therewith.

(c) Nothing in this section shall be construed to alter or amend the temporary nature of a station authorization in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service and the Commission's authority to cancel or amend it in accordance with the applicant's agreement as indicated on the initial application for station authorization.

§ 12.228 Cancellation of station authorization. (a) Each authorization for operation in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service shall be issued with the express provision that such authorization is subject to revocation or cancellation without hearing whenever, in the opinion of the Commission, the security of the United States or the proper functioning of the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service would be served thereby, or termination of the national emergency makes it unnecessary to continue the operation of stations in this service.

(b) The station authorization shall be submitted to the Commission (via the Civil Defense Radio Officer) for cancellation under the following circumstances:

(1) The station for which the authorization was issued becomes inactive for a period of three months or it is not planned to use the station in the radio amateur civil emergency network for a period of at least three months.

(2) The basic amateur radio station license of the station has expired and has not been renewed.

(3) In cases where the amateur radio station license and the radio amateur civil emergency station authorization have both been modified, the original authorization of the latter shall be submitted to the Commission immediately upon receipt by the licensee of a new or modified authorization.

TECHNICAL REQUIREMENTS

§ 12.231 Frequencies available. (a) The following tabulation indicates the frequency bands, within the regularly allocated amateur frequency bands, which are available for use by stations in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service. These frequency bands may be used, on a non-exclusive basis, by the classes of radio amateur civil emergency stations or units of such stations indicated, and only with the types of emission shown in the right-hand column.

(1) For use only by authorized stations or units of such stations which are operated under the direct supervision of duly designated and responsible officials of the civil defense organization:

Frequency band:	Authorized emission
1800–1825 kc [1]	0.1A1, 6A3.
1875–1900 kc [1]	0.1A1, 6A3.
1900–1925 kc [1]	0.1A1, 6A3.
1975–2000 kc [1]	0.1A1, 6A3.
3990–4000 kc	0.1A1, 1.1F1, 6A3, 6F3.

[1] Use of frequencies in the band 1800–2000 kc is subject to the priority of the Loran system of radionavigation in this band and to the geographical, frequency, emission, and power limitations contained in § 12.111 of the rules governing amateur radio stations and operators (Subpart A of this part). The use of these frequencies by stations authorized to be operated in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service shall not be a bar to expansion of the radionavigation (Loran) service, and such use shall be considered temporary in the sense that it shall remain subject to cancellation or to revision, in whole or in part, without hearing, whenever the Commission shall deem such cancellation or revision to be necessary or desirable in the light of the priority within this band of the Loran system of radionavigation.

(2) For use by all authorized stations:

Frequency band:	Authorized emission
28.55–28.75 Mc	0.1A1, 6A3, 6A4, 6F3.
29.45–29.65 Mc	0.1A1, 1.1F1, 6A3, 6A4, 40F3.
50.35–50.75 Mc	0.1A1, 6A2, 6A3, 6A4, 6F3.

(b) The selection and use of specific frequencies within the authorized frequency bands by stations in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service shall be in accordance with a coordinated local area and adjacent area civil defense communications plan and applicable rules of this part.

(c) At such time as any or all of these frequency bands are withdrawn from availability to stations operating in the Amateur Radio Service, such bands shall be jointly available to stations in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service and to stations in the military services for training and tactical operations. At that time, in areas where interference might occur, local mutual arrangements shall be made regarding times of operation such as to preclude or satisfactorily alleviate interference. In time of actual civil defense emergency, stations in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service shall have absolute priority.

§ 12.232 Classification of emissions. (a) For the purposes of this subpart, the authorized emissions, as contained in the table of § 12.231, are defined as follows:

0.1A1—Continuous wave telegraphy.
1.1F1—Frequency shift telegraphy.
6A2—Telegraphy amplitude modulated at audio frequency.
6F2—Telegraphy frequency modulated at audio frequency.
6A3—Commercial quality amplitude modulated telephony.
6F3—Narrow band frequency or phase modulated telephony.
40F3—Wide band frequency or phase modulated telephony.
6A4—Amplitude modulated facsimile.

(b) On frequencies where wide band frequency or phase modulated telephony (40F3) is authorized, narrow band frequency or phase modulated telephony (6F3) may also be employed; similarly, where commercial quality amplitude modulated telephony (6A3) is authorized, single or double sideband amplitude modulated telephony, with or without carrier or with reduced carrier, may also be employed.

§ 12.233 Transmitter power. The transmitting equipment of a radio station in this service shall be adjusted in such manner as to produce the minimum radiation necessary to carry out the communications desired. No station operating in this service shall use a direct current plate power input to the vacuum tube or tubes supplying energy to the antenna in excess of that permitted to be used by a licensed amateur radio station when operated on the same frequencies or in the same frequency bands in accordance with the provisions of the rules governing amateur radio stations and operators (Subpart A of this part).

§ 12.234 Equipment requirements. (a) Except under the conditions specified in paragraph (b) of this section, all stations authorized to be operated in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service shall be capable of receiving on the same frequencies or frequency bands utilized for transmission.

(b) When a station in this service is operated only on a single frequency or frequency band for cross-band operation in communication with a station or stations operating on another frequency or in another frequency band, or in other services, such station shall be capable of receiving the station with which it is communicating.

(c) The direct modulation of an oscillator with a frequency stability less than that obtainable with crystal control, or the radiation of a signal having simultaneous amplitude and frequency or phase modulation, is prohibited on frequencies below 220 Mc.

§ 12.235 Alleviation of harmful interference. (a) When emissions of stations in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service, other than those necessary to carry on the desired communications, cause harmful interference to stations in this or any other service, the Commission may, in its discretion, require appropriate technical changes in the equipment to alleviate the interference.

(b) When the emissions of stations in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service that are necessary to carry on the desired communications cause harmful interference to stations in other radio services, appropriate action shall be taken to alleviate such interference including, if necessary, the suspension (except during times of an actual state of civil emergency) of such emissions as cause the interference.

OPERATING REQUIREMENTS

§ 12.241 Operator requirements. (a) No person shall operate a station in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service unless (1) that person holds a valid radio operator license of the proper grade, as described in this section, and (2) that person holds a valid written certification by the chief of the local, regional, or state Civil Defense organization of the area in which he serves that he has satisfied all federal, state, and local requirements for enrollment in the Civil Defense organization as a radio operator and is actually enrolled therein. Such certification shall clearly indicate that a determination has been made as to his loyalty to the United States and general reliability in accordance with the procedures described in the approved civil defense communications plan for the area concerned. (See §§ 12.201 (l) and 12.212.)

(c) Except as specifically provided in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, any station in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service may be operated by the holder of any class of amateur or commercial radio operator license issued by the Commission other than a Temporary Limited Radiotelegraph Second Class Operator License or an Aircraft Radiotelephone Operator Authorization: Provided, That, when such operation is performed by the holder of a Novice Class amateur operator license or by the holder of a commercial radiotelephone or radiotelegraph third class operator license or restricted operator permit; (1) such operator shall be prohibited from making any adjustments that may result in improper transmitter operation, (2) the equipment shall be so designed and installed that none of the operations necessary to be performed during the course of the normal rendition of the service of the station may cause off-frequency operation or result in any unauthorized radiation, and (3) any needed adjustments of the transmitter that may affect the proper operation of the station shall be regularly made by or under the immediate supervision and responsibility of the holder of either an amateur operator license other than the Novice Class or a commercial radiotelephone or radiotelegraph first or second class operator license.

(d) All adjustments or tests during or coincident with the installation, servicing or maintenance of the transmitting equipment of a station in this service shall be made only by or under the immediate supervision and responsibility of the holder of either (1) an amateur operator license other than the Novice Class or (2) a commercial radiotelephone or radiotelegraph first or second class operator license issued by the Commission, who in addition holds the certification required in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (a) of this section.

§ 12.242 Operation at other than licensed location. A station in this service, or any unit thereof, may be operated at any location in accordance with the approved civil defense communications plan for the area concerned, in the discretion of and as directed by the Civil Defense Radio Officer, without notice to the Commission and without limitation as to the length of time within which such operation takes place: Provided, That nothing in this section shall be construed to waive the necessity for modification of the authorization of a station in this service when the address of the licensee or the basic location of the station is changed, or for any other reason where, because of a change of the communications plan or other reason, the information heretofore furnished the Commission with the original application may be materially altered or changed.

(b) The original radio operator license, or a verification card (FCC Form 758–F) in the case of the holder of a commercial radio operator license of the diploma type, of the operator controlling the emissions of a station authorized to be operated in this service together with the certification required by § 12.241 (a), shall be carried on his person or kept immediately available at the place where he is operating the station or any independent unit of a station: Provided, That, whenever a verification card (FCC Form 758–F) is utilized in compliance with the foregoing requirement, the original operator license shall be made available for inspection upon reasonable request from any authorized representative of the Federal Government.

(c) When a licensed amateur station, or an independent unit of such station, is operated at a location other than that shown in its license in compliance with the provisions of this subpart, the basic amateur station license required by Subpart A of this part need not be readily available at the station or unit location, but shall be made available for inspection upon reasonable request from any authorized representative of the Federal Government.

(1) The name and address of the station licensee, the regularly assigned call sign of the station and unit number if any, the name of the radio amateur civil emergency network or networks in which the station is normally operated, and the d. c. plate power input to the vacuum tube or tubes supplying energy to the transmitting antenna system. This information need be entered only once in the log unless there is a change in any of the above items, but the original entry and each change shall show the date on which the entry was made.

(2) The date and time of beginning and end of each period during which the station was operated, the purpose of such operation, and the frequencies or bands of frequencies on which the operation took place.

(3) The call signs or other identification of all stations or units of such stations with which communications are established or attempted during such period of operation.

(4) The signature of the licensed operator on duty and in charge of the operation of the station or unit of such station during each period of operation, and the signature of each licensed operator who manipulated the key of any manually operated radiotelegraph transmitter of such station or unit. The signature of the operator shall be entered with the date and time at the beginning and end of each period during which he performed the foregoing duties, and at least once on each page additional to the first page, covering the period for which he was the responsible operator. The signatures of any additional operators who operate the transmitter(s) during the regular watch of another operator and details to indicate the periods during which they operated the transmitter(s) shall be entered in the proper form.

(5) Upon completion of each period of operation for any purpose, there shall be entered in the log a summary of such operation describing the nature thereof and, if message traffic or other record communications were exchanged with other stations, an estimate of the amount of such traffic handled together with a report on any unusual delays which were experienced in the delivery of such messages.

(6) There shall be no erasure, obliteration, or destruction of any part of the log of any station or station unit. Corrections shall be made by striking out the erroneous portion and initialing and dating the corrections.

(b) Mobile radio amateur civil emergency stations or station units, and portable radio amateur civil emergency stations or station units, where not being operated at pre-determined fixed locations, shall be exempt from the requirements of maintaining a log to the extent that the entries required under the preceding paragraph of this section are substantially contained in the log of another station or stations operating in the same radio amateur civil emergency networks. All stations or station units operating in accordance with the provisions of this subpart shall be exempt from the requirements concerning station logs contained in Subpart A of this part whenever it is shown that compliance with these requirements would interfere with the expeditious handling of civil defense communications or communication drills.

(c) The current portion of the log shall be kept at the location of the operating or control position of the station or unit. Other portions of the log shall be retained by the licensee for a period of one year, at a place determined by the civil defense Radio Officer to be appropriate and advisable: Provided, That the logs of a station in this service shall be made available for inspection upon reasonable request by any authorized representative of the Federal Government: And provided further, That those portions of any log covering operation of a station in this service in connection with any actual condition jeopardizing the public safety or affecting the national defense or security shall not be destroyed unless prior approval for such destruction shall have been received from the Commission.

§ 12.245 Station identification. (a) Stations operating in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service shall identify themselves in the same manner and under the same conditions as prescribed in the rules governing Amateur Radio Stations and Operators (Subpart A of this part), except that:

(1) Additional designators to indicate portable or mobile operation, or to indicate operation at a location other than that specified in the station license, shall not be used.

(2) When engaged in network operation, after a station or unit has been fully identified at least once, further identification by that station or unit may be accomplished by the use of abbreviated call signs or other distinctive signals prescribed by the civil defense Radio Officer in lieu of the call signs otherwise required to be transmitted by that station or unit. A record of such abbreviated call signs or other distinctive signals shall be maintained by the Radio Officer and shall be made available for inspection upon reasonable request by any authorized representative of the Federal Government.

(b) When two or more separate units of a station, which is authorized to be operated in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service, are operated independently at different locations, each unit shall separately identify itself by the addition of a unit number at the end of its call sign. When transmitting by telegraphy such additional identification shall immediately follow the basic call sign and to avoid confusion with portable or mobile indicators, shall not be separated therefrom by the use of the "slant" or fraction bar, or other punctuation mark or symbol.

§ 12.246 Tactical call signs. Stations operating in this service, and independent units of such stations, may be assigned tactical or secret call signs by the Commission or by competent civil defense authority, and may utilize such tactical call signs in lieu of the call signs appearing on the station licenses when such use is directed by competent civil defense authority: Provided, That a list of all such tactical call signs assigned stations under his direction shall be maintained by the civil defense Radio Officer and shall be made available for inspection upon reasonable request by any authorized representative of the Federal Government: And provided further, That when such tactical call signs are intended to be used at times other than during communications in connection with actual or impending conditions which appear to jeopardize the defense or security of the United States, a list of such tactical call signs and the stations or units to which assigned shall be furnished the Commission prior to such use.

USE OF STATIONS

§ 12.251 Limitations on use of stations. (a) No station authorized to be operated in this service, other than a control station as defined in this subpart, shall be operated for the purpose of transmitting any signal, message, or other communications except with the permission and under the operational control of the control station of the network in which it is operating: Provided, That nothing in the foregoing shall be construed to prohibit the transmission by any station or unit of a station of such signals as may be necessary for the purpose of alerting or making contact with the control station of the network, or for the purpose of transmitting actual emergency civil defense communications if the control station is disabled or is otherwise inoperative.

(b) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the operation of a station which is authorized to be operated in this service for the purpose of brief tests or adjustments during or coincident with the installation, servicing or maintenance of such station: Provided, That the transmissions of that station during such tests or adjustments shall not cause harmful interference to the conduct of communications by any other station.

(c) No station in this service shall be used to transmit or to receive messages for hire, nor to transmit comunications for material compensation, direct or indirect, paid or promised.

§ 12.252 Hours of operation. Stations in this service may be operated at such times and under such conditions as may be prescribed by the Communications Officer or other responsible official of the civil defense organization having jurisdiction over the area which the station will serve: Provided, That the communications of such stations shall at all times be in accordance with the permissible communications authorized in this subpart.

§ 12.253 Points of communication. Stations in this service may communicate with each other, with stations in the Disaster Communications Service, and with stations of the United States Government which are authorized to exchange communications with stations in this service by the particular agency having control. In addition, stations in this service may communicate, for the purpose of exchanging civil defense communications, with any other station in any service provided by the Commission's rules, whenever such station is authorized to communicate with stations in the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service by the provisions of the Commission's rules governing the class of station concerned or in accordance with the provisions of § 2.405 of this chapter.

§ 12.254 Permissible communications. Stations in this service are authorized to transmit only the following types of civil defense communications:

(a) Communications for training purposes: Necessary drills and tests to insure establishment and maintenance of orderly and efficient operation of the radio amateur civil emergency networks and such other radio stations and networks as may be associated therewith for the conduct of civil defense communications, including communications directly concerned with the conduct of practice alerts, practice blackouts, practice mobilization, and other comparable situations as may be ordered or initiated by competent civil defense authority or by the United States governmental or military authority charged with the defense of the area concerned. All messages which are transmitted in connection with such drills and tests shall be clearly identified as such by the use of the words "Drill" or "Test" in the body of such messages.

(b) Communications when there is an impending or actual condition jeopardizing the public safety or affecting the national defense or security:

(1) Communications directly concerning the activation of the radio amateur civil emergency station networks or such other radio stations and networks as may be associated with the networks for the conduct of civil defense communications.

(2) Communications directly concerning the conduct of service by the radio amateur civil emergency networks and such other radio stations and networks as may be associated therewith.

(3) Communications directly concerning safety of life, preservation of property, maintenance of law and order, alleviation of human suffering and need, and combating of armed attack or sabotage.

(4) Communications directly concerning the accumulation and dissemination of public information or instructions to the civilian population essential to the activities of the civil defense organization or that of other authorized governmental or relief agencies.

(5) Communications directly concerning the transaction of business essential to public welfare

§ 12.255 Use of codes and ciphers. Any station in this service is authorized to transmit messages in codes and ciphers and to utilize any method of secret or coded authentication of its transmissions when such method of concealing the contents of messages or such authentication procedure is prescribed by the competent civil defense authority of the area served by the station and is approved by the cognizant federal civil defense authorities.

§ 12.256 Priority of communications. The order of priority of communications by stations in this service, when there is an impending or actual condition jeopardizing the public safety or affecting the defense or security of an area, shall be determined by the cognizant civil defense authority of the area concerned or his authorized representative.

EXTRACTS FROM RADIO REGULATIONS

ANNEXED TO THE INTERNATIONAL TELECOMMUNICATION CONVENTION

(Atlantic City, 1947)

ARTICLE 42—AMATEUR STATIONS

SECTION 1. Radiocommunications between amateur stations of different countries shall be forbidden if the administration of one of the countries concerned has notified that it objects to such radiocommunications.

SEC. 2. (1) When transmissions between amateur stations of different countries are permitted they must be made in plain language and must be limited to messages of a technical nature relating to tests and to remarks of a personal character for which, by reason of their unimportance, resource to the public telecommunications service is not justified. It is absolutely forbidden for amateur stations to be used for transmitting international communications on behalf of third parties.

(2) The preceding provisions may be modified by special arrangements between the countries concerned.

SEC. 3. (1) Any person operating the apparatus in an amateur station must have proved that he is able to transmit, and to receive by ear, texts in Morse code signals. Administrations concerned may, however, waive this requirement in the case of stations making use exclusively of frequencies above 1000 (one thousand) Mc/s.

(2) Administrations shall take such measures as they judge necessary to verify the qualifications, from a technical point of view, of any person operating the apparatus of an amateur station.

SEC. 4. The maximum power of amateur stations shall be fixed by the administrations concerned, having regard to the technical qualifications of the operators and to the conditions under which these stations must work.

SEC. 5. (1) All the general rules of the Convention and of the present Regulations shall apply to amateur stations. In particular, the transmitting frequency must be as constant and as free from harmonics as the state of technical development for stations of this nature permits.

(2) During the course of their transmissions amateur stations must transmit their call sign at short intervals.

	Telephony	A3
	Facsimile	A4
	Television	A5
2. Frequency (or phase) modulated.	Absence of any modulation	F0
	Telegraphy without the use of modulating audio frequency (frequency shift keying).	F1

Preliminary statement. The Bureau of Mines is prepared, at its Central Experiment Station, Pittsburgh, Pa., to conduct tests to determine the permissibility of self-contained breathing apparatus for use in irrespirable and poisonous gases.

The authority for conducting such tests and investigations is contained in the act of May 16, 1910, as amended (36 Stat. 370, 30 U. S. C. 3, 5, 7), and in Executive Order No. 6611, February 22, 1934. The act, as so amended, contains the following provision:

For tests or investigations authorized by the Secretary of the Interior under the provisions of this Act, as amended and supplemented, except those performed for the Government of the United States or State governments within the United States, a fee sufficient in each case to compensate the Bureau of Mines for the entire cost of the services rendered shall be charged, according to a schedule prepared by the Director of the Bureau of Mines and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, who shall prescribe rules and regulations under which such tests and investigations may be made. All moneys received from such sources shall be paid into the Treasury to the credit of miscellaneous receipts.

AUTHORITY: § 11.1 to 11.12 issued under sec. 5, 36 Stat. 370, as amended; 30 U. S. C. 7. Interpret or apply secs. 2, 3, 36 Stat. 370, as amended; 30 U. S. C. 3, 5. E. O. 6611, Feb. 22, 1934.

§ 11.1 Definition of "permissible." The Bureau of Mines considers a self-contained breathing apparatus to be permissible for use in irrespirable and poisonous gases if all the details of construction and materials are the same in all respects as those of a self-contained breathing apparatus that has passed the tests for safety, practicability, and efficiency in accordance with standards established by the Bureau and hereinafter described.

§ 11.2 Conditions under which apparatus will be tested. The conditions under which the Bureau of Mines will examine and test a self-contained breathing apparatus to establish its permissibility follow:

(a) (1) Application for inspection, examination, and testing shall be made in duplicate to the Central Experiment Station, Bureau of Mines, 4800 Forbes Street, Pittsburgh 13, Pa., and shall be accompanied by (i) a check, bank draft, or money order (see § 11.3) payable to the order of the United States Bureau of Mines; (ii) a complete written description of the apparatus in duplicate; and (iii) a set of drawings in duplicate showing full details of construction of the apparatus. If an apparatus operates with a regenerator, the application shall be accompanied by a complete written description of the regenerator and a set of drawings showing full details of its construction, all in duplicate. The application shall state, among other things, whether the apparatus is ready to be marketed.

(2) Applicants, manufacturers, or their representatives may visit or communicate with the Central Experiment Station, Bureau of Mines, 4800 Forbes Street, Pittsburgh 13, Pa., to obtain criticism of proposed designs or to discuss the requirements covering the approval of self-contained breathing apparatus. No charge is made for such consultation.

(b) The examination, inspection, and test shall be made at the Central Experiment Station, Bureau of Mines, Pittsburgh, Pa.

(c) The applicant, submitting the self-contained breathing apparatus for inspection, examination, and test, will be required to provide two sets of apparatus, prepaid to the Central Experiment Station, Bureau of Mines, 4800 Forbes Street, Pittsburgh 13, Pa. If the apparatus successfully passes all the tests and requirements hereinafter specified, one set of the apparatus will be retained by the Bureau of Mines as a laboratory exhibit and the other set will be returned to the applicant. If the apparatus does not pass all of the Bureau's tests or requirements, both sets of apparatus will be returned to the applicant at his expense.

(d) Each self-contained breathing apparatus submitted for test shall have marked on it in a distinct manner the name and address of the manufacturer and the name, letter, or number by which the apparatus is designated for trade purposes.

(e) (1) For tests of self-contained oxygen breathing apparatus utilizing a supply of compressed gaseous oxygen, the oxygen will be supplied by the Bureau of Mines and will be of the purity specified in contracts by the Bureau for use in its own self-contained breathing apparatus, namely, at least 98 percent oxygen and the remainder nitrogen. The applicant shall supply such regenerators or regenerating materials as are necessary to operate the apparatus during the tests as hereinafter described.

(2) For tests of self-contained breathing apparatus utilizing a supply of compressed air, the applicant shall supply the compressed air (in suitable containers) necessary in making the hereafter described tests. The compressed air shall not contain any amount of gaseous, liquid, or solid substance that is harmful to a wearer of the apparatus under any condition of use. The applicant shall furnish a written statement setting forth the method used to compress the air and the controls used to prevent contamination of the compressed air by any gaseous, liquid, or solid substance that is harmful to a human being.

(3) For tests of self-contained breathing apparatus utilizing a supply of oxygen that is generated by a chemical reaction when using the apparatus, the applicant shall supply the oxygen-generating chemicals (in suitable containers) in amounts necessary to conduct the hereafter described tests. The oxygen shall not contain any amount of gaseous, liquid, or solid substance that is harmful to a wearer of the apparatus under any condition of use. The applicant shall furnish a written statement setting forth the method by which the oxygen is generated and the chemical reaction involved for this purpose during the use of the apparatus. Furthermore, this statement shall set forth how the chemicals in the oxygen generator have been manufactured so as to prevent contamination of the oxygen by any gaseous, liquid, or solid substance in amounts or proportions harmful to a human being.

(f) On receipt of the self-contained breathing apparatus for which application has been made for examination, inspection, or test, the applicant will be notified whether the apparatus meets the requirements of these regulations and whether additional spare parts are necessary to facilitate making a proper test of the apparatus. The applicant will be required to provide additional parts, if needed, and also to alter the apparatus, if necessary.

(g) No self-contained breathing apparatus will be tested unless it is in the complete form in which it is to be marketed.

(h) As soon as possible after the formal application for the test and the apparatus to be tested have been received, the applicant will be notified of the date on which the test will begin and if any additional material is required.

(i) Tests will be made in the order of receipt of application, provided that the applicant has furnished the necessary apparatus and material.

(j) Self-contained breathing apparatus in course of development may be submitted by manufacturers and inventors for preliminary test or inspection to ascertain defective construction or misapplication of safety principles. The Bureau will determine the nature of such test or inspection and the fee, if any. If a fee is to be charged, it shall be paid before the test or inspection is undertaken.

(k) No one shall be present during any part of the formal investigation, conducted by the Bureau, that leads to approval except the necessary Government personnel, representatives of the applicant, and such other persons as may be mutually agreed upon by the applicant and the Bureau. When a self-contained breathing apparatus is approved as permissible, the Bureau will announce that such approval has been granted and may thereafter conduct from time to time, in its discretion, public demonstrations of the tests of approved self-contained breathing apparatus. Those who attend any part of the investigation, or any public demonstration, shall be present solely as observers; the conduct of the investigation and of any public demonstration shall be controlled wholly by the Bureau's personnel. The results of chemical analyses and all information contained in the drawings, specifications, and instructions shall be deemed confidential, and the Bureau will appropriately safeguard them against disclosure.

(l) Breathing apparatus will be tested for manufacturers or accredited agents of manufacturers and for inventors.

(m) The Bureau of Mines will make public from time to time a list of permissible self-contained breathing apparatus and data on tests of such equipment.

Samples of the atmosphere within the apparatus shall be taken for analytical determination of carbon dioxide content. The atmosphere within the apparatus shall be sampled as near to the point of inspiration as practicable, only while the wearer is inhaling, over a period covering several inhalations, and at uniform intervals of time. None of the samples so taken shall contain more than 2½ percent of carbon dioxide. The average carbon dioxide content of all atmospheric samples taken from within the apparatus during the test shall not exceed 1 percent.

(b) The mechanical construction of the apparatus shall be such that every part can be tested, inspected, and repaired by persons that are skilled in such work, and all parts that require sterilizing shall be readily accessible for this purpose.

(c) All parts of the apparatus subject to or liable to be subjected to pressures in excess of 5 pounds per square inch shall be so constructed and equipped with safety devices that the safety of the wearer shall be assured, as determined by the 15 tests described in § 11.7.

(d) In apparatus equipped with a breathing bag or bags, or their equivalent, the inhalation and exhalation compartments shall have a combined capacity of at least 8 liters. If a single breathing bag is used, it shall have a capacity of at least 5 liters.

(e) In apparatus equipped with a breathing bag that is used in conjunction with operation of an oxygen- or air-admission valve, the bag shall have a capacity of at least 3 liters after the admission valve is closed. After 3 liters of oxygen or air is introduced into the breathing bag, the water-gage pressure shall not exceed 3 inches.

(f) All parts enclosing the breathed atmosphere of a self-contained breathing apparatus shall consist of material that will exclude gases external to the apparatus and be impervious to gasoline vapor for at least a 2½-hour period. The material shall be of good strength and be flexible, and the joints or seams shall be either cemented and sewed or vulcanized or bound in such manner that the part or parts will not become separated at the joints or seams when the apparatus is in use. Such part or parts may be made in one piece without joints or seams.

(g) The apparatus shall not have in its circulatory system any zone of constant negative pressure, or a positive pressure at the mouthpiece or facepiece of more than 3 inches water gage after a 2½-liter exhalation.

(h) A self-contained breathing apparatus in which the expired atmosphere is recirculated shall be provided with a release valve that is operated manually or automatically and is placed at some point in the circulatory system of the apparatus. The function of this valve shall be to permit the escape to the outside atmosphere of a part of the atmosphere in the circulatory system of the apparatus. The valve shall be so designed that the outside atmosphere cannot be drawn into the apparatus.

(i) When apparatus is equipped with high-pressure gas container(s) the applicant shall furnish therewith a certificate of test required by the Interstate Commerce Commission under Specifications No. 3–A or equivalent specifications or shall give evidence satisfactory to the Bureau that such high-pressure gas container(s) were tested in accordance with Interstate Commerce Commission Specifications No. 3–A or equivalent specifications.

(j) (1) When an apparatus is equipped with a high-pressure gas container charged with compressed oxygen or compressed air to a pressure 10 percent in excess of its marked service pressure, the container shall be equipped with a perforated safety cap attached to the main closing valve. The perforated safety cap shall contain a frangible disk, without fusible metal backing, and the disk shall have a bursting pressure of 2,650 to 3,000 pounds per square inch.

(2) When an apparatus is equipped with a high-pressure gas container charged with compressed oxygen or compressed air at a pressure not in excess of its marked service pressure, the container shall be equipped with a perforated safety cap attached to the main closing valve. The perforated safety cap shall contain a frangible disk, without fusible metal backing, having a bursting pressure of 2,650 to 3,000 pounds per square inch. As an alternate, when the high-pressure gas container is charged at a pressure not in excess of its marked service pressure, the container may be equipped with a perforated safety cap attached to the main closing valve and the safety cap provided with a plain copper disk and fiber gasket and filled with a metal (such as Rose's metal) having a fusing temperature of approximately 94° C. Such fusible metal shall not be forced from the perforated safety cap by a pressure less than 2,250 pounds per square inch.

(k) (1) The closing valve of the high-pressure gas container shall be provided with a device to prevent the wearer of the apparatus from screwing the stem entirely out of the valve. The closing valve shall also be provided with a device to enable the wearer to lock the valve stem open when the valve has been opened to the desired point. The valve-closing device shall be operable by hand without use of wrenches or external levers.

(2) Main and bypass valves that control the flow of compressed oxygen or compressed air from the source of supply shall be so located that they can be manipulated readily by the wearer when the apparatus is being worn.

(l) When an apparatus is equipped with a gage for recording time or pressure of compressed-oxygen or compressed-air supply, the Bureau of Mines will test such a gage for accuracy of calibration. A variation of 3 atmospheres (approximately 45 pounds per square inch) will be allowed in comparison with the pressure shown by the Bureau of Mines standard pressure gage.

(m) (1) Apparatus having a separate pressure-gage connection shall be equipped with a valve to shut off the compressed-oxygen or compressed-air supply from the gage. The gage-connection valve shall be so placed that it can be manipulated readily by the wearer without interfering with the flow of compressed oxygen or compressed air from the high-pressure gas container to the circulatory system of the apparatus.

(2) An oxygen-generating, self-contained breathing apparatus shall be equipped with a timing device that will indicate accurately the number of minutes a person may continue to wear the apparatus with safety.

(n) Any pressure gage or timing device shall be so located that it can be read easily by the wearer.

(o) Apparatus equipped with a reducing valve giving a constant or automatic flow of oxygen or air shall be provided with a bypass valve that will permit compressed oxygen or compressed air to flow freely from the high-pressure gas container to the circulatory system of the apparatus, independent of the reducing valve.

(p) When the compressed-oxygen or compressed-air supply of the apparatus is controlled by automatic devices, such devices shall adjust themselves readily to the needs of the wearer.

(q) Apparatus in which the expired atmosphere is recirculated and which is equipped with either a mouth-breathing device or a facepiece shall be provided with an adequate saliva or moisture trap and release valve at the exhalation side of the inhalation and exhalation valve assembly and shall be so designed that, while the saliva or moisture trap and release valve are functioning, any atmosphere that may be external thereto cannot be drawn into the apparatus.

(r) Apparatus equipped with a mouth-breathing device shall be provided with a suitable nose clip properly attached to the apparatus. The suitability of the nose clip will be determined by the tests to which the apparatus will be subjected.

(s) Self-contained breathing apparatus submitted for testing and approval shall not weigh more than 40 pounds when completely assembled and fully charged.

(t) Apparatus equipped with a facepiece shall meet the following requirements:

(1) The facepiece shall be so constructed as to assure quick, gastight fit on persons of widely varying facial dimensions and contours.

(2) The eyepiece(s) of the facepiece shall be of the nonshatter type and be so designed as to provide a satisfactory field of vision for persons of widely varying facial dimensions and contours. Air or oxygen shall enter the facepiece in such manner as will prevent excessive accumulation of moisture on the eyepiece(s). If fog-preventing solutions or other substances are applied to or furnished for application to the lenses of the eyepiece(s), such solutions or substances shall be nonirritating, odorless, and nonflammable.

(3) A facepiece shall be provided with elastic headbands that are adjustable and replaceable.

(4) If a facepiece is equipped with an exhalation valve, the valve shall be guarded to prevent distortion and injury.

(5) For self-contained breathing apparatus, approved before the effective date of this part and for which a facepiece is approved as supplemental equipment, the facepiece shall weigh not more than 3 pounds complete with inhalation and exhalation valve assembly, breathing tubes, and fittings.

(6) A facepiece approved as supplemental equipment shall be distinctively and permanently marked to identify it as a supplemental part of a specific type of self-contained breathing apparatus.

§ 11.6 Character and general description of tests. (a) After the self-contained breathing apparatus to be tested for permissibility has been thoroughly inspected for adequacy of its mechanical principles, a series of 15 tests will be made, as described in § 11.7. At the beginning of the series of tests, if a high-pressure gas container is used on the apparatus, it shall first be charged with oxygen or air to a pressure of 10 atmospheres (approximately 150 pounds per square inch) and the oxygen or air permitted to escape into the atmosphere. Any high-pressure gas container used in the tests shall be fully charged at the beginning of each test at a pressure prescribed by the applicant or manufacturer of the apparatus.

(b) If an apparatus using compressed oxygen or compressed air is equipped with one or more breathing bags, the breathing bag or bags shall be deflated at the beginning of each test to expel any contained nitrogen.

(c) A single test must be continuous, without removal of the apparatus from the wearer during the test.

(d) Samples of the atmosphere from an apparatus in which the atmosphere is recirculated and which is equipped with a mouth-breathing device or a facepiece shall be taken from the inhalation side of the circulatory system as near as possible to the mouthpiece or facepiece, as the case may be. Samples of the atmosphere from a regenerating- or recirculating-type apparatus equipped with a facepiece also shall be taken from the interior of the facepiece as near as practicable to the nose and mouth of the wearer of the apparatus and shall be taken only when the wearer is inhaling. Samples of the atmosphere from an apparatus in which the atmosphere is not recirculated, such as in open-circuit (demand) equipment, and which is equipped with a mouth-breathing device shall be taken from the inhalation side of the apparatus as near as possible to the mouthpiece. Samples of the atmosphere from an apparatus in which the atmosphere is not recirculated, such as in open-circuit (demand) equipment, and which is equipped with a facepiece shall be taken from the interior of the facepiece as near as practicable to the nose and mouth of the wearer and shall be taken only when the wearer is inhaling. The first sample shall be taken from the source of supply of compressed oxygen or compressed air immediately before the beginning of the test. The second sample shall be taken after the apparatus has been adjusted to the wearer and compressed oxygen or compressed air has been turned on and after the wearer has inhaled at least three times and has exhaled to the atmosphere outside of the apparatus. Samples shall be taken as indicated in Tables 1–5, inclusive, of § 11.7 for ½-hour, A types; ¾-hour, B types; 1-hour, C types; and 2-hour, D types; respectively. The physiological effects of the apparatus on the wearer will be noted during each test; they include the comfort of the wearer, ease of breathing, and lack of interference with normal body functioning, as determined by questioning the wearer of the apparatus during and after testing.

(e) Not more than 1 test of 2 hours' duration will be made on any day. The tests will be completed within 60 days from date of beginning, unless prevented by conditions that are beyond the control of the Bureau.

All tests of apparatus will be conducted in a specially equipped gallery filled with an irrespirable atmosphere, at the Central Experiment Station, Bureau of Mines, Pittsburgh, Pa.

(f) Before each test is begun, the apparatus shall be examined and tested to make certain that no leakage is present under working conditions.

(g) The apparatus under test will be worn during each and all of the periods of the 15 tests by qualified Bureau of Mines personnel assigned to such test work. Immediately before participation in any of these tests the prospective wearer of the apparatus being tested shall pass, satisfactorily, a physical examination by a qualified physician. If it is impossible to complete any one of these tests solely because of the poor physical condition of the wearer, when such condition has been brought about through no fault of the apparatus being tested, such test shall be disregarded, and the apparatus shall not be penalized or disqualified thereby.

(h) At the conclusion of each test a record shall be made of the general physical condition of the wearer and of the apparatus and of the amount of compressed oxygen or compressed air, if any, remaining in the container. The schedule of work to be performed by the wearer of the apparatus in each of the 15 tests is described in § 11.7.

1 Continue sitting quietly and take samples and readings at the same listed intervals until the supply of compressed oxygen or compressed air is exhausted; record the time when the supply is exhausted.

(m) Test 15 is made to determine the maximum length of time that the apparatus will supply the needs of the wearer when in a quiescent state. The wearer will remain as far as possible in a sitting posture throughout the test and perform no work. He will be allowed to manipulate the devices controlling the compressed-oxygen or compressed-air supply to conserve such compressed-oxygen or compressed-air supply to the greatest advantage.

§ 11.8 Approval of regenerators. (a) The Bureau will, on application, make separate tests, identical with the foregoing tests, of regenerators manufactured for use with any breathing apparatus that it has approved under the regulations of this part.

(b) Regenerators that fulfill the requirements of the foregoing tests will be approved for use only with that particular type of apparatus for which they are designed and that has previously been approved by the Bureau.

§ 11.9 Notification of approval or disapproval. (a) After the Bureau has considered the results of the investigation and suitable drawings and specifications have been placed on file, it will supply the applicant with a formal written notification of approval or disapproval of the self-contained breathing apparatus. If the breathing apparatus meets all requirements of this part, the notification will not be accompanied by test data or detailed results of tests. If the apparatus fails to meet any requirements of this part, the notification will be accompanied by details of the failure, with a view to possible remedying of the defect or defects in self-contained breathing apparatus submitted for testing and approval in the future. Results of tests of self-contained breathing apparatus that fail to meet the requirements will not be made public by the Bureau.

(b) When an application for testing an apparatus is received and within a period not exceeding 10 days one or more additional applications for testing apparatus are received from sources different from the first application, the Bureau will not announce approval of the first apparatus unless approval can be announced for the other apparatus within a period not exceeding the interval of time between receipt of the first and subsequent applications. This exception is contingent upon the apparatus submitted with each application successfully meeting all of the requirements prescribed in this part. If an apparatus does not meet all of the requirements prescribed in this part it will not delay announcement of approval of such apparatus as have met the requirements.

(c) When an applicant or manufacturer receives formal notification of approval, he shall be free to advertise the type of successfully tested self-contained breathing apparatus as "permissible" and to use the approval inscription described in § 11.10.

§ 11.10 Approval plates and markings for permissible apparatus and for approved supplemental parts. (a) Manufacturers of self-contained breathing apparatus that has been approved by the Bureau as permissible and is to be offered for sale as such are required to attach to each apparatus a plate or marking bearing the following inscription:

Permissible Breathing Apparatus, United State Bureau of Mines Approval No. ———.

(b) When a supplemental part, such as a facepiece, is approved for use with an approved self-contained breathing apparatus, it shall be plainly and permanently marked to identify the apparatus for which it is a supplemental part, substantially as follows:

U. S. B. M. Approval No. ——— for use with ——————— Breathing Apparatus
(Trade name)
U. S. B. M. Approval No. ———.

The inscription shall be stamped, cast, or molded into the supplemental part of the breathing apparatus or shall be on a plate attached to the supplemental part.

§ 11.11 Changes subsequent to approval. All approvals are granted with the understanding that the manufacturer will make the approved self-contained breathing apparatus according to final drawings and specifications submitted to the Bureau. Therefore, before making any change in an approved apparatus, the manufacturer shall first obtain the Bureau's approval of the change. This procedure is as follows:

(a) The manufacturer shall write to the Central Experiment Station, Bureau of Mines, 4800 Forbes Street, Pittsburgh 13, Pa., requesting an extension of the original approval and stating the change or changes desired. He shall send 2 sets of revised drawings and specifications showing the changes in detail, and 1 each of the apparatus parts affected to the Central Experiment Station.

(b) The Bureau will consider the application and inspect the drawings and parts to determine whether it will be necessary to make tests.

(c) If tests are unnecessary, the applicant will be notified formally by the Bureau of the approval or disapproval of the change.

(d) If tests are necessary, the applicant will be notified of the fee and material required.

TITLE 32—NATIONAL DEFENSE

Chapter V—Department of the Army

Subchapter E—Organized Reserves

PART 561—ARMY RESERVE

APPOINTMENTS

Sections 561.2–561.8, 561.13, 561.14, 561.16, 561.17, 561.19 and 561.20 are revised, and §§ 561.9, 561.10, and 561.21 are added, as follows:

§ 561.2 Purpose. The regulations of §§ 561.2 to 561.21 provide a basis for the systematic procurement of male and female Reserve commissioned officers for service in the Army Reserve and establish the requirements and procedures for appointment.

§ 561.3 Procurement. Procurement of Reserve commissioned officers for service in the Army Reserve will be from the following sources:

(a) Former officers of any component of the Armed Forces of the United States and former officers of the Army of the United States, without component (§ 561.14).

(b) Qualified warrant officers and noncommissioned officers of the Army who are in the active military service and qualified Reserve enlisted members and Reserve warrant officers of the Army.

(c) Professional and technical personnel.

(1) For the Chaplains Branch (§ 561.16).

(2) For The Judge Advocate General's Corps Branch (§ 561.17).

(3) For the Women's Army Corps Branch (§ 561.19).

(4) For the Army Medical Service Branches. See § 561.18.

(5) For the Civil Affairs/Military Government Branch (§ 561.21).

(6) For the Staff Specialist Branch.

(7) For other professional and technical personnel (§ 561.20).

(d) Graduates of Senior ROTC Units.

(e) Graduates of officer candidate schools.

§ 561.4 Members of reserve components of other Armed Forces and Public Health Service. (a) Appointments may be tendered to members of the reserve components of the Air Force, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, or the Public Health Service who are not on active duty with their parent Armed Force or service if consent has been obtained by such member from his parent Armed Force or service for separation therefrom prior to acceptance of appointment as a Reserve officer of the Army.

(b) Officers of the Air Force Reserve who are on any retired list of the Army (other than the Officers Honorary Retired List) may be appointed in the same grade held in the Air Force Reserve. If such officer is in the Air Force Retired Reserve, he may be appointed and concurrently transferred to the Retired Reserve of the Army Reserve. Appointments under this paragraph may be made without regard to physical qualifications, vacancy, age, or examination by a board of officers.

§ 561.5 Availability. Appointments are tendered with the expectation that the person appointed will be available for service in the event of emergency or mobilization. Applicants must have full knowledge of this requirement when submitting applications for appointment.

§ 561.6 Ineligibles. The following persons are not eligible for appointment:

(a) Conscientious objectors, except that waiver will be granted by the appointing authority in cases of those who by reason of religious training and belief are conscientiously opposed to combatant training and service in the Armed Forces but who volunteer for noncombatant service in the Chaplains Branch and the branches of the Army Medical Service except the Veterinary Corps, with concurrent call to active duty. Such persons will be required to certify to their conscientious objection to combatant service and their willingness to perform full and unqualified military medical service or services as a Chaplain, as appropriate. A former conscientious objector who is applying for the Veterinary Corps or other branch not mentioned in this paragraph will be required to furnish an affidavit expressing his abandonment of such beliefs and principles so far as they pertain to his unwillingness to bear arms and to give full and unqualified military service to the United States.

(b) Those who have a record of conviction by any type of military or civil court for other than a minor traffic violation. The area commander may grant waivers for conviction for minor violations which are nonrecurrent and which are not deemed prejudicial to performance of duty as an officer. Waivers in the case of any individual who has been convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude will be granted only by the Department of the Army. All requests for waivers will be submitted with applications and evaluated in connection with the National Agency Check.

(c) Those dropped from the rolls of the Army and those who have been or are being relieved from active duty or separated from the service for one of the following reasons:

(1) Under other than honorable conditions, except as provided in paragraph (1) of this section.

(2) For unsatisfactory service.

(3) By reason of resignation in lieu of court martial, reclassification, any form of corrective or disciplinary action, or elimination for the good of the service.

(4) Having been passed over twice for promotion, or otherwise discharged because of failure to be promoted to a higher grade.

(5) Having been separated from any component of any of the Armed Forces of the United States as a security risk or for other than security reasons while undergoing investigation.

(6) For failure to maintain eligibility for retention in an active reserve status except that after the elapse of 1 year, if conditions which contributed to inability to maintain such eligibility are changed, the individual may be considered for appointment, if the obstacles to active participation have been removed. The burden of establishing the fact that there was a valid reason to prevent his participation with the reserve forces and that such reason has been removed, rests on the individual and he will be required to state clearly that he will actively participate if reappointed.

(d) Those who are, or have been, members of any foreign or domestic organization, association, movement, group, or combination of persons advocating a subversive policy or seeking to alter the form of Government of the United States by unconstitutional means, and whose case has not been adjudicated favorably by the Department of the Army.

(e) Members of the Regular component of the Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, Public Health Service, or the Coast and Geodetic Survey, including those listed on the retired lists. See § 561.4 regarding members of the reserve components of the other Armed Forces.

(f) Cadets, United States Military Academy; cadets, United States Air Force Academy; midshipmen, United States Naval Academy; and cadets, United States Coast Guard Academy.

(g) Those who are in the military service of a foreign government, or those employed by a foreign government unless approval is obtained from the Department of the Army.

(h) Active or retired officers of the Regular Army.

(i) Retired warrant officers and retired enlisted personnel of the Regular Army, except that such personnel who are former commissioned officers may be considered for appointment as Reserve commissioned officers.

(j) Female personnel who have any legal or other responsibility for the custody, control, care, maintenance, or support of any child or children, including step-children or foster children under 18 years of age.

(k) Applicants will not be eligible whose appointment would cause them to hold simultaneously more than one reserve status. This does not preclude appointment when separation from the current reserve status can be accomplished. For example, a reservist on active duty as such cannot be separated from his current status as long as he is to remain on active duty in that status. His appointment to another reserve status will not be made unless he is to be placed on active duty under the new reserve status.

(l) An individual whose discharge, upon appeal under section 301, act 22 June 1944 (58 Stat. 286; 38 U. S. C. 693h), was changed to separation "under honorable conditions" is not eligible for appointment solely because of such change, since the action characterizing the service as honorable is determinative only of the type or nature of the discharge. Appointment will be tendered or refused, based upon the facts and merits of the individual case, after examination and evaluation of the entire record of prior service. Appointment will not be made until verification of the applicant's eligibility for such appointment and approval thereof have been received from The Adjutant General.

(m) Those individuals denied retired pay or annuities under the act of 1 September 1954 (68 Stat. 1142).

§ 561.7 Foreign residence. United States citizens who reside in a foreign country are eligible for appointment if they meet one of the following requirements:

(a) Reside in a country in which the United States has troops stationed and with the consent of the country concerned.

(b) Reside in a country in which the United States is furnishing, at the time, a military mission, advisory group, or a similar group of military personnel.

(c) Are employed by the United States Government and are on duty with an embassy, legation, or consular office of the United States Government.

(d) Can furnish evidence of having obtained the official consent of the country in which they reside to accept appointment as a Reserve officer in the Army of the United States; application for such consent will be made through diplomatic channels.

(e) Reside in an occupied area.

§ 561.8 Eligibility. The following are basic requirements for appointment as Reserve commissioned officers for service in the Army Reserve.

(2) Female applicants must be at least:

(i) 20 years of age for initial appointment for assignment to the Women's Army Corps branch.

(i) Must be residing or serving in the Army, within the continental United States.

(2) A female applicant must be a citizen of the United States, its territories, or possessions, except that for assignment to the Army Nurse Corps and Army Medical Specialist Corps an individual who has made a declaration of intent to become a citizen of the United States is eligible.

(d) Mental requirements. Applicant will be administered the Armed Forces Qualification Test AFQT–1 or –2, by the examining board, and must achieve a percentile score of 74 or higher thereon except for the following:

(1) Those who have a previously recorded standard score of 115 or higher on AFQT–1 or –2, the Army General Classification Test (AGCT), the general classification test (GCT), Aptitude Area I, or General Technical Aptitude Area (GT).

Additional educational requirements for various branches are shown as special requirements under the governing sections or regulations.

(2) Demonstrated understanding of, and proficiency in the English language is a prerequisite for appointment. Foreign born applicants whose mother tongue is other than English will be carefully examined by the board to insure that their command of the English language is sufficient to enable them to understand the necessary technical information.

(f) Moral requirements. Each applicant must have high moral character and personal qualifications.

(g) Leadership requirements. Each applicant must have qualifications for potential leadership and ability to deal with people. Such qualifications may be evaluated in terms of such factors as the applicant's background and experience.

§ 561.9 Limitations on appointments. (a) Appointments will be limited to those necessary to:

(1) Fill existing vacancies in the Ready Reserve troop program units when there are no qualified officers of appropriate or lower grade available to fill such vacancies. For assignment to the WAC Branch under § 561.19, appointment to fill such vacancies will be made only when:

(i) The applicant is considered qualified to perform the normal duties of the position vacancy.

§ 561.10 Vacancies, active duty quotas, and submission of applications. (a) Individuals interested in appointment may secure information from chiefs of military districts, senior army advisors or unit commanders. Information regarding quotas for active duty may be secured from the appropriate area commander.

Subchapter G—Procurement

PART 592—PROCUREMENT BY NEGOTIATION

PART 596—CONTRACT CLAUSES

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Paragraph (c) is added to § 590.307 and new §§ 592.403–4 and 596.153 are added, as follows:

§ 590.307 Responsible prospective contractor. * * *

(c) The problems of security and possible unauthorized release of classified information do not arise under unclassified scientific research contracts. The major consideration regarding the individuals involved should be their scientific integrity and ability. The only consideration relating to the loyalty of individual scientists engaged in work under Government contracts is the principle, that it would appear to be against the national interest to give aid and comfort to a person disloyal to the United States. In conformance with this principle, the following policy has been adopted:

(1) In considering proposals for contracts in support of unclassified research not involving security considerations is to assure that, in appraising the merit of a proposal submitted by or on behalf of a scientist, his experience, competence, and integrity are always taken carefully into account. Procuring activities will not knowingly award or continue a contract in support of research for a person who:

(i) Is an acknowledged Communist or established as being a Communist by a judicial proceeding, or anyone who advocates change in the United States Government by other than constitutional means, or

(ii) Has been convicted of sabotage, espionage, sedition, subversive activity under the Smith Act, or a similar crime involving the Nation's security.

(2) Where procuring activities receive information indicating that a potential or actual researcher may have violated a Federal statute relating to the national security, such information will be forwarded, on a priority basis, to the Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics, Department of the Army, ATTN: Chief, Contracts Branch.

§ 592.403–4 Fixed-price incentive contract—(a) Description. Fixed-price incentive contract clauses are set forth in § 596.153. The primary objective of the incentive provisions in fixed-price contracts is to bring about a lower price to the Government by stimulating efficiencies in the contractor's performance. This type contract does not offer as great incentive for cost reductions as the firm fixed-price type and shall not be used when circumstances permit the negotiation of a firm fixed-price contract. Incentive is provided by permitting the contractor's profit to increase as costs decrease and to decrease as costs increase in relation to a target cost established by negotiation. Terms used in this paragraph relative to fixed-price incentive contracts are defined in the text of the clauses set forth in § 596.153 of this subchapter.

(b) Applicability. Incentive type contracts should be used only when a reasonable opportunity exists for the contractor to reduce his costs. For instance, if purchased raw materials and parts comprise a high percentage of total cost there may be little possibility of cost reduction, and any contractual incentive to reduce costs would be pointless.

(c) Limitations. In addition to the provisions of § 3.403–4 (c) of this title, fixed-price incentive contracts are subject to the same provisions regarding audit as contracts providing for price redetermination (§ 606.207 (c) of this subchapter). Incentive price revision clauses set forth in § 596.153 (a) and (b) of this subchapter may be used in negotiated fixed-price contracts under the circumstances outlined in this section. The incentive contract shall not be used as a substitute for firm fixed-price contracting, but may be used to encourage efficiency and at the same time provide some degree of protection for both contracting parties where a firm fixed-price contract is not feasible. The objective is to permit reasonable pricing and still preserve enough flexibility in pricing so that, within agreed limits, a contractor's profit may vary in accordance with a negotiated formula. The use of an incentive price revision clause must be premised on the ability of the contractor to maintain accounting records in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and practices, to the extent and in such detail as is necessary for establishment of costs applicable to the contract. Such clauses are appropriate for use primarily in those contracts which require quantity production over an extended period of time, but are not intended to preclude the use of other types of price redetermination provisions.

(d) Instructions—(1) General. (i) The items which are subject to incentive price revision should be indicated in the appropriate blanks of paragraph (b) (i) of the clauses. Those items which are subject to pricing in accordance with the provisions of a document incorporated in the contract by reference, or which are priced in some manner other than that set forth in the clause, should be indicated in the appropriate blanks of paragraph (b) (ii). The items, if any, which are not subject to incentive price revision and which will be paid for on a fixed-price basis should be indicated in the appropriate blanks of paragraph (b) (iii).

(ii) Provision may be made for separate formulas applicable to specified articles or services. In the clause entitled "Items, Priced, Pursuant to Established Repair Parts, Procurement Procedures," the prices of items of articles or services added by amendment or supplemental agreement shall ordinarily be target prices. Billing prices may, however, be negotiated when, in the opinion of the contracting officer, sufficient information is not available on which to negotiate reasonable target prices, in which event the amendment or supplemental agreement shall provide a definitive cutoff point or date during the course of deliveries under the contract for conversion of such billing prices to target prices. In either case, the target price when established shall indicate the target cost and target profit included therein, and the contract target cost shall be adjusted to reflect the cumulative effect thereof at the time of final price revision. In those instances where articles or services so added are priced on a fixed-price basis, they shall be paid accordingly, and the elements of cost and profit involved shall be excluded from the costs and profits considered in final price revision. Fixed-price items shall be added only when the costs thereof can be segregated from all other contract costs.

(iii) Prices established for contract changes shall be target prices. Such prices shall indicate the target cost and target profit included therein. The contract target cost shall be at the time of final price revision be adjusted to reflect the net effect of increases and decreases in target cost resulting from such changes.

(iv) The paragraphs of the clauses entitled "Adjustment of Billing Price" (§ 596.153 (a) and (b) of this subchapter) make possible the negotiation and adjustment of prices at which the articles delivered are being billed under invoices submitted by the contractor either upward or downward as production progresses under the contract. If it appears at any time that the final unit price or final contract price will be substantially less than the billing or target price, it will be desirable to adjust the billing price downward. In like manner, if it appears at any time that the final unit price or final contract price will be substantially greater than the billing price or target price, it will be desirable to increase the price at which articles are being billed. Any such change in billing price shall not affect either ceiling or target price.

(v) Fixed-price incentive contracts will be treated the same as contracts which provide for price redetermination for the purpose of determining audit requirements and of following procedures set forth in § 606.207 of this subchapter.

(2) Price revision clause with initially firm target data. (i) The clause set forth in § 596.153 (a) of this subchapter, should be used where there is sufficient and pertinent cost and production experience to establish fair and reasonable target prices at the time the contract is negotiated, and there is reason to believe that the cost of production may be substantially reduced by providing an incentive to encourage efficiency. The prices originally negotiated and set forth in the contract will be target prices.

(ii) The incentive formula establishing the percentages for the target profit, the contractor's participating share in excess costs or in savings, and the maximum contract price for all items subject to price revision, in the case of those contracts where target costs are set at the outset of the contract, shall be negotiated and made a part of the contract prior to its execution.

(3) Price revision clause with delayed firm target data. (i) The clause set forth in § 596.153(b) of this subchapter should be used only where fair and reasonable target prices cannot be established at the time the contract is negotiated because of a lack of sufficient and pertinent cost or production experience, but can be determined after production of a reasonable quantity. The prices originally negotiated and set forth in the contract will be billing prices. This clause provides for the submission of data upon which to base the negotiation of target prices after delivery or shop completion of a designated number of articles. The date for submission of the data must be early in the course of deliveries under the contract. In those cases where the Government has currently in production, with the same contractor, articles of a type similar to those subject to incentive price revision and the Government and the contractor do not have adequate cost or production experience upon which to negotiate target prices at the time the new contract is negotiated, the time for negotiation of target prices and submission of the data will be premised on the delivery of a designated number of the articles to be delivered under the previous production contract. Pending establishment of a target price, the Government's obligation to make payment, whether through progress payments, deliveries, termination, or otherwise, shall be limited to the amount set forth in subparagraph (c) of the clause, which amount shall reflect the contractor's anticipated expenditures, its commitments to its subcontractors and vendors and such allowance for profit on delivered items as is permitted pursuant to the payment provisions of the contract during the period prior to establishment of the target price.

(ii) In those cases where, due to insufficient data, it is necessary to establish target costs during the course of the contract, the incentive formula establishing such percentages shall be negotiated and made a part of the contract at the time target costs are set.

(iii) Under the clause in § 596.153 (b) the target prices of any changes directed prior to the establishment of the contract target price may be established at the time of negotiation of the contract target price.

(4) Termination. In the event the entire contract is terminated, prices for completed items or services shall be subject to negotiation, and such prices, within the provisions of the contract, shall be revised as may be equitable under the circumstances. In the event of a partial termination such revision should include an adjustment of target costs, target profits, contract ceiling, and other contract provisions effected by the partial termination.

§ 596.153 Incentive price revision clauses. When in accordance with the provisions of § 3.403–4 of this title and § 592.403–4 of this subchapter, the fixed-price incentive contract is used, one of the following clauses, as appropriate, will be made a part of the contract.

(a) Price revision clause with initially firm target data.

(d) Accounting procedures. Contractor agrees to maintain books, records, documents, and other evidence pertaining to the costs and expenses of this contract to the extent and in such detail as will properly reflect the net costs, direct and indirect, of all labor, materials, equipment supplies, services, and other costs and expenditures of whatever nature necessary for the establishment of costs under the provisions of this contract, and further agrees to permit the Government to make, at reasonable times, such examination or audit thereof as the contracting officer may deem necessary. The contractor shall segregate the costs of any item, change or service, the price of which is fixed and not subject to revision in accordance with the provisions of this clause.

Greater than contract cost	Contract target profit less ___% of the amount by which the adjusted total contract cost exceeds the contract target cost.
Less than the contract target cost	Contract target profit plus ___% of the amount by which the adjusted total contract cost is less than the contract target cost.

(h) Adjustment of payment. Notwithstanding any provision of this contract authorizing greater payment, adjustments and refunds shall be made if the total of all amounts billed and paid or payable under this contract for items delivered to (or services performed for) and accepted by the Government (including amounts applied to liquidate progress payments) until final price revision has been made shall exceed the sum of the following items as reported by the Contractor from time to time as hereinafter provided; (i) the total contract price of all items delivered to (or services performed for) and accepted by the Government for which final prices have been established, and (ii) the total amount of costs (estimated to the extent necessary) that have been reasonably incurred for and are properly allocable solely to items delivered to (or services performed for) and accepted by the Government for which final prices have not been established, and (iii) the total amount of the established target profit allocable by direct proportion to items delivered to (or services performed for) and accepted by the Government for which final prices have not been established—increased or decreased in accordance with the incentive profit formula of this contract when the amount of costs stated in item (ii), above, differs from the applicable target costs. Within 45 days after the end of each quarter of the contractor's fiscal year, beginning for the quarter in which a delivery is first made (or services are first performed for and accepted by the Government) under this contract, and as of the end of each quarter, the contractor shall submit a statement setting forth the respective amounts of each of the three numbered items next above, together with the total amount of all billings for items delivered to (or services performed for) and accepted by the Government (including amounts applied to liquidate progress payments) under this contract as of end of each quarter. If on any quarterly statement these total billings exceed the sum of the three numbered items above, this gross excess less any applicable tax credit under Section 1481 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 shall, after deduction of the total refunds (cash or credit memoranda not including any tax credits under the Internal Revenue Code) theretofore made, be paid immediately by the contractor to the Government or credited against existing unpaid billings covered by such statement; provided that if any portion of such gross excess (less all tax credits under the Internal Revenue Code) has been applied to the liquidation of progress payments, such amount may be added or restored to the unliquidated progress payment account, to the extent consistent with the progress payment clause of this contract, instead of making direct refund thereof.

(i) Termination. In the event this contract is terminated, in whole or in part, settlement shall be made in accordance with the provisions of the clause hereof entitled "Termination for the convenience of the Government" or the provisions of the clause hereof entitled "Default", whichever is applicable, subject to the following:

(i) If this contract is terminated in its entirety at any time prior to agreement upon revised prices hereunder, the contractor and the contracting officer shall, if the termination settlement is to be negotiated on an inventory basis, negotiate to establish such prices for completed articles and services, the price of which was subject to revision hereunder, as may be equitable under the circumstances. Failure to agree shall be a dispute concerning a question of fact within the meaning of the clause of this contract entitled "Disputes."

(ii) If this contract is partially terminated the contractor and the Contracting officer shall agree upon such revisions in the target price and in the contract target price as may be equitable under the circumstances. Failure to agree shall be a dispute concerning a question of fact within the meaning of the clause of this contract entitled "Disputes."

(j) Adjustment of billing price. If at any time it appears that the final unit prices will be substantially greater or less than the unit prices at which units under this contract are being billed, the contracting officer may adjust such unit billing prices. The establishment of adjusted prices for billing purposes only shall in no way limit or affect the price revision to be computed in accordance with the provisions of this clause.

(k) Subcontracts. The contractor agrees that no subcontract placed under this contract shall provide for payment on a cost-plus-a-percentage-of-cost basis. The contractor further agrees that all subcontracts, other than those on a firm fixed-price basis, which as modified or amended exceed the total cost of $25,000, shall contain provisions (i) reserving to the Government the right to have the books and records of such subcontractor inspected and audited by a Government representative and (ii) requiring such subcontractors to reserve in their subcontracts a similar right for the Government to have a representative inspect and audit the books and records of lower tier subcontracts extending below a cost-reimbursement type, revision price incentive type subcontract in a chain unbroken by firm fixed-price subcontracts.

(i) The prices of items_____under this contract are billing prices until revised in accordance with the provisions of this clause.

(d) Submission of data for establishment of target price. Within_____days after the end of the month in which the_____unit of items_____(to be manufactured hereunder) or (to be manufactured under contract_____) is (delivered) (shop completed), or at such other time as the contracting officer may direct, the contractor shall forward to the contracting officer (i) a statement of all costs incurred to the date of such (delivery) (shop completion) or such other time as directed by the contracting officer under this contract (and under the above contract_____), (ii) an estimate of costs to be incurred by the contractor to complete performance of all work and obligations under items subject to price revision, and (iii) data to support the accuracy and reliability of such estimate.

(ii) Item _____,
_____,
(Other items)

(Any special provisions applicable)

(j) Final price revision. Upon submission of the information required by paragraph (e) above, the contractor and the contracting officer shall promptly establish a final contract price of the items subject to revision in accordance with the provisions of this clause in the following manner:

(i) On the basis of the information required by paragraph (e) above, together with the results of such other investigation, as the contracting officer may deem appropriate, there shall be established by negotiation the adjusted total contract cost of those items subject to the provisions of this clause. Failure to agree on any of the matters set forth in this subparagraph (i) shall be a dispute concerning a question of fact within the meaning of the clause of this contract entitled "Disputes."

(ii) The final contract price of such items shall be established by adding to the adjusted total contract cost, as negotiated under subparagraph (i) above, an allowance for profit determined in accordance with the instructions set forth in subparagraph (iii) below, provided, however, that in no event shall the final contract price exceed such percent of the contract target cost as has been negotiated pursuant to paragraph (h) hereof.

Less than the contract target cost	Contract target profit plus such percent of the amount by which the adjusted total contract cost is less than the contract target cost as has been negotiated pursuant to paragraph (h) hereof.

(k) Adjustment of payments. Notwithstanding any provision of this contract authorizing greater payment, adjustments and refunds shall be made if the total of all amounts billed and paid or payable under this contract for items delivered to (or services performed for) and accepted by the Government (including amounts applied to liquidate progress payments) until final price revision has been made shall exceed the sum of the following items as reported by the contractor from time to time as hereinafter provided: (i) the total contract price of all items delivered to (or services performed for) and accepted by the Government for which final prices have been established, and (ii) the total amount of costs (estimated to the extent necessary) that have been reasonably incurred for and are properly allocable solely to items delivered to (or services performed for) and accepted by the Government for which final prices have not been established, and (iii) the total amount of the established target profit allocable by direct proportion to items delivered to (or services performed for) and accepted by the Government for which final prices have not been established—increased or decreased in accordance with the incentive profit formula of this contract when the amount of costs stated in item (ii) above differs from the applicable target costs. Within 45 days after the end of each quarter of the contractor's fiscal year, beginning for the quarter in which a delivery is first made (or services are first performed for and accepted by the Government) under this contract, and as of the end of each quarter, the contractor shall submit a statement setting forth the respective amounts of each of the three numbered items next above, together with the total amount of all billings for items delivered to (or services performed for) and accepted by the Government (including amounts applied to liquidate progress payments) under this contract as of the end of each quarter. If on any quarterly statement these total billings exceed the sum of the three numbered items above, this gross excess less any applicable tax credit under Section 1481 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 shall, after deduction of the total refunds (cash or credit memoranda not including any tax credits under the Internal Revenue Code) theretofore made, be paid immediately by the contractor to the Government or credited against existing unpaid billings covered by such statement: provided that if any portion of such gross excess (less all tax credits under the Internal Revenue Code) has been applied to the liquidation of progress payments, such amount may be added or restored to the unliquidated progress payment account, to the extent consistent with the progress payment clause of this contract, instead of making direct refund thereof.

(l) Termination. In the event this contract is terminated, in whole or in part, settlement shall be made in accordance with the provisions of the clause hereof entitled "Termination for the convenience of the Government" or the provisions of the clause hereof entitled "Default" whichever is applicable, subject to the following:

(i) If this contract is terminated in its entirety at any time prior to agreement upon revised prices hereunder, the contractor and the contracting officer shall if termination settlement is to be negotiated on an inventory basis, negotiate to establish such prices for completed articles or services, the price of which was subject to revision hereunder, as may be equitable under the circumstances. Failure to agree shall be a dispute concerning a question of fact within the meaning of the clause of this contract entitled "Disputes."

(ii) If this contract is partially terminated the contractor and the contracting officer shall agree upon such revision in the target prices and the contract target prices as may be equitable under the circumstances. Failure to agree shall be a dispute concerning a question of fact within the meaning of the clause of this contract entitled "Disputes."

(m) Adjustment of billing price. If at any time it appears that the final unit prices will be substantially greater or less than the unit prices at which units under this contract are being billed, the contracting officer may adjust such unit billing prices. The establishment of adjusted prices for billing purposes only shall in no way limit or affect the price revision to be computed in accordance with the provisions of this clause.

(n) Subcontracts. The contractor agrees that no subcontract placed under this contract shall provide for payment on cost-plus-a-percentage-of-cost basis. The contractor further agrees that all subcontracts, other than those on a firm fixed-price basis, which as modified or amended exceed the total cost of $25,000, shall contain provisions (i) reserving to the Government the right to have the books and records of such subcontractor inspected and audited by a representative and (ii) requiring such subcontractors to reserve in their subcontracts a similar right for the contracting officer to have a Government representative inspect and audit the books and records of lower tier and subcontracts extending below a cost reimbursement type, redeterminable-price type or incentive type subcontract in a chain unbroken by firm fixed-price subcontracts.

TITLE 46—SHIPPING

Chapter I—Coast Guard, Department of the Treasury

Subchapter Q—Specifications

PART 164—MATERIALS

INCOMBUSTIBLE MATERIALS FOR MERCHANT VESSELS; MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

This specification contains the requirements for incombustible materials and substances used in the construction of merchant vessels. In establishing this specification certain naturally incombustible substances are permitted without test. However, since there are hundreds of such substances this specification contained only those which are normally used as structural fire-proofing materials. Since the promulgation of this specification in 1949 experience has indicated that additional substances may be accepted without test. Therefore, 46 CFR 164.009–2 (b) (1) and (3) are amended to include such items as clay, ceramics, uncoated glass fibers, and Portland cement, gypsum, or magnesite concretes with aggregates of perlite or pumice.

In the testing of incombustible substances the tolerance for temperature rise specified in the test procedure is relaxed to agree with tolerances permitted by the testing laboratory. In the amendment to 46 CFR 164.009–3 (b) (4) (iii) the temperature rise of "10 degrees C." is changed to "20 degrees C." The method for handling remittances and charges for testing of incombustible substances has been changed. The size of the samples to be submitted and the cost of tests conducted by the National Bureau of Standards depend upon many variable factors. Therefore, the provisions of 46 CFR 164.009–4 (b) and (c) are revised by deleting the specific fee which will be charged from the specification and providing that the manufacturer will be informed.

Because the amendments in this document are relaxations from previous requirements or changes in Coast Guard procedures it is hereby found that compliance with the Administrative Procedure Act respecting notice of proposed rule making, public rule making procedures thereon, and effective date requirements thereof is contrary to the public interest.

By virtue of the authority vested in me as Commandant, United States Coast Guard, by Treasury Department Order Nos. 120, dated July 31, 1950 (15 F. R. 6521), 167–14, dated November 24, 1954 (19 F. R. 8026), and CGFR 56–28, dated July 24, 1956 (21 F. R. 5659), to promulgate regulations in accordance with the statutes cited with the regulations below, the following amendments in this document are prescribed and shall become effective on the date of publication of this document in the FEDERAL REGISTER:

1. Section 164.009–2 (b) is amended by revising subparagraphs (1) and (3) to read as follows:

§ 164.009–2 Material. • • •

(1) Sheet glass, block glass, clay, ceramics, or uncoated glass fibers.

(3) Portland cement, gypsum, or magnesite concretes with aggregates of only sand, gravel, asbestos fibers, expanded vermiculite, expanded or vesicular slags, diatomaceous silica, perlite, or pumice.

2. Section 164.009–3 (b) (4) (iii) is amended to read as follows:

§ 164.009–3 Inspection and testing. • • •

(b) Heated tube test. • • •

(4) • • •

(iii) The internal temperature of the specimen shall not exceed the heating tube temperature by more than 20 degrees C.

3. Section 164.009–4 (b) and (c) is amended to read as follows:

§ 164.004–4 Procedure for approval. • • •

(b) The information furnished pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section will be submitted by the Coast Guard to the National Bureau of Standards for consideration. If the material appears to be suitable, the manufacturer will be so advised. The size of the samples to be submitted for testing and the cost of the test will be specified at this time.

(c) If the material is indicated as being suitable, the manufacturer shall submit the following to the Coast Guard:

(1) Samples of the material as specified.

(2) If the manufacturer desires to witness the test, he should so indicate at this time.

VESSEL INSPECTION REGULATIONS

PUBLIC HEARING ON PROPOSED CHANGES

1. The Merchant Marine Council will hold a public hearing on Monday, October 15, 1956, commencing at 9:30 a. m., in Room 4120, Coast Guard Headquarters, 13th and E Streets NW., Washington D. C., for the purpose of receiving comments, views, and data on certain proposed changes in the vessel inspection regulations as generally described in Items I to III, inclusive, below.

2. The proposed changes in the vessel inspection regulations, together with the statutory authority for making such changes, are generally described by subjects in paragraphs 5 to 16, inclusive. The Merchant Marine Council Public Hearing Agenda (CG–249), dated October 15, 1956, has been prepared. In this Agenda the specific changes proposed and the present regulations are, where practicable, set forth in comparison form, together with reasons for the changes. Copies of this Agenda are mailed to persons and organizations who have expressed a continued interest in the subjects under consideration and have requested that copies be furnished them. Copies will be furnished to those interested so long as they are available and requests should be addressed to the Commandant (CMC), United States Coast Guard, Washington 25, D. C. After the extra copies available for distribution are exhausted, copies will be available for reading purposes only in Room 4104, Coast Guard Headquarters, or at the offices of the various Coast Guard District Commanders.

3. Written and oral comments on the proposed vessel inspection regulations described generally in Items I to III, inclusive, are invited. Written comments containing constructive criticisms, suggestions, or views are welcomed. Each oral and written comment received is considered and evaluated. If it is believed the comment, view, or suggestion clarifies or improves the proposed regulations, it is accepted and after adoption by the Commandant the revised regulations are published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Acknowledgment of the comments received and reasons why the suggested changes were or were not adopted are not normally furnished because personnel is not available to perform this work. Comments submitted in writing before or at the public hearing will not normally be read at the public hearing, but such comments will be made a part of the record.

4. Comments, data, and views, regarding the proposed vessel inspection regulations may be presented orally or in writing at the public hearing before the Merchant Marine Council on October 15, 1956. Any person or organization who desires to submit written comments, data, and views in connection with these proposed regulations is urged to submit them so that they will be received prior to October 10, 1956, by the Commandant (CMC), United States Coast Guard, Washington 25, D. C. In order to insure consideration of comments and to facilitate checking and recording, it is essential that each comment regarding a section or paragraph of the proposed regulations shall be submitted on Form CG–3287, showing the section number, the proposed change, the reason or basis, and the name, business firm or organization (if any), and the address of the submitter. A small quantity of Form CG–3287 is attached to each Agenda and additional copies may be obtained upon request from the Commandant (CMC), or from any Coast Guard District Commander, or the form may be reproduced by a typewriter or otherwise.

ITEM I—BIENNIAL INSPECTION OF CARGO AND TANK VESSELS

5. The act of June 4, 1956 (Public Law 549, 84th Congress, 2d Session; 70 Stat. 223–226), amended sections 4417, 4418, 4453, and 4454 of the Revised Statutes (46 U. S. C. 391, 392, 435, 436), and section 10 of the act of May 28, 1908 (46 U. S. C. 395). This law authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to prescribe regulations permitting the biennial inspection of the hulls and boilers of certain types of vessels. By a Treasury Department order dated July 24, 1956, the Secretary of the Treasury delegated to the Commandant, U. S. Coast Guard, the functions of the Secretary of the Treasury under this law and provided that the Commandant shall have final action on appeals made in accordance with R. S. 4417, as amended. Field forces of the Coast Guard were instructed on June 28, 1956, that all certificates of inspection issued to cargo vessels (including tank vessels) and to all other inspected vessels (except passenger vessels) and all safety equipment certificates issued under the provisions of the International Convention for Safety of Life at Sea, 1948, should thereafter be issued for a two-year period from date of issue. However, in the case of vessels equipped with river type lap-seam boilers, inspection shall be made on a yearly basis. This limitation also applies to those vessels, which in the judgment of the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, are in such condition as to require inspection at intervals of less than two years. In such cases, the certificates of inspection shall be issued for a period of one year only from date of issuance.

6. To accomplish the necessary changes in the vessel inspection regulations to give force and effect to the act of June 4, 1956, it is proposed to revise those regulations in 46 CFR Parts 2, 31, 33, 34, 38, 39, 91, and 111, which presently require that certificates of inspection shall be valid for a period of one year and be issued after completion of satisfactory annual inspections, to permit certificates of inspection to be valid for a period of two years after the completion of biennial inspections. Where necessary annual inspections will be changed to biennial inspections.

7. The proposed amendments to 46 CFR 2.20–1, 91.01–10, and 31.05–10 provide that certificates of inspection issued to certain cargo vessels, seagoing vessels, and tank vessels may be valid for a period of two years.

8. The proposed amendments to 46 CFR 91.20–20, 91.25–1, 91.25–5, 91.25–10, 91.25–15, 91.25–20, 91.25–25, 91–25–40, 91.25–45, 31.01–1, 31.01–15, 31.10–15, 33.01–1, 33.25–20, 33.35–10, 34.05–1, 34.15–20, 34.20–10, 34.25–15, 38.25–1, 39.25–10, and 111.05–10 provide for the biennial inspection of certain cargo vessels, seagoing barges, and tank vessels.

9. The regulations with respect to the biennial inspection of cargo vessels, seagoing vessels, and tank vessels are issued under R. S. 4405, as amended, and 4462, as amended, 46 U. S. C. 375, 416. These regulations interpret or apply R. S. 4417, as amended, 4417a, as amended, 4418, as amended, 4426, as amended, 4453, as amended, sec. 10, 35 Stat. 428, as amended, 41 Stat. 305, as amended, secs. 1, 2, 49 Stat. 346, as amended, and sec. 3, 68 Stat. 675; 46 U. S. C. 391, 391a, 392, 404, 435, 395, 363, 367, 50 U. S. C. 198; E. O. 10402, 17 F. R. 9917, 3 CFR, 1952 Supp.

ITEM II—LIFESAVING EQUIPMENT FOR VESSELS ENGAGED IN OFFSHORE DRILLING OPERATIONS

10. It is proposed to amend 46 CFR 94.10–20, regarding lifeboats and life rafts on cargo and miscellaneous vessels, to provide that such vessels engaged in operations for the purpose of exploring for, developing, removing and transporting the resources of the Outer Continental Shelf of the United States in the Gulf of Mexico, the Pacific Ocean, and the Atlantic Ocean south of the thirty-third parallel of north latitude, may use a combination of approved life floats and approved work boats in lieu of the standard lifeboats presently required.

11. The authority to issue regulations respecting cargo and miscellaneous vessels is in R. S. 4405, as amended, and 4462, as amended; 46 U. S. C. 375, 416. The regulations interpret or apply R. S. 4417, as amended, 4418, as amended, 4426, as amended, secs. 1, 2, 49 Stat. 1544, as amended, and sec. 3, 68 Stat. 675; 46 U. S. C. 391, 392, 404, 367, 50 U. S. C. 198; E. O. 10402, 17 F. R. 9917, 3 CFR, 1952 Supp.

ITEM III—DANGEROUS CARGO REGULATIONS; MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

12. Requests for changes in the Dangerous Cargo Regulations have been received, and due to the nature of these proposals, it is not considered desirable to delay action until the regularly scheduled Merchant Marine Council Public Hearing in the spring of 1957. It is proposed to amend 46 CFR 146.02–11, regarding import shipments and transshipments, to provide for trans-shipment of dangerous cargo at domestic ports under certain specified conditions. The proposed amendment to 46 CFR 146.23–35 (h) (2), regarding transportation of sulfuric acid in bulk, will permit 3/16 inch rubber lining for gravity type acid tanks (sulfuric acid below 1.408 specific gravity) instead of the presently required ¼ inch lining.

13. The transportation of small arms ammunition without explosives loaded bullets (ICC and Coast Guard Class C explosives) has been safe. However, complaints have been made regarding the requirement of 46 CFR 146.27–25 (d) (1) that the engine room and boiler spaces or one hatch shall intervene between explosives of all types and cotton being unnecessarily stringent with respect to the transportation of this type of ammunition. It is, therefore, proposed to amend 46 CFR 146.27–25 (d) (1) to permit this type of explosives to be stowed in holds adjacent to and in holds above and below those containing cotton provided the 'tween deck hatches are closed off with hatch covers, then covered with asbestos paper, tarpaulins and dunnage.

14. In view of the practice to have automobiles in more than one color, it is proposed to amend 46 CFR 146.27–100, Table K—Classification: Hazardous articles, to permit the shipment of one pint each of two colors of touch up paint with the export shipment of each automobile in lieu of the one pint presently authorized.

15. It is proposed to amend 46 CFR 146.29–100, regarding classification, handling, and stowage chart for military explosives, to permit shipment of certain types of fuzes as Class III military explosives and to permit the overstowing of Class IV–B military explosives with nondangerous cargo and permitted military explosives.

16. The authority for dangerous cargo regulations in 46 CFR Part 146 is in R. S. 4405, as amended, 4462, as amended, and 4472, as amended; 46 U. S. C. 375, 416, 170. These regulations interpret or apply sec. 3, 68 Stat. 675; 50 U. S. C. 198; E. O. 10402, 17 F. R. 9917, 3 CFR, 1952 Supp.

Dated: September 17, 1956.

Order[1] Amending Order Regulating Handling of Milk in Upstate Michigan Marketing Area

§ 916.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and of each of the previously issued amendments thereto, and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(1) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area and the minimum prices specified in the order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

3. Delete § 916.43 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 916.43 Transfers. (a) Skim milk and butterfat disposed of from a fluid milk plant to another handler in the form of milk or skim milk shall be Class I utilization, unless utilization in another class is indicated by both handlers in their reports submitted pursuant to § 916.30: Provided, That in no event shall the amount so classified in such class be greater than the amount of producer milk used in such class by the transferee handler after allocating other source milk in his plant in series beginning with the lowest priced utilization.

(3) The operator of the transferee plant maintains books and records which are made available if requested by the market administrator and which are adequate for the verification of such utilization.

(c) Skim milk and butterfat disposed of from a fluid milk plant to a producer handler shall be Class I utilization.

(c) Class III milk. The Class III milk price shall be the basic formula price less 20 cents.

§ 916.52 Handler butterfat differential. There shall be added to or subtracted from, as the case may be, the prices of milk for each class as computed pursuant to § 916.51, for each one-tenth of one percent variation in the average butterfat test of the milk in each class above or below 3.5 percent an amount equal to the producer butterfat differential determined pursuant to § 916.71.

§ 916.53 Handler location adjustments. For milk which is received from producers at a fluid milk plant located more than 90 miles but not more than 110 miles, by shortest highway distance, as determined by the market administrator, from the courthouse in either Grayling or Manistee, whichever is closer, and utilized as Class I (prorating to such milk the utilization of all producer milk received at the plant), the price shall be the price effective pursuant to § 916.51 (a), less 12 cents, and less 1 cent additional for each 20 miles or fraction thereof over 110 miles.

[1] This order shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

RADIO STATION KODY (KODY)

ORDER AFTER PREHEARING CONFERENCE

In re application of John Alexander, George B. Dent, Jr., and Townsend E. Dent d/b as Radio Station KODY (KODY), North Platte, Nebraska, for construction permit; Docket No. 11775, File No. BP-10333.

Appearances. Appearances by counsel, all of Washington, D. C., were as follows: Mr. Frank U. Fletcher on behalf of the applicant, Radio Station KODY (KODY); Mr. D. F. Prince on behalf of the named respondent, Radio Station KSJB; and Mr. Webster P. Maxon on behalf of the Chief, Broadcast Bureau, Federal Communications Commission. In addition to these named parties, Mr. Dwight Doty of Washington, D. C. was present as attorney for Meredith WOW, Inc., the licensee of Station WOW, which has petitioned for leave to intervene and for enlargement of the issues in this proceeding.

1. Pursuant to prior order, and on September 11, 1956, a prehearing conference in this proceeding was held and was attended by counsel for the parties and persons as indicated in the statement of appearances above. The transcript of that conference, Volume 1, pages 1 through 29, is made a part of the record, and the matters determined at the conference are hereinafter stated.

2. Counsel for Meredith WOW, Inc., hereinafter called petitioner, attended the conference and was permitted to take part in the discussions of procedural matters then under consideration. Petitioner has heretofore filed a petition for leave to intervene and for enlargement of the issues in this proceeding. The petition has been opposed by separate pleadings on behalf of the applicant and Bureau. The matters presented by these pleadings have not yet been decided by the Commission. Accordingly, the Hearing Examiner could not accord to petitioner recognition as a party in this proceeding, the initial judgment upon that matter and the enlargement of the issues being reserved to the Commission under § 1.741 of the rules. Nevertheless, some consideration was given to the views and requests upon procedural matters expressed by counsel for petitioner, as hereinafter indicated.

3. At the conference a copy of the applicant's engineering exhibit, hereinafter discussed, was supplied to petitioner's counsel. A request for postponement of the hearing made by petitioner's counsel and opposed by the applicant and by Bureau, was not granted. Upon inquiry by its counsel, petitioner was advised of the Hearing Examiner's tentative view that at the hearing petitioner will not be allowed to offer evidence or to cross-examine witnesses or otherwise to participate unless it then shall have become a named party to the proceeding; this question will be re-examined at the hearing upon request by petitioner and in the light of such precedents, authorities, and arguments as may then be urged. Finally, it was recognized that if this matter proceeds to and through hearing as now contemplated, the hearing record may have to be reopened to adapt the procedures to the requirements of the Commission's action upon the pending pleadings.

4. Counsel for the named respondent, Radio Station KSJB, stated on the record early in the conference that that respondent does not desire either to press objections to a grant here or to participate further in the proceeding. Upon request of respondent's counsel he was thereupon excused from further attending the hearing conference and he then left the hearing room.

5. By agreement of counsel for the applicant and for Bureau and with the approval of the Hearing Examiner it was determined that the hearing will be commenced at 9 a. m. on Monday, September 24, 1956. Applicant exchanged its exhibit upon all matters at issue with counsel for Bureau and for Meredith WOW, Inc. It is expected that engineers for the applicant and for Bureau will confer and thus insure that the engineering exhibit will fully and correctly provide the essential facts upon the matters at issue. The parties expect that the evidence will be offered in written form at the hearing and without oral verification or examination of any supporting witness.

Accordingly, it is ordered, This 18th day of September 1956, that the terms and provisions and conditions hereinabove stated shall govern the course of the further proceeding herein to the extent indicated, unless this order be modified by the Hearing Examiner or by the Commission upon a review thereof; and

It is further ordered, That the hearing in this proceeding shall be commenced at 9 a. m. on Monday, September 24, 1956, at the offices of the Commission in Washington, D. C.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

CITIES SERVICE GAS CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

SEPTEMBER 17, 1956.

Take notice that Cities Service Gas Company (Applicant), a Delaware corporation with principal place of business at Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, filed on May 23, 1956, an application (1) for a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 7 (c) of the Natural Gas Act (act) and (2) for permission to abandon certain existing natural gas facilities and service rendered thereby, pursuant to section 7 (b) of the act, authorizing Applicant to construct and operate certain natural gas facilities in a new location as substantial replacement for the facilities and service proposed to be abandoned as hereinafter described, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, all as more fully represented in the application which is on file with the Commission and open for public inspection.

The facilities proposed to be constructed and operated by Applicant at an estimated total cost of $146,000 consist of:

(1) Approximately 6.5 miles of 8-inch lateral transmission line extending primarily North thence East from a point of interconnection with Applicant's existing 12-inch Ottawa-Sedalia transmission line in the NW4, S19, T45N, R30W, to the Ralph Green (electric generating) power plant of Missouri Public Service Company in the NE4, S19, T46N, R30W, all in Cass County, Missouri.

These facilities will be used in part to transport and deliver natural gas to the Gas Service Company for resale and distribution by said company in Pleasant Hill, Cass County and in Lone Jack, Jackson County, Missouri, in lieu of the facilities now used to serve these towns which are proposed to be abandoned. In addition, these facilities will be used to transport and deliver on an interruptible basis the partial requirements, viz. the excess over 1,000 Mcf per day at 14.73 psia, of the Ralph Green power plant, a new industrial customer of Applicant.

(2) As a continuation of (1) above, approximately 3 miles of 4-inch lateral transmission line extending almost equidistant North thence East from the aforesaid Ralph Green power plant to a point of interconnection with Applicant's existing Pleasant Hill-Lone Jack lateral transmission line near the Southern terminus thereof in SW4, S8, T46N, R30W, Cass County, Missouri.

These facilities will be used to transport and deliver natural gas to The Gas Service Company for resale and distribution by said company in Pleasant Hill, Cass County and in Lone Jack, Jackson County, Missouri, in lieu of the facilities now used to serve these towns which are proposed to be abandoned.

(3) Approximtaely 1.25 miles of 2-inch lateral transmission line extending North from a point of interconnection with Applicant's existing 12-inch

Ottawa-Sedalia transmission line in the NE4, S12, T45N, R29W, to the present town border of Kingsville, Missouri, in the SE4, S36, T46N, R29W, all in Johnson County, Missouri.

These facilities will be used to transport and deliver natural gas to The Gas Service Company for resale and distribution by said company in Kingsville, Johnson County, Missouri, in lieu of the facilities now used to serve this town which are proposed to be abandoned.

(4) Approximately .75 mile of 4-inch lateral transmission line extending South from a point of interconnection with Applicant's existing 12-inch Ottawa-Sedalia transmission line in the SE4, S3, T45N, R28W, to the present town border of Holden, Missouri, in the NW4, S11, T45N, R28W, all in Johnson County, Missouri.

These facilities will be used to transport and deliver natural gas to The Gas Service Company for resale and distribution by said company in Holden, Johnson County, Missouri, in lieu of the facilities now used to serve this town which are proposed to be abandoned.

The facilities proposed to be abandoned and reclaimed by Applicant consist of approximately 17.2 miles of 6-inch lateral transmission line extending northwesterly from Holden, Johnson County, Missouri, (NW4, S11, T45N, R28W) to a point of cross connection with Applicant's existing 12-inch Ottawa-Sedalia transmission line; thence to Kingsville, Johnson County, Missouri; thence through Strasburg, Jackson County, Missouri; and thence curving North to a point of interconnection with and near the midpoint of Applicant's existing Pleasant Hill-Lone Jack lateral line.

The application states that no change in service is involved in this project except as to eight individual resale tap consumers located along the facilities proposed to be abandoned, which consumers will be such a distance from Applicant's facilities after the proposed rearrangement as to render reconnecting said consumers impracticable. Applicant proposes to abandon the service now rendered these eight consumers.

Applicant states that practically all of the facilities to be reclaimed will be used again and have an estimated salvage value of $41,000. The total cost of reclaiming these facilities is estimated to be $35,000. The net salvage value is $6,000.

The estimated total cost of the complete project is estimated to be $140,000 which will be financed by Applicant out of treasury cash.

The application further states that it is the policy of Applicant to expand its system to meet the increasing peak day firm demands of its existing customers; that the facilities listed above constitute only enlargements to serve increased firm demands of existing jurisdictional customers of Applicant; that no new sales or service are contemplated except the proposed direct industrial sale to Ralph Green power plant; that the proposed sale by Applicant would have no substantial over-all effect on Applicant's gas reserves and would not reduce the life index of Applicant's gas reserves by a period of one year or more; that the proposed sale would not impair service to any existing customers of Applicant; that the proposed sale by Applicant would assist in maintaining Applicant's over-all system load factor and particularly on the Ottawa-Sedalia-Carrollton portion of its system where peak day firm demands are increasing at a faster rate than on the balance of Applicant's system, thus making it extremely important for Applicant to fill in the "valleys" created by such peak day firm demands during off-peak periods by sales of the kind and character involved herein in order to maintain rates to firm customers at the lowest reasonable level; that the proposed sale would result in substantial economies to Missouri Public Service Company in its cost of fuel at said plant as against the cost of another competitive fuel now being used; that by reason of the age and condition of the facilities sought to be abandoned Applicant is incurring excessive losses of gas (presently around 30 percent) due to leakage along the entire length thereof and incurring excessive maintenance costs which render the continued future operation of such facilities inefficient; and that it is not economical to undertake the extensive repairs required.

This matter is one that should be disposed of as promptly as possible under the applicable rules and regulations and to that end:

Take further notice that, protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before October 10, 1956.

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter IX—Agricultural Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

PART 994—PECANS GROWN IN GEORGIA, ALABAMA, FLORIDA, MISSISSIPPI, AND SOUTH CAROLINA

ORDER TERMINATING SUSPENSION OF GRADE AND SIZE REGULATIONS

The grade and size regulation (§ 994.102; 19 F. R. 6785) which was in effect pursuant to the provisions of Marketing Agreement No. 111 and Order No. 94 regulating the handling of pecans grown in Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, and South Carolina (7 CFR, Part 994), effective pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), was suspended on August 26, 1955. This action was taken when it became apparent that prices received by growers would average above parity for the 1955–56 crop year.

The 1956–57 pecan crop in the five-State area is presently estimated at 101,400,000 pounds as compared with 39,100,000 last season and producers and handlers have recommended that shipments of inshell pecans from the area be subject to grade and size regulation. Information available to the Department indicates that such regulation of inshell pecans shipped from the area would tend to promote the objectives of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, in that it now appears that the average price for pecans for the coming season will be below parity. Therefore, suspension of the following grade and size regulation is hereby terminated, effective as of October 1, 1956:

§ 994.102 Grade and size regulation. (a) In lieu of the initial grade and size regulation contained in § 994.74 of the marketing agreement and order, no person shall handle, except as provided in § 994.77 (e) of the marketing agreement and order, any unshelled pecans:

(1) Unless such pecans have a count per pound of less than 91 nuts, and the 10 smallest nuts in a representative 100 nut sample weigh at least 1.5 ounces;

(2) In addition, meet requirements of the U. S. Commercial grade as established in the U. S. Standards for Pecans in the Shell §§ 51.1400 to 51.1416 of this title, to read, as modified for the purposes of this grade and size regulation with respect to the minimum percentage of kernels required to meet the requirements of the U. S. No. 1 grade and the maximum tolerance for kernels which may be very seriously damaged, as set forth in subparagraph (3) of this paragraph: Provided, That pecans of the Mahan variety shall be required only to meet the requirements of the U. S. Commercial grade, as set forth in the aforesaid U. S. Standards for Pecans in the Shell, including the tolerances set forth therein;

(3) The pecans, other than those of the Mahan variety, shall consist of pecans in the shell which shells are free from serious damage caused by stains or adhering hulls, split, broken or punctured shells, loose hulls or other foreign material or other means. At least 75 percent, by count, of the pecans in any lot shall have kernels which meet the requirements of the U. S. No. 1 grade; and the remainder shall have kernels which are well cured, free from rancidity, mold, decay, insect injury, and from serious damage caused by shriveling, leanness, discoloration, or other means. In order to allow for variations incident to proper grading and handling, the following tolerance for pecans other than those of the Mahan variety shall be permitted:

(i) For external defects (defects of the shell) not more than 10 percent, by count, for pecans which fail to meet the requirements of the grade; and

(ii) For internal defects (defects of the kernel) not more than 15 percent, by count, for pecans which fail to meet the requirements of the grade: Provided, That no more than three-fifths of this amount, or 9 percent, shall be allowed for kernels which are very seriously damaged. No part of any tolerance shall be allowed to reduce, for the lot, the 75 percent of kernels required to meet the U. S. No. 1 grade.

Notice of proposed rule making, public participations therein, and delay in making this order effective later than October 1, 1956 (see section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act; 5 U. S. C.

PART 30—LICENSING OF BYPRODUCT MATERIAL

APPLICATIONS FOR SPECIFIC LICENSES; ELIMINATION OF REQUIREMENT FOR SIGNATURE UNDER OATH OR AFFIRMATION

This amendment to Title 10, Part 30, Licensing of Byproduct Material, eliminates the requirement that applications for specific licenses must be signed under oath or affirmation. Because this amendment merely eliminates a present procedural requirement, the Atomic Energy Commission has found that general notice of proposed rule making and public procedure thereon are unnecessary and would be contrary to the public interest; and that good cause exists why this amendment should be made effective without the customary 30-day period of notice.

Paragraph (c) of § 30.22 is amended by deleting the words "under oath or affirmation."

APPLICATIONS FOR SPECIFIC LICENSES AND STATEMENTS; ELIMINATION OF REQUIREMENT FOR SIGNATURE UNDER OATH OR AFFIRMATION

This amendment to Title 10, Part 55, Operators' Licenses, eliminates the requirement that applications for specific licenses and statements must be signed under oath or affirmation. Because this amendment merely eliminates a present procedural requirement, the Atomic Energy Commission has found that general notice of proposed rule making and public procedure thereon are unnecessary and would be contrary to the public interest; and that good cause exists why this amendment should be made effective without the customary 30-day period of notice.

TITLE 14—CIVIL AVIATION

Chapter I—Civil Aeronautics Board

[Reg. No. SR-418]

PART 40—SCHEDULED INTERSTATE AIR CARRIER CERTIFICATION AND OPERATION RULES

PART 41—CERTIFICATION AND OPERATION RULES FOR SCHEDULED AIR CARRIER OPERATIONS OUTSIDE CONTINENTAL LIMITS OF THE UNITED STATES

REQUIREMENTS FOR PILOT ROUTE QUALIFICATIONS IN SCHEDULED INTERSTATE AIR CARRIER OPERATIONS AND SCHEDULED AIR CARRIER OPERATIONS OUTSIDE CONTINENTAL LIMITS OF UNITED STATES

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 20th day of September 1956.

Section 40.303 (c) of Part 40 of the Civil Air Regulations requires in part that each pilot in command make an entry into each regular, provisional, and refueling airport into which he is scheduled to fly. Section 41.50 of Part 41 of the Civil Air Regulations provides in part that a pilot in qualifying over a route shall make at least one round trip or two one-way trips over the route, including a familiarization flight at each regular, provisional, or refueling airport, with one of the air carrier's check pilots.

The Board, on September 23, 1955, promulgated Special Civil Air Regulation No. SR-413 and on December 23, 1955, promulgated Special Civil Air Regulation No. SR-414. These regulations permit air carriers, with the approval of the Administrator, to qualify their pilots at airports by means other than physical entry. SR-413 is applicable to scheduled air carrier operations outside the continental limits of the United States, whereas SR-414 is applicable to scheduled domestic air carrier operations. Both SR-413 and SR-414 terminate September 23, 1956.

The history of these special regulations began with the publication of Civil Air Regulations Draft Release No. 55-3 on January 20, 1955. This draft release was concerned with the over-all problem of pilot airport and route qualification. Therein considerable emphasis was placed in particular on recent developments of motion picture panoramic views of airports and their environs which showed excellent promise of providing an effective means for insuring pilot airport qualification. The Board expressed the view that the regulations should be amended in a manner that would encourage further research and development of the visual training aids programs by various commercial sources and at the same time provide more acceptable airport qualification rules for use in the meantime. Furthermore, the Board stated that it would seem appropriate to permit methods of airport qualification other than physical entry, provided that such alternative methods had the approval of the Administrator.

Following publication of Draft Release No. 55-3, the Board received petitions from several air carriers requesting permission to qualify their pilots on certain routes and at specified airports by means other than those presently required by §§ 40.303 (c) and 41.50 of Parts 40 and 41 as appropriate, of the Civil Air Regulations. These air carriers based their requests upon, among other things, the consideration that each had developed a comprehensive training program based on the use of color motion pictures or slides showing clear daylight views of the complete physical layout of the airports, surrounding terrain, obstructions, approaches to all runways, restricted areas, and conspicuous reference points that are of value to the pilot. Furthermore, it appeared that certain precautionary procedures would be employed to assure that the training programs would be effective and the operations would be conducted safely.

The Board considered that the programs developed by these air carriers would provide a timely opportunity for evaluating the use of pictorial means of airport and route qualification by industry and the Government, and that a Special Civil Air Regulation was the appropriate vehicle for permitting the controlled introduction of the new techniques. Accordingly, the Board promulgated SR-413 for air carriers conducting operations pursuant to Part 41 and SR-414 for those air carriers conducting their operations under Part 40. The Board made clear, however, that nothing in SR-413 and SR-414 was to be construed to prejudice final action by the Board on the proposals presented originally in Draft Release No. 55-3.

In view of the fact that Special Civil Air Regulations Nos. SR-413 and SR-414, will terminate on September 23, 1956, the Board, on June 15, 1956, requested the views of the Civil Aeronautics Administration (CAA), the Air Transport Association (ATA), and the Air Line Pilots Association (ALPA) with respect to the effectiveness of SR-413 and SR-414 and asked for any recommendations they might have concerning these special regulations.

In consideration of an evaluation made of the views and recommendations received from the CAA, ALPA, and ATA, the Board believed that the controlled introduction of new techniques of pilot airport qualification should be permitted to continue for another year. This would enable industry and the Government alike to obtain additional information and experience with respect to improving pilot airport qualifications and procedures.

Accordingly, the Bureau of Safety Regulation circulated Civil Air Regulations Draft Release No. 56-21 on August 13, 1956 (21 F. R. 6278). In this release the Bureau proposed to combine the authority presently contained in SR-413 and SR-414 into one Special Civil Air Regulation, the provisions of which would be uniformly applicable to Parts 40 and 41 air carriers desiring to employ means of pilot airport qualification other than those presently required by §§ 40.303 (c) and 41.50 of Parts 40 and 41, respectively. The substance of the proposal was essentially the same as that contained in SR-413, with certain modifications and additions. This action was taken in cognizance of the Board's policy that the same standards should be applied to scheduled international and domestic operations, except where the inherent differences in the types of operations require differentiation.

In Draft Release 56–21 it was proposed that a pilot should be permitted to make an initial entry at an airport under day VFR without being accompanied by a pilot qualified at the airport only when such entry had the approval of the Administrator. The Board is of the opinion after evaluation of the comment received in response to this proposal and other information that such a procedure would be administratively burdensome. Furthermore, such a procedure appears to be unnecessary in view of assurance given the Board that VFR minimums, both day and night, established by the Administrator for airports used by air carriers, including those minimums established for airports located in mountainous areas, are sufficiently high to permit a pilot to make a safe initial entry under VFR weather conditions unaccompanied by a pilot qualified at the particular airport involved. Accordingly, this reguation permits a qualifying pilot to make his initial entry without being accompanied by a pilot qualified at the airport when such entry is made under VFR weather conditions. This procedure is essentially the same as that authorized in Part 41 and SR–413.

It was further proposed to clarify the meaning of the words "other means" which the record showed had had significance only in two respects: (1) To permit pilot airport qualification by approved pictorial means and (2) to authorize the Administrator to find, on the basis of certain factors, that in the conduct of an air carrier's operations into an airport in close proximity to one at which the pilots are qualified, that the pilots involved are adequately qualified at the new airport even though they have not made an actual entry. Therefore, in this special regulation, the words "other means" are omitted and the two aforementioned situations are clearly spelled out as those to be covered by this regulation.

Various interested persons submitted additional suggestions for further revision of the special regulations or final amendment of § 40.303 (c). The Board is of the opinion, however, that an additional experimental period, particularly with respect to the use of pictorial means of airport qualification, would be in the public interest. It is believed that final amendments of Parts 40 and 41 or additional changes to the special regulations at this time would be premature.

It should be clearly understood that this temporary regulation will not relieve any air carrier of the responsibility of showing that each pilot in command is thoroughly qualified for the routes and airports which he is scheduled to serve. Furthermore, nothing in this regulation should be construed to prejudice final action by the Board on the proposals presented in Draft Release No. 55–3.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this regulation, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented. Since it would not be in the public interest to permit existing authority to lapse for 30 days, and since this regulation is permissive and imposes no burden on any person, the Board finds that good cause exists for making this regulation effective on less than 30 days' notice.

In consideration of the foregoing, the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby makes and promulgates the following Special Civil Air Regulation, effective September 24, 1956:

Contrary provisions of Parts 40 and 41 of the Civil Air Regulations notwithstanding, an air carrier conducting scheduled interstate operations or scheduled operations outside the continental limits of the United States may, subject to the approval of the Administrator, comply with the following provisions in lieu of the applicable provisions of §§ 40.303 and 41.50:

(a) The air carrier shall be responsible that each pilot in command is thoroughly qualified for the route over which he is to fly aircraft in scheduled air transportation as a pilot in command. An air carrier shall not utilize a pilot as pilot in command until he has been qualified for the route on which he is to serve at least in accordance with paragraphs (b), (c), (d), and (e) of this regulation and the appropriate instructor or check pilot has so certified.

(b) Each such pilot shall demonstrate adequate knowledge concerning the subjects listed below with respect to the route to be flown. Those portions of the demonstration pertaining to holding procedures and instrument approach procedures may be accomplished in a synthetic trainer which contains the radio equipment and instruments necessary to simulate the navigational and letdown procedures approved for use by the air carrier:

(1) Weather characteristics,
(2) Navigational facilities,
(3) Communication procedures,
(4) Type of en route terrain and obstruction hazards,
(5) Minimum safe flight levels,
(6) Position reporting points,
(7) Holding procedures,
(8) Pertinent traffic control procedures, and
(9) Congested areas, obstructions, physical layout, and all instrument approach procedures for each regular, provisional, and refueling airport approved for the route.

(c) Each such pilot shall make an entry as a member of the flight crew at each regular, provisional, and refueling airport into which he is scheduled to fly. Such entry shall include a landing and take-off. The qualifying pilot shall occupy a seat in the pilot compartment. He shall be accompanied by a pilot who is qualified at the airport.

(d) Such pilot shall not be required to meet the entry requirements of paragraph (c) of this regulation when:

(1) The initial entry is made under VFR weather conditions at the particular airport involved; or

(2) The air carrier shows that the pilot airport qualifications can be accomplished by an approved pictorial means; or

(3) The air carrier notifies the Administrator that it intends to conduct operations at an airport in close proximity to an airport into which the pilots involved are presently qualified by entry, and the Administrator finds that such pilots are adequately qualified at the new airport. The Administrator, in making such finding, shall take into consideration at least the familiarity of the pilots with the layout, surrounding terrain, location of obstacles, and instrument approach and traffic control procedures at the new airport.

(e) On routes on which navigation must be accomplished by pilotage and on which flight is to be conducted at or below the level of the adjacent terrain which is within a horizontal distance of 25 miles on either side of the center line of the route to be flown, the pilot shall be familiarized with such route by not less than two one-way trips as pilot or additional member of the crew over the route under VFR weather conditions to permit the qualifying pilot to observe terrain along the route.

This regulation supersedes Special Civil Air Regulations Nos. SR–413 and SR–414 and shall terminate September 23, 1957, unless sooner superseded or rescinded by the Board.

[Cease and desist order, Stone & Stone, Inc., et al., New York, N. Y., Docket 6538, September 7, 1956]

In the Matter of Stone & Stone, Inc., a Corporation; and Max Stone, Individually and as President and Treasurer of Said Corporation; and Jerome Magnus, Individually and as Production Manager for Said Corporation

This proceeding was heard by a hearing examiner on the complaint of the Commission—charging a New York City furrier with violating the Fur Products Labeling Act through failing to disclose on labels showing the name of the fur the fact that the particular fur product was dyed, failing to label certain fur products as required by the act, and invoicing certain products falsely to show the fur composing them as natural when its was artificially colored—and an agreement between counsel containing a consent order.

On this basis, the hearing examiner made his initial decision and order to cease and desist which became on September 7 the decision of the Commission.

The order to cease and desist is as follows:

It is ordered, That Respondents Stone & Stone, Inc., a corporation, and its officers; and Max Stone, individually and as President and Treasurer of said corporation; and Jerome Magnus, individually and as Production Manager for said corporation; and their representatives, agents and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the introduction into commerce, or the sale, advertising, or offering for sale in commerce, or the transportation or distribution in commerce, of any fur product, or in connection with the sale, advertising, offering for sale, transportation, or distribution of any fur product which is made in whole or in part of fur which has been shipped and received in commerce, as "commerce", "fur" and "fur product" are defined in the Fur Products Labeling Act, do forthwith cease and desist from:

A. Misbranding fur products by failing to affix labels to such fur products showing:

(a) The name or names of the animal or animals producing the fur or furs contained in the fur products as set forth in the Fur Products Name Guide and as prescribed under the rules and regulations;

(b) That the fur product contains or is composed of used fur, when such is a fact;

(c) That the fur product contains or is composed of bleached, dyed or otherwise artificially colored fur, when such is a fact;

(d) That the fur product is composed in whole or in substantial part of paws, tails, bellies, or waste fur, when such is a fact;

(e) The name, or other identification issued and registered by the Commission, of one or more persons who manufactured such fur product for introduction into commerce, introduced it into commerce, sold it in commerce, advertised or offered it for sale in commerce, or transported or distributed it in commerce;

(f) The name of the country of origin of any imported furs used in the fur product;

B. Falsely or deceptively invoicing fur products by failing to furnish invoices to purchasers of fur products showing:

(a) The name or names of the animal or animals producing the fur or furs contained in the fur product, as set forth in the Fur Products Name Guide and as prescribed under the rules and regulations;

(b) That the fur product contains or is composed of used fur, when such is a fact;

(c) That the fur product contains or is composed of bleached, dyed or otherwise artifically colored fur, when such is a fact;

(d) That the fur product is composed in whole or in substantial part of paws, tails, bellies, or waste fur, when such is a fact;

(e) The name and address of the person issuing such invoice;

(f) The name of the country or origin of any imported furs contained in a fur product;

C. Falsely and deceptively invoicing fur products as being made of "natural" furs when they are in fact bleached, dyed, or otherwise artificially colored.

It is ordered, That respondents Stone & Stone, Inc., a corporation; and Max Stone, individually and as President and Treasurer of said corporation; and Jerome Magnus, individually and as Production Manager for said corporation, shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with the order to cease and desist.

In the Matter of Evans Fur Company, a Corporation, Evans Apparel Company, a Corporation, and Abraham L. Meltzer, Herman H. Meltzer, and Minerva M. Meltzer, Individually and as Officers of Said Corporations

This proceeding was heard by a hearing examiner on the complaint of the Commission—charging two Chicago corporate furriers and their common officers with violating the Fur Products Labelling Act, through labeling fur products falsely, failing to label them with the information required by the act, invoicing them deceptively, and false advertising in newspapers and by radio and television, as set forth in detail in the order below—and an agreement for a consent order.

On this basis, the hearing examiner made his initial decision and order to cease and desist which by order of September 7 became on September 8 the decision of the Commission.

The order to cease and desist is as follows:

It is ordered, That respondents Evans Fur Company, a corporation, and Evans Apparel Company, a corporation, and their officers, and Abraham L. Meltzer, and Herman H. Meltzer, individually and as officers of said corporations, and respondents' representatives, agents and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the introduction into commerce, or the sale, advertising, or offering for sale in commerce, or the transportation or distribution in commerce, of any fur product, or in connection with the sale, advertising, offering for sale, transportation or distribution of any fur product which is made in whole or in part of fur which has been shipped and received in commerce, as "commerce", "fur" and "fur product" are defined in the Fur Products Labeling Act, do forthwith cease and desist from:

A. Misbranding fur products by:

1. Falsely or deceptively labeling or otherwise identifying any such product as to the name or names of the animal or animals that produced the fur from which such product was manufactured.

(c) That the fur product is composed in whole or in substantial part of paws, tails or flanks, when such is a fact;

(d) The name, or other identification issued and registered by the Commission, of one or more persons who manufactured such fur product for introduction into commerce, introduced it into commerce, sold it in commerce, advertised or offered it for sale in commerce, or transported or distributed it in commerce;

(e) The name of the country of origin of any imported furs used in the fur product.

3. Setting forth, on labels attached to fur products, the name or names of any animal or animals other than the name or names provided for in paragraph A (2) (a) above.

(d) That any of such products are:

1. Manufactured by respondents when in truth and in fact said fur products are not so manufactured;

3. Composed of furs from pedigreed animals when in truth and in fact such claims and representations are untrue and false;

4. That fur products are not being carried over from season to season when in truth and in fact such claims and representations are untrue and false.

It is further ordered, That the complaint as to respondent Minerva M. Meltzer individually and as an officer of respondents Evans Fur Company and Evans Apparel Company, be and hereby is dismissed.

By "Decision of the Commission", etc., report of compliance was required as follows:

It is ordered, That respondents Evans Fur Company, a corporation, Evans Apparel Company, a corporation, Abraham L. Meltzer, and Herman H. Meltzer, individually and as officers of said corporations, shall within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with the order to cease and desist.

TITLE 26—INTERNAL REVENUE, 1954

Chapter I—Internal Revenue Service, Department of the Treasury

Subchapter A—Income Tax

[T. D. 6203]

PART I—INCOME TAX; TAXABLE YEARS BEGINNING AFTER DECEMBER 31, 1953

PENSION, PROFIT SHARING, STOCK BONUS AND ANNUITY PLANS

On September 1, 1955, notice of proposed rule making regarding the regulations under sections 401 to 404, inclusive, of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (20 F. R. 6455). After consideration of all such relevant matter as was presented by interested persons regarding the rules proposed, such regulations are hereby prescribed subject to the following changes. Such regulations are applicable for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1953, and ending after August 16, 1954, except where otherwise provided.

PARAGRAPH 1. Section 1.401 is changed by striking the word "excluded" from the first sentence of section 401 (a) (5) and inserting in lieu thereof the word "excludes".

PAR. 2. Section 1.401–1 is changed in the following respects:

(A) By striking the word "share" from paragraph (a) (2) (ii) and from the second sentence of paragraph (a) (2) (iii) thereof and inserting in lieu thereof in both places the word "participate".

(B) By inserting at the end of paragraph (b) (1) (i) the following: "A pension plan may provide for the payment of a pension due to disability and may also provide for the payment of incidental death benefits through insurance or otherwise. However, a plan is not a pension plan if it provides for the payment of benefits not customarily included in a pension plan such as layoff benefits or benefits for sickness, accident, hospitalization, or medical expenses."

(C) By inserting in the second sentence of paragraph (b) (1) (ii) thereof the word "layoff," immediately before the word "illness".

(D) By inserting at the end of paragraph (b) (1) (ii) thereof the following: "A profit-sharing plan within the meaning of section 401 is primarily a plan of deferred compensation, but the amounts allocated to the account of a participant may be used to provide for him or his family incidental life or accident or health insurance."

(E) By striking subdivision (iv) from paragraph (b) (1) thereof and redesignating subdivision (v) as (iv).

(F) By inserting after the fourth sentence of paragraph (b) (2) thereof the following: "In the case of a profit-sharing plan, it is not necessary that the employer contribute every year or that he contribute the same amount or contribute in accordance with the same ratio every year. However, merely making a single or occasional contribution out of profits for employees does not establish a plan of profit sharing. To be a profit-sharing plan, there must be recurring and substantial contributions out of profits for the employees."

(G) By revising the eighth sentence of paragraph (b) (3) thereof to read as follows: "The law is concerned not only with the form of a plan but also with its effects in operation."

(H) By revising paragraph (b) (5) (ii) thereof to read as follows:

(ii) Where the trust funds are invested in stock or securities of, or loaned to, the employer or other person described in section 503 (c), full disclosure must be made of the reasons for such arrangement and the conditions under which such investments are made in order that a determination may be made whether the trust serves any purpose other than constituting part of a plan for the exclusive benefit of employees. The trustee shall report any of such investments on the return which under section 6033 it is required to file and shall with respect to any such investment furnish the information required by such return. See § 1.6033-1.–

(I) By revising paragraph (d) thereof to read as follows:

(d) Plan of several employers. A trust forming part of a plan of several employers for their employees will be qualified if all the requirements are otherwise satisfied.

(J) By revising paragraph (e) thereof to read as follows:

(e) Returns. A trust which qualifies under section 401 (a) and which is exempt under section 501 (a) must file a return in accordance with section 6033 and the regulations thereunder. See § 1.6033–1. In case such a trust realizes any unrelated business taxable income, as defined in section 512, such trust is also required to file a return with respect to such income. See § 1.6012–2.

PAR. 3. Section 1.401–3 is changed in the following respects:

(A) By redesignating paragraphs (c), (d), (e), and (f) thereof as paragraphs (d), (e), (f), and (g) respectively, and by inserting the following new paragraph (c) immediately after paragraph (b) thereof:

(c) Since, for the purpose of section 401, a profit-sharing plan is a plan which provides for distributing the funds accumulated under the plan after a fixed number of years, the attainment of a stated age, or upon the prior occurrence of some event such as illness, disability, retirement, death, layoff, or severance of employment, employees who receive the amounts allocated to their accounts before the expiration of such a period of time or the occurrence of such a contingency shall not be considered covered by a profit-sharing plan in determining whether the plan meets the coverage requirements of section 401 (a) (3) (A) and (B). Thus, in case a plan permits employees to receive immediately the amounts allocated to their accounts, or to have such amounts paid to a profit-sharing plan for them, the employees who receive the shares immediately shall not, for the purpose of section 401, be considered covered by a profit-sharing plan.

(B) By inserting immediately before the period in the second sentence of paragraph (e) (2) thereof the following: "and the Social Security Amendments of 1956".

(C) By striking "1955" from the third sentence of paragraph (e) (2) thereof and inserting in lieu thereof "1956".

(D) By revising paragraph (e) (2) (vi) thereof to read as follows:

(vi) Benefits payable in case of retirement or severance of employment before normal retirement age cannot exceed the actuarial equivalent of that proportion of the maximum normal retirement benefits, which might be provided in accordance with subdivisions (i) through (v) of this subparagraph, earned to the date of actual retirement or severance, where such proportion is determined by the ratio that the actual number of years of service of the employee at retirement or severance bears to the total number of years of service he would have had if he had remained in service until normal retirement age.

(E) By revising the phrase "benefits on contributions" in the second sentence of the flush material in paragraph (e) (2) thereof to read "benefits or contributions".

(F) By inserting immediately after the second sentence of the flush material in paragraph (e) (2) thereof the following: "In the case of a profit-sharing or stock bonus plan which is limited to employees whose compensation is in excess of a stated level, or which bases contributions on compensation in excess of a stated level, similar principles will govern in determining whether the plan is discriminatory, provided that the employer does not also have in existence a pension or annuity plan which is integrated with old-age and survivor insurance benefits and which provides for employer contributions or benefits based upon all or part of the same compensation considered under the profit-sharing or stock bonus plan."

PAR. 4. Section 1.401–4 is changed in the following respects:

(A) Subdivision (ii) of paragraph (a) (1) thereof is redesignated (iii), and the following new subdivision (ii) is inserted immediately after paragraph (a) (1) (i) thereof:

(ii) Since, for the purpose of section 401, a profit-sharing plan is a plan which provides for distributing the funds accumulated under the plan after a fixed number of years, the attainment of a stated age, or upon the prior occurrence of some event such as illness, disability, retirement, death, layoff, or severance of employment, any amount allocated to an employee which is withdrawn before the expiration of such a period of time or the occurrence of such a contingency shall not be considered in determining whether the contributions under the plan discriminate in favor of officers, shareholders, employees whose principal duties consist in supervising the work of other employees, or highly compensated employees. Thus, in case a plan permits employees to receive immediately the whole or any part of the amounts allocated to their accounts, or to have the whole or any part of such amounts paid to a profit-sharing plan for them, any amounts which are received immediately shall not, for the purpose of section 401, be considered contributed to a profit-sharing plan.

(B) By revising the last sentence of paragraph (a) (1) (iii) to read as follows: "With respect to forfeitures in a pension plan, see § 1.401–1 (b) (1) (i)."

(C) By striking from the second sentence of paragraph (a) (2) (iii) thereof the words "a distribution" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "an allocation".

PAR. 5. Section 1.402 (a)–1 is changed in the following respects:

(A) By inserting at the end of paragraph (a) (1) (ii) thereof the following: "Furthermore, the exclusion provided by section 105 (d) is applicable to a distribution from a trust described in section 401 (a) and exempt under section 501 (a) if such distribution constitutes wages or payments in lieu of wages for a period during which an employee is absent from work on account of a personal injury or sickness (see section 105 and the regulations thereunder)."

(B) By redesignating subdivisions (iii) and (iv) of paragraph (a) (1) thereof as (iv) and (v) respectively, and inserting the following new subdivision (iii) immediately after paragraph (a) (1) (ii) thereof:

(iii) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, a distribution of property by a trust described in section 401 (a) and exempt under section 501 (a) shall be taken into account by the distributee at its fair market value. For example, where a United States savings bond which was purchased by a trustee in its own name later is distributed by such trust, it shall be taken into account at its redemption value at the time of distribution and such redemption value shall be the distributee's basis for the bond for the purpose of determining the extent to which income is realized upon its ultimate redemption.

(C) By revising the second sentence of paragraph (a) (2) thereof to read as follows: "If, however, the contract distributed by such an exempt trust is a retirement income, endowment, or other life insurance contract and is distributed after October 26, 1956, the entire cash value of such contract at the time of distribution must be included in the distributee's income in accordance with the provisions of section 402 (a), except to the extent that, within 60 days after the distribution of such contract, all or any portion of such value is irrevocably converted into a contract under which no part of any proceeds payable on death at any time would be excludable under section 101 (a) (relating to life insurance proceeds)."

(D) By revising subparagraphs (3), (4), (5), and (6) of paragraph (a) thereof to read as follows:

(3) (i) If a trust described in section 401 (a) and exempt under section 501 (a) purchases under the plan retirement income, endowment, or other contracts providing life insurance protection, payable upon the death of the employee participants, and either—

(a) The proceeds of such life insurance are payable to a beneficiary of the employee participant, other than the trust, or

then, the portion of the premiums paid for the life insurance protection provided under such contracts from either the contributions of the employer or earnings of the trust will constitute income to the employee for the year or years in which the contributions or earnings are applied toward the purchase of such life insurance. If the amount payable upon death at any time during the year exceeds the cash value of the insurance policy at the end of the year, the entire amount of such excess will be considered current life insurance protection. The cost of such insurance will be considered to be a reasonable net premium cost, as determined by the Commissioner, for such amount for the appropriate period. The amount thus to be included in the gross income of the employee under this subdivision shall be considered as premiums or other consideration paid or contributed by the employee only with respect to any benefits attributable to the contract providing the life insurance protection.

(ii) The determination of the cost of life insurance protection may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. A policy purchased under a qualified plan for an employee provides an annuity of $100 per month upon retirement at age 65, with a minimum death benefit of $10,000. The insurance payable if death occurred in the first year would be $10,000. The cash value at the end of the first year is 0. The net insurance is therefore $10,000 minutes 0, or $10,000. Assuming that the Commissioner has determined that a reasonable net premium for the employee's age is $5.85 per $1,000, the premium for $10,000 of life insurance is therefore $58.50, and this is the amount to be reported as income by the employee for the year. The balance of the premium is the amount contributed for the annuity, which is not taxable to the employee under a plan meeting the requirements of section 401 (a), except as provided under section 402 (a). Assuming that the cash value at the end of the second year is $500, the net insurance would then be $9,500 for the second year. With a net 1-year term rate of $6.30 for the employee's age in the second year, the amount to be reported as income to the employee would be $59.85.

(iii) This subparagraph shall not apply if the trust has a right under any circumstances to retain any part of the proceeds of the life insurance contract. But see subparagraph (4) (iv) of this paragraph relating to the taxability of the distribution of such proceeds to a beneficiary.

(4) (i) In case a trust described in section 401 (a) and exempt under section 501 (a) either—

(a) Has purchased a retirement income, endowment, or other life insurance contract, and the employee either paid the cost of the insurance or was taxable on the cost of the insurance under subparagraph (3) of this paragraph, or

(b) Has purchased an annuity contract, the amounts payable under any such contract by reason of the death of the employee are taxable under the rules of subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph, except in the case of a joint and survivor annuity.

(ii) (a) In the case of an annuity contract, the death benefit is the accumulation of the premiums (plus earnings thereon) which is intended to fund pension or other deferred benefits under a pension or profit-sharing plan. Such death benefits are not in the nature of life insurance and are not excludable from gross income under section 101 (a).

(b) In the case of a retirement income, endowment, or other life insurance contract under which there is a reserve accumulation which is intended to fund pension or other deferred benefits under a pension or profit-sharing plan, such reserve accumulation constitutes the source of the cash value of the contract and approximates the amount of such cash value. The portion of the proceeds paid upon the death of the insured employee which is equal to the cash value immediately before death is not excludable from gross income under section 101 (a). The remaining portion, if any, of the proceeds paid to the beneficiary by reason of the death of the insured employee—that is, the amount in excess of the cash value—constitutes current insurance protection and is excludable under section 101 (a).

(c) The death benefit under an annuity contract, or the portion of the death proceeds under a retirement income, endowment, or other life insurance contract which is equal to the cash value of the contract immediately before death, constitutes a distribution from the trust consisting in whole or in part of deferred compensation and is taxable to the beneficiary in accordance with section 402 (a) and the provisions of this paragraph, except to the extent that the limited exclusion from income provided in section 101 (b) is applicable.

(d) In the case of a retirement income, endowment, or other life insurance contract under which the benefits are paid at a date or dates later than the death of the employee, section 101 (d) is applicable only to the portion of the benefits which is attributable to the amount excludable under section 101 (a). The portion of such benefits which is attributable to the cash value of the contract immediately before death is taxable under section 72 (relating to annuities), and in such case, any amount excludable under section 101 (b) is treated as additional consideration paid by the employee in accordance with section 101 (b) (2) (D).

(iii) The application of the rules under subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph with respect to the taxability of proceeds of a retirement income, endowment, or other life insurance contract paid by reason of the death of an insured employee who has paid no contributions under the plan is illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1).

Total face amount of the contract payable in a lump-sum at time of death	$25,000
Cash value of the contract immediately before death	11,000
Excess over cash value, excludable under section 101 (a)	14,000
Cash value subject to limited exclusion under section 101 (b)	11,000
Excludable under section 101 (b) (assuming that there is no other death benefit paid by or on behalf of any employer with respect to the employee)	5,000
Balance taxable in accordance with section 402 (a) (2) (assuming a total distribution in one taxable year of the distributee)	6,000
Portion of premiums taxed to employee under the provisions of subparagraph (3) of this paragraph and considered as contributions of the employee	940
Balance taxable as long-term capital gain	5,060

Example (2). The facts are the same as in example (1), except that the contract provides that the beneficiary may elect within 60 days after the death of the employee either to take the $25,000 or to receive 10 annual installments of $3,000 each, and the beneficiary elects to receive the 10 installments. In addition, the employee's rights to the cash value immediately before his death were forfeitable at least to the extent of $5,000. Section 101 (d) is applicable to the amount excludable under section 101 (a), that is, $14,000. The portion of each annual installment of $3,000 which is attributable to this $14,000 is determined by allocating each installment in accordance with the ratio which this $14,000 bears to the total amount which was payable at death ($25,000). Accordingly, the portion of each annual installment which is subject to section 101 (d) is $1,680 (14/25 of $3,000), of which, $1,400 (1/10 of $14,000) is excludable under section 101 (a), and the remaining $280 is includible in the gross income of the beneficiary. However, if the beneficiary is a surviving spouse as defined in section 101 (d) (3), the exclusion provided by section 101 (d) (1) (B) is applicable to such $280. The remaining portion of each annual $3,000 installment, $1,320, is attributable to the cash value of the contract and is treated under section 72, as follows:

Amount actually contributed by the employee	00
Amount considered contributed by employee by reason of section 101 (b)	$5,000
Portion of premiums taxed to employee under the provisions of subparagraph (3) of this paragraph and considered as contributions of the employee	940
Investment in the contract	5,940
Expected return, 10×$1,320	13,200
Exclusion ratio, $5,940÷$13,200	.45
Annual exclusion .45×$1,320	594

Accordingly, $594 of the $1,320 portion of each annual installment is excludable each year under section 72, and the remaining $726 is includible. Thus, if the beneficiary is not a surviving spouse, a total of $1,006 ($280 plus $726) of each annual $3,000 installment is includible in income each year. If the beneficiary is a surviving spouse, and can exclude all of the $280 under section 101 (d) (1) (B), the amount includible in gross income each year is $726 of each annual $3,000 installment.

(iv) If an employee neither paid the total cost of the life insurance protection provided under a retirement income endowment, or other life insurance contract, nor was taxable under subparagraph (3) of this paragraph with respect thereto, no part of the proceeds of such a contract which are paid to the beneficiaries of the employee as a death benefit is excludable under section 101 (a). The entire distribution is taxable to the beneficiaries under section 402 (a) except to the extent that a limited exclusion may be allowable under section 101 (b).

(5) If pension or annuity payments or other benefits are paid or made available to the beneficiary of a deceased employee or a deceased retired employee by a trust described in section 401 (a) which is exempt under section 501 (a), such amounts are taxable in accordance with the rules of section 402 (a) and this section. In case such amounts are taxable under section 72, the "investment in the contract" shall be determined by reference to the amount contributed by the employee and by applying the rules of sections 72 (c), 72 (f), 101 (b) (2) (D), and subparagraph (3) of this paragraph. In case the amounts paid to, or includible in the gross income of, the beneficiaries of the deceased employee or deceased retired employee constitute a distribution to which subparagraph (6) of this paragraph is applicable, the extent to which the distribution is taxable is determined by reference to the contributions of the employee, by reference to any prior distributions which were excludable from gross income as a return of employee contributions, and by applying the rules of sections 72 (f), 101 (b), and subparagraph (3) of this paragraph.

(6) (i) If the total distributions payable with respect to any employee under a trust described in section 401 (a) which in the year of distribution is exempt under section 501 (a) are paid to, or includible in the gross income of, the distributee within one taxable year of the distributee on account of the employee's death or other separation from the service, or death after such separation from service, the amount of such distribution, to the extent it exceeds the net amount contributed by the employee, shall be considered a gain from the sale or exchange of a capital asset held for more than six months. The total distributions payable are includible in the gross income of the distributee within one taxable year if they are made available to such distributee and the distributee fails to make a timely election under section 72 (h) to receive an annuity in lieu of such total distributions. For rules relating to the treatment of such total distributions in the case of a nonresident alien individual, see sections 871 and 1441 and the regulations thereunder. The "net amount contributed by the employee" is the amount actually contributed by the employee plus any amounts considered to be contributed by the employee under the rules of sections 72 (f), 101 (b), and subparagraph (3) of this paragraph, reduced by any amounts theretofore distributed to him which were excludable from gross income as a return of employee contributions. See, however, paragraph (b) of this section for rules relating to the exclusion of amounts representing net unrealized appreciation in the value of securities of the employer corporation.

(ii) The term "total distributions payable" means the balance to the credit of an employee which becomes payable to a distributee on account of the employee's death or other separation from the service or on account of his death after separation from the service. Thus, distributions made before a total distribution (for example, annuity payments received by the employee after retirement) will not defeat application of the capital gains treatment with respect to the total distributions received by a beneficiary upon the death of the employee after retirement. However, a distribution on separation from service will not receive capital gains treatment unless it constitutes the total amount in the employee's account at the time of his separation from service. If the total amount in the employee's account at the time of his death or other separation from the service or death after separation from the service is paid or includible in the gross income of the distributee within one taxable year of the distributee, such amount is entitled to the capital gains treatment notwithstanding that in a later taxable year an additional amount, attributable to the last year of service, is credited to the account of the employee and distributed.

(iii) If an employee retires and commences to receive an annuity but subsequently, in some succeeding taxable year, is paid a lump sum in settlement of all future annuity payments, the capital gains treatment does not apply to such lump sum settlement paid during the lifetime of the employee since it is not a payment on account of separation from the service, or death after separation, but is on account of the settlement of future annuity payments.

(iv) If the "total distributions payable" are paid or includible in the gross income of several distributees within one taxable year on account of the employee's death or other separation from the service or on account of his death after separation from the service, the capital gains treatment is applicable. The total distributions payable are paid within one taxable year of the distributees when, for example, a portion of such total is distributed in cash to one distributee and the balance is used to purchase an annuity contract which is distributed to the other distributee. However, if the share of any distributee is not paid or includible in his gross income within the same taxable year in which the shares of the other distributees are paid or includible in their gross income, none of the distributees is entitled to the capital gains treatment, since the total distributions payable are not paid or includible in the distributees' gross income within one taxable year. For example, if the total distributions payable are made available to each of two distributees and one elects to receive his share in cash while the other makes a timely election under section 72 (h) to receive his share in installment payments from the trust, the capital gains treatment does not apply to either distributee.

(v) For regulations as to certain plan terminations, see § 1.402 (e)–1.

(E) By striking from the first sentence of the flush material in paragraph (b) (1) (i) thereof the phrase "subdivisions (a) and (b) of this subparagraph" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "(a) and (b) of this subdivision".

PAR. 6. Section 1.402 (b)–1 is changed in the following respects:

(A) By revising paragraph (a) (1) thereof to read as follows:

(1) Except as provided in section 402 (d), any contribution made by an employer on behalf of an employee to a trust during a taxable year of the employer which ends within or with a taxable year of the trust for which the trust is not exempt under section 501 (a), shall be included in income of the employee for his taxable year during which the contribution is made if the employee's beneficial interest in the contribution is nonforfeitable at the time the contribution is made. If the employee's beneficial interest in the contribution is forfeitable at the time the contribution is made even though his interest becomes nonforfeitable later, the amount of such contribution is not required to be included in the income of the employee at the time his interest becomes nonforfeitable.

(B) By inserting ", 403 (b)," immediately after "sections 402 (b)" in the first sentence of paragraph (a) (2) (i) thereof.

(C) By striking the first sentence of paragraph (b) thereof and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "Any amount actually distributed or made available to any distributee by an employees' trust which is not exempt under section 501 (a) for the taxable year of the trust in which the distribution is made shall be taxable in the year in which so distributed or made available, under section 72 (relating to annuities), except that section 72 (e) (3) shall not apply. If, for example, the distribution from such a trust consists of an annuity contract, the amount of the distribution shall be considered to be the entire value of the contract at the time of distribution, and such value is includible in the gross income of the distributee at the time of the distribution to the extent that such value exceeds the investment in the contract determined by applying sections 72 and 101 (b)."

PAR. 7. Section 1.402 (c)–1 is revised to read as follows:

§ 1.402 (c)–1 Taxability of beneficiary of certain foreign situs trusts. Section 402 (c) has the effect of treating, for purposes of section 402, the distributions from a trust which at the time of the distribution is located outside the United States in the same manner as distributions from a trust which is located in the United States. If the trust would qualify for exemption from tax under section 501 (a) except for the fact that it fails to comply with the provisions of § 1.401–1 (a) (3) (i), which restricts qualification to trusts created or organized in the United States and maintained here, section 402 (a) and § 1.402 (a)–1 are applicable to the distributions from such a trust. Thus, for example, a total distribution from such a trust is entitled to the long-term capital gains treatment of section 402 (a) (2), except in the case of a nonresident alien individual (see sections 871 and 1441 and the regulations thereunder). However, if the plan fails to meet any requirement of section 401 and the regulations thereunder in addition to § 1.401–1 (a) (3) (i), section 402 (b) and § 1.402 (b)–1 are applicable to the distributions from such a trust.

PAR. 8. Section 1.403 (a)–1 is changed in the following respects:

(A) By revising paragraph (a) (3) thereof to read as follows:

(3) The annuity contract is purchased by an employer which is an organization described in section 501 (c) (3) and exempt under section 501 (a) provided the purchase of the annuity is merely a supplement to past or current compensation. For the purpose of this subparagraph, whether the purchase of an annuity contract is merely a "supplement to past or current compensation" is to be determined by all the surrounding facts and circumstances. One of the pertinent facts to be taken into consideration is the ratio of the consideration paid by the employer for an employee's contract to the amount of his past or current compensation. For example, if the annual premium paid for an employee's contract is $1,000 and his annual salary is $10,000, the ratio indicates that the premium paid for the contract is merely a supplement to the employee's current compensation. If, however, an employee receives no current compensation, or the annual premiums paid for his annuity contract approximate his annual salary, the amount paid for his contract will be considered to be current compensation and taxable to the employee in the year in which it is paid by the employer. Other pertinent considerations are whether the annuity contract is purchased as a result of an agreement for a reduction of the employee's annual salary, or whether it is purchased at his request in lieu of an increase in current compensation to which he otherwise might be entitled. In such cases, the amount paid for the contract shall also be considered to be current compensation.

(B) By revising the third sentence of paragraph (d) thereof to read as follows: "Section 403 (a) is not applicable to premiums paid after October 26, 1956, for individual contracts providing life insurance protection for employees."

PAR. 9. Section 1.403 (a)–2 is revised to read as follows:

§ 1.403 (a)–2 Capital gains treatment for certain distributions. (a) If the total amounts payable with respect to any employee for whom an annuity contract has been purchased by an employer under a plan which—

(1) Meets the requirements of section 401 (a) (3), (4), (5), and (6), and

(2) Requires that refunds of contributions with respect to annuity contracts purchased under such plan be used to reduce subsequent premiums on the contracts under the plan, are paid to, or includible in gross income of, the payee within one taxable year of the payee by reason of the employee's death or other separation from the service, or death after such separation from the service, such total payments, to the extent they exceed the net amount contributed by the employee, shall be considered a gain from the sale or exchange of a capital asset held for more than six months. The "net amount contributed by the employee" is the amount actually contributed by the employee plus any amounts considered to be contributed by the employee under the rules of sections 72 (f), 101 (b), and § 1.403 (a)–1 (d), reduced by any amounts theretofore distributed to him which were excludable from his gross income as a return of employee contributions. For example, if under an annuity contract purchased under a plan described in this section, the total distributions payable to the employee's widow are paid to her in the year in which the employee dies, in the amount of $8,000, and if $5,000 thereof is excludable under section 101 (b), and if the employee made contributions of $600 and had received no payments, the remaining amount of $2,400 will be considered a gain from the sale or exchange of a capital asset held for more than six months.

(b) (1) The term "total amounts" means the balance to the credit of an employee with respect to all annuities under the annuity plan which becomes payable to the payee by reason of the employee's death or other separation from the service, or by reason of his death after separation from the service. If an employee commences to receive annuity payments on retirement and then a lump sum payment is made to his widow upon his death, the capital gains treatment applies to the lump sum payment, but it does not apply to amounts received before the time the "total amounts" become payable. However, if the total amount to the credit of the employee at the time of his death or other separation from the service or death after separation from the service is paid or includible in the gross income of the payee within one taxable year of the payee, such amount is entitled to the capital gains treatment notwithstanding that in a later taxable year an additional amount is credited to the employee and paid to the payee.

(2) If more than one annuity contract is received under the plan, the capital gains treatment does not apply to any amount received on the surrender thereof unless all contracts under the plan with respect to a particular employee are surrendered either at the time of the employee's death or other separation from the service or death after separation from the service. Thus, if an employee receives two contracts on separation from the service and surrenders one of them in the year of separation and receives payments under the other until his death, the capital gains treatment is applicable to the balance paid to his beneficiary on his death if paid within one taxable year of the beneficiary. The amount received by the employee on surrender of the contract in the year of his separation from the service, however, would not receive capital gains treatment since the balance to the credit of the employee with respect to all amounts under the plan did not become payable at that time.

(3) If an employee retires and commences to receive an annuity but subsequently in some succeeding taxable year, he is paid a lump sum in settlement of all future annuity payments, the capital gains treatment does not apply to such lump sum settlement paid during the lifetime of the employee since it is not a payment on account of separation from the service, or death after separation, but is on account of the settlement of future annuity payments.

(4) If the "total amounts" payable under all annuity contracts under the plan with respect to a particular employee are paid or includible in the gross income of several payees within one taxable year on account of the employee's death or other separation from the service or on account of his death after separation from the service, the capital gains treatment is applicable. Thus, if the balance to the credit of a deceased employee under all annuity contracts provided under an annuity plan becomes payable to two payees, the capital gains treatment is applicable provided the "total amounts" payable are received by or includible in the gross income of both payees within the same taxable year. However, if the "total amounts" payable are made available to each payee and one elects to receive his share in cash while the other makes a timely election under section 72 (h) to receive his share as an annuity, the capital gains treatment does not apply to either payee.

PAR. 10. Section 1.403 (b)–1 (a) is changed by striking the first three sentences thereof and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "Except as provided in section 402 (d), if an employer purchases an annuity contract and if the amounts paid for the contract are not subject to § 1.403 (a)–1 (a), the amount of such contribution shall be included in the income of the employee for the taxable year during which such contribution is made if, at the time the contribution is made, the employee's rights under the annuity contract are nonforfeitable, except for failure to pay future premiums. If the employee's rights under the annuity contract in such a case were forfeitable at the time the employer's contribution was made for the annuity contract, even though they become nonforfeitable later, the amount of such contribution is not required to be included in the income of the employee at the time his rights under the contract become nonforfeitable. As to what constitutes nonforfeitable rights of an employee, see § 1.402 (b)–1."

PAR. 11. Section 1.404 (a)–1 is changed in the following respects:

(A) By revising paragraph (a) thereof to read as follows:

(a) (1) Section 404 (a) prescribes limitations upon deductions for amounts contributed by an employer under a pension, annuity, stock bonus, or profit-sharing plan, or under any plan of deferred compensation. It is immaterial whether the plan covers present employees only, or present and former employees, or only former employees. Section 404 (a) also governs the deductibility of unfunded pensions and death benefits paid directly to former employees or their beneficiaries (see § 1.404 (a)–12).

(2) Section 404 (a) does not apply to a plan which does not defer the receipt of compensation. Furthermore, section 404 (a) does not apply to deductions for contributions under a plan which is solely a dismissal wage or unemployment benefit plan, or a sickness, accident, hospitalization, medical expense, recreation, welfare, or similar benefit plan, or a combination thereof. For example, if under a plan an employer contributes 5 percent of each employee's compensation per month to a fund out of which employees who are laid off will be paid benefits for temporary periods, but employees who are not laid off have no rights to the funds, such a plan is an unemployment benefit plan, and the deductibility of the contributions to it is determined under section 162. As to the deductibility of such contributions, see § 1.162–9.

(3) If, however, the contributions to a pension, profit-sharing, stock bonus, or other plan of deferred compensation can be used to provide any of the benefits referred to in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, then, except as provided in section 404 (c), section 404 (a) applies to the entire contribution to the plan. Thus, if in the example described in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, the employer's contribution on behalf of each employee is set up as a separate account, and if any amount which remains in an employee's account at the time of retirement is paid to him at such time, the deductibility of the contributions to the plan is determined under section 404 (a). For the rules for determining whether the benefits referred to in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph can be included in a qualified pension or profit-sharing plan, see § 1.401–1 (b).

(4) As to inclusion of full-time life insurance salesmen within the class of persons considered to be employees, see section 7701 (a) (20).

(B) By revising paragraph (c) thereof to read as follows:

(c) Deductions under section 404 (a) are generally allowable only for the year in which the contribution or compensation is paid, regardless of the fact that the taxpayer may make his returns on the accrual method of accounting. Exceptions are made in the case of overpayments as provided in paragraphs (1), (3), and (7) of section 404 (a), and, as provided by section 404 (a) (6), in the case of payments made by a taxpayer on the accrual method of accounting not later than the time prescribed by law for filing the return for the taxable year of accrual (including extensions thereof). This latter provision is intended to permit a taxpayer on the accrual method to deduct such accrued contribution or compensation in the year of accrual, provided payment is actually made not later than the time prescribed by law for filing the return for the taxable year of accrual (including extensions thereof), but this provision is not applicable unless, during the taxable year on account of which the contribution is made, the taxpayer incurs a liability to make the contribution, the amount of which is accruable under section 461 for such taxable year. See section 461 and the regulations thereunder. There is another exception in the case of certain taxpayers who are required to make additional contributions as a result of Public Law 74 (Eighty-fourth Congress) approved June 15, 1955, and the regulations thereunder.

PAR. 12. Section 1.404 (a)–2 is changed by inserting immediately after the word "information" in the first sentence of paragraph (a) thereof the following: "(unless such information has been previously filed in accordance with the regulations under section 23 (p) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939)".

PAR. 13. Section 1.404 (a)–3 is changed in the following respects:

(A) By inserting immediately after the word "organized" in the third sentence of paragraph (a) thereof the words "and maintained".

(B) By striking the words "disability, withdrawal," from the fifth sentence of paragraph (a) thereof and inserting in lieu thereof the words "disability pension,".

(C) By striking paragraph (c) thereof and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

(c) The amount of a contribution to a pension or annuity plan that is deductible under section 404 (a) (1) or (2) depends upon the methods, factors, and assumptions which are used to compute the costs of the plan and the limitation of section 404 (a) (1) which is applied. Since the amount that is deductible for one taxable year may affect the amount that is deductible for other taxable years, the methods, factors, and assumptions used in determining costs and the method of determining the limitation which have been used for determining the deduction for a taxable year for which the return has been filed shall not be changed for such taxable year, except when the Commissioner determines that the methods, factors, assumptions, or limitations were not proper, or except when a change is necessitated by reason of the use of different methods, factors, assumptions, or limitations for another taxable year. However, different methods, factors, and assumptions, or a different method of determining the limitation, if they are proper, may be used in determining the deduction for a subsequent taxable year. In any case, see subparagraphs (7) and (8) of paragraph (a) and subparagraphs (1) and (3) of paragraph (b) of § 1.404 (a)–2 for the information which must be submitted regarding the methods, factors, assumptions, and limitations.

PAR. 14. Section 1.404 (a)–4 is changed by revising the first sentence of paragraph (b) thereof to read as follows: "For the first taxable year following the first year to which the initial 5-percent limitation applies, and for every fifth year thereafter, or more frequently where preferable to the taxpayer, the taxpayer shall submit with his return an actuarial certification of the amount reasonably necessary to provide the remaining unfunded cost of past and current service credits of all employees under the plan with a statement explaining all the methods, factors, and assumptions used in determining such amount."

PAR. 15. Section 1.404 (a)–9 is changed by inserting immediately after the word "organized" in the fourth sentence of paragraph (a) thereof the words "and maintained".

PAR. 16. Section 1.404 (a)–10 is changed by striking the entire section except for the example and inserting the following immediately preceding such example:

§ 1.404 (a)–10 Profit-sharing plan of an affiliated group; application of section 404 (a) (3) (B). (a) Section 404 (a) (3) (B) allows a corporation a deduction to the extent provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section for a contribution which it makes for another corporation to a profit-sharing plan or a stock bonus plan under which contributions are determined by reference to profits, provided the following tests are met:

(1) The corporation for which the contribution is made and the contributing corporation are members of an affiliated group of corporations as defined in section 1504, relating to the filing of consolidated returns, and both such corporations participate in the plan. However, it is immaterial whether all the members of such group participate in the plan.

(2) The corporation for which the contribution is made is required under the plan to make the contribution, but such corporation is prevented from making such contribution because it has neither current nor accumulated earnings or profits, or because its current and accumulated earnings or profits are insufficient to make the required contribution. To the extent that such a corporation has any current or accumulated earnings or profits, it is not considered to be prevented from making its required contribution to the plan.

(3) The contribution is made out of the current or accumulated earnings or profits of the contributing corporation.

(b) The amount that is deductible under section 404 (a) (3) (B) is determined by applying the rules of section 404 (a) (3) (A) and § 1.404 (a)–9 as if the contribution were made by the corporation for which it is made. For example, the primary limitation described in § 1.404 (a)–9 (c) is determined by reference to the compensation otherwise paid or accrued to the employees of the corporation for which the contribution is made, and the secondary limitation described in § 1.404 (a)–9 (d) and the contribution carryover described in § 1.404 (a)–9 (e) are determined by reference to the prior contributions and deductions of such corporation. The contributing corporation may deduct the amount so determined subject to the limitations contained in paragraph (c) of this section. The contributing corporation shall not treat such amount as a contribution made by it in applying the rules of section 404 (a) (3) (A) and § 1.404 (a)–9 either for the taxable year for which the contribution is made or for succeeding taxable years. The corporation for which the contribution is made shall treat the contribution as having been made by it in applying the rules of section 404 (a) (3) (A) and § 1.404 (a)–9 for succeeding taxable years.

(c) The allowance of the deduction under section 404 (a) (3) (B) does not depend upon whether the affiliated group does or does not file a consolidated return. If a consolidated return is filed, it is immaterial which of the participating corporations makes the contribution and takes the deduction or how the contribution or the deduction is allocated among them. However, if a consolidated return is not filed, the contribution which is deductible under section 404 (a) (3) (B) by each contributing corporation shall be limited to that portion of its total current and accumulated earnings or profits (adjusted for its contribution deductible without regard to section 404 (a) (3) (B)) which the prevented contribution bears to the total current and accumulated earnings or profits of all the participating members of the group having such earnings or profits (adjusted for all contributions deductible without regard to section 404 (a) (3) (B)). For the purpose of this section, current earnings or profits shall be computed as of the close of the taxable year without diminution by reason of any dividends during the taxable year, and accumulated earnings or profits shall be computed as of the beginning of the taxable year.

(d) The application of section 404 (a) (3) (B) may be illustrated by the following example in which the affiliated group does not file a consolidated return:

PAR. 17. Section 1.404 (a)–11 is revised to read as follows:

§ 1.404 (a)–11 Trusts created or organized outside the United States; application of section 404 (a) (4). In order that a trust may constitute a qualified trust under section 401 (a) and be exempt under section 501 (a), it must be created or organized in the United States and maintained at all times as a domestic trust. See § 1.401–1 (a). Paragraph (4) of section 404 (a) provides, however, that an employer which is a resident, a corporation, or other entity of the United States, making contributions to a foreign stock bonus, pension, or profit-sharing trust, shall be allowed deductions for such contributions, under the applicable conditions and within the prescribed limits of section 404 (a), if such foreign trust would qualify for exemption under section 501 (a) except for the fact that it is a trust created, organized, or maintained outside the United States. Moreover, if a nonresident alien individual, foreign corporation, or other entity is engaged in trade or business within the United States and makes contributions to a foreign stock bonus, pension, or profit-sharing trust, which would qualify under section 401 (a) and be exempt under section 501 (a) except that it is created, organized, or maintained outside the United States, such contributions are deductible subject to the conditions and limitations of section 404 (a) and to the extent allowed by section 873 or 882 (c).

PAR. 18. Section 1.404 (a)–12 is revised to read as follows:

§ 1.404 (a)–12 Contributions of an employer under a plan that does not meet the requirements of section 401 (a); application of section 404 (a) (5). Section 404 (a) (5) covers all cases for which deductions are allowable under section 404 (a) but not allowable under paragraphs (1), (2), (3), (4), or (7) of such section. No deduction is allowable under section 404 (a) (5) for any contribution paid or accrued by an employer under a stock bonus, pension, profit-sharing, or annuity plan, or for any compensation paid or accrued on account of any employee under a plan deferring the receipt of such compensation, except in the year when paid, and then only to the extent allowable under section 404 (a). See § 1.404 (a)–1. If payments are made under such a plan and the amounts are not deductible under the other paragraphs of section 404 (a), they are deductible under paragraph (5) of such subsection to the extent that the rights of individual employees to, or derived from, such employer's contribution or such compensation are nonforfeitable at the time the contribution or compensation is paid. If unfunded pensions are paid directly to former employees, their rights to such payments are nonforfeitable, and accordingly, such amounts are deductible under section 404 (a) (5) when paid. Similarly, if amounts are paid as a death benefit to the beneficiaries of an employee (for example, by continuing his salary for a reasonable period), and if such amounts meet the requirements of section 162 or 212, such amounts are deductible under section 404 (a) (5) in any case when they are not deductible under the other paragraphs of section 404 (a). As to what constitutes nonforfeitable rights of an employee in other cases, see § 1.402 (b)–1. If an amount is accrued but not paid during the taxable year, no deduction is allowable for such amount for such year. If an amount is paid during the taxable year to a trust or under a plan and the employee's rights to such amounts are forfeitable at the time the amount is paid, no deduction is allowable for such amount for any taxable year.

PAR. 19. There is inserted immediately after § 1.404 (d)–1 the following new sections:

§ 1.6033 (a) Statutory provisions; returns by exempt organizations; general.

SEC. 6033. Returns by exempt organizations—(a) General. Every organization, except as hereinafter provided, exempt from taxation under section 501 (a) shall file an annual return, stating specifically the items of gross income, receipts, and disbursements, and such other information for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of subtitle A as the Secretary or his delegate may by forms or regulations prescribe, and shall keep such records, render under oath such statements, make such other returns, and comply with such rules and regulations, as the Secretary or his delegate may from time to time prescribe, except that, in the discretion of the Secretary or his delegate, an organization described in section 401 (a) may be relieved from stating in its return any information which is reported in returns filed by the employer which established such organization. No such annual return need be filed under this subsection by any organization exempt from taxation under the provisions of section 501 (a)—

* * * * * *

§ 1.6033–1 Returns by exempt organizations—(a) General. (1) [Reserved.]

(2) [Reserved.]

(3) Every employees' trust described in section 401 (a) which is exempt from taxation under section 501 (a) shall file an annual return on Form 990–P. The return shall include the information required by § 1.401–1 (b) (5) (ii). The trust must also file the information required by § 1.404 (a)–2, unless the employer has notified the trustee that he has or will timely file such information. If the trustee has received such notification from the employer, then the trust must file a copy thereof with its return and the other information required by the return.

§ 1.401 Statutory provisions; qualified pension, profit-sharing, and stock bonus plans.

SEC. 401. Qualified pension, profit-sharing, and stock bonus plans—(a) Requirements for qualification. A trust created or organized in the United States and forming part of a stock bonus, pension, or profit-sharing plan of an employer for the exclusive benefit of his employees or their beneficiaries shall constitute a qualified trust under this section—

(1) If contributions are made to the trust by such employer, or employees, or both, or by another employer who is entitled to deduct his contributions under section 404 (a) (3) (B) (relating to deduction for contributions to profit-sharing and stock bonus plans), for the purpose of distributing to such employees or their beneficiaries the corpus and income of the fund accumulated by the trust in accordance with such plan;

(2) If under the trust instrument it is impossible, at any time prior to the satisfaction of all liabilities with respect to employees and their beneficiaries under the trust, for any part of the corpus or income to be (within the taxable year or thereafter) used for, or diverted to, purposes other than for the exclusive benefit of his employees or their beneficiaries;

(3) If the trust, or two or more trusts, or the trust or trusts and annuity plan or plans are designated by the employer as constituting parts of a plan intended to qualify under this subsection which benefits either—

(A) 70 percent or more of all the employees, or 80 percent or more of all the employees who are eligible to benefit under the plan if 70 percent or more of all the employees are eligible to benefit under the plan, excluding in each case employees who have been employed not more than a minimum period prescribed by the plan, not exceeding 5 years, employees whose customary employment is for not more than 20 hours in any one week, and employees whose customary employment is for not more than 5 months in any calendar year, or

(B) Such employees as qualify under a classification set up by the employer and found by the Secretary or his delegate not to be discriminatory in favor of employees who are officers, shareholders, persons whose principal duties consist in supervising the work of other employees, or highly compensated employees;

(4) If the contributions or benefits provided under the plan do not discriminate in favor of employees who are officers, shareholders, persons whose principal duties consist in supervising the work of other employees, or highly compensated employees.

(5) A classification shall not be considered discriminatory within the meaning of paragraph (3) (B) or (4) merely because it excludes employees the whole of whose remuneration constitutes "wages" under section 3121 (a) (1) (relating to the Federal Insurance Contributions Act) or merely because it is limited to salaried or clerical employees. Neither shall a plan be considered discriminatory within the meaning of such provisions merely because the contributions or benefits of or on behalf of the employees under the plan bear a uniform relationship to the total compensation, or the basic or regular rate of compensation, of such employees, or merely because the contributions or benefits based on that part of an employee's remuneration which is excluded from "wages" by section 3121 (a) (1) differ from the contributions or benefits based on employee's remuneration not so excluded, or differ because of any retirement benefits created under State or Federal law.

(6) A plan shall be considered as meeting the requirements of paragraph (3) during the whole of any taxable year of the plan if on one day in each quarter it satisfied such requirements.

(b) Certain retroactive changes in plan. A stock bonus, pension, profit-sharing, or annuity plan shall be considered as satisfying the requirements of paragraphs (3), (4), (5), and (6) of subsection (a) for the period beginning with the date on which it was put into effect and ending with the 15th day of the third month following the close of the taxable year of the employer in which the plan was put in effect, if all provisions of the plan which are necessary to satisfy such requirements are in effect by the end of such period and have been made effective for all purposes with respect to the whole of such period.

(c) Cross reference. For exemption from tax of a trust qualified under this section, see section 501 (a).

§ 1.401–1 Qualified pension, profit-sharing and stock bonus plans—(a) Introduction. (1) Sections 401 through 404 relate to pension, profit-sharing, stock bonus, and annuity plans, and compensation paid under a deferred-payment plan. Section 401 (a) prescribes the requirements which must be met for qualification of a trust forming part of a pension, profit-sharing, or stock bonus plan.

(2) A qualified pension, profit-sharing, or stock bonus plan is a definite written program and arrangement which is communicated to the employees and which is established and maintained by an employer—

(i) In the case of a pension plan, to provide for the livelihood of the employees or their beneficiaries after the retirement of such employees through the payment of benefits determined without regard to profits (see paragraph (b) (1) (i) of this section);

(ii) In the case of a profit-sharing plan, to enable employees or their beneficiaries to participate in the profits of the employer's trade or business, or in the profits of an affiliated employer who is entitled to deduct his contributions to the plan under section 404 (a) (3) (B), pursuant to a definite formula for allocating the contributions and for distributing the funds accumulated under the plan (see paragraph (b) (1) (ii) of this section); and

(iii) In the case of a stock bonus plan, to provide employees or their beneficiaries benefits similar to those of profit-sharing plans, except that such benefits are distributable in stock of the employer, and that the contributions by the employer are not necessarily dependent upon profits. If the employer's contributions are dependent upon profits, the plan may enable employees or their beneficiaries to participate not only in the profits of the employer, but also in the profits of an affiliated employer who is entitled to deduct his contributions to the plan under section 404 (a) (3) (B) (see paragraph (b) (1) (iii) of this section).

(3) In order for a trust forming part of a pension, profit-sharing, or stock bonus plan to constitute a qualified trust under section 401 (a), the following tests must be met:

(i) It must be created or organized in the United States, as defined in section 7701 (a) (9), and it must be maintained at all times as a domestic trust in the United States;

(ii) It must be part of a pension, profit-sharing, or stock bonus plan established by an employer for the exclusive benefit of his employees or their beneficiaries (see paragraph (b) (2) through (5) of this section);

(iii) It must be formed or availed of for the purpose of distributing to the employees or their beneficiaries the corpus and income of the fund accumulated by the trust in accordance with the plan;

(iv) It must be impossible under the trust instrument at any time before the satisfaction of all liabilities with respect to employees and their beneficiaries under the trust, for any part of the corpus or income to be used for, or diverted to, purposes other than for the exclusive benefit of the employees or their beneficiaries (see § 1.401–2);

(v) It must be part of a plan which benefits prescribed percentages of the employees, or which benefits such employees as qualify under a classification set up by the employer and found by the Commissioner not to be discriminatory in favor of certain specified classes of employees (see § 1.401–3); and

(vi) It must be part of a plan under which contributions or benefits do not discriminate in favor of certain specified classes of employees (see § 1.401–4).

(b) General rules. (1) (i) A pension plan within the meaning of section 401 (a) is a plan established and maintained by an employer primarily to provide systematically for the payment of definitely determinable benefits to his employees over a period of years, usually for life, after retirement. Retirement benefits generally are measured by, and based on, such factors as years of service and compensation received by the employees. The determination of the amount of retirement benefits and the contributions to provide such benefits are not dependent upon profits. Benefits are not definitely determinable if funds arising from forfeitures on termination of service, or other reason, may be used to provide increased benefits for the remaining participants instead of being used to reduce the amount of contributions by the employer. A plan designed to provide benefits for employees or their beneficiaries to be paid upon retirement or over a period of years after retirement will, for the purposes of section 401 (a), be considered a pension plan if the employer contributions under the plan can be determined actuarially on the basis of definitely determinable benefits, or, as in the case of money purchase pension plans, such contributions are fixed without being geared to profits. A pension plan may provide for the payment of a pension due to disability and may also provide for the payment of incidental death benefits through insurance or otherwise. However, a plan is not a pension plan if it provides for the payment of benefits not customarily included in a pension plan such as layoff benefits or benefits for sickness, accident, hospitalization, or medical expenses.

(ii) A profit-sharing plan is a plan established and maintained by an employer to provide for the participation in his profits by his employees or their beneficiaries. The plan must provide a definite predetermined formula for allocating the contributions made to the plan among the participants and for distributing the funds accumulated under the plan after a fixed number of years, the attainment of a stated age, or upon the prior occurrence of some event such as layoff, illness, disability, retirement, death, or severance of employment. A formula for allocating the contributions among the participants is definite if, for example, it provides for an allocation in proportion to the basic compensation of each participant. A plan (whether or not it contains a definite predetermined formula for determining the profits to be shared with the employees) does not qualify under section 401 (a) if the contributions to the plan are made at such times or in such amounts that the plan in operation discriminates in favor of officers, shareholders, persons whose principal duties consist in supervising the work of other employees, or highly compensated employees. For the rules with respect to discrimination, see §§ 1.401–3 and 1–401–4. A profit-sharing plan within the meaning of section 401 is primarily a plan of deferred compensation, but the amounts allocated to the account of a participant may be used to provide for him or his family incidental life or accident or health insurance.

(iii) A stock bonus plan is a plan established and maintained by an employer to provide benefits similar to those of a profit-sharing plan, except that the contributions by the employer are not necessarily dependent upon profits and the benefits are distributable in stock of the employer company. For the purpose of allocating and distributing the stock of the employer which is to be shared among his employees or their beneficiaries, such a plan is subject to the same requirements as a profit-sharing plan.

(iv) As to inclusion of full-time life insurance salesmen within the class of persons considered to be employees, see section 7701 (a) (20).

(2) The term "plan" implies a permanent as distinguished from a temporary program. Thus, although the employer may reserve the right to change or terminate the plan, and to discontinue contributions thereunder, the abandonment of the plan for any reason other than business necessity within a few years after it has taken effect will be evidence that the plan from its inception was not a bona fide program for the exclusive benefit of employees in general. Especially will this be true if, for example, a pension plan is abandoned soon after pensions have been fully funded for persons in favor of whom discrimination is prohibited under section 401 (a). The permanency of the plan will be indicated by all of the surrounding facts and circumstances, including the likelihood of the employer's ability to continue contributions as provided under the plan. In the case of a profit-sharing plan, it is not necessary that the employer contribute every year or that he contribute the same amount or contribute in accordance with the same ratio every year. However, merely making a single or occasional contribution out of profits for employees does not establish a plan of profit-sharin. To be a profit-sharing plan, there must be recurring and substantial contributions out of profits for the employees. In the event a plan is abandoned, the employer should promptly notify the district director, stating the circumstances which led to the discontinuance of the plan.

(3) If the plan is so designed as to amount to a subterfuge for the distribution of profits to shareholders, it will not qualify as a plan for the exclusive benefit of employees even though other employees who are not shareholders are also included under the plan. The plan must benefit the employees in general, although it need not provide benefits for all of the employees. Among the employees to be benefited may be persons who are officers and shareholders. However, a plan is not for the exclusive benefit of employees in general if, by any device whatever, it discriminates either in eligibility requirements, contributions, or benefits in favor of employees who are officers, shareholders, persons whose principal duties consist in supervising the work of other employees, or the highly compensated employees. See section 401 (a) (3), (4), and (5). Similarly, a stock bonus or profit-sharing plan is not a plan for the exclusive benefit of employees in general if the funds therein may be used to relieve the employer from contributing to a pension plan operating concurrently and covering the same employees. All of the surrounding and attendant circumstances and the details of the plan will be indicative of whether it is a bona fide stock bonus, pension, or profit-sharing plan for the exclusive benefit of employees in general. The law is concerned not only with the form of a plan but also with its effects in operation. For example, section 401 (a) (5) specifies certain provisions which of themselves are not discriminatory. However, this does not mean that a plan containing these provisions may not be discriminatory in actual operation.

(4) A plan is for the exclusive benefit of employees or their beneficiaries even though it may cover former employees as well as present employees and employees who are temporarily on leave, as, for example, in the Armed Forces of the United States. A plan covering only former employees may qualify under section 401 (a) if it complies with the provisions of section 401 (a) (3) (B), with respect to coverage, and section 401 (a) (4), with respect to contributions and benefits, as applied to all of the former employees. The term "beneficiaries" of an employee within the meaning of section 401 includes the estate of the employee, dependents of the employee, persons who are the natural objects of the employee's bounty, and any persons designated by the employee to share in the benefits of the plan after the death of the employee.

(5) (i) No specific limitations are provided in section 401 (a) with respect to investments which may be made by the trustees of a trust qualifying under section 401 (a). Generally, the contributions may be used by the trustees to purchase any investments permitted by the trust agreement to the extent allowed by local law. However, such a trust will be subject to tax under section 511 with respect to any "unrelated business taxable income" (as defined in section 512) realized by it from its investments. Furthermore, the tax-exempt status of the trust will be forfeited if the investments made by the trustees constitute "prohibited transactions" within the meaning of section 503. See also the regulations under such sections.

(ii) Where the trust funds are invested in stock or securities of, or loaned to, the employer or other person described in section 503 (c), full disclosure must be made of the reasons for such arrangement and the conditions under which such investments are made in order that a determination may be made whether the trust serves any purpose other than constituting part of a plan for the exclusive benefit of employees. The trustee shall report any of such investments on the return which under section 6033 it is required to file and shall with respect to any such investment furnish the information required by such return. See § 1.6033–1.

(c) Portions of years. A qualified status must be maintained throughout the entire taxable year of the trust in order for the trust to obtain any exemption for such year. But see section 401 (a) (6) and § 1.401–3.

(d) Plan of several employers. A trust forming part of a plan of several employers for their employees will be qualified if all the requirements are otherwise satisfied.

(e) Returns. A trust which qualifies under section 401 (a) and which is exempt under section 501 (a) must file a return in accordance with section 6033 and the regulations thereunder. See § 1.6033–1. In case such a trust realizes any unrelated business taxable income, as defined in section 512, such trust is also required to file a return with respect to such income. See § 1.6012–2.

§ 1.401–2 Impossibility of diversion under the trust instrument—(a) In general. (1) Under section 401 (a) (2) a trust is not qualified unless under the trust instrument it is impossible (in the taxable year and at any time thereafter before the satisfaction of all liabilities to employees or their beneficiaries covered by the trust) for any part of the trust corpus or income to be used for, or diverted to, purposes other than for the exclusive benefit of such employees or their beneficiaries.

(2) As used in section 401 (a) (2), the phrase "if under the trust instrument it is impossible" means that the trust instrument must definitely and affirmatively make it impossible for the nonexempt diversion or use to occur, whether by operation or natural termination of the trust, by power of revocation or amendment, by the happening of a contingency, by collateral arrangement, or by any other means. Although it is not essential that the employer relinquish all power to modify or terminate the rights of certain employees covered by the trust, it must be impossible for the trust funds to be used or diverted for purposes other than for the exclusive benefit of his employees or their beneficiaries.

(3) As used in section 401 (a) (2), the phrase "purposes other than for the exclusive benefit of his employees or their beneficiaries" includes all objects or aims not solely designed for the proper satisfaction of all liabilities to employees or their beneficiaries covered by the trust.

(b) Meaning of "liabilities". (1) The intent and purpose in section 401 (a) (2) of the phrase "prior to the satisfaction of all liabilities with respect to employees and their beneficiaries under the trust" is to permit the employer to reserve the right to recover at the termination of the trust, and only at such termination, any balance remaining in the trust which is due to erroneous actuarial computations during the previous life of the trust. A balance due to an "erroneous actuarial computation" is the surplus arising because actual requirements differ from the expected requirements even though the latter were based upon previous actuarial valuations of liabilities or determinations of costs of providing pension benefits under the plan and were made by a person competent to make such determinations in accordance with reasonable assumptions as to mortality, interest, etc., and correct procedures relating to the method of funding. For example, a trust has accumulated assets of $1,000,000 at the time of liquidation, determined by acceptable actuarial procedures using reasonable assumptions as to interest, mortality, etc., as being necessary to provide the benefits in accordance with the provisions of the plan. Upon such liquidation it is found that $950,000 will satisfy all of the liabilities under the plan. The surplus of $50,000 arises, therefore, because of the difference between the amounts actuarially determined and the amounts actually required to satisfy the liabilities. This $50,000, therefore, is the amount which may be returned to the employer as the result of an erroneous actuarial computation. If, however, the surplus of $50,000 had been accumulated as a result of a change in the benefit provisions or in the eligibility requirements of the plan, the $50,000 could not revert to the employer because such surplus would not be the result of an erroneous actuarial computation.

(2) The term "liabilities" as used in section 401 (a) (2) includes both fixed and contingent obligations to employees. For example, if 1,000 employees are covered by a trust forming part of a pension plan, 300 of whom have satisfied all the requirements for a monthly pension, while the remaining 700 employees have not yet completed the required period of service, contingent obligations to such 700 employees have nevertheless arisen which constitute "liabilities" within the meaning of that term. It must be impossible for the employer (or other nonemployee) to recover any amounts other than such amounts as remain in the trust because of "erroneous actuarial computations" after the satisfaction of all fixed and contingent obligations. Furthermore, the trust instrument must contain a definite affirmative provision to this effect, irrespective of whether the obligations to employees have their source in the trust instrument itself, in the plan of which the trust forms a part, or in some collateral instrument or arrangement forming a part of such plan, and regardless of whether such obligations are, technically speaking, liabilities of the employer, of the trust, or of some other person forming a part of the plan or connected with it.

§ 1.401–3 Requirements as to coverage. (a) (1) In order to insure that stock bonus, pension, and profit-sharing plans are utilized for the welfare of employees in general, and to prevent the trust device from being used for the principal benefit of shareholders, officers, persons whose principal duties consist in supervising the work of other employees, or highly paid employees, or as a means of tax avoidance, a trust will not be qualified unless it is part of a plan which satisfies the coverage requirements of section 401 (a) (3). The percentage requirements in section 401 (a) (3) (A) refer to a percentage of all the active employees, including employees temporarily on leave, such as those in the Armed Forces of the United States, if such employees are eligible under the plan.

(2) The application of section 401 (a) (3) (A) may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. An employer adopts a plan at a time when he has 1,000 employees. The plan provides that all full-time employees who have been employed by him for a period of two years and have reached the age of 30 shall be eligible to participate. The plan also requires participating employees to contribute 3 percent of their monthly pay. At the time the plan is made effective 100 of the 1,000 employees had not been employed for a period of two years. Fifty of the employees were seasonal employees whose customary employment did not exceed five months in any calendar year. Twenty-five of the employees were part-time employees whose customary employment did not exceed 20 hours in any one week. One hundred and fifty of the full-time employees who had been employed for two years or more had not yet reached age 30. The requirements of section 401 (a) (3) (A) will be met if 540 employees are covered by the plan, as shown by the following computation:

(i) Total employees with respect to whom the percentage requirements are applicable (1,000 minus 175 (100 plus 50 plus 25))	825
(ii) Employees not eligible to participate because of age requirements	150
(iii) Total employees eligible to participate	675
(iv) Percentage of employees in item (i) eligible to participate	81+%
(v) Minimum number of participating employees to qualify the plan (80 percent of 675)	540

If only 70 percent, or 578, of the 825 employees satisfied the age and service requirements, then 462 (80 percent of 578) participating employees would satisfy the percentage requirements.

(b) If a plan fails to qualify under the percentage requirements of section 401 (a) (3) (A), it may still qualify under section 401 (a) (3) (B) provided always that (as required by section 401 (a) (3) and (4)) the plan's eligibility conditions, benefits, and contributions do not discriminate in favor of employees who are officers, shareholders, persons whose principal duties consist in supervising the work of other employees, or the highly compensated employees.

(c) Since, for the purpose of section 401, a profit-sharing plan is a plan which provides for distributing the funds accumulated under the plan after a fixed number of years, the attainment of a stated age, or upon the prior occurrence of some event such as illness, disability, retirement, death, layoff, or severance of employment, employees who receive the amounts allocated to their accounts before the expiration of such a period of time or the occurrence of such a contingency shall not be considered covered by a profit-sharing plan in determining whether the plan meets the coverage requirements of section 401 (a) (3(A) and (B). Thus, in case a plan permits employees to receive immediately the amounts allocated to their accounts, or to have such amounts paid to a profit-sharing plan for them, the employees who receive the shares immediately shall not, for the purpose of section 401, be considered covered by a profit-sharing plan.

(d) Section 401 (a) (5) sets out certain classifications that will not in themselves be considered discriminatory. However, those so designated are not intended to be exclusive. Thus, plans may qualify under section 401 (a) (3) (B) even though coverage thereunder is limited to employees who have either reached a designated age or have been employed for a designated number of years, or who are employed in certain designated departments or are in other classifications, provided the effect of covering only such employees does not discriminate in favor of officers, shareholders, employees whose principal duties consist in supervising the work of other employees, or highly compensated employees. For example, if there are 1,000 employees, and the plan is written for only salaried employees, and consequently only 500 employees are covered, that fact alone will not justify the conclusion that the plan does not meet the coverage requirements of section 401 (a) (3) (B). Conversely, if a contributory plan is offered to all of the employees but the contributions required of the employee participants are so burdensome as to make the plan acceptable only to the highly paid employees, the classification will be considered discriminatory in favor of such highly paid employees.

(e) (1) Section 401 (a) (5) contains a provision to the effect that a classification shall not be considered discriminatory within the meaning of section 401 (a) (3) (B) merely because all employees whose entire annual remuneration constitutes "wages" under section 3121 (a) (1) (for purposes of the Federal Insurance Contributions Act) are excluded from the plan. A reference to section 3121 (a) (1) for years after 1954 shall be deemed a reference to section 1426 (a) (1) for years before 1955. This provision, in conjunction with section 401 (a) (3) (B), is intended to permit the qualification of plans which supplement the old-age and survivor insurance benefits under the Social Security Act. Thus, a classification which excludes all employees whose entire remuneration constitutes "wages" under section 3121 (a) (1), will not be considered discriminatory merely because of such exclusion. Similarly, a plan which includes all employees will not be considered discriminatory solely because the contributions or benefits based on that part of their remuneration which is excluded from wages under section 3121 (a) (1) differ from the contributions or benefits based on that part of their remuneration which is not so excluded. However, in making his determination with respect to discrimination in classification under section 401 (a) (3) (B), the Commissioner will consider whether the total benefits resulting to each employee under the plan and under the Social Security Act, or under the Social Security Act only, establish an integrated and correlated retirement system satisfying the tests of section 401 (a). If, therefore, a classification of employees under a plan results in relatively or proportionately greater benefits for employees earning above any specified salary amount or rate than for those below any such salary amount or rate, it may be found to be discriminatory within the meaning of section 401 (a) (3) (B). If, however, the relative or proportionate differences in benefits which result from such classification are approximately offset by the old-age and survivor insurance benefits which are provided by the Social Security Act and which are not attributable to employee contributions under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act, the plan will be considered to be properly integrated with the Social Security Act and will, therefore, not be considered discriminatory.

(2) In determining whether a plan is properly intergrated with the Social Security Act, the total old-age and survivor insurance benefits with respect to an employee are considered to be 150 percent of the employee's old-age insurance benefits under such Act, and the proportion of such total benefits which is attributable to employee contributions is considered to be approximately 20 percent of such total benefits. These assumptions take into consideration the changes made by the Social Security Amendments of 1954 and the Social Security Amendments of 1956. Thus, for example, a classification of employees under a noncontributory pension or annuity plan established in 1956 which is limited to employees earning in excess of $4,200 a year will not be considered discriminatory within the meaning of section 401 (a) (3) (B), if:

(i) Normal annual retirement benefits for any employee cannot exceed 37½ percent of his average annual compensation in excess of $4,200, where average annual compensation is defined to mean the average annual compensation over the highest five consecutive years.

(ii) There are no benefits payable in case of death before retirement.

(iii) The normal form of retirement benefit is a straight life annuity, and if there are optional forms, the benefit payments are adjusted so that the total value of the optional form is the same as the value of the normal form of retirement benefits.

(iv) Normal retirement benefits for employees who reach normal retirement age before completion of 15 years of service with the employer cannot exceed 2½% of average annual compensation in excess of $4,200 for each year of service.

(v) Normal retirement age is not lower than age 65 for men and not lower than age 60 for women.

(vi) Benefits payable in case of retirement or severance of employment before normal retirement age cannot exceed the actuarial equivalent of that proportion of the maximum normal retirement benefits, which might be provided in accordance with subdivisions (i) through (v) of this subparagraph, earned to the date of actual retirement or severance, where such proportion is determined by the ratio that the actual number of years of service of the employee at retirement or severance bears to the total number of years of service he would have had if he had remained in service until normal retirement age.

In the case of a plan limited to employees earning over $4,200 a year but providing different benefits, or providing benefits related to years of service, or providing benefits purchasable by stated employer contributions, or under which the employees contribute, or providing a combination of the foregoing variations, the plan will be considered to be properly integrated only if, as determined by the Commissioner, the benefits provided thereunder by employer contributions cannot exceed in value the benefits described in the example. Similar principles will govern in determining whether a plan is properly integrated if it is limited to employees whose compensation exceeds a stated level other than $4,200 a year, or if it bases benefits or contributions on compensation in excess of such a level, or if it provides for an offset of benefits otherwise payable under the plan on account of old-age and survivor insurance benefits. In the case of a profit-sharing or stock bonus plan which is limited to employees whose compensation is in excess of a stated level, or which bases contributions on compensation in excess of a stated level, similar principles will govern in determining whether the plan is discriminatory, provided that the employer does not also have in existence a pension or annuity plan which is integrated with old-age and survivor insurance benefits and which provides for employer contributions or benefits based upon all or part of the same compensation considered under the profit-sharing or stock bonus plan. In the case of a plan which is properly integrated with old-age and survivor insurance benefits as in effect before the Social Security Amendments of 1954, and which is limited to employees earning in excess of a stated level, no adjustment is required merely because of the changes made by such Amendments.

(3) A plan supplementing the Social Security Act and excluding all employees whose entire annual remuneration constitutes "wages" under section 3121 (a) (1) will not, however, be deemed discriminatory merely because, for administrative convenience, it provides a reasonable minimum benefit not to exceed $20 a month.

(4) Similar considerations, to the extent applicable in any case, will govern classifications under a plan supplementing the benefits provided by other Federal or State laws. See section 401 (a) (5).

(f) An employer may designate several trusts or a trust or trusts and an annuity plan or plans as constituting one plan which is intended to qualify under section 401 (a) (3), in which case all of such trusts and plans taken as a whole may meet the requirements of such section. The fact that such combination of trusts and plans fails to qualify as one plan does not prevent such of the trusts and plans as qualify from meeting the requirements of section 401 (a).

(g) It is provided in section 401 (a) (6) that a plan will satisfy the requirements of section 401 (a) (3), if on at least one day in each quarter of the taxable year of the plan it satisfies such requirements. This makes it possible for a new plan requiring contributions from employees to qualify if by the end of the quarter-year in which the plan is adopted it secures sufficient contributing participants to meet the requirements of section 401 (a) (3). It also affords a period of time in which new participants may be secured to replace former participants, so as to meet the requirements of either subparagraph (A) or (B) of section 401 (a) (3).

§ 1.401–4 Discrimination as to contributions or benefits. (a) (1) (i) In order to qualify under section 401 (a), a trust must not only meet the coverage requirements of section 401 (a) (3), but, as provided in section 401 (a) (4), it must also be part of a plan under which there is no discrimination in contributions or benefits in favor of officers, shareholders, employees whose principal duties consist in supervising the work of other employees, or highly compensated employees as against other employees whether within or without the plan.

(ii) Since, for the purpose of section 401, a profit-sharing plan is a plan which provides for distributing the funds accumulated under the plan after a fixed number of years, the attainment of a stated age, or upon the prior occurrence of some event such as illness, disability, retirement, death, layoff, or severance of employment, any amount allocated to an employee which is withdrawn before the expiration of such a period of time or the occurrence of such a contingency shall not be considered in determining whether the contributions under the plan discriminate in favor of officers, shareholders, employees whose principal duties consist in supervising the work of other employees, or highly compensated employees. Thus, in case a plan permits employees to receive immediately the whole or any part of the amounts allocated to their accounts, or to have the whole or any part of such amounts paid to a profit-sharing plan for them, any amounts which are received immediately shall not, for the purpose of section 401, be considered contributed to a profit-sharing plan.

(iii) Funds in a stock bonus or profit-sharing plan arising from forfeitures on termination of service, or other reason, must not be allocated to the remaining participants in such a manner as will effect the prohibited discrimination. With respect to forfeitures in a pension plan, see § 1.40–1 (b) (1) (i).

(2) (i) Section 401 (a) (5) sets out certain provisions which will not in and of themselves be discriminatory within the meaning of section 401 (a) (3) or (4). See § 1.401–3. Thus, a plan will not be considered discriminatory merely because the contributions or benefits bear a uniform relationship to total compensation or to the basic or regular rate of compensation, or merely because the contributions or benefits based on that part of the annual compensation of employees which is subject to the Federal Insurance Contributions Act differ from the contributions or benefits based on any excess of such annual compensation over such part.

(ii) The exceptions specified in section 401 (a) (5) are not an exclusive enumeration, but are merely a recital of provisions frequently encountered which will not of themselves constitute forbidden discrimination in contributions or benefits.

(iii) Variations in contributions or benefits may be provided so long as the plan, viewed as a whole for the benefit of employees in general, with all its attendant circumstances, does not discriminate in favor of employees within the enumerations with respect to which discrimination is prohibited. Thus, benefits in a stock bonus or profit-sharing plan which vary by reason of an allocation formula which takes into consideration years of service, or other factors, are not prohibited unless they discriminate in favor of such employees.

(b) A plan which excludes all employees whose entire remuneration constitutes wages under section 3121 (a) (1) (relating to the Federal Insurance Contributions Act), or a plan under which the contributions or benefits based on that part of an employee's remuneration which is excluded from "wages" under such Act differs from the contributions or benefits based on that part of the employee's remuneration which is not so excluded, or a plan under which the contributions or benefits differ because of any retirement benefit created under State or Federal law, will not be discriminatory because of such exclusion or difference, provided the total benefits resulting under the plan and under such law establish an integrated and correlated retirement system satisfying the tests of section 401 (a).

(c) Although a plan may provide for termination at will by the employer, this will not of itself prevent a trust from being a qualified trust. However, in certain cases that fact may necessitate some provision in the plan which will preclude such termination from effecting the prohibited discrimination. This may occur where, for example, certain officers or highly compensated employees are at the inception of the plan within a few years of retirement age and the operation of the plan will fund and vest their benefits in a short period, thus resulting in such discrimination in favor of such officers or hightly compensated employees.

§ 1.401–5 Period for which requirements of section 401 (a) (3), (4), (5), and (6) are applicable. A pension, profit-sharing, stock bonus, or annuity plan shall be considered as satisfying the requirements of section 401 (a) (3), (4), (5), and (6) for the period beginning with the date on which it was put into effect and ending with the 15th day of the third month following the close of the taxable year of the employer in which the plan was put into effect, if all the provisions of the plan which are necessary to satisfy such requirements are in effect by the end of such period and have been made effective for all purposes with respect to the whole of such period. Thus, if an employer in 1954 adopts such a plan as of January 1, 1954, and makes a return on the basis of the calendar year, he will have until March 15, 1955, to amend his plan so as to make it satisfy the requirements of section 401 (a) (3), (4), (5), and (6) for the calendar year 1954 provided that by March 15, 1955, all provisions of such plan necessary to satisfy such requirements are in effect and have been made retroactive for all purposes to January 1, 1954, the effective date of the plan. If an employer is on a fiscal year basis, for example, April 1 to March 31, and in 1954 adopts such a plan effective as of April 1, 1954, he will have until June 15, 1955, to amend his plan so as to make it satisfy the requirements of section 401 (a) (3), (4), (5), and (6) for the fiscal year beginning April 1, 1954, provided that by June 15, 1955, all provisions of such plan necessary to satisfy such requirements are in effect and have been made retroactive for all purposes to April 1, 1954, the effective date of the plan. It should be noted that under section 401 (b) the period in which a plan may be amended to qualify under section 401 (a) ends before the date on which taxpayers other than corporations are required to file income tax returns. See section 6072.

SEC. 402. Taxability of beneficiary of employees' trust—(a) Taxability of beneficiary of exempt trust—(1) General rule. Except as provided in paragraph (2), the amount actually distributed or made available to any distributee by any employees' trust described in section 401 (a) which is exempt from tax under section 501 (a) shall be taxable to him, in the year in which so distributed or made available, under section 72 (relating to annuities) except that section 72 (e) (3) shall not apply. The amount actually distributed or made available to any distributee shall not include net unrealized appreciation in securities of the employer corporation attributable to the amount contributed by the employee. Such net unrealized appreciation and the resulting adjustments to basis of such securities shall be determined in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate.

(2) Capital gains treatment for certain distributions. In the case of an employees' trust described in section 401 (a), which is exempt from tax under section 501 (a), if the total distributions payable with respect to any employee are paid to the distributee within 1 taxable year of the distributee on account of the employee's death or other separation from the service, or on account of the death of the employee after his separation from the service, the amount of such distribution, to the extent exceeding the amounts contributed by the employee (determined by applying section 72 (f)), which employee contributions shall be reduced by any amounts theretofore distributed to him which were not includible in gross income, shall be considered a gain from the sale or exchange of a capital asset held for more than 6 months. Where such total distributions include securities of the employer corporation, there shall be excluded from such excess the net unrealized appreciation attributable to that part of the total distributions which consists of the securities of the employer corporation so distributed. The amount of such net unrealized appreciation and the resulting adjustments to basis of the securities of the employer corporation so distributed shall be determined in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate.

(3) Definitions. For purposes of this subsection—

(A) The term "securities" means only shares of stock and bonds or debentures issued by a corporation with interest coupons or in registered form.

(B) The term "securities of the employer corporation" includes securities of a parent or subsidiary corporation (as defined in section 421 (d) (2) and (3)) of the employer corporation.

(C) The term "total distributions payable" means the balance to the credit of an employee which becomes payable to a distributee on account of the employee's death or other separation from the service, or on account of his death after separation from the service.

§ 1.402 (a)–1 Taxability of beneficiary under a trust which meets the requirements of section 401 (a)—(a) In general. (1) (i) Section 402 relates to the taxation of the beneficiary of an employees' trust. If an employer makes a contribution for the benefit of an employee to a trust described in section 401 (a) for the taxable year of the employer which ends within or with a taxable year of the trust for which the trust is exempt under section 501 (a), the employee is not required to include such contribution in his income except for the year or years in which such contribution is distributed or made available to him. It is immaterial in the case of contributions to an exempt trust whether the employee's rights in the contributions to the trust are forfeitable or nonforfeitable either at the time the contribution is made to the trust or thereafter.

(ii) The provisions of section 402 (a) relate only to a distribution by a trust described in section 401 (a) which is exempt under section 501 (a) for the taxable year of the trust in which the distribution is made. The distribution from such an exempt trust when received or made available is taxable to the distributee to the extent provided in section 72 (relating to annuities), except that section 72 (e) (3) (relating to the treatment of certain lump sums) shall not apply, and except that certain total distributions described in section 402 (a) (2) are taxable as long-term capital gains. For the treatment of such total distributions, see subparagraph (6) of this paragraph. Under certain circumstances, an amount representing the unrealized appreciation in the value of the securities of the employer is excludable from gross income for the year of distribution. For the rules relating to such exclusion, see paragraph (b) of this section. Furthermore, the exclusion provided by section 105 (d) is applicable to a distribution from a trust described in section 401 (a) and exempt under section 501 (a) if such distribution constitutes wages or payments in lieu of wages for a period during which an employee is absent from work on account of a personal injury or sickness (see section 105 and the regulations thereunder).

(iii) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, a distribution of property by a trust described in section 401 (a) and exempt under section 501 (a) shall be taken into account by the distributee at its fair market value. For example, where a United States savings bond which was purchased by a trustee in its own name later is distributed by such trust, it shall be taken into account at its redemption value at the time of distribution and such redemption value shall be the distributee's basis for the bond for the purpose of determining the extent to which income is realized upon its ultimate redemption.

(iv) If a trust is exempt for the taxable year in which the distribution occurs, but was not so exempt for one or more prior taxable years under section 501 (a) (or under section 165 (a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 for years to which such section was applicable), the contributions of the employer which were includible in the gross income of the employee for the taxable year when made shall, in accordance with section 72 (f), also be treated as part of the consideration paid by the employee.

(v) If the trust is not exempt at the time the distribution is received by or made available to the employee, see section 402 (b) and § 1.402 (b)–1 (b).

(2) If a trust described in section 401 (a) and exempt under section 501 (a) purchases an annuity contract for an employee and distributes it to the employee in a year for which the trust is exempt, the contract containing a cash surrender value which may be available to an employee by surrendering the contract, such cash surrender value will not be considered income to the employee unless and until the contract is surrendered. If, however, the contract distributed by such an exempt trust is a retirement income, endowment, or other life insurance contract and is distributed after October 26, 1956, the entire cash value of such contract at the time of distribution must be included in the distributee's income in accordance with the provisions of section 402 (a), except to the extent that, within 60 days after the distribution of such contract, all or any portion of such value is irrevocably converted into a contract under which no part of any proceeds payable on death at any time would be excludable under section 101 (a) (relating to life insurance proceeds).

(3) (i) If a trust described in section 401 (a) and exempt under section 501 (a) purchases under the plan retirement income, endowment, or other contracts providing life insurance protection, payable upon the death of the employee participants, and either—

(a) The proceeds of such life insurance are payable to a beneficiary of the employee participant, other than the trust, or

then, the portion of the premiums paid for the life insurance protection provided under such contracts from either the contributions of the employer or earnings of the trust will constitute income to the employee for the year or years in which the contributions or earnings are applied toward the purchase of such life insurance. If the amount payable upon death at any time during the year exceeds the cash value of the insurance policy at the end of the year, the entire amount of such excess will be considered current life insurance protection. The cost of such insurance will be considered to be a reasonable net premium cost, as determined by the Commissioner, for such amount for the appropriate period. The amount thus to be included in the gross income of the employee under this subdivision shall be considered as premiums or other consideration paid or contributed by the employee only with respect to any benefits attributable to the contract providing the life insurance protection.

(ii) The determination of the cost of life insurance protection may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. A policy purchased under a qualified plan for an employee provides an annuity of $100 per month upon retirement at age 65, with a minimum death benefit of $10,000. The insurance payable if death occurred in the first year would be $10,000. The cash value at the end of the first year is 0. The net insurance is therefore $10,000 minus 0, or $10,000. Assuming that the Commissioner has determined that a reasonable net premium for the employee's age is $5.85 per $1,000, the premium for $10,000 of life insurance is therefore $58.50, and this is the amount to be reported as income by the employee for the year. The balance of the premium is the amount contributed for the annuity, which is not taxable to the employee under a plan meeting the requirements of section 401 (a), except as provided under section 402 (a). Assuming that the cash value at the end of the second year is $500, the net insurance would then be $9,500 for the second year. With a net 1-year term rate of $6.30 for the employee's age in the second year, the amount to be reported as income to the employee would be $59.85.

(iii) This subparagraph shall not apply if the trust has a right under any circumstances to retain any part of the proceeds of the life insurance contract. But see subparagraph (4) (iv) relating to the taxability of the distribution of such proceeds to a beneficiary.

(4) (i) In case a trust described in section 401 (a) and exempt under section 501 (a) either—

(a) Has purchased a retirement income, endowment, or other life insurance contract, and the employee either paid the cost of the insurance or was taxable on the cost of the insurance under subparagraph (3) of this paragraph, or

(b) Has purchased an annuity contract, the amounts payable under any such contract by reason of the death of the employee are taxable under the rules of subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph, except in the case of a joint and survivor annuity.

(ii) (a) In the case of an annuity contract, the death benefit is the accumulation of the premiums (plus earnings thereon) which is intended to fund pension or other deferred benefits under a pension or profit-sharing plan. Such death benefits are not in the nature of life insurance and are not excludable from gross income under section 101 (a).

(b) In the case of a retirement income, endowment, or other life insurance contract under which there is a reserve accumulation which is intended to fund pension or other deferred benefits under a pension or profit-sharing plan, such reserve accumulation constitutes the source of the cash value of the contract and approximates the amount of such cash value. The portion of the proceeds paid upon the death of the insured employee which is equal to the cash value immediately before death is not excludable from gross income under section 101 (a). The remaining portion, if any, of the proceeds paid to the beneficiary by reason of the death of the insured employee—that is, the amount in excess of the cash value—constitutes current insurance protection and is excludable under section 101 (a).

(c) The death benefit under an annuity contract, or the portion of the death proceeds under a retirement income, endowment, or other life insurance contract which is equal to the cash value of the contract immediately before death, constitutes a distribution from the trust consisting in whole or in part of deferred compensation and is taxable to the beneficiary in accordance with section 402 (a) and the provisions of this paragraph, except to the extent that the limited exclusion from income provided in section 101 (b) is applicable.

(d) In the case of a retirement income, endowment, or other life insurance contract under which the benefits are paid at a date or dates later than the death of the employee, section 101 (d) is applicable only to the portion of the benefits which is attributable to the amount excludable under section 101 (a). The portion of such benefits which is attributable to the cash value of the contract immediately before death is taxable under section 72 (relating to annuities), and in such case, any amount excludable under section 101 (b) is treated as additional consideration paid by the employee in accordance with section 101 (b) (2) (D).

(iii) The application of the rules under subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph with respect to the taxability of proceeds of a retirement income, endowment, or other life insurance contract paid by reason of the death of an insured employee who has paid no contributions under the plan is illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1).

Total face amount of the contract payable in a lump-sum at time of death	$25,000
Cash value of the contract immediately before death	11,000
Excess over cash value, excludable under section 101 (a)	14,000
Cash value subject to limited exclusion under section 101 (b)	11,000
Excludable under section 101 (b) (assuming that there is no other death benefit paid by or on behalf of any employer with respect to the employee)	5,000
Balance taxable in accordance with section 402 (a) (2) (assuming a total distribution in one taxable year of the distributee)	6,000
Portion of premiums taxed to employee under the provisions of subparagraph (3) of this paragraph and considered as contributions of the employee	940
Balance taxable as long-term capital gain	5,060

Example (2). The facts are the same as in example (1), except that the contract provides that the beneficiary may elect within 60 days after the death of the employee either to take the $25,000 or to receive 10 annual installments of $3,000 each, and the beneficiary elects to receive the 10 installments. In addition, the employee's rights to the cash value immediately before his death were forfeitable at least to the extent of $5,000. Section 101 (d) is applicable to the amount excludable under section 101 (a), that is, $14,000. The portion of each annual installment of $3,000 which is attributable to this $14,000 is determined by allocating each installment in accordance with the ratio which this $14,000 bears to the total amount which was payable at death ($25,000). Accordingly, the portion of each annual installment which is subject to section 101 (d) is $1,680 ($^{14}/_{25}$ of $3,000), of which, $1,400 ($^{1}/_{10}$ of $14,000) is excludable under section 101 (a), and the remaining $280 is includible in the gross income of the beneficiary. However, if the beneficiary is a surviving spouse as defined in section 101 (d) (3), the exclusion provided by section 101 (d) (1) (B) is applicable to such $280. The remaining portion of each annual $3,000 installment, $1,320, is attributable to the cash value of the contract and is treated under section 72, as follows:

Amount actually contributed by the employee	00
Amount considered contributed by employee by reason of section 101 (b)	$5,000
Portion of premiums taxed to employee under the provisions of subparagraph (3) of this paragraph and considered as contributions of the employee	940
Investment in the contract	5,940
Expected return, 10×$1,320	13,200
Exclusion ratio, $5,940÷$13,200	.45
Annual exclusion, .45×$1,320	594

Accordingly, $594 of the $1,320 portion of each annual installment is excludable each year under section 72, and the remaining $726 is includible. Thus, if the beneficiary is not a surviving spouse, a total of $1,000 ($280 plus $726) of each annual $3,000 installment is includible in income each year. If the beneficiary is a surviving spouse, and can exclude all of the $280 under section 101 (d) (1) (B), the amount includible in gross income each year is $726 of each annual $3,000 installment.

(iv) If an employee neither paid the total cost of the life insurance protection provided under a retirement income, endowment, or other life insurance contract, nor was taxable under subparagraph (3) of this paragraph with respect thereto, no part of the proceeds of such a contract which are paid to the beneficiaries of the employee as a death benefit is excludable under section 101 (a). The entire distribution is taxable to the beneficiaries under section 402 (a) except to the extent that a limited exclusion may be allowable under section 101 (b).

(5) If pension or annuity payments or other benefits are paid or made available to the beneficiary of a deceased employee or a deceased retired employee by a trust described in section 401 (a) which is exempt under section 501 (a), such amounts are taxable in accordance with the rules of section 402 (a) and this section. In case such amounts are taxable under section 72, the "investment in the contract" shall be determined by reference to the amount contributed by the employee and by applying the rules of sections 72 (c), 72 (f), 101 (b) (2) (D), and subparagraph (3) of this paragraph. In case the amounts paid to, or includible in the gross income of, the beneficiaries of the deceased employee or deceased retired employee constitute a distribution to which subparagraph (6) of this paragraph is applicable, the extent to which the distribution is taxable is determined by reference to the contributions of the employee, by reference to any prior distributions which were excludable from gross income as a return of employee contributions, and by applying the rules of sections 72 (f), 101 (b), and subparagraph (3) of this paragraph.

(6) (i) If the total distributions payable with respect to any employee under a trust described in section 401 (a) which in the year of distribution is exempt under section 501 (a) are paid to, or includible in the gross income of, the distributee within one taxable year of the distributee on account of the employee's death or other separation from the service, or death after such separation from service, the amount of such distribution, to the extent it exceeds the net amount contributed by the employee, shall be considered a gain from the sale or exchange of a capital asset held for more than six months. The total distributions payable are includible in the gross income of the distributee within one taxable year if they are made available to such distributee and the distributee fails to make a timely election under section 72 (h) to receive an annuity in lieu of such total distributions. For rules relating to the treatment of such total distributions in the case of a nonresident alien individual, see section 871 and 1441 and the regulations thereunder. The "net amount contributed by the employee" is the amount actually contributed by the employee plus any amounts considered to be contributed by the employee under the rules of sections 72 (f), 101 (b), and subparagraph (3) of this paragraph, reduced by any amounts theretofore distributed to him which were excludable from gross income as a return of employee contributions. See, however, paragraph (b) of this section for rules relating to the exclusion of amounts representing net unrealized appreciation in the value of securities of the employer corporation.

(ii) The term "total distributions payable" means the balance to the credit of an employee which becomes payable to a distributee on account of the employee's death or other separation from the service or on account of his death after separation from the service. Thus, distributions made before a total distribution (for example, annuity payments received by the employee after retirement), will not defeat application of the capital gains treatment with respect to the total distributions received by a beneficiary upon the death of the employee after retirement. However, a distribution on separation from service will not receive capital gains treatment unless it constitutes the total amount in the employee's account at the time of his separation from service. If the total amount in the employee's account at the time of his death or other separation from the service or death after separation from the service is paid or includible in the gross income of the distributee within one taxable year of the distributee, such amount is entitled to the capital gains treatment notwithstanding that in a later taxable year an additional amount, attributable to the last year of service, is credited to the account of the employee and distributed.

(iii) If an employee retires and commences to receive an annuity but subsequently, in some succeeding taxable year, is paid a lump sum in settlement of all future annuity payments, the capital gains treatment does not apply to such lump sum settlement paid during the lifetime of the employee since it is not a payment on account of separation from the service, or death after separation, but is on account of the settlement of future annuity payments.

(iv) If the "total distributions payable" are paid or includible in the gross income of several distributees within one taxable year on account of the employee's death or other separation from the service or on account of his death after separation from the service, the capital gains treatment is applicable. The total distributions payable are paid within one taxable year of the distributees when, for example, a portion of such total is distributed in cash to one distributee and the balance is used to purchase an annuity contract which is distributed to the other distributee. However, if the share of any distributee is not paid or includible in his gross income within the same taxable year in which the shares of the other distributees are paid or includible in their gross income, none of the distributees is entitled to the capital gains treatment, since the total distributions payable are not paid or includible in the distributees' gross income within one taxable year. For example, if the total distributions payable are made available to each of two distributees and one elects to receive his share in cash while the other makes a timely election under section 72 (h) to receive his share in installment payments from the trust, the capital gains treatment does not apply to either distributee.

(v) For regulations as to certain plan terminations, see § 1.402 (e)-1.

(b) Distributions including securities of the employer corporaton—(1) In general. (i) If a trust described in section 401 (a) which is exempt under section 501 (a) makes a distribution to a distributee, and such distribution includes securities of the employer corporation, the amount of any net unrealized appreciation in such securities shall be excluded from the distributee's income in the year of such distribution to the following extent:

(a) If the distribution constitutes a total distribution to which the rules of paragraph (a) (6) of this section are applicable, the amount to be excluded is the entire net unrealized appreciation attributable to that part of the total distribution which consists of securities of the employer corporation; and

(b) If the distribution is other than a total distribution to which paragraph (a) (6) of this section is applicable, the amount to be excluded is that portion of the net unrealized appreciation in the securities of the employer corporation which is attributable to the amount considered to be contributed by the employee to the purchase of such securities. The amount of net unrealized appreciation which is excludable under the rules of (a) and (b) of this subdivision shall not be included in the basis of the securities in the hands of the distributee at the time of distribution for purposes of determining gain or loss on their subsequent disposition. In the case of a total distribution the amount of net unrealized appreciation which is not included in the basis of the securities in the hands of the distributee at the time of distribution shall be considered as a gain from the sale or exchange of a capital asset held for more than six months to the extent that such appreciation is realized in a subsequent taxable transaction. However, if the net gain realized by the distributee in a subsequent taxable transaction exceeds the amount of the net unrealized appreciation at the time of distribution, such excess shall constitute a long-term or short-term capital gain depending upon the holding period of the securities in the hands of the distributee.

(ii) For purposes of section 402 (a) and of this section, the term "securities" means only shares of stock and bonds or debentures issued by a corporation with interest coupons or in registered form, and the term "securities of the employer corporation" includes securities of a parent or subsidiary corporation (as defined in section 421 (d) (2) and (3), relating to employee stock options) of the employer corporation.

(2) Determination of net unrealized appreciation. (i) The amount of net unrealized appreciation in securities of the employer corporation which are distributed by the trust is the excess of the market value of such securities at the time of distribution over the cost or other basis of such securities to the trust. Thus, if a distribution consists in part of securities which have appreciated in value and in part of securities which have depreciated in value, the net unrealized appreciation shall be considered to consist of the net increase in value of all of the securities included in the distribution. For this purpose, two or more distributions made by a trust to a distributee in a single taxable year of the distributee shall be treated as a single distribution.

(ii) For the purpose of determining the net unrealized appreciation on a distributed security of the employer corporation, the cost or other basis of such security to the trust shall be computed in accordance with whichever of the following rules is applicable:

(a) If a security was earmarked for the account of a particular employee at the time it was purchased by or contributed to the trust so that the cost or other basis of such security to the trust is reflected in the account of such employee, such cost or other basis shall be used.

(b) If as of the close of each taxable year of the trust (or other specified period of time not in excess of 12 consecutive calendar months) the trust allocates among the accounts of participating employees all securities acquired by the trust during the period (exclusive of securities unallocated under a plan providing for allocation in whole shares only), the cost or other basis to the trust of any securities allocated as of the close of a particular allocation period shall be the average cost or other basis to the trust of all securities of the same type which were purchased or otherwise acquired by the trust during such allocation period. For purposes of determining the average cost to the trust of securities included in a subsequent allocation, the actual cost to the trust of the securities unallocated as of the close of a prior allocation period shall be deemed to be the average cost or other basis to the trust of securities of the same type allocated as of the close of such prior allocation period.

(c) In a case where neither (a) nor (b) of this subdivision is applicable, if the trust fund, or a specified portion thereof, is invested exclusively in one particular type of security of the employer corporation, and if during the period the distributee participated in the plan none of such securities has been sold except for the purpose of paying benefits under the trust or for the purpose of enabling the trustee to obtain funds with which to exercise rights which have accrued to the trust, the cost or other basis to the trust of all securities distributed to such distributee shall be the total amount credited to the account of such distributee (or such portion thereof as was available for investment in such securities) reduced by the amount available for investment but uninvested on the date of distribution. If at the time of distribution to a particular distributee a portion of the amount credited to his account is forfeited, appropriate adjustment shall be made with respect thereto in determining the cost or other basis to the trust of the securities distributed.

(d) (1) In all other cases, there shall be used the average cost (or other basis) to the trust of all securities of the employer corporation of the type distributed to the distributee which the trust has on hand at the time of the distribution, or which the trust had on hand on a specified inventory date which date does not precede the date of distribution by more than twelve calendar months. If a distribution includes securities of the employer corporation of more than one type, the average cost (or other basis) to the trust of each type of security distributed shall be determined. The average cost to the trust of securities of the employer corporation on hand on a specified inventory date (or on hand at the time of distribution) shall be computed on the basis of their actual cost, considering the securities most recently purchased to be those on hand, or by means of a moving average calculated by subtracting from the total cost of securities on hand immediately preceding a particular sale or distribution an amount computed by multiplying the number of securities sold or distributed by the average cost of all securities on hand preceding such sale or distribution.

(2) These methods of computing average cost may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). A, a distributee who makes his income tax returns on the basis of a calendar year, receives on August 1, 1954, in a total distribution, to which paragraph (a) (6) of this section is applicable, ten shares of class D stock of the employer corporation. On July 1, 1954 (the specified inventory date of the trust), the trust had on hand 80 shares of class D stock. The average cost of the 10 shares distributed, on the basis of the actual cost method, is $100 computed as follows:

Shares	Purchase date	Cost per share	Total cost
20	June 24, 1954	$101	$2,020
40	Jan. 10, 1953	102	4,080
20	Oct. 20, 1952	95	1,900
80			8,000

Example (2). B, a distributee who makes his income tax returns on the basis of a calendar year, receives on October 31, 1954, in a total distribution, to which paragraph (a) (6) of this section is applicable, 20 shares of class E stock of the employer corporation. The specified inventory date of the trust is the last day of each calendar year. The trust had on hand on December 31, 1952, 1,000 shares of class E stock of the employer corporation. During the calendar year 1953 the trust distributed to four distributees a total of 100 shares of such stock and acquired, through a number of purchases, a total of 120 shares. The average cost of the 20 shares distributed to B, on the basis of the moving average method, is $52 computed as follows:

	Shares	Total cost	Average cost
On hand Dec. 31, 1952	1,000	$50,000	$50
Distributed during 1953 at average cost of $50	100	5,000
	900	45,000
Purchased during 1953	120	8,040
On hand Dec. 31, 1953	1,020	53,040	52

(3) Unrealized appreciation attributable to employee contributions. In any case in which it is necessary to determine the amount of net unrealized appreciation in securities of the employer corporation which is attributable to contributions made by an employee:

(i) The cost or other basis of the securities to the trust and the amount of net unrealized appreciation shall first be determined in accordance with the rules in paragraph (b) (2) of this section;

(ii) The amount contributed by the employee to the purchase of the securities shall be solely the portion of his actual contributions to the trust properly allocable to such securities, and shall not include any part of the increment in the trust fund expended in the purchase of the securities;

(iii) The amount of net unrealized appreciation in the securities distributed which is attributable to the contributions of the employee shall be that proportion of the net unrealized appreciation determined under the rules of subparagraph (2) of this paragraph which the contributions of the employee properly allocable to such securities bear to the cost or other basis to the trust of the securities;

(iv) If a distribution consists solely of securities of the employer corporation, the contributions of the employee expended in the purchase of such securities shall be allocated to the securities distributed in a manner consistent with the principles set forth in subparagraph (2) (ii) (a), (b), (c), or (d) of this paragraph, whichever is applicable. Thus, the amount of the employee's contribution which can be identified as having been expended in the purchase of a particular security shall be allocated to such security, and the amount of such contribution which cannot be so identified shall be allocated ratably among the securities distributed. If a distribution consists in part of securities of the employer corporation and in part of cash or other property, appropriate allocation of a portion of the employee's contribution to such cash or other property shall be made unless such allocation is inconsistent with the terms of the plan or trust.

(v) The application of this subparagraph may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. A trust distributes ten shares of stock issued by the employer corporation each of which has an average cost to the trust of $100, consisting of employee contributions in the amount of $60 and employer contributions in the amount of $40, and on the date of distribution has a fair market value of $180. The portion of the net unrealized appreciation attributable to the contributions of the employee with respect to each of the shares of stock is $48 computed as follows:

(1) Value of one share of stock on distribution date	$180
(2) Employee contributions	60
(3) Employer contributions	40
(4) Total contributions	100
(5) Net unrealized appreciation	80
(6) Portion of net unrealized appreciation attributable to employee contributions, $^{60}/_{100}$ (amount of employee contributions (item 2) over total contributions (item 4) of $80 (item 5))	48

(vi) For the purpose of determining gain or loss to the distributee in the year or years in which any share of stock referred to in the example in subdivision (v) of this subparagraph is sold or otherwise disposed of in a taxable transaction, the basis of each such share in the hands of the distributee at the time of the distribution by the trust will be $132 computed as follows:

(a) Employee contributions	$60
(b) Employer contributions (taxable as ordinary income in the year the securities were distributed)	40
(c) Portion of net unrealized appreciation attributable to employer contributions (item (5) minus item (6)) (taxable as ordinary income in the year the securities were distributed)	32
(d) Basis of stock	132

(4) Change in exempt status of trust. For principles applicable in making appropriate adjustments if the trust was not exempt for one or more years before the year of distribution, see paragraph (a) of this section.

§ 1.402 (b) Statutory provisions; taxability of beneficiary of employees' trust; non-exempt trust.

SEC. 402. Taxability of beneficiary of employees' trust. * * *

(b) Taxability of beneficiary of non-exempt trust. Contributions to an employees' trust made by an employer during a taxable year of the employer which ends within or with a taxable year of the trust for which the trust is not exempt from tax under section 501 (a) shall be included in the gross income of an employee for the taxable year in which the contribution is made to the trust in the case of an employee whose beneficial interest in such contribution is nonforfeitable at the time the contribution is made. The amount actually distributed or made available to any distributee by any such trust shall be taxable to him, in the year in which so distributed or made available, under section 72 (relating to annuities) except that section 72 (e) (3) shall not apply.

§ 1.402 (b)-1 Treatment of beneficiary of a trust not exempt under section 501 (a)—(a) Taxation by reason of employer contributions. (1) Except as provided in section 402 (d), any contribution made by an employer on behalf of an employee to a trust during a taxable year of the employer which ends within or with a taxable year of the trust for which the trust is not exempt under section 501 (a), shall be included in income of the employee for his taxable year during which the contribution is made if the employee's beneficial interest in the contribution is nonforfeitable at the time the contribution is made. If the employee's beneficial interest in the contribution is forfeitable at the time the contribution is made even though his interest becomes nonforfeitable later, the amount of such contribution is not required to be included in the income of the employee at the time his interest becomes nonforfeitable.

(2) (i) An employee's beneficial interest in the contribution is nonforfeitable within the meaning of sections 402 (b), 403 (b), and 404 (a) (5) at the time the contribution is made if there is no contingency under the plan which may cause the employee to lose his rights in the contribution. For example, if under the terms of a pension plan, an employee upon termination of his services before the retirement date, whether voluntarily or involuntarily, is entitled to a deferred annuity contract to be purchased with the employer's contributions made on his behalf, or is entitled to annuity payments which the trustee is obligated to make under the terms of the trust instrument based on the contributions made by the employer on his behalf, the employee's beneficial interest in such contributions is nonforfeitable.

(ii) On the other hand, if, under the terms of a pension plan, an employee will lose the right to any annuity purchased from, or to be provided by, contributions made by the employer if his services should be terminated before retirement, his beneficial interest in such contributions is forfeitable.

(iii) The mere fact that an employee may not live to the retirement date, or may live only a short period after the retirement date, and may not be able to enjoy the receipt of annuity or pension payments, does not make his beneficial interest in the contributions made by the employer on his behalf forfeitable. If the employer's contributions have been irrevocably applied to purchase an annuity contract for the employee, or if the trustee is obligated to use the employer's contributions to provide an annuity for the employee provided only that the employee is alive on the dates the annuity payments are due, the employee's rights in the employer's contributions are nonforfeitable.

(b) Taxation of distributions from trust not exempt under section 501 (a). Any amount actually distributed or made available to any distributee by an employees' trust which is not exempt under section 501 (a) for the taxable year of the trust in which the distribution is made shall be taxable in the year in which so distributed or made available, under section 72 (relating to annuities), except that section 72 (e) (3) shall not apply. If, for example, the distribution from such a trust consists of an annuity contract, the amount of the distribution shall be considered to be the entire value of the contract at the time of distribution, and such value is includible in the gross income of the distributee at the time of the distribution to the extent that such value exceeds the investment in the contract determined by applying sections 72 and 101 (b). The distributions by such an employees' trust shall be taxed as provided in section 72, whether or not the employee's rights to the contributions were nonforfeitable when the contributions were made or at any time thereafter. For rules relating to the treatment of employer contributions to a non-exempt trust as part of the consideration paid by the employee, see section 72 (f). For rules relating to the treatment of the limited exclusion allowable under section 101 (b) (2) (D) as additional consideration paid by the employee, see the regulations under that section.

SEC. 402. Taxability of beneficiary of employees' trust. * * *

(c) Taxability of beneficiary of certain foreign situs trusts. For purposes of subsections (a) and (b), a stock bonus, pension, or profit-sharing trust which would qualify for exemption from tax under section 501 (a) except for the fact that it is a trust created or organized outside the United States shall be treated as if it were a trust exempt from tax under section 501 (a).

§ 1.402 (c)-1 Taxability of beneficiary of certain foreign situs trusts. Section 402 (c) has the effect of treating, for purposes of section 402, the distributions from a trust which at the time of the distribution is located outside the United States in the same manner as distributions from a trust which is located in the United States. If the trust would qualify for exemption from tax under section 501 (a) except for the fact that it fails to comply with the provisions of § 1.401-(a) (3) (i), which restricts qualification to trusts created or organized in the United States and maintained here, section 402 (a) and § 1.402 (a)-1 are applicable to the distributions from such a trust. Thus, for example, a total distribution from such a trust is entitled to the long-term capital gains treatment of section 402 (a) (2), except in the case of a nonresident alien individual (see sections 871 and 1441 and the regulations thereunder). However, if the plan fails to meet any requirement of section 401 and the regulations thereunder in addition to § 1.401-1 (a) (3) (i), section 402 (b) and § 1.402 (b)-1 are applicable to the distributions from such a trust.

§ 1.402 (d) Statutory provisions; taxability of beneficiary of employees' trust; annuities under agreements entered into prior to October 21, 1942.

SEC. 402. Taxability of beneficiary of employees' trust. * * *

(d) Certain employees' annuities. Notwithstanding subsection (b) or any other provision of this subtitle, a contribution to a trust by an employer shall not be included in the gross income of the employee in the year in which the contribution is made if—

(1) Such contribution is to be applied by the trustee for the purchase of annuity contracts for the benefit of such employee;

(2) Such contribution is made to the trustee pursuant to a written agreement entered into prior to October 21, 1942, between the employer and the trustee, or between the employer and the employee; and

(3) Under the terms of the trust agreement the employee is not entitled during his lifetime, except with the consent of the trustee, to any payments under annuity contracts purchased by the trustee other than annuity payments.

The employee shall include in his gross income the amounts received under such contracts for the year received as provided in section 72 (relating to annuities) except that section 72 (e) (3) shall not apply. This subsection shall have no application with respect to amounts contributed to a trust after June 1, 1949, if the trust on such date was exempt under section 165 (a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939. For purposes of this subsection, amounts paid by an employer for the purchase of annuity contracts which are transferred to the trustee shall be deemed to be contributions made to a trust or trustee and contributions applied by the trustee for the purchase of annuity contracts; the term "annuity contracts purchased by the trustee" shall include annuity contracts so purchased by the employer and transferred to the trustee; and the term "employee" shall include only a person who was in the employ of the employer, and was covered by the agreement referred to in paragraph (2), prior to October 21, 1942.

§ 1.402 (d)-1 Effect of section 402 (d). (a) If the requirements of section 402 (d) are met, a contribution made by an employer on behalf of an employee to a trust which is not exempt under section 501 (a) shall not be included in the income of the employee in the year in which the contribution is made. Such contribution will be taxable to the employee, when received in later years, as provided in section 72 (relating to annuities), except that section 72 (e) (3) shall not apply. See § 1.403 (b)-1 (b). The intent and purpose of section 402 (d) is to give those employees, covered under certain non-exempt trusts to which such section applies, essentially the same tax treatment as those covered by trusts described in section 401 (a) and exempt under section 501 (a), except that the capital gains treatment referred to in section 402 (a) (2) does not apply.

(b) Every person claiming the benefit of section 402 (d) must be able to demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that all of the provisions of such section are met. The taxpayer must produce sufficient evidence to prove:

(1) That, before October 21, 1942, he was employed by the particular employer making the contribution in question and was at such time definitely covered by a written agreement, entered into before October 21, 1942, between himself and the employer, or between the employer and the trustee of a trust established by the employer before October 21, 1942, and that the contribution by the employer was made pursuant to such agreement. The fact that an employee may have been potentially covered is not sufficient. Evidence that the employment was entered into, or the agreement executed, "as of" a date before October 21, 1942, or that the agreement or trust instrument which did not theretofore meet the requirements of section 402 (d) was modified or amended after October 20, 1942, so as to come within the provisions of such section, will not satisfy the requirements of section 402 (d).

(2) That such contribution, pursuant to the terms of such agreement, was to be applied for the purchase of an annuity contract for the taxpayer. In the case of a contribution by the employer of an annuity contract purchased by such employer and transferred by him to the trustee of the trust, evidence should be presented to prove that such contract was purchased for the taxpayer by the employer pursuant to the terms of a written agreement between the employer and the employee or between the employer and the trustee, entered into before October 21, 1942.

(3) That under the written terms of the trust agreement the taxpayer is not entitled during his lifetime, except with the consent of the trustee, to any payments other than annuity payments under the annuity contract or contracts purchased by the trustee or by the employer and transferred to the trustee, and that the trustee may grant or withhold such consent free from control by the taxpayer, the employer, or any other person. However, such control will not be presumed from the fact that the trustee is himself an officer or employee of the employer. As used in section 402 (d) the phrase "if * * * under the terms of the trust agreement the employee is not entitled" means that the trust instrument must make it impossible for the prohibited distribution to occur, whether by operation or natural termination of the trust, whether by power of revocation or amendment, other than with the consent of the trustee, whether by the happening of a contingency, by collateral arrangement, or any other means. It is not essential that the employer relinquish all power to modify or terminate the trust but it must be impossible, except with the consent of the trustee, for any payments under annuity contracts purchased by the trustee, or by the employer and transferred to the trustee, to be received by the taxpayer, directly or indirectly, other than as annuity payments.

(4) The nature and amount of such contribution and the extent to which income taxes have been paid thereon before January 1, 1949, and not credited or refunded.

(5) If it is claimed that section 402 (d) applies to amounts contributed to a trust after June 1, 1949, the taxpayer must prove to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that the trust did not, on June 1, 1949, qualify for exemption under section 165 (a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939. Where an employer buys an annuity contract which is transferred to the trustee, the date of the purchase of the annuity contract and not the date of the transfer to the trustee is the controlling date in determining whether or not the contribution was made to the trust after June 1, 1949.

§ 1.402 (e) Statutory provisions; taxability of beneficiary of employees' trust; certain plan terminations.

SEC. 402. Taxability of beneficiary of employees' trust. • • •

(e) Certain plan terminations. For purposes of subsection (a) (2), distributions made after December 31, 1953, and before January 1, 1955, as a result of the complete termination of a stock bonus, pension, or profit-sharing plan of an employer which is a corporation, if the termination of the plan is incident to the complete liquidation, occurring before the date of enactment of this title, of the corporation, whether or not such liquidation is incident to a reorganization as defined in section 368 (a), shall be considered to be distributions on account of separation from service.

§ 1.402 (e)–1 Certain plan terminations. Distributions made after December 31, 1953, and before January 1, 1955, as a result of the complete termination of an employees' trust described in section 401 (a) which is exempt under section 501 (a) shall be considered distributions on account of separation from service for purposes of section 402 (a) (2) if the employer who established the trust is a corporation, and the termination of the plan is incident to the complete liquidation of the corporation before August 16, 1954, regardless of whether such liquidation is incident to a reorganization as defined in section 368.

SEC. 403. Taxation of employee annuities—(a) Taxability of beneficiary under a qualified annuity plan—(1) General rule. Except as provided in paragraph (2), if an annuity contract is purchased by an employer for an employee under a plan with respect to which the employer's contribution is deductible under section 404 (a) (2), or if an annuity contract is purchased for an employee by an employer described in section 501 (c) (3) which is exempt from tax under section 501 (a), the employee shall include in his gross income the amounts received under such contract for the year received as provided in section 72 (relating to annuities) except that section 72 (e) (3) shall not apply.

(2) Capital gains treatment for certain distributions—(A) General rule. If—

(i) An annuity contract is purchased by an employer for an employee under a plan which meets the requirements of section 401 (a) (3), (4), (5), and (6);

(ii) Such plan requires that refunds of contributions with respect to annuity contracts purchased under such plan be used to reduce subsequent premiums on the contracts under the plan; and

(iii) The total amounts payable by reason of an employee's death or other separation from the service, or by reason of the death of an employee after the employee's separation from the service, are paid to the payee within one taxable year of the payee, then the amount of such payments, to the extent exceeding the amount contributed by the employee (determined by applying section 72 (f)), which employee contributions shall be reduced by any amounts theretofore paid to him which were not includible in gross income, shall be considered a gain from the sale or exchange of a capital asset held for more than 6 months.

(B) Definition. For purposes of subparagraph (A), the term "total amounts" means the balance to the credit of an employee which becomes payable to the payee by reason of the employee's death or other separation from the service, or by reason of his death after separation from the service.

§ 1.403 (a)–1 Taxability of beneficiary under a qualified annuity plan. (a) An employee or retired or former employee for whom an annuity contract is purchased by his employer is not required to include in his gross income the amount paid for the contract at the time such amount is paid, whether or not his rights to the contract are forfeitable, if—

(1) The annuity contract is purchased under a plan with respect to which the amounts paid by the employer are deductible under section 404 (a) (2), or

(2) The annuity contract is purchased under a plan which meets the requirements of section 404 (a) (2) although the employer does not deduct the amounts paid for the contract under such section, or

(3) The annuity contract is purchased by an employer which is an organization described in section 501 (c) (3) and exempt under section 501 (a) provided the purchase of the annuity is merely a supplement to past or current compensation. For the purpose of this subparagraph, whether the purchase of an annuity contract is merely a "supplement to past or current compensation" is to be determined by all the surrounding facts and circumstances. One of the pertinent facts to be taken into consideration is the ratio of the consideration paid by the employer for an employee's contract to the amount of his past or current compensation. For example, if the annual permium paid for an employee's contract is $1,000 and his annual salary is $10,000, the ratio indicates that the premium paid for the contract is merely a supplement to the employee's current compensation. If, however, an employee receives no current compensation, or the annual premiums paid for his annuity contract approximate his annual salary, the amount paid for his contract will be considered to be current compensation and taxable to the employee in the year in which it is paid by the employer. Other pertinent considerations are whether the annuity contract is purchased as a result of an agreement for a reduction of the employee's annual salary, or whether it is purchased at his request in lieu of an increase in current compensation to which he otherwise might be entitled. In such cases, the amount paid for the contract shall also be considered to be current compensation.

(b) The amounts received by or made available to any employee referred to in paragraph (a) of this section under such annuity contract shall be included in gross income of the employee for the taxable year in which received or made available, as provided in section 72 (relating to annuities) except that section 72 (e) (3) shall not apply, and except that certain total distributions described in section 403 (a) (2) are taxable as long-term capital gains. For the treatment of such total distributions, see § 1.403 (a)–2.

(c) If upon the death of an employee or of a retired employee, the widow or other beneficiary of such employee is paid, in accordance with the terms of the annuity contract relating to the deceased employee, an annuity or other death benefit, the extent to which the amounts received by or made available to the beneficiary must be included in the beneficiary's income under section 403 (a) shall be determined in accordance with the rules presented in § 1.402 (a)–1 (a) (5).

(d) If under a qualified annuity plan a group contract providing group permanent life insurance protection is purchased for the employees, the same rules which are applicable when contracts providing life insurance protection are purchased by a trust described in section 401 (a) and exempt under section 501 (a), shall be applicable in the case of such a contract. For such rules, see § 1.402 (a)–1 (a) (2), (3), and (4). Section 403 (a) is not applicable to premiums paid after October 26, 1956, for individual contracts providing life insurance protection for employees.

(e) As to inclusion of full-time life insurance salesmen within the class of persons considered to be employees, see section 7701 (a) (20).

§ 1.403 (a)–2 Capital gains treatment for certain distributions. (a) If the total amounts payable with respect to any employee for whom an annuity contract has been purchased by an employer under a plan which—

(1) Meets the requirements of section 401 (a) (3), (4), (5), and (6), and

(2) Requires that refunds of contributions with respect to annuity contracts purchased under such plan be used to reduce subsequent premiums on the contracts under the plan,

are paid to, or includible in gross income of, the payee within one taxable year of the payee by reason of the employee's death or other separation from the service, or death after such separation from the service, such total payments, to the extent they exceed the net amount contributed by the employee, shall be considered a gain from the sale or exchange of a capital asset held for more than six months. The "net amount contributed by the employee" is the amount actually contributed by the employee plus any amounts considered to be contributed by the employee under the rules of sections 72 (f), 101 (b), and § 1.403 (a)–1 (d), reduced by any amounts theretofore distributed to him which were excludable from his gross income as a return of employee contributions. For example, if under an annuity contract purchased under a plan described in this section, the total distributions payable to the employee's widow are paid to her in the year in which the employee dies, in the amount of $8,000, and if $5,000 thereof is excludable under section 101 (b), and if the employee made contributions of $600 and had received no payments, the remaining amount of $2,400 will be considered a gain from the sale or exchange of a capital asset held for more than six months.

(b) (1) The term "total amounts" means the balance to the credit of an employee with respect to all annuities under the annuity plan which becomes payable to the payee by reason of the employee's death or other separation from the service, or by reason of his death after separation from the service. If an employee commences to receive annuity payments on retirement and then a lump sum payment is made to his widow upon his death, the capital gains treatment applies to the lump sum payment, but it does not apply to amounts received before the time the "total amounts" become payable. However, if the total amount to the credit of the employee at the time of his death or other separation from the service or death after separation from the service is paid or includible in the gross income of the payee within one taxable year of the payee, such amount is entitled to the capital gains treatment notwithstanding that in a later taxable year an additional amount is credited to the employee and paid to the payee.

(2) If more than one annuity contract is received under the plan, the capital gains treatment does not apply to any amount received on the surrender thereof unless all contracts under the plan with respect to a particular employee are surrendered either at the time of the employee's death or other separation from the service or death after separation from the service. Thus, if an employee receives two contracts on separation from the service and surrenders one of them in the year of separation and receives payments under the other until his death, the capital gains treatment is applicable to the balance paid to his beneficiary on his death if paid within one taxable year of the beneficiary. The amount received by the employee on surrender of the contract in the year of his separation from the service, however, would not receive capital gains treatment since the balance to the credit of the employee with respect to all amounts under the plan did not become payable at that time.

(3) If an employee retires and commences to receive an annuity but subsequently in some succeeding taxable year, he is paid a lump sum in settlement of all future annuity payments, the capital gains treatment does not apply to such lump sum settlement paid during the lifetime of the employee since it is not a payment on account of separation from the service, or death after separation, but is on account of the settlement of future annuity payments.

(4) If the "total amounts" payable under all annuity contracts under the plan with respect to a particular employee are paid or includible in the gross income of several payees within one taxable year on account of the employee's death or other separation from the service or on account of his death after separation from the service, the capital gains treatment is applicable. Thus, if the balance to the credit of a deceased employee under all annuity contracts provided under an annuity plan becomes payable to two payees, the capital gains treatment is applicable provided the "total amounts" payable are received by or includible in the gross income of both payees within the same taxable year. However, if the "total amounts" payable are made available to each payee and one elects to receive his share in cash while the other makes a timely election under section 72 (h) to receive his share as an annuity, the capital gains treatment does not apply to either payee.

SEC. 403. Taxation of employee annuities. • • •

(b) Taxability of beneficiary under a nonqualifier annuity. If an annuity contract purchased by an employer for an employee is not subject to subsection (a) and the employee's rights under the contract are nonforfeitable, except for failure to pay future premiums, the amount contributed by the employer for such annuity contract on or after such rights become nonforfeitable shall be included in the gross income of the employee in the year in which the amount is contributed. The employee shall include in his gross income the amounts received under such contract for the year received as provided in section 72 (relating to annuities) except that section 72 (e) (3) shall not apply.

§ 1.403 (b)–1 Taxability of beneficiary under a nonqualified annuity. (a) Except as provided in section 402 (d), if an employer purchases an annuity contract and if the amounts paid for the contract are not subject to § 1.403 (a)–1 (a), the amount of such contribution shall be included in the income of the employee for the taxable year during which such contribution is made if, at the time the contribution is made, the employee's rights under the annuity contract are nonforfeitable, except for failure to pay future premiums. If the employee's rights under the annuity contract in such a case were forfeitable at the time the employer's contribution was made for the annuity contract, even though they become nonforfeitable later, the amount of such contribution is not required to be included in the income of the employee at the time his rights under the contract become nonforfeitable. As to what constitutes nonforfeitable rights of an employee, see § 1.402 (b)–1. The amounts received by or made available to the employee under the annuity contract shall be included in the gross income of the employee for the taxable year in which received or made available, as provided in section 72 (relating to annuities) except that section 72 (e) (3) shall not apply. For rules relating to the treatment of employer contributions as part of the consideration paid by the employee, see section 72 (f). See also section 101 (b) (2) (D) for rules relating to the treatment of the limited exclusion provided thereunder as part of the consideration paid by the employee.

(b) If an employer has purchased annuity contracts and transferred the same to a trust or if an employer has made contributions to a trust for the purpose of providing annuity contracts for his employees as provided in section 402 (d) (see § 1.402 (d)–1 (a)), the amount so paid or contributed is not required to be included in the income of the employee, but any amount received by or made available to the employee under the annuity contract shall be includible in the gross income of the employee for the taxable year in which received or made available, as provided in section 72 (relating to annuities), except that section 72 (e) (3) shall not apply. In such case the amount paid or contributed by the employer shall not constitute consideration paid by the employee for such annuity contract in determining the amount of annuity payments required to be included in his gross income under section 72 unless the employee has paid income tax for any taxable year beginning before January 1, 1949, with respect to such payment or contribution by the employer for such year and such tax is not credited or refunded to the employee. In the event such tax has been paid and not credited or refunded the amount paid or contributed by the employer for such year shall constitute consideration paid by the employee for the annuity contract in determining the amount of the annuity required to be included in the income of the employee under section 72.

§ 1.404 (a) Statutory provisions; deduction for contributions of an employer to an employees' trust or annuity plan and compensation under a deferred-payment plan; general rule.

SEC. 404. Deduction for contributions of an employer to an employees' trust or annuity plan and compensation under a deferred-payment plan—(a) General rule. If contributions are paid by an employer to or under a stock bonus, pension, profit-sharing, or annuity plan, or if compensation is paid or accrued on account of any employee under a plan deferring the receipt of such compensation, such contributions or compensation shall not be deductible under section 162 (relating to trade or business expenses) or section 212 (relating to expenses for the production of income) but if they satisfy the conditions of either of such sections, they shall be deductible under this section, subject, however, to the following limitations as to the amounts deductible in any year:

(1) Pension trusts. In the taxable year when paid, if the contributions are paid into a pension trust, and if such taxable year ends within or with a taxable year of the trust for which the trust is exempt under section 501 (a), in an amount determined as follows:

(A) An amount not in excess of 5 percent of the compensation otherwise paid or accrued during the taxable year to all the employees under the trust, but such amount may be reduced for future years if found by the Secretary or his delegate upon periodical examinations at not less than 5-year intervals to be more than the amount reasonably necessary to provide the remaining unfunded cost of past and current service credits of all employees under the plan, plus

(B) Any excess over the amount allowable under subparagraph (A) necessary to provide with respect to all of the employees under the trust the remaining unfunded cost of their past and current service credits distributed as a level amount, or a level percentage of compensation, over the remaining future service of each such employee, as determined under regulations prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate, but if such remaining unfunded cost with respect to any 3 individuals is more than 50 percent of such remaining unfunded cost, the amount of such unfunded cost attributable to such individuals shall be distributed over a period of at least 5 taxable years, or

(C) In lieu of the amounts allowable under subparagraphs (A) and (B) above, an amount equal to the normal cost of the plan, as determined under regulations prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate, plus, if past service or other supplementary pension or annuity credits are provided by the plan, an amount not in excess of 10 percent of the cost which would be required to completely fund or purchase such pension or annuity credits as of the date when they are included in the plan, as determined under regulations prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate, except that in no case shall a deduction be allowed for any amount (other than the normal cost) paid in after such pension or annuity credits are completely funded or purchased.

(D) Any amount paid in a taxable year in excess of the amount deductible in such year under the foregoing limitations shall be deductible in the succeeding taxable years in order of time to the extent of the difference between the amount paid and deductible in each such succeeding year and the maximum amount deductible for such year in accordance with the foregoing limitations.

(2) Employees' annuities. In the taxable year when paid, in an amount determined in accordance with paragraph (1), if the contributions are paid toward the purchase of retirement annuities and such purchase is a part of a plan which meets the requirements of section 401 (a) (3), (4), (5), and (6), and if refunds of premiums, if any, are applied within the current taxable year or next succeeding taxable year towards the purchase of such retirement annuities.

(3) Stock bonus and profit-sharing trusts—(A) Limits on deductible contributions. In the taxable year when paid, if the contributions are paid into a stock bonus or profit-sharing trust, and if such taxable year ends within or with a taxable year of the trust with respect to which the trust is exempt under section 501 (a), in an amount not in excess of 15 percent of the compensation otherwise paid or accrued during the taxable year to all employees under the stock bonus or profit-sharing plan. If in any taxable year there is paid into the trust, or a similar trust then in effect, amounts less than the amounts deductible under the preceding sentence, the excess, or if no amount is paid, the amounts deductible, shall be carried forward and be deductible when paid in the succeeding taxable years in order of time, but the amount so deductible under this sentence in any such succeeding taxable year shall not exceed 15 percent of the compensation otherwise paid or accrued during such succeeding taxable year to the beneficiaries under the plan. In addition, any amount paid into the trust in any taxable year in excess of the amount allowable with respect to such year under the preceding provisions of this subparagraph shall be deductible in the succeeding taxable years in order of time, but the amount so deductible under this sentence in any one such succeeding taxable year together with the amount allowable under the first sentence of this subparagraph shall not exceed 15 percent of the compensation otherwise paid or accrued during such taxable year to the beneficiaries under the plan. The term "stock bonus or profit-sharing trust", as used in this subparagraph, shall not include any trust designed to provide benefits upon retirement and covering a period of years, if under the plan the amounts to be contributed by the employer can be determined actuarially as provided in paragraph (1). If the contributions are made to 2 or more stock bonus or profit-sharing trusts, such trusts shall be considered a single trust for purposes of applying the limitations in this subparagraph.

(B) Profit-sharing plan of affiliated group. In the case of a profit-sharing plan, or a stock bonus plan in which contributions are determined with reference to profits, of a group of corporations which is an affiliated group within the meaning of section 1504, if any member of such affiliated group is prevented from making a contribution which it would otherwise have made under the plan, by reason of having no current or accumulated earnings or profits or because such earnings or profits are less than the contributions which it would otherwise have made, then so much of the contribution which such member was so prevented from making may be made, for the benefit of the employees of such member, by the other members of the group, to the extent of current or accumulated earnings or profits, except that such contribution by each such other member shall be limited, where the group does not file a consolidated return, to that proportion of its total current and accumulated earnings or profits remaining after adjustment for its contribution deductible without regard to this subparagraph which the total prevented contribution bears to the total current and accumulated earnings or profits of all the members of the group remaining after adjustment for all contributions deductible without regard to this subparagraph. Contributions made under the preceding sentence shall be deductible under subparagraph (A) of this paragraph by the employer making such contribution, and, for the purpose of determining amounts which may be carried forward and deducted under the second sentence of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph in succeeding taxable years, shall be deemed to have been made by the employer on behalf of whose employees such contributions were made.

(4) Trusts created or organized outside the United States. If a stock bonus, pension, or profit-sharing trust would qualify for exemption under section 501 (a) except for the fact that it is a trust created or organized outside the United States, contributions to such a trust by an employer which is a resident, or corporation, or other entity of the United States, shall be deductible under the preceding paragraphs.

(5) Other plans. In the taxable year when paid, if the plan is not one included in paragraph (1), (2), or (3), if the employees' rights to or derived from such employer's contribution or such compensation are nonforfeitable at the time the contribution or compensation is paid.

(6) Taxpayers on accrual basis. For purposes of paragraphs (1), (2), and (3), a taxpayer on the accrual basis shall be deemed to have made a payment on the last day of the year of accrual if the payment is on account of such taxable year and is made not later than the time prescribed by law for filing the return for such taxable year (including extensions thereof).

(7) Limit of deduction. If amounts are deductible under paragraphs (1) and (3), or (2) and (3), or (1), (2), and (3), in connection with 2 or more trusts, or one or more trusts and an annuity plan, the total amount deductible in a taxable year under such trusts and plans shall not exceed 25 percent of the compensation otherwise paid or accrued during the taxable year to the persons who are the beneficiaries of the trusts or plans. In addition, any amount paid into such trust or under such annuity plans in any taxable year in excess of the amount allowable with respect to such year under the preceding provisions of this paragraph shall be deductible in the succeeding taxable years in order of time, but the amount so deductible under this sentence in any one such succeeding taxable year together with the amount allowable under the first sentence of this paragraph shall not exceed 30 percent of the compensation otherwise paid or accrued during such taxable years to the beneficiaries under the trusts or plans. This paragraph shall not have the effect of reducing the amount otherwise deductible under paragraphs (1), (2), and (3), if no employee is a beneficiary under more than one trust, or a trust and an annuity plan.

§ 1.404 (a)–1 Contributions of an employer to an employees' trust or annuity plan and compensation under a deferred payment plan; general rule. (a) (1) Section 404 (a) prescribes limitations upon deductions for amounts contributed by an employer under a pension, annuity, stock bonus, or profit-sharing plan, or under any plan of deferred compensation. It is immaterial whether the plan covers present employees only, or present and former employees, or only former employees. Section 404 (a) also governs the deductibility of unfunded pensions and death benefits paid directly to former employees or their beneficiaries (see § 1.404 (a)–12).

(2) Section 404 (a) does not apply to a plan which does not defer the receipt of compensation. Furthermore, section 404 (a) does not apply to deductions for contributions under a plan which is solely a dismissal wage or unemployment benefit plan, or a sickness, accident, hospitalization, medical expense, recreation, welfare, or similar benefit plan, or a combination thereof. For example, if under a plan an employer contributes 5 percent of each employee's compensation per month to a fund out of which employees who are laid off will be paid benefits for temporary periods, but employees who are not laid off have no rights to the funds, such a plan is an unemployment benefit plan, and the deductibility of the contributions to it is determined under section 162. As to the deductibility of such contributions, see § 1.162–9.

(3) If, however, the contributions to a pension, profit-sharing, stock bonus, or other plan of deferred compensation can be used to provide any of the benefits referred to in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, then, except as provided in section 404 (c), section 404 (a) applies to the entire contribution to the plan. Thus, if in the example described in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, the employer's contribution on behalf of each employee is set up as a separate account, and if any amount which remains in an employee's account at the time of retirement is paid to him at such time, the deductibility of the contributions to the plan is determined under section 404 (a). For the rules for determining whether the benefits referred to in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph can be included in a qualified pension or profit-sharing plan, see § 1.401–1 (b).

(4) As to inclusion of full-time life insurance salesmen within the class of persons considered to be employees, see section 7701 (a) (20).

(b) In order to be deductible under section 404 (a), contributions must be expenses which would be deductible under section 162 (relating to trade or business expenses) or 212 (relating to expenses for production of income) if it were not for the provision in section 404 (a) that they are deductible, if at all, only under section 404 (a). Contributions may therefore be deducted under section 404 (a) only to the extent that they are ordinary and necessary expenses during the taxable year in carrying on the trade or business or for the production of income and are compensation for personal services actually rendered. In no case is a deduction allowable under section 404 (a) for the amount of any contribution for the benefit of an employee in excess of the amount which, together with other deductions allowed for compensation for such employee's services, constitutes a reasonable allowance for compensation for the services actually rendered. What constitutes a reasonable allowance depends upon the facts in the particular case. Among the elements to be considered in determining this are the personal services actually rendered in prior years as well as the current year and all compensation and contributions paid to or for such employee in prior years as well as in the current year. Thus, a contribution which is in the nature of additional compensation for services performed in prior years may be deductible, even if the total of such contributions and other compensation for the current year would be in excess of reasonable compensation for services performed in the current year, provided that such total plus all compensation and contributions paid to or for such employee in prior years represents a reasonable allowance for all services rendered by the employee by the end of the current year. A contribution under a plan which is primarily for the benefit of shareholders of the employer is not deductible. Such a contribution may constitute a dividend within the meaning of section 316. See also §§ 1.162–6 and 1.162–8. In addition to the limitations referred to above, deductions under section 404 (a) are also subject to further conditions and limitations particularly provided therein.

(c) Deductions under section 404 (a) are generally allowable only for the year in which the contribution or compensation is paid, regardless of the fact that the taxpayer may make his returns on the accrual method of accounting. Exceptions are made in the case of overpayments as provided in paragraphs (1), (3), and (7) of section 404 (a), and, as provided by section 404 (a) (6), in the case of payments made by a taxpayer on the accrual method of accounting not later than the time prescribed by law for filing the return for the taxable year of accrual (including extensions thereof). This latter provision is intended to permit a taxpayer on the accrual method to deduct such accrued contribution or compensation in the year of accrual, provided payment is actually made not later than the time prescribed by law for filing the return for the taxable year of accrual (including extensions thereof), but this provision is not applicable unless, during the taxable year on account of which the contribution is made, the taxpayer incurs a liability to make the contribution, the amount of which is accruable under section 461 for such taxable year. See section 461 and the regulations thereunder. There is another exception in the case of certain taxpayers who are required to make additional contributions as a result of Public Law 74 (Eighty-fourth Congress) approved June 15, 1955, and the regulations thereunder.

§ 1.404 (a)–2 Information to be furnished by employer claiming deductions. (a) For the first taxable year for which a deduction from gross income is claimed under section 404 (a) (1), (2), (3), or (7), the employer must file the following information (unless such information has been previously filed in accordance with the regulations under section 23 (p) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939) for each plan involved to establish that it meets the requirements of section 401 (a) or 404 (a) (2), and that deductions claimed do not exceed the amount allowable under paragraphs (1), (2), (3), and (7) of section 404 (a), as the case may be:

Also a summary of the resulting costs or liabilities and adjustments for the year under the pension or annuity plan in sufficient detail to permit ready verification of the reasonableness thereof.

(8) A statement of the applicable limitations under section 404 (a) (1), (2), (3), or (7) and an explanation of the method of determining such limitations and a summary of the data and computations necessary to determine the allowable deductions for the taxable year.

(i) For contributions paid in the taxable year before giving effect to the provisions of paragraph (7) of section 404 (a).

(ii) For contributions paid in prior taxable years beginning after December 31, 1941, in accordance with the carryover provisions of paragraphs (1) and (3) of section 404 (a), before giving effect to the provisions of paragraph (7) thereof, and in accordance with the carryover provisions of section 404 (d).

(iii) Any reductions or increases in the deductions in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (7) of section 404 (a).

(b) For taxable years subsequent to the year for which all of the applicable information under paragraph (a) of this section (or corresponding provisions of prior regulations) has been filed, information is to be filed only to the following extent:

(1) If there is any change in the plan, instruments, methods, factors, or assumptions upon which the data and information specified in subparagraph (1), (2), or (7) of paragraph (a) of this section are based, a detailed statement explaining the change and its effect is to be filed only for the taxable year in which the change is put into effect. However, if there is no such change, unless otherwise requested by the district director, merely a statement that there is no such change is to be filed.

(2) The information specified in subparagraph (3) of paragraph (a) of this section which has been filed for a taxable year, unless otherwise requested by the district director and so long as the plan and the method and basis of allocations are not changed, is to be filed for subsequent years only to the extent of showing in the tabulation such information with respect to employees who, at any time in the taxable year, own, directly or indirectly, more than 5 percent of the voting stock, considering stock so owned by an individual's spouse or minor lineal descendant as owned by the individual for this purpose.

(3) The information specified in subparagraphs (4), (5), (6), (8), and (9) of paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) If a deduction is claimed under section 404 (a) (5) for the taxable year, the taxpayer shall furnish such information as is necessary to show that the deduction is not allowable under the other paragraphs of section 404 (a), that the amount paid is an ordinary and necessary expense or an expense for the production of income, and that the employees' rights to, or derived from, such employer's contribution or such compensation were nonforfeitable at the time the contribution or compensation was paid.

(d) For the purpose of the information required by this section, contributions paid in a taxable year should include those deemed to be so paid in accordance with the provisions of section 404 (a) (6) and should exclude those deemed to be paid in the prior taxable year in accordance with such provisions. As used in this section, "taxable year" refers to the taxable year of the employer and, unless otherwise requested by the district director, a "year" which is not specified as a "taxable year" may be taken as the taxable year of the employer or as the plan, trust, valuation, or group contract year with respect to which deductions are being claimed provided the same rule is followed consistently so that there is no gap or overlap in the information furnished for each item. In any case the date or period to which each item of information furnished relates should be clearly shown. All the information required by this section should be filed with the tax return for the taxable year in which the deduction is claimed except that, unless sooner requested by the district director, such information, other than that specified in subparagraphs (4) (i) and (9) of paragraph (a) of this section, may be filed within 12 months after the close of the taxable year provided there is filed with the tax return a statement that the information cannot reasonably be filed therewith, setting forth the reasons therefor.

(e) In any case all the information and data required by this section must be filed in the office of the district director in which the employer files his tax returns and identified for association with the appropriate returns and must be filed independently of any information and data otherwise submitted in connection with a determination of the qualification of the trust or plan under section 401 (a). The district director may, in addition, require any further information that he considers necessary to determine allowable deductions under section 404 or qualification under section 401 and may waive the filing of such information required herein which he finds unnecessary in a particular case.

(f) Records substantiating all data and information required by this section to be filed must be kept at all times available for inspection by internal revenue officers at the main office or place of business of the employer.

§ 1.404 (a)–3 Contributions of an employer to or under an employees' pension trust or annuity plan that meets the requirements of section 401 (a); application of section 404 (a) (1). (a) If contributions are paid by an employer to or under a pension trust or annuity plan for employees and the general conditions and limitations applicable to deductions for such contributions are satisfied (see § 1.404 (a)–1), the contributions are deductible under section 404 (a) (1) or (2) if the further conditions provided therein are also satisfied. As used here, a "pension trust" means a trust forming part of a pension plan and an "annuity plan" means a pension plan under which retirement benefits are provided under annuity or insurance contracts without a trust. This section is also applicable to contributions to a foreign situs pension trust which could qualify for exemption under section 501 (a) except that it is not created or organized and maintained in the United States. For the meaning of "pension plan" as used here, see § 1.401–1 (b) (1) (i). Where disability pensions, insurance, or survivorship benefits incidental and directly related to the retirement benefits under a pension or annuity plan are provided for the employees or their beneficiaries by contributions under the plan, deductions on account of such incidental benefits are also covered under section 404 (a) (1) or (2). See § 1.402 (a)–1 (a) (3) as to taxability to employees of cost of incidental insurance protection. In order to be deductible under section 404 (a) (1), contributions to a pension trust must be paid in a taxable year of the employer which ends with or within a year of the trust for which it is exempt under section 501 (a). In order that contributions carried over may be deducted in a succeeding taxable year of the employer in accordance with section 404 (a) (1) (D), the succeeding year also must end with or within a taxable year of the trust for which it is exempt under section 501 (a). See § 1.404 (a)–8 as to conditions for deductions under section 404 (a) (2) in the case of an annuity plan. In either case, the deductions are also subject to further limitations provided in section 404 (a) (1). The limitations provided in section 404 (a) (1) are, with an exception provided for certain years under subparagraph (A) thereof (see § 1.404 (a)–4), based on the actuarial costs of the plan.

(b) In determining costs for the purpose of limitations under section 404 (a) (1), the effects of expected mortality and interest must be discounted and the effects of expected withdrawals, changes in compensation, retirements at various ages, and other pertinent factors may be discounted or otherwise reasonably recognized. A properly weighted retirement age based on adequate analyses of representative experience may be used as an assumed retirement age. Different basic assumptions or rates may be used for different classes of risks or different groups where justified by conditions or required by contract. In no event shall costs for the purpose of section 404 (a) (1) exceed costs based on assumptions and methods which are reasonable in view of the provisions and coverage of the plan, the funding medium, reasonable expectations as to the effects of mortality and interest, reasonable and adequate regard for other factors such as withdrawal and deferred retirement (whether or not discounted) which can be expected to reduce costs materially, reasonable expenses of operation, and all other relevant conditions and circumstances. In any case, in determining the costs and limitations, an adjustment shall be made on account of any experience more favorable than that assumed in the basis of limitations for prior years. Unless such adjustments are consistently made every year by reducing the limitations otherwise determined by any decrease in liability or cost arising from experience in the next preceding taxable year which was more favorable than the assumptions on which the costs and limitations were based, the adjustment shall be made by some other method approved by the Commissioner.

(c) The amount of a contribution to a pension or annuity plan that is deductible under section 404 (a) (1) or (2) depends upon the methods, factors, and assumptions which are used to compute the costs of the plan and the limitation of section 404 (a) (1) which is applied. Since the amount that is deductible for one taxable year may affect the amount that is deductible for other taxable years, the methods, factors, and assumptions used in determining costs and the method of determining the limitation which have been used for determining the deduction for a taxable year for which the return has been filed shall not be changed for such taxable year, except when the Commissioner determines that the methods, factors, assumptions, or limitations were not proper, or except when a change is necessitated by reason of the use of different methods, factors, assumptions, or limitations for another taxable year. However, different methods, factors, and assumptions, or a different method of determining the limitation, if they are proper, may be used in determining the deduction for a subsequent taxable year. In any case, see subparagraphs (7) and (8) of paragraph (a) and subparagraphs (1) and (3) of paragraph (b) of § 1.404 (a)–2 for the information which must be submitted regarding the methods, factors, assumptions, and limitations.

(d) Any expenses incurred by the employer in connection with the plan, such as trustee's and actuary's fees, which are not provided for by contributions under the plan are deductible by the employer under section 162 (relating to trade or business expenses), or 212 (relating to expenses for production of income) to the extent that they are ordinary and necessary.

(e) In case deductions are allowable under section 404 (a) (3) as well as under section 404 (a) (1) or (2), the limitations under section 404 (a) (1) and (3) are determined and applied without giving effect to the provisions of section 404 (a) (7) but the amounts allowable as deductions are subject to the further limitations provided in section 404 (a) (7). See § 1.404 (a)–13.

§ 1.404 (a)–4 Pension and annuity plans; limitations under section 404 (a) (1) (A). (a) Subject to the applicable general conditions and limitations (see § 1.404 (a)–3), the initial limitation under section 404 (a) (1) (A) is 5 percent of the compensation otherwise paid or accrued during the taxable year to all employees under the pension or annuity plan. This initial 5-percent limitation applies to the first taxable year for which a deduction is allowed for contributions to or under such a plan and also applies to any subsequent year for which the 5-percent figure is not reduced as provided in this section. For years to which the initial 5-percent limitation applies, no adjustment on account of prior experience is required. If the contributions do not exceed the initial 5-percent limitation in the first taxable year to which this limitation applies, the taxpayer need not submit actuarial data for such year.

(b) For the first taxable year following the first year to which the initial 5-percent limitation applies, and for every fifth year thereafter, or more frequently where preferable to the taxpayer, the taxpayer shall submit with his return an actuarial certification of the amount reasonably necessary to provide the remaining unfunded cost of past and current service credits of all employees under the plan with a statement explaining all the methods, factors, and assumptions used in determining such amount. This amount may be determined as the sum of (1) the unfunded past service cost as of the beginning of the year, and (2) the normal cost for the year. Such costs shall be determined by methods, factors, and assumptions appropriate as a basis of limitations under section 404 (a) (1) (C). Whenever requested by the district director, a similar certification and statement shall be submitted for the year or years specified in such request. The district director will make periodical examinations of such data at not less than 5-year intervals. Based upon such examinations the Commissioner will reduce the limitation under section 404 (a) (1) (A) below the 5-percent limitation for the years with respect to which he finds that the 5-percent limitation exceeds the amount reasonably necessary to provide the remaining unfunded cost of past and current service credits of all employees under the plan. Where the limitation is so reduced, the reduced limitation shall apply until the Commissioner finds that a subsequent actuarial valuation shows a change to be necessary. Such subsequent valuation may be made by the taxpayer at any time and submitted to the district director with a request for a change in the limitation.

(c) For the purpose of limitations under section 404 (a) (1) (A), "compensation otherwise paid or accrued" means all of the compensation paid or accrued except that for which a deduction is allowable under a plan that qualifies under section 401 (a), including a plan that qualifies under section 404 (a) (2). Where two or more pension or annuity plans cover the same employee, under section 404 (a) (1) (A) the deductions with respect to each such plan are subject to the limitations applicable to the particular plan and the total deductions for all such plans are also subject to the limitations which would be applicable thereto if they constituted a single plan. Where, because of the particular provisions applicable to a large class of employees under a plan, the costs with respect to such employees are nominal in comparison with their compensation, after the first year to which the initial 5-percent limitation applies, deductions under section 404 (a) (1) (A) are subject to limitations determined by considering the plan applicable to such class as if it were a separate plan. Deductions are allowable to the extent of the applicable limitations under section 404 (a) (1) (A) even where these are greater than the applicable limitations under section 404 (a) (1) (B) or section 404 (a) (1) (C).

§ 1.404 (a)–5 Pension and annuity plans; limitations under section 404 (a) (1) (B). (a) Subject to the applicable general conditions and limitations (see § 1.404 (a)–3), under section 404 (a) (1) (B), deductions may be allowed to the extent of limitations based on costs determined by distributing the remaining unfunded cost of the past and current service credits with respect to all employees covered under the trust or plan as a level amount or level percentage of compensation over the remaining service of each such employee except that, as to any three individuals with respect to whom more than 50 percent of such remaining unfunded cost is attributable, the remaining unfunded cost attributable to such individuals shall be distributed evenly over a period of at least five taxable years.

(b) The statutory limitation for any taxable year under section 404 (a) (1) (B) is any excess of the amount of the costs described in paragraph (a) of this section for the year over the amount allowable as a deduction under section 404 (a) (1) (A).

(c) For this purpose, such excess, adjusted for prior experience, may be computed for each year as follows, all determinations being made as of the beginning of the year:

(1) Determine the value of all benefits expected to be paid after the beginning of the year for all employees, any former employees, and any other beneficiaries, then covered under the plan.

(2) If employees contribute under the plan, determine the value of all contributions expected to be made after the beginning of the year by employees then covered under the plan.

(3) Determine the value of all funds of the plan as of the beginning of the year.

(4) Determine the amount remaining to be distributed as a level amount or as a level percentage of compensation over the remaining future service of each employee by subtracting from subparagraph (1) of this paragraph the sum of subparagraphs (2) and (3) of this paragraph.

(5) Determine the value of all compensation expected to be paid after the beginning of the year to all employees then covered under the plan.

(6) Determine an accrual rate for each employee by dividing subparagraph (5) of this paragraph into subparagraph (4) of this paragraph.

(7) Compute the excess under section 404 (a) (1) (B) for the year by multiplying the compensation paid to all employees covered under the plan during the year by any excess of subparagraph (6) of this paragraph over 5 percent. In general, where this method is used, the limitation under section 404 (a) (1) (B) will be equal to the excess so computed without further adjustment on account of prior favorable experience, provided all the factors and assumptions used are reasonable in view of all applicable considerations (see § 1.404 (a)–3) and provided subparagraph (5) of this paragraph is not less than five times the annual rate of compensation in effect at the beginning of the year.

(d) Instead of determining the excess deductible under section 404 (a) (1) (B) by the method shown in paragraph (c), such excess may be based upon cost determined by some other method which is reasonable and appropriate under the circumstances. Thus, such excess may be based on the amounts necessary with respect to each individual covered employee to provide the remaining unfunded cost of all his benefits under the plan distributed as a level amount over the period remaining until the normal commencement of his retirement benefits, in accordance with other generally accepted actuarial methods which are reasonable and appropriate in view of the provisions of the plan, the funding medium, and other applicable considerations.

§ 1.404 (a)–6 Pension and annuity plans; limitations under section 404 (a) (1) (C). (a) Subject to the applicable general conditions and limitations (see § 1.404 (a)–3), in lieu of amounts deductible under the limitations of section 404 (a) (1) (A) and section 404 (a) (1) (B), deductions may be allowed under section 404 (a) (1) (C) to the extent of limitations based on normal and past service or supplementary costs of providing benefits under the plan. "Normal cost" for any year is the amount actuarially determined which would be required as a contribution by the employer in such year to maintain the plan if the plan had been in effect from the beginning of service of each then included employee and if such costs for prior years had been paid and all assumptions as to interest, mortality, time of payment, etc., had been fulfilled. Past service or supplementary cost at any time is the amount actuarially determined which would be required at such time to meet all the future benefits provided under the plan which would not be met by future normal costs and employee contributions with respect to the employees covered under the plan at such time.

(b) The limitation under section 404 (a) (1) (C) for any taxable year is the sum of normal cost for the year plus an amount not in excess of one-tenth of the past service or supplementary cost as of the date the past service or supplementary credits are provided under the plan. For this purpose the normal costs may be determined by any generally accepted actuarial method and may be expressed either as (1) the aggregate of level amounts with respect to each employee covered under the plan, (2) a level percentage of payroll with respect to each employee covered under the plan, or (3) the aggregate of the single premium or unit costs for the unit credits accruing during the year with respect to each employee covered under the plan, provided, in any case, that the method is reasonable in view of the provisions and coverage of the plan, the funding medium, and other applicable considerations. The limitation may include one-tenth of the past service or supplementary cost as of the date the provisions resulting in such cost were put into effect, but it is subject to adjustments for prior favorable experience. See § 1.404 (a)–3. In any case, past service or supplementary costs shall not be included in the limitation for any year in which the amount required to fund fully or to purchase such past service or supplementary credits has been deducted, since no deduction is allowable for any amount (other than the normal cost) which is paid in after such credits are fully funded or purchased.

§ 1.404 (a)–7 Pension and annuity plans; contributions in excess of limitations under section 404 (a) (1); application of section 404 (a) (1) (D). Where contributions paid by an employer in a taxable year to or under a pension or annuity plan exceed the limitations applicable under section 404 (a) (1) but otherwise satisfy the conditions for deduction under section 404 (a) (1) or (2), then in accordance with section 404 (a) (1) (D), the excess contributions are carried over and are deductible in succeeding taxable years in order of time to the extent of the difference between the amount paid and deductible in each succeeding year and the limitation applicable to such year under section 404 (a) (1) (A), (B), or (C). The provisions of section 404 (a) (1) (D) are to be applied before giving effect to the provisions of section 404 (a) (7) for any year. The carryover provisions of section 404 (a) (1) (D), before effect has been given to section 404 (a) (7), may be illustrated by the following example for a plan put into effect in a taxable year ending December 31, 1954:

Taxable year ending Dec. 31, 1954:
Amount of contributions paid in year	$100,000
Limitation applicable to year	60,000
Amount deductible for year	60,000
Excess carried over to succeeding years	40,000
Taxable year ending Dec. 31, 1955:
Amount of contributions paid in year	25,000
Carried over from previous years	40,000
Total deductible subject to limitation	65,000
Limitation applicable to year	50,000
Amount deductible for year	50,000
Excess carried over to succeeding years	15,000
Taxable year ending Dec. 31, 1956:
Amount of contributions paid in year	10,000
Carried over from previous years	15,000
Total deductible subject to limitation	25,000
Limitation applicable to year	45,000
Amount deductible for year	25,000
Excess carried over to succeeding years	None

§ 1.404 (a)–8 Contributions of an employer under an employees' annuity plan which meets the requirements of section 401 (a); application of section 404 (a) (2). (a) If contributions are paid by an employer under an annuity plan for employees and the general conditions and limitations applicable to deductions for such contributions are satisfied (see § 1.404 (a)–1), the contributions are deductible under section 404 (a) (2) if the further conditions provided therein are satisfied. For the meaning of "annuity plan" as used here, see § 1.404 (a)–3. In order that contributions by the employer may be deducted under section 404 (a) (2), all of the following conditions must be satisfied:

(1) The contributions must be paid toward the purchase of retirement annuities (or for disability, severance, insurance, or survivorship benefits incidental and directly related to such annuities) under an annuity plan for the exclusive benefit of the employer's employees or their beneficiaries. See § 1.401–1 (a).

(2) The contributions must be paid in a taxable year of the employer which ends with or within a year of the plan for which it meets the applicable requirements with respect to discrimination set out in section 401 (a) (3), (4), (5), and (6). In order that contributions carried over may be deducted in a succeeding taxable year of the employer in accordance with section 404 (a) (1) (D), the succeeding year also must end with or within a taxable year of the plan for which it meets such requirements. See §§ 1.401–3 and 1.401–4. These requirements are considered to be satisfied for the period beginning with the date on which an annuity plan was put into effect and ending with the fifteenth day of the third month following the close of the taxable year of the employer in which the plan was put into effect, if all provisions of the plan which are necessary to satisfy such requirements are in effect by the end of such period and have been made effective for all purposes with respect to the whole of such period. See section 401 (b) and § 1.401–5. It should be noted that the period in which a plan may be amended to qualify under section 401 (b) ends before the date taxpayers, other than corporations, are required to file income tax returns.

(3) There must be a definite written arrangement between the employer and the insurer that refunds of premiums, if any, shall be applied within the taxable year of the employer in which received or within the next succeeding taxable year toward the purchase of retirement annuities (or for disability, severance, insurance, or survivorship benefits incidental and directly related to such annuities) under the plan. For the purpose of this condition, "refunds of premiums" means payments by the insurer on account of credits such as dividends, experience rating credits, or surrender or cancellation credits. The arrangement may be in the form of contract provisions or written directions of the employer or partly in one form and partly in another. This condition will be considered satisfied where—

(i) All credits are applied regularly, as they are determined, toward the premiums next due under the contracts before any further employer contributions are so applied, and

(ii) Under the arrangement,

(a) No refund of premiums may be made during continuance of the plan unless applied as aforesaid, and

(b) If refunds of premiums may be made after discontinuance of the plan on account of surrenders or cancellations before all retirement annuities provided under the plan with respect to service before its discontinuance have been purchased, such refunds will be applied in the taxable year of the employer in which received, or in the next succeeding taxable year, to purchase retirement annuities for employees by a procedure which does not contravene the conditions of section 401 (a) (4).

(b) Where the above conditions are satisfied, the amounts of deductions under section 404 (a) (2) are governed by the limitations provided in section 404 (a) (1). See §§ 1.404 (a)–3 to 1.404 (a)–7, inclusive.

§ 1.404 (a)–9 Contributions of an employer to an employees' profit-sharing or stock bonus trust that meets the requirements of section 401 (a); application of section 404 (a) (3) (A). (a) If contributions are paid by an employer to a profit-sharing or stock bonus trust for employees and the general conditions and limitations applicable to deductions for such contributions are satisfied (see § 1.404 (a)–1), the contributions are deductible under section 404 (a) (3) (A) if the further conditions provided therein are also satisfied. In order to be deductible under section 404 (a) (3) (A) the contributions must be paid in a taxable year of the employer which ends with or within a taxable year of the trust for which it is exempt under section 501 (a) and the trust must not be designed to provide retirement benefits for which the contributions can be determined actuarially. In order that contributions carried over may be deducted in a succeeding taxable year of the employer in accordance with the third sentence of section 404 (a) (3) (A), the succeeding year also must end with or within a taxable year of the trust for which it is exempt under section 501 (a). This section is also applicable to contributions to a foreign situs profit-sharing or stock bonus trust which could qualify for exemption under section 501 (a) except that it is not created or organized and maintained in the United States.

(b) The amount of deductions under section 404 (a) (3) (A) for any taxable year is subject to limitations based on the compensation otherwise paid or accrued during such taxable year to the employees who, in such year, are beneficiaries of the trust funds accumulated under the plan. For this purpose "compensation otherwise paid or accrued" means all of the compensation paid or accrued except that for which a deduction is allowable under a plan that qualifies under section 401 (a), including a plan that qualifies under section 404 (a) (2). The limitations under section 404 (a) (3) (A) apply to the total amount deductible for contributions to the trust regardless of the manner in which the funds of the trust are invested, applied, or distributed, and no other deduction is allowable on account of any benefits provided by contributions to the trust or by the funds thereof. Where contributions are paid to two or more profit-sharing or stock bonus trusts satisfying the conditions for deduction under section 404 (a) (3) (A), such trusts are considered as a single trust in applying these limitations.

(c) The primary limitation on deductions for a taxable year is 15 percent of the compensation otherwise paid or accrued during such taxable year to the employees who, in such year, are beneficiaries of the trust funds accumulated under the plan. So long as the contributions do not in any year exceed the primary limitation, this is the only limitation under section 404 (a) (3) (A) which has any effect.

(d) In order that the deductions may average 15 percent of compensation otherwise paid or accrued over a period of years, where contributions in some taxable year are less than the primary limitation but contributions in some succeeding taxable year exceed the primary limitation, deductions in each succeeding year are subject to a secondary limitation instead of to the primary limitation. The secondary limitation for any year is equal to the lesser of (1) twice the primary limitation for the year, or (2) any excess of (i) the aggregate of the primary limitations for the year and for all prior years over (ii) the aggregate of the deductions allowed or allowable under the limitations provided in section 404 (a) (3) (A) for all prior years.

(e) In any case where the contributions in a taxable year exceed the amount allowable as a deduction for the year under section 404 (a) (3) (A), the excess is deductible in succeeding taxable years, in order of time, in which the contributions are less than the primary limitations. However, the total deduction for any such succeeding year cannot exceed the lesser of (1) the primary limitation for such year, or (2) the sum of the contributions in such year and the excess contributions not deducted under the limitations of section 404 (a) (3) (A) for prior years.

(f) In case deductions are allowable under section 404 (a) (1) or (2), as well as under section 404 (a) (3) (A), the limitations under section 404 (a) (1) and (3) (A) are determined and applied without giving effect to the provisions of section 404 (a) (7), but the amounts allowable as deductions are subject to the further limitations provided in section 404 (a) (7). See § 1.404 (a)–13.

(g) The provisions of section 404 (a) (3) (A) before giving effect to section 404 (a) (7), may be illustrated as follows:

under section 404 (a) (3) (B) does not depend upon whether the affiliated group does or does not file a consolidated return. If a consolidated return is filed, it is immaterial which of the participating corporations makes the contribution and takes the deduction or how the contribution or the deduction is allocated among them. However, if a consolidated return is not filed, the contribution which is deductible under section 404 (a) (3) (B) by each contributing corporation shall be limited to that portion of its total current and accumulated earnings or profits (adjusted for its contribution deductible without regard to section 404 (a) (3) (B)) which the prevented contribution bears to the total current and accumulated earnings or profits of all the participating members of the group having such earnings or profits (adjusted for all contributions deductible without regard to section 404 (a) (3) (B)). For the purpose of this section, current earnings or profits shall be computed as of the close of the taxable year without diminution by reason of any dividends during the taxable year, and accumulated earnings or profits shall be computed as of the beginning of the taxable year.

(d) The application of section 404 (a) (3) (B) may be illustrated by the following example in which the affiliated group does not file a consolidated return:

(1)	(2)	(3)	(4)	(5)	(6)	(7)	(8)	(9)	(10)	(11)

§ 1.404 (a)–11 Trusts created or organized outside the United States; application of section 404 (a) (4). In order that a trust may constitute a qualified trust under section 401 (a) and be exempt under section 501 (a), it must be created or organized in the United States and maintained at all times as a domestic trust. See § 1.401–1 (a). Paragraph (4) of section 404 (a) provides, however, that an employer which is a resident, a corporation, or other entity of the United States, making contributions to a foreign stock bonus, pension, or profit-sharing trust, shall be allowed deductions for such contributions, under the applicable conditions and within the prescribed limits of section 404 (a), if such foreign trust would qualify for exemption under section 501 (a) except for the fact that it is a trust created, organized, or maintained outside the United States. Moreover, if a nonresident alien individual, foreign corporation, or other entity is engaged in trade or business within the United States and makes contributions to a foreign stock bonus, pension, or profit-sharing trust, which would qualify under section 401 (a) and be exempt under section 501 (a) except that it is created, organized, or maintained outside the United States, such contributions are deductible subject to the conditions and limitations of section 404 (a) and to the extent allowed by section 873 or 882 (c).

§ 1.404 (a)–12 Contributions of an employer under a plan that does not meet the requirements of section 401 (a); application of section 404 (a) (5). Section 404 (a) (5) covers all cases for which deductions are allowable under section 404 (a) but not allowable under

§ 1.404 (a)–10 Profit-sharing plan of an affiliated group; application of section 404 (a) (3) (B). (a) Section 404 (a) (3) (B) allows a corporation a deduction to the extent provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section for a contribution which it makes for another corporation to a profit-sharing plan or a stock bonus plan under which contributions are determined by reference to profits, provided the following tests are met:

(1) The corporation for which the contribution is made and the contributing corporation are members of an affiliated group of corporations as defined in section 1504, relating to the filing of consolidated returns, and both such corporations participate in the plan. However, it is immaterial whether all the members of such group participate in the plan.

(2) The corporation for which the contribution is made is required under the plan to make the contribution, but such corporation is prevented from making such contribution because it has neither current nor accumulated earnings or profits, or because its current and accumulated earnings or profits are insufficient to make the required contribution. To the extent that such a corporation has any current or accumulated earnings or profits, it is not considered to be prevented from making its required contribution to the plan.

(3) The contribution is made out of the current or accumulated earnings or profits of the contributing corporation.

(b) The amount that is deductible under section 404 (a) (3) (B) is determined by applying the rules of section 404 (a) (3) (A) and § 1.404 (a)–9 as if the contribution were made by the corporation for which it is made. For example, the primary limitation described in § 1.404 (a)–9 (c) is determined by reference to the compensation otherwise paid or accrued to the employees of the corporation for which the contribution is made, and the secondary limitation described in § 1.404 (a)–9 (d) and the contribution carryover described in § 1.404 (a)–9 (e) are determined by reference to the prior contributions and deductions of such corporation. The contributing corporation may deduct the amount so determined subject to the limitations contained in paragraph (c) of this section. The contributing corporation shall not treat such amount as a contribution made by it in applying the rules of section 404 (a) (3) (A) and § 1.404 (a)–9 either for the taxable year for which the contribution is made or for succeeding taxable years. The corporation for which the contribution is made shall treat the contribution as having been made by it in applying the rules of section 404 (a) (3) (A) and § 1.404 (a)–9 for succeeding taxable years.

(c) The allowance of the deduction paragraph (1), (2), (3), (4), or (7) of such section. No deduction is allowable under section 404 (a) (5) for any contribution paid or accrued by an employer under a stock bonus, pension, profit-sharing, or annuity plan, or for any compensation paid or accrued on account of any employee under a plan deferring the receipt of such compensation, except in the year when paid, and then only to the extent allowable under section 404 (a). See § 1.404 (a)–1. If payments are made under such a plan and the amounts are not deductible under the other paragraphs of section 404 (a), they are deductible under paragraph (5) of such subsection to the extent that the rights of individual employees to, or derived from, such employer's contribution or such compensation are nonforfeitable at the time the contribution or compensation is paid. If unfunded pensions are paid directly to former employees, their rights to such payments are nonforfeitable, and accordingly, such amounts are deductible under section 404 (a) (5) when paid. Similarly, if amounts are paid as a death benefit to the beneficiaries of an employee (for example, by continuing his salary for a reasonable period), and if such amounts meet the requirements of section 162 or 212, such amounts are deductible under section 404 (a) (5) in any case when they are not deductible under the other paragraphs of section 404 (a). As to what constitutes nonforfeitable rights of an employee in other cases, see § 1.402 (b)–1. If an amount is accrued but not paid during the taxable year, no deduction is allowable for such amount for such year. If an amount is paid during the taxable year to a trust or under a plan and the employee's rights to such amounts are forfeitable at the time the amount is paid, no deduction is allowable for such amount for any taxable year.

§ 1.404 (a)–13 Contributions of an employer where deductions are allowable under section 404 (a) (1) or (2) and also under section 404 (a) (3); application of section 404 (a) (7). (a) Where deductions are allowable under section 404 (a) (1) or (2) on account of contributions under a pension or annuity plan and deductions are also allowable under section 404 (a) (3) for the same taxable year, on account of contributions to a profit-sharing or stock bonus trust, the total deductions under these sections are subject to the provisions of section 404 (a) (7) unless no employee who is a beneficiary under the trusts or plans for which deductions are allowable under section 404 (a) (1) or (2) is also a beneficiary under the trusts for which deductions are allowable under section 404 (a) (3). The provisions of section 404 (a) (7) apply only to deductions for overlapping trusts or plans, i. e., for all trusts or plans for which deductions are allowable under section 404 (a) (1), (2), or (3) except (1) any trust or plan for which deductions are allowable under section 404 (a) (1) or (2) and which does not cover any employee who is also covered under a trust for which deductions are allowable under section 404 (a) (3), and (2) any trust for which deductions are allowable under section 404 (a) (3), and which does not cover any employee who is also covered under a trust or plan for which deductions are allowable under section 404 (a) (1) or (2). The limitations under section 404 (a) (7) for any taxable year are based on the compensation otherwise paid or accrued during the year to all the employees who are beneficiaries under the overlapping trusts or plans in the year. For this purpose "compensation, otherwise paid or accrued" means all of the compensation paid or accrued except that for which a deduction is allowable under a plan that qualifies under section 401 (a), including a plan that qualifies under section 404 (a) (2). The employees who are beneficiaries under overlapping trusts or plans in a year include all the employees who, in the year, are beneficiaries of the funds accumulated under one or more of the overlapping trusts or plans.

(b) Under section 404 (a) (7), any excess of the total amount otherwise deductible for the taxable year under section 404 (a) (1), (2), or (3) as contributions to overlapping trusts or plans over 25 percent of the compensation otherwise paid or accrued during the year to all the employees who are beneficiaries under such trusts or plans, is not deductible for such year but is deductible for succeeding taxable years, in order of time, so that the total deduction for contributions to such trusts or plans for a succeeding taxable year is equal to the lesser of—

(1) 30 percent of the compensation otherwise paid or accrued during the taxable year to all the employees who are beneficiaries under such trusts or plans in the year, or

(2) The sum of (i) the smaller of (a) 25 percent of the compensation otherwise paid or accrued during the taxable year to all the employees who are beneficiaries under such trusts or plans in the year, or (b) the total of the amounts otherwise deductible under section 404 (a) (1), (2), or (3) for the year for such trusts or plans and (ii) any carryover to the year from prior years under section 404 (a) (7), i. e., any excess otherwise deductible under section 404 (a) (1), (2), or (3), but not deducted for a prior taxable year because of the limitations under section 404 (a) (7).

(c) The limitations under section 404 (a) (7) are determined and applied after all the limitations, deductions otherwise allowable, and carryovers under section 404 (a) (1), (2), and (3) have been determined and applied, and, in particular, after effect has been given to the carryover provision in section 404 (a) (1) (D) and in the second and third sentences of section 404 (a) (3) (A). Where the limitations under section 404 (a) (7) reduce the total amount deductible, the excess deductible in succeeding years is treated as a carryover which is distinct from, and additional to, any excess contributions carried over and deductible in succeeding years under the provisions in section 404 (a) (1) (D) or in the third sentence of section 404 (a) (3) (A). The application of the provisions of section 404 (a) (7) and the treatment of carryovers for a case where the taxable years are calendar years and the overlapping trusts or plans consist of a pension trust and a profit-sharing trust put into effect in 1954 and covering the same employees may be illustrated as follows:

§ 1.404 (b) Statutory provisions; deduction for contributions of an employer to an employees' trust or annuity plan and compensation under a deferred-payment plan; method of contributions, etc., having the effect of a plan.

SEC. 404. Deduction for contributions of an employer to an employees' trust or annuity plan and compensation under a deferred-payment plan. • • •

(b) Method of contributions, etc., having the effect of a plan. If there is no plan but a method of employer contributions or compensation has the effect of a stock bonus, pension, profit-sharing, or annuity plan, or similar plan deferring the receipt of compensation, subsection (a) shall apply as if there were such a plan.

§ 1.404 (b)–1 Method of contribution, etc., having the effect of a plan; effect of section 404 (b). Section 404 (a) is not confined to formal stock bonus, pension, profit-sharing, and annuity plans, or deferred compensation plans, but it includes any method of contributions or compensation having the effect of a stock bonus, pension, profit-sharing, or annuity plan, or similar plan deferring the receipt of compensation. Thus, where a corporation pays pensions to a retired employee or employees or to their beneficiaries in such amounts as may be determined from time to time by the board of directors or responsible officers of the company, or where a corporation is under an obligation, whether funded or unfunded, to pay a pension or other deferred compensation to an employee or his beneficiaries, there is a method having the effect of a plan deferring the receipt of compensation for which deductions are governed by section 404 (a). If an employer on the accrual basis defers paying any compensation to an employee until a later year or years under an arrangement having the effect of a stock bonus, pension, profit-sharing, or annuity plan, or similar plan deferring the receipt of compensation, he shall not be allowed a deduction until the year in which the compensation is paid. This provision is not intended to cover the case where an employer on the accrual basis defers payment of compensation after the year of accrual merely because of inability to pay such compensation in the year of accrual, as, for example, where the funds of the company are not sufficient to enable payment of the compensation without jeopardizing the solvency of the company, or where the liability accrues in the earlier year, but the amount payable cannot be exactly determined until the later year.

§ 1.404 (c) Statutory provisions; deduction for contributions of an employer to an employees' trust or annuity plan and compensation under a deferred-payment plan; certain negotiated plans.

SEC. 404. Deduction for contributions of an employer to an employees' trust or annuity plan and compensation under a deferred-payment plan. • • •

(c) Certain negotiated plans. If contributions are paid by an employer—

(1) Under a plan under which such contributions are held in trust for the purpose of paying (either from principal or income or both) for the benefit of employees and their families and dependents at least medical or hospital care, and pensions on retirement or death of employees; and

(2) Such plan was established prior to January 1, 1954, as a result of an agreement between employee representatives and the Government of the United States during a period of Government operation, under seizure powers, of a major part of the productive facilities of the industry in which such employer is engaged, such contributions shall not be deductible under this section nor be made nondeductible by this section, but the deductibility thereof shall be governed solely by section 162 (relating to trade or business expenses). This subsection shall have no application with respect to amounts contributed to a trust on or after any date on which such trust is qualified for exemption from tax under section 501 (a).

§ 1.404 (c)–1 Certain negotiated plans; effect of section 404 (c). (a) Section 404 (a) does not apply to deductions for contributions paid by an employer under a negotiated plan which meets the following conditions:

(1) The contributions under the plan are held in trust for the purpose of paying, either from principal or income or both, for the benefit of employees and their families, at least medical or hospital care, and pensions on retirement or death of employees; and

(2) Such plan was established before January 1, 1954, as a result of an agreement between employee representatives and the Government of the United States during a period of Government operation, under seizure powers, of a major part of the productive facilities of the industry in which such employer is engaged.

If these conditions are met, such contributions shall be deductible under section 162, to the extent that they constitute ordinary and necessary business expenses.

(b) The term "as a result of an agreement" is intended primarily to cover a trust established under the terms of an agreement referred to in paragraph (a) (2). It will also include a trust established under a plan of an employer, or group of employers, who are in competition with the employers whose facilities were seized by reason of producing the same commodity, and who would therefore be expected to establish such a trust as a reasonable measure to maintain a sound position in the labor market producing the commodity. Thus, for example, if a trust was established under such an agreement in the bituminous coal industry, a similar trust established about the same time in the anthracite coal industry would be covered by this provision.

(c) If any such trust becomes qualified for exemption under section 501 (a), the deductibility of contributions by an employer to such trust on or after the date of such qualification would no longer be governed by section 404 (c), even though the trust may later lose its exemption under section 501 (a).

§ 1.404 (d) Statutory provisions; deduction for contributions of an employer to an employees' trust or annuity plan and compensation under a deferred-payment plan; carryover of unused deductions.

SEC. 404. Deduction for contributions of an employer to an employees' trust or annuity plan and compensation under a deferred-payment plan. • • •

(d) Carryover of unused deductions. The amount of any unused deductions or contributions in excess of the deductible amounts for taxable years to which this part does not apply which under section 23 (p) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 would be allowable as deductions in later years had such section 23 (p) remained in effect, shall be allowable as deductions in taxable years to which this part applies as if such section 23 (p) were continued in effect for such years. However, the deduction under the preceding sentence shall not exceed an amount which, when added to the deduction allowable under subsection (a) for contributions made in taxable years to which this part applies, is not greater than the amount which would be deductible under subsection (a) if the contributions which give rise to the deduction under the preceding sentence were made in a taxable year to which this part applies.

§ 1.404 (d)–1 Carryover of unused deductions; effect of section 404 (d). Contributions for taxable years which began before January 1, 1954, (or ended before August 17, 1954, regardless of when they began) in excess of the deductible limits of section 23 (p) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 which would have been available as carryovers and deductible in succeeding taxable years, in order of time, had such section 23 (p) remained in effect, are allowable as deductions for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1953, and ending after August 16, 1954, to the same extent that such deductions would have been allowable had such section 23 (p) remained in effect. This provision, however, does not increase a deduction for a taxable year beyond the applicable limits of section 404 (a) had the carryover constituted part of the contribution for such year. Thus, for example, if a pension plan had been put into effect as of January 1, 1953, when the past service liability was $1,000,000, and the employer contributed $500,000 in 1953, only $100,000 would be deductible in 1953 under section 23 (p) (1) (A) (iii) of the 1939 Code, and $400,000 was available as a carryover to 1954 under section 23 (p) (1) (A) (iv). If the employer made a contribution of the remaining $500,000 in 1954, it would not result in allowable deductions of $200,000 for past service funding in that year (i. e., $100,000 under section 404 (a) and another $100,000 under section 404 (d)). The total allowable deduction for such funding would be only $100,000 for 1954 (10 percent of the initial past service liability of $1,000,000), and the carryover to 1955 would be $800,000. Also, unused deduction carryovers which arose under the second sentence of section 23 (p) (1) (C) of the 1939 Code are continued for years beginning after December 31, 1953, as though arising under the second sentence of section 404 (a) (3) (A).

§ 1.6033 (a) Statutory provisions; returns by exempt organizations; general.

SEC. 6033. Returns by exempt organizations.—(a) General. Every organization, except as hereinafter provided, exempt from taxation under section 501 (a) shall file an annual return, stating specifically the items of gross income, receipts, and disbursements, and such other information for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of subtitle A as the Secretary or his delegate may by forms or regulations prescribe, and shall keep such records, render under oath such statements, make such other returns, and comply with such rules and regulations, as the Secretary or his delegate may from time to time prescribe, except that, in the discretion of the Secretary or his delegate, an organization described in section 401 (a) may be relieved from stating in its return any information which is reported in returns filed by the employer which established such organization. No such annual return need be filed under this subsection by any organization exempt from taxation under the provisions of section 501 (a)—

(2) [Reserved.]

(3) Every employees' trust described in section 401 (a) which is exempt from taxation under section 501 (a) shall file an annual return on Form 990–P. The return shall include the information required by § 1.401–1 (b) (5) (ii). The trust must also file the information required by § 1.404 (a)–2, unless the employer has notified the trustee that he has or will timely file such information. If the trustee has received such notification from the employer, then the trust must file a copy thereof with its return and the other information required by the return.

POLICY

In § 7.21, the introductory paragraph immediately preceding paragraph (a) is amended to read as follows:

§ 7.21 The policy. The term "policy" includes any contract of life insurance on a life or endowment or term plan, and any benefit contract in the nature of life insurance arising out of membership in any fraternal or beneficial association, which was made and on which a premium was paid before date of approval of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act Amendments of 1942 (October 6, 1942), or not less than 30 days before the date the insured entered into the military service. On applications for benefits of article IV of the Soldiers' and Sailor's Civil Relief Act which are made after July 11, 1956, the contract of insurance must be made and a premium paid thereon not less than 180 days before the date the insured entered into the military service. A policy is not eligible for protection under the act if it contains any provision excluding or restricting liability for death arising from or in connection with military service, or any activity which the insured may be called upon to perform in connection with his military service, or requires the payment of an additional premium because of military service. The provisions of the act are not applicable to policies of United States Government Life Insurance and National Service Life Insurance.

TITLE 50—WILDLIFE

Chapter I—Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior

Subchapter I—Northwest Atlantic Commercial Fisheries

PART 155—HADDOCK PROVISIONS

Experience gained since the initial adoption of regulations effective May 31, 1953 (18 F. R. 2414), prescribing restrictions on trawling nets used in the taking of haddock in the Northwest Atlantic Ocean, has demonstrated a need for further revisions in the regulations to make the same more effective.

In accordance with section 4 (a) of the Northwest Atlantic Fisheries Act of 1950, proposed amendments to the regulations were submitted to the Advisory Committee to the United States Commissioners on the International Commission of the Northwest Atlantic Fisheries on March 26, 1956, at which time the proposed revised regulations received the approval, in principle, of the Advisory Committee.

By notice of proposed rule making published on June 12, 1956 (21 F. R. 4015) the public was invited to participate in the adoption of proposed amendments to these regulations by submitting data, views, or arguments to the Director, Fish and Wildlife Service, Washington 25, D. C., within a period of thirty days from the publication of the notice. Consideration having been given to all pertinent data received in response to the notice, the regulations appearing below are adopted to replace Part 155—Haddock Provisions:

Sec.
155.1 Meaning of terms.
155.2 Haddock registration certificates.
155.3 Restrictions on fishing gear.
155.4 Temporary suspension of haddock registration certificates.
155.5 Certain persons and vessels exempted.

AUTHORITY: § 155.1 to 155.5 issued under sec. 7, 64 Stat. 1067; 16 U. S. C. 986.

§ 155.1 Meaning of terms. When used in the regulations in this part, unless the context otherwise requires, terms shall have the meanings ascribed hereinafter in this section.

(a) Regulatory area. The words "regulatory area" mean that portion of the Convention area, including all waters except territorial waters, bounded by a line beginning at the terminus of the international boundary between the United States of America and Canada in Grand Manan Channel at a point in 44°46′35.34″ north latitude, 66°54′11.23″ west longitude; thence due south to the parallel of 43°50′ north latitude; thence due west to the Meridian of 67°40′ west longitude; thence due south to the parallel of 42°20′ north latitude; thence due east to a point in 66° west longitude; thence along a rhumb line in a southeasterly direction to a point in 42° north latitude 65°40′ west longitude; thence due south to the parallel of 39° north latitude; thence due west to the Meridian of 71°40′ west longitude; thence due north to a point three miles off the coast of the State of Rhode Island; thence along the coasts of Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and Maine at a distance of three miles to the point of beginning.

(b) Haddock. The word "haddock" denotes any fish of the species Melanogrammus aeglefinus.

(b) The owner or operator of a fishing vessel may obtain without charge a haddock registration certificate by furnishing, on a form to be supplied by the Fish and Wildlife Service, information specifying the names and addresses of the owner and operator of the vessel, the name, official number and home port of the vessel, and the period for which the haddock registration certificate is desired. The form shall be submitted, in duplicate, to the Regional Director, Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior, Boston, Massachusetts, who shall grant the registration certificate for the duration specified by the applicant in the form but in no event to extend beyond the end of the calendar year during which the registration certificate is issued. New registration certificates shall similarly be issued to replace expired, lost or mutilated certificates. An application for replacement of an expiring registration certificate shall be made in like manner as the original application not later than ten days prior to the expiration date of the expiring certificate.

(c) The haddock registration certificate so issued by the Fish and Wildlife Service shall be carried on board the vessel for which it is issued at all times and such certificate, the vessel, its gear and equipment shall at all times be subject to inspection by officers authorized to enforce the regulations in this part.

§ 155.3 Restrictions on fishing gear. (a) No person shall possess at any time on board a vessel for which a haddock registration certificate is in force, or use or attempt to use from such vessel, a trawl net or nets, parts of nets or netting having a mesh size of less than four and one-half inches as defined in this section.

(c) All measurements of meshes when wet after use shall be made by the insertion into such meshes under pressure of not less than ten nor more than fifteen pounds of a flat wedge-shaped gauge having a taper of two inches in nine inches and a thickness of three thirty-seconds of an inch.

(d) For the purpose of approving dry cod ends before use, as contemplated by paragraph (b) of this section, the average mesh size of such cod ends shall be determined by measuring the length of any single row of meshes running the length of the cod end, parallel to the long axis of the cod end and located at least ten meshes from the side lacings, when stretched under a tension of two hundred pounds, and dividing the length by the number of meshes in such row: Provided, That not more than ten percent of the meshes in such row shall be more than one-half inch smaller when measured between knot centers than the average of the row. Cod ends so measured which are constructed of the twines and are of not less than the average mesh sizes specified in the table below may be approved for haddock fishing by any authorized employee of the Fish and Wildlife Service by the attachment to such cod end of an appropriate seal.

Twine	Average mesh size
4-ply 45-yard manila, double strand.	5.625 inches (5⅝″).
4-ply 50-yard manila, double strand.	5.625 inches (5⅝″).
4-ply 75-yard manila, double strand.	5.625 inches (5⅝″).
4-ply 80-yard manila, double strand.	5.500 inches (5½″).
120-thread cotton.	4.250 inches (4¼″).

(e) The alteration, defacement or reuse of any seal affixed to a cod end in accordance with this section is prohibited.

(f) The repair, alteration or other modification of a cod end to which a seal has been affixed in accordance with this section shall invalidate such seal and such cod end shall not thereafter be deemed to be approved for haddock fishing. Nothing contained in this paragraph shall preclude the continued use at the option of the user, of a cod end having an invalidated seal affixed thereto: Provided, That such cod end after repair, alteration or other modification shall continue to have a mesh size of not less than four and one-half inches as defined in paragraph (b) of this section.

(g) The use in haddock fishing within the regulatory area of any device or method which will obstruct the meshes of the trawl net or which otherwise will have the effect of diminishing the size of said meshes is prohibited: Provided, That a protective covering may be attached to the underside only of the cod end alone of the net to reduce and prevent damage thereto.

§ 155.4 Temporary suspension of haddock registration certificates. (a) The owner or operator of any fishing vessel which is proposed to be used in haddock fishing beyond the limits of the regulatory area or is proposed to be used in fishing within such area for species of fish other than haddock, may obtain a temporary suspension of the haddock registration certificate issued for such vessel for the specified period during which such nonregulated fishing is to be conducted.

(b) Temporary suspension of haddock registration certificates shall be granted upon oral or written request, specifying the period of suspension desired, by an authorized officer of one of the following agencies: Fish and Wildlife Service, Coast Guard, Bureau of Customs, and Post Office Department, and by an authorized officer of the States of Maine and Massachusetts. Such officer shall make appropriate endorsement on the certificate evidencing the duration of its suspension.

§ 155.5 Certain persons and vessels exempted. Nothing contained in the regulations in this part shall apply to:

(a) Any person who or vessel which, in the course of taking fish other than haddock, takes and possesses a quantity of haddock not exceeding five thousand pounds, or ten percent of all fish on the vessel from which the fishing is conducted, whichever is the greater.

(b) Any person or vessel authorized by the Director of the Fish and Wildlife Service to engage in haddock fishing for scientific purposes.

(c) Any vessel documented as a common carrier by the Government of the United States and engaged exclusively in the carriage of freight and passengers.

These regulations shall become effective 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Dated: September 18, 1956.

S. C. 601 et seq.; 68 Stat. 906, 1047), and the applicable general regulations (7 CFR Part 1060).

The regulations under consideration are to apply to all imports of Irish potatoes on the same basis as regulations imposed upon handlers of (1) round white or red skin varieties of Irish potatoes grown in the State of Maine pursuant to regulations issued under Marketing Agreement No. 122 and Order No. 70 (§ 970.303; 21 F. R. 6911), and (2) long varieties of Irish potatoes grown in certain designated counties in Idaho and Malheur County, Oregon, pursuant to regulations issued under Marketing Agreement No. 98 and Order No. 57, as amended (§ 957.314; 21 F. C., not later than 10 days following publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The proposals are as follows:

S. No. 1, or better, grade, 2¼ inches minimum diameter and 4 inches maximum diameter, and (2) if they are of the long white varieties (including, but not limited to, Russet Burbank variety) such potatoes meet the requirements of the U. (d) Certified seed imports. Any person may import certified seed potatoes, which shall include only those potatoes which are officially certified and tagged as seed potatoes by the Plant Protection Division, Science Service, Canada Department of Agriculture.

(e) Designation of Governmental Inspection Service. The Fruit and Vegetable Inspection Services, Fruit and Vegetable Division, Marketing Service, Canada Department of Agriculture, is hereby designated, pursuant to § 1060.4 (a) of this chapter, as a governmental inspection service for the purpose of certifying the grade, size, quality, and maturity of Irish potatoes that are imported, or to be imported, from Canada into the United States under the provisions of section 8e of the act.

(f) Inspection and official inspection certificates. (1) Inspection by the Federal or Federal-State Inspection Service, by the Fruit and Vegetable Inspection Services, Fruit and Vegetable Division, Marketing Service, Canada Department of Agriculture, or by such other governmental inspection service as may be designated, or approved, by the Administrator, with appropriate evidence thereof in the form of an official inspection certificate issued by the respective service and applicable to a particular shipment of potatoes, is required on all imports of potatoes, other than certified seed, pursuant to § 1060.3 of this chapter.

(2) Inspection certificates shall cover only the quantity of potatoes that is being imported at a particular port of entry by particular importer.

(3) The inspections performed, and certificates issued, by the Federal or Federal-State Inspection Service shall be in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Department governing the inspection and certification of fresh fruits, vegetables, and other products (Part 51 of this title; 20 F. R. 4842). The cost of inspection and certification shall be borne by the applicant therefor.

S. C. 601 et seq., 68 Stat. 906, 907, 1047), it is hereby found and determined that during the effective time hereof (i) imports of Irish potatoes of the long varieties are in most direct competition with such varieties of Irish potatoes which are grown in the production area defined in Order No. 57 (Part 957 of this chapter; designated counties in Idaho and Malheur County, Oregon) and (ii) imports of Irish potatoes of the round white or red skin varieties are in most direct competition with such varieties of Irish potatoes which are grown in the production area defined in Order No. 70 (Part 970 of this chapter; the State of Maine).

(2) It is hereby determined that the grade, size, and quality regulations hereby established for the respective varieties of Irish potatoes that may be imported into the United States are equivalent or comparable to those imposed upon domestic Irish potatoes under the aforesaid marketing orders.

(h) Definitions. (1) The terms "U. S. No. 1", "U. S. No. 2", "fairly clean", and "Size A", mean the U. S. No. 1 grade, U. S. No. 2 grade, fairly clean, and Size A, respectively, as set forth in the United States Standards for Potatoes (§§ 51.1540 to 51.1559, inclusive, of this title), including the tolerances set forth therein. For the purposes of this section, the following United States Potato Standards and Canadian Potato Standards are determined to be equivalent; U. S. No. 1 grade and Canada No. 1 grade; U. S. No. 2 grade and Canada No. 2 grade except that the tolerances for size, as set forth in the said United States Standards, may be used.

(2) All other terms have the same meaning as when used in the general regulations (Part 1060 of this chapter) applicable to the importation of listed commodities.

FCC REQUESTS COMMENTS ON REQUIREMENTS FOR A CURRENT SHIP RADIO STATION LIST

SEPTEMBER 20, 1956.

The International Telecommunication Union, Geneva, Switzerland, promulgates an international "List of Coast and Ship Stations," which is distributed to member countries every nine months. Radio-equipped vessels navigating international waters are in general required to carry this List aboard as a ship station document, as provided by international agreement.

Data concerning U. S. ship radio stations licensed since July 1950 is, with few exceptions, not available from that list, resulting in many individual requests for information being made to the Commission. Requests have also been received from the International Telecommunication Union on behalf of other member countries requiring data concerning U. S. ship radio stations, as well as from U. S. Government agencies, private operating companies and the general public.

In view of such requests, the Commission is desirous of investigating the possibility of compiling and publishing such data on a current and regular basis. Aside from the information which must be included to meet the requirements of the International Telecommunication Union, it is essential that the Commission receive some indication of any additional needs of U. S. Government and private users, before a final determination can be made of specific information to be included in a listing of U. S. ship radio stations. In addition, there are limitations imposed by the use of machine facilities (which appear to be the most economical and expeditious manner of producing such a list) and such limitations make it necessary to consider each item of data from the standpoint of its meeting (a) the requirements of the ITU; (b) essential operating requirements of U. S. Government and private users or (c) desirable operating requirements of such users.

It is requested that interested persons advise the Commission by December 12, 1956, of the specific data considered worthy of inclusion in a listing of licensed U. S. ship radio stations, itemized under the following categories: (1) essential; and (2) desirable. A brief description should also be included to show the needs which would be served by such a list. The frequency with which the list should be republished to incorporate changes also should be indicated, together with a preliminary estimate of the number of copies desired.

Adopted: September 19, 1956.

ROBERT A. MENSEL ET AL.

ORDER AMENDING ISSUES

In re applications of Robert A. Mensel, Willimantic, Connecticut, Docket No. 11687, File No. BP-10074; Conant Broadcasting Company, Inc. (WHIL), Medford, Massachusetts, Docket No. 11688, File No. BP-10147; The Windham Broadcasting Company, Willimantic, Connecticut, Docket No. 11689, File No. BP-10194; for construction permits.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 19th day of September 1956;

The Commission having under consideration a motion to enlarge issues filed on May 17, 1956, by Conant Broadcasting Company (WHIL); and an opposition to that motion filed on May 23, 1956, by Wilson Broadcasting Corporation (WAAB);

It appearing that Conant, licensed on 1430 kc at Medford, Massachusetts, filed an application to increase its power from 1 kw to 5 kw and was designated for hearing partly because there is a possibility of adjacent channel interference (10 kc removed) by Conant to WAAB, Worcester, Massachusetts;

It further appearing that Conant moves the issues to be enlarged to include:

(a) To determine the type and character of program service proposed to be rendered by the applicant, Conant Broadcasting Company, Inc., and whether it would meet the needs of the populations and areas proposed to be served.

(b) To determine the type and character of program service rendered by Station WAAB, Worcester, Massachusetts, and whether this service meets the needs of the populations and areas proposed to lose such service as the result of interference from Station WHIL's proposed operation.

(c) To determine the type and character of other services available to the population which would lose WAAB's service, upon a grant of the Conant Broadcasting Company, Inc. application.

It further appearing, that a substantial percentage of the population within WAAB's normally protected contour may receive objectionable interference from Conant operating as proposed;

It further appearing, that pursuant to the provision of § 3.24 (b) of the Commission's rules and in accordance with the opinion of the United States Court of Appeals in Democrat Printing Company v. FCC, 91 App. D. C. 72, inclusion of the proposed issues (a) and (b), above, is appropriate;

It further appearing, that no adequate showing has been made in support of an inquiry as broad as that contemplated by proposed issue (c), above;

It is ordered, That the subject motion of Conant Broadcasting Company, Inc. (WHIL) to enlarge the issues is granted to the extent that the issues are enlarged by the addition of the above listed new Issues (a) and (b), to be designated Issues 3 (a) and 3 (b), respectively; that the burden of proceeding with the introduction of evidence concerning new Issue No. 3 (a) is placed on Conant and concerning new Issue No. 3 (b) is placed on WAAB; and that in all other respects the petition is denied.

Released: September 20, 1956.

§ 420.62-2 Dearborn County.

RIDER NO. 1 TO THE MULTIPLE CROP INSURANCE POLICY

(Applicable in Dearborn County, Indiana, beginning with the 1957 crop year)

1. Insurable crops. Notwithstanding any other provisions of the contract, for the first crop year of the contract the insurable crop(s) shall be those of the following designated by name on the application for insurance:

(a) Corn planted for harvest as grain. The contract will not provide insurance for true type silage corn, corn planted thick for silage or fodder purposes, sweet corn, popcorn, broom corn, corn planted for the development of hybrid seed corn, or any type of corn other than that normally regarded as field corn.

(b) Tobacco, type 31.

(c) Winter wheat planted for harvest as grain, excluding wheat planted with other small grains. (Insurance to attach the first crop year of the contract only if the application is filed on or before September 30 preceding the calendar year in which the crop for that crop year is normally harvested.)

For any subsequent crop year the designation of insurable crop(s) may be changed by the insured notifying the county office in writing prior to the cancellation date for the crop year the change is to become effective. Provided, however, corn, tobacco, or wheat may be added as an insurable crop(s) under the contract by the insured notifying the county office in writing by September 30 preceding the calendar year in which the crop is normally harvested in the case of wheat and April 30 of the calendar year in which the crop is normally harvested in the case of corn and tobacco.

2. Existing crop insurance contract. If the application upon which this policy is issued is filed on or prior to September 30, 1956, the acceptance of such application shall cancel, effective beginning with the 1957 crop year, any wheat crop insurance contract between the insured and the Corporation. If such application is filed after September 30, 1956, any such wheat crop insurance contract shall remain in full force and effect for the 1957 crop year, but acceptance of such application shall cancel effective beginning with the 1058 crop year any wheat crop insurance contract between the insured and the Corporation.

3. Coverage per acre. (a) The coverage per acre for corn and wheat shall be reduced 50 percent for any acreage released by the Corporation and planted to a substitute crop.

(b) The coverage per acre for corn and wheat shall be reduced 10 percent for any acreage not harvested and not planted to a substitute crop.

(c) The coverage per acre for tobacco shall be reduced 35 percent for any acreage not harvested.

4. Insurance period. Insurance shall attach at the time of planting to any insured acreage of any insured crop. Insurance shall cease with respect to (a) any portion of the tobacco crop upon weighing-in at the tobacco warehouse, transfer of interest in the tobacco after harvest, or removal of the tobacco from the insurance unit (except for curing, packing or immediate delivery to the tobacco warehouse), whichever occurs first, and (b) any portion of the corn crop upon harvesting and the wheat crop upon threshing or with respect to any portion of any crop (except tobacco) upon removal from the field, whichever is earlier. However, in no event shall insurance remain in effect, unless the time is extended in writing by the Corporation, (a) with respect to tobacco later than February 28 following harvest, (b) with respect to any other crop later than the earlier of (i) when harvest of such crop is generally complete for the crop year, or (ii) October 31 in the case of wheat, and December 10 in the case of corn of the calendar year in which the crop is normally harvested, and (c) with respect to any insurance unit later than the date of submission of a claim for indemnity.

5. Fixed price used for valuing production. In determining any loss under the contract, production of each insurable crop, except tobacco, shall be evaluated at the fixed price established by the Corporation for that crop and shown on the county actuarial table. However, any corn which will not meet the latest available requirements for a Commodity Credit Corporation loan or support because of poor quality due to insurable causes, and would not meet these requirements if properly handled, shall be evaluated at a value per bushel determined by the Corporation. Any threshed production of wheat which (1) does not grade No. 3 or better and does not grade No. 4 or 5 on the basis of test weight only (determined in accordance with the Official Grain Standards of the United States) because of poor quality due to insurable causes and would not meet these requirements if properly handled, and (2) has a value per bushel which is less than the lower of the fixed price or the Commodity Credit Corporation county loan for No. 5 wheat on the basis of test weight, shall be valued by the Corporation at a price not in excess of the fixed price: Provided, when the Commodity Credit Corporation county loan rate for No. 5 wheat on the basis of test weight is less than the fixed price, the total value of such production, as determined by the Corporation, shall be adjusted by dividing it by such loan rate and multiplying the result by the fixed price.

Notwithstanding any other provision(s) of the contract, in determining any loss the value of tobacco production to be counted shall be the value of all tobacco, including (a) the gross returns (less warehouse charges) from the tobacco sold on the warehouse floor, (b) the fair market value, as determined by the Corporation, of the tobacco sold other than on the warehouse floor, (c) the fair market value, as determined by the Corporation, of the tobacco harvested and not sold, and (d) the fair market value (if harvested and cured), as determined by the Corporation, of any unharvested tobacco.

6. Insurance unit. An insurance unit means (a) all the insurable acreage of any one insured crop in the county in which the insured has 100 percent interest at the time of planting, or (b) all the insurable acreage of any one insured crop in the county which is owned by one person and is operated by the insured as a tenant at the time of planting, or (c) all insurable acreage of any one insured crop in the county which is owned by the insured and is rented to one tenant at the time of planting. Land rented for cash or for a fixed commodity payment shall be considered as owned by the lessee.

7. Claims for loss. (a) Any claim for loss on an insurance unit shall be submitted to the Corporation on a form prescribed by the Corporation, not later than 60 days after the time of loss.

(b) It shall be a condition precedent to the payment of any loss that the insured, (1) establish the production of the insured crop on the insurance unit and that such loss has been directly caused by one or more of the hazards insured against during the insurance period for the crop year for which the loss is claimed, and (2) furnish any other information regarding the manner and extent of loss as may be required by the Corporation.

(c) Losses shall be determined separately for each insurance unit. The amount of loss with respect to any insurance unit shall be determined by (1) multiplying the planted acreage of the insured crop on the insurance unit (exclusive of any acreage to which insurance did not attach) by the applicable coverage(s) per acre, and the result by the insured interest and (2) subtracting therefrom, the insured interest in the value (determined in accordance with section 5 of this rider) of the total production to be counted for such acreage. However, if for the insurance unit, the premium computed for the planted acreage exceeds the premium computed for the acreage and interest shown on the acreage report, the amount of loss so determined shall be reduced proportionately. The total production to be counted for an insurance unit shall include all harvested production (including any harvested production of wheat from acreage initially planted for purposes other than for harvest as grain), except harvested production of corn or tobacco from acreage not qualifying as harvested under the definition in section 9. In addition the production to be counted shall include any appraisals which the Corporation determines should be made for potential or unharvested production, poor farming practices, uninsured causes of loss, or acreage abandoned or put to another use without being released by the Corporation. To enable the Corporation to determine the fair market value of tobacco not sold through auction warehouses, the Corporation shall be given the opportunity to inspect such tobacco before it is sold, contracted to be sold or otherwise disposed of by the insured, and, if the best offer received by the insured for any such tobacco is considered by the Corporation to be inadequate, to obtain additional offers therefor on behalf of the insured. Where any small grains are seeded with an insured growing small grain crop on acreage not released by the Corporation, all production shall be counted as the insured small grain on a weight basis. In the case of a volunteer crop produced with an insured crop, the production of such volunteer crop shall be included in determining the production of the insured crop. An appraisal of not less than the applicable coverage, minus the value (determined in accordance with section 5 of the rider) of any insured crop harvested, shall be made for acreage with a reduced yield due solely to any cause(s) not insured against or acreage abandoned or put to another use without being released by the Corporation.

(d) If the production from an insurance unit is commingled with the production from any other acreage and the insured fails to keep records satisfactory to the Corporation of the acreages involved and the production from each, the Corporation may (1) deny liability with respect to all insurance units involved for the crop year without affecting the insured's liability for premium(s), or (2) allocate the commingled production in such manner as it determines appropriate.

8. Date table.

Discount date: November 30.
Cancellation date: July 31.
Date by which county minimum participation requirement must be met for any crop year: September 30 following the cancellation date for the crop year.

9. Definitions. (a) "Harvest" with respect to any acreage of corn means picking from the stalk either by hand or machine or cutting for fodder or silage an amount of corn which is equal in value (determined in accordance with section 5 of this rider) to 10 percent or more of the harvested coverage for such acreage.

(b) "Harvest" with respect to any acreage of tobacco means cutting or priming an amount of tobacco which equals or exceeds the pounds obtained by dividing 10 percent of the harvested coverage for such acreage by a price stated on the county actuarial table for the purpose of making this determination.

(c) "Harvest" with respect to any acreage of wheat means the mechanical severance from the land of the matured crop for threshing where the crop has not been destroyed.

10. Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (d) of section 6 of the policy, if in any crop year a premium is earned and totals less than $20.00 the amount shall be increased to $20.00.

Approved: Beginning with the 1957 crop year.

[SEAL] FEDERAL CROP INSURANCE CORPORATION.

§ 420.62-7 Delaware County.

RIDER NO. 1 TO THE MULTIPLE CROP INSURANCE POLICY

(Applicable in Delaware County, Indiana, beginning with the 1957 crop year)

1. Insurable crops. Notwithstanding any other provisions of the contract, for the first crop year of the contract, the insurable crop(s) shall be those of the following designated by name on the application for insurance:

(a) Corn planted for harvest as grain. The contract will not provide insurance for true type silage corn, corn planted thick for silage or fodder purposes, sweet corn, popcorn, broom corn, corn planted for the development of hybrid seed corn, or any type of corn other than that normally regarded as field corn.

(b) Soybeans planted for harvest as beans, in rows far enough apart to permit intertilling with a row cultivator. The contract will not provide insurance for soybeans planted for development of hybrid seed or planted in the same row or interplanted in rows with corn.

(c) Winter wheat planted for harvest as grain, excluding wheat planted with other small grain. (Insurance to attach the first crop year of the contract only if the application is filed on or before September 30 preceding the calendar year in which the crop for that crop year is normally harvested.)

For any subsequent crop year the designation of insurable crop(s) may be changed by the insured notifying the county office in writing prior to the cancellation date for the crop year the change is to become effective: Provided, however, Corn, soybeans or wheat may be added as an insurable crop(s) under the contract by the insured notifying the county office in writing by September 30, preceding the calendar year in which the crop is normally harvested in the case of wheat and April 30, of the calendar year in which the crop is normally harvested in the case of corn and soybeans.

2. Coverage per acre. (a) The coverage per acre for corn and wheat shall be reduced 50 percent for any acreage released by the Corporation and planted to a substitute crop.

(b) The coverage per acre for corn and wheat shall be reduced 10 percent for any acreage not harvested and not planted to a substitute crop.

(c) The coverage per acre for soybeans shall be reduced 10 percent for any acreage not harvested.

3. Insurance period. Insurance shall attach at the time of planting to any insured acreage of any insured crop. Insurance shall cease with respect to any portion of the corn crop upon harvesting and all other insured crops upon threshing or with respect to any portion of any crop upon removal from the field, whichever is earlier. However, in no event shall insurance remain in effect (a) with respect to any crop later than the earlier of (i) when harvest of such crop is generally complete for the crop year, or (ii) October 31 in the case of wheat, and December 10 in the case of corn and soybeans of the calendar year in which the crop is normally harvested, unless such time is extended in writing by the Corporation, and (b) with respect to any insurance until later than the date of submission of a claim for indemnity.

4. Fixed price used for valuing production. In determining any loss under the contract, production of each insurable crop shall be evaluated at the fixed price established by the Corporation for that crop and shown on the county actuarial table. However, any corn which will not meet the latest available requirements for a Commodity Credit Corporation loan or support because of poor quality due to insurable causes occurring within the insurance period and would not meet these requirements if properly handled, shall be evaluated at a value per bushel determined by the Corporation. Any harvested production of soybeans which will not grade No. 4 or better (determined in accordance with the Official Grain Standards of the United States) because of poor quality due to insurable causes occurring within the insurance period and would not meet these requirements if properly handled, shall be similarly evaluated. Any threshed production of wheat which (1) does not grade No. 3 or better and does not grade No. 4 or 5 on the basis of test weight only (determined in accordance with the Official Grain Standards of the United States) because of poor quality due to insurable causes occurring within the insurance period and would not meet these requirements if properly handled, and (2) has a value per bushel which is less than the lower of the fixed price or the Commodity Credit Corporation county loan rate for No. 5 wheat on the basis of test weight, shall be valued by the Corporation at a price not in excess of the fixed price: Provided, when the Commodity Credit Corporation county loan rate for No. 5 wheat on the basis of test weight is less than the fixed price, the total value of such production, as determined by the Corporation, shall be adjusted by dividing it by such loan rate and multiplying the result by the fixed price.

5. Insurance unit. An insurance unit means (a) all the insurable acreage of any one insured crop in the county in which the insured has 100 percent interest at the time of planting, or (b) all the insurable acreage of any one insured crop in the county which is owned by one person and is operated by the insured as a tenant at the time of planting, or (c) all insurable acreage of any one insured crop in the county which is owned by the insured and is rented to one tenant at the time of planting. Land rented for cash or for a fixed commodity payment shall be considered as owned by the lessee.

6. Claims for loss. (a) Any claim for loss on an insurance unit shall be submitted to the Corporation on a form prescribed by the Corporation not later than 60 days after the time of loss.

(b) It shall be a condition precedent to the payment of any loss that the insured, (1) establish the production of the insured crop on the insurance unit and that such loss has been directly caused by one or more of the hazards insured against during the insurance period for the crop year for which the loss is claimed, and (2) furnish any other information regarding the manner and extent of loss as may be required by the Corporation.

(c) Losses shall be determined separately for each insurance unit. The amount of loss with respect to any insurance unit shall be determined by (1) multiplying the planted acreage of the insured crop on the insurance unit (exclusive of any acreage to which insurance did not attach) by the applicable coverage(s) per acre, and the result by the insured interest and (2) subtracting therefrom, the insured interest in the value (determined in accordance with section 4 of this rider) of the total production to be counted for such acreage. However, if for the insurance unit, the premium computed for the planted acreage exceeds the premium computed for the acreage and interest shown on the acreage report, the amount of loss so determined shall be reduced proportionately. The total production to be counted for an insurance unit shall include all harvested production (including any harvested production of wheat from acreage initially planted for purposes other than for harvest as grain), except harvested production of corn from acreage not qualifying as harvested under the definition in section 8. In addition the production to be counted shall include any appraisals which the Corporation determines should be made for potential or unharvested production, poor farming practices, uninsured causes of loss, or acreage abandoned or put to another use without being released by the Corporation. Where any small grains are seeded with an insured growing small grain crop on acreage not released by the Corporation, all production shall be counted as the insured small grain on a weight basis. In the case of a volunteer crop produced with an insured crop, the production of such volunteer crop shall be included in determining the production of the insured crop. An appraisal of not less than the applicable coverage, minus the value (determined in accordance with section 4 of this rider) of any insured crop harvested, shall be made for acreage with a reduced yield due solely to any cause(s) not insured against or acreage abandoned or put to another use without being released by the Corporation.

(d) If the production from an insurance unit is commingled with the production from any other acreage and the insured fails to keep records satisfactory to the Corporation of the acreages involved and the production from each, the Corporation may deny liability with respect to all insurance units involved for the crop year without affecting the insured's liability for premium(s), or (2) allocate the commingled production in such manner as it determines appropriate.

(b) "Harvest" with respect to any acreage of soybeans or wheat means the mechanical severance from the land of the matured crop for threshing where the crop has not been destroyed.

(a) Corn planted for harvest as grain. The contract will not provide insurance for true type silage corn, corn planted thick for silage or fodder purposes, sweet corn, popcorn, broom corn, corn planted for the development of hybrid seed corn, or any type of corn other than that normally regarded as field corn.

(b) Soybeans planted for harvest as beans, in rows far enough apart to permit intertilling with a row cultivator. The contract will not provide insurance for soybeans planted for development of hybrid seed or planted in the same row or interplanted in rows with corn.

(c) Winter wheat planted for harvest as grain, excluding wheat planted with other small grains. (Insurance to attach the first crop year of the contract only if the application is filed on or before September 30 preceding the calendar year in which the crop for that crop year is normally harvested.)

For any subsequent crop year the designation of insurable crop(s) may be changed by the insured notifying the county office in writing prior to the cancellation date for the crop year the change is to become effective: Provided, however, Corn, soybeans or wheat may be added as an insurable crop(s) under the contract by the insured notifying the county office in writing by September 30, preceding the calendar year in which the crop is normally harvested in the case of wheat and April 30 of the calendar year in which the crop is normally harvested in the case of corn and soybeans.

2. Coverage per acre. (a) The coverage per acre for corn and wheat shall be reduced 50 percent for any acreage released by the Corporation and planted to a substitute crop.

(b) The coverage per acre for corn and wheat shall be reduced 10 percent for any acreage not harvested and not planted to a substitute crop.

(c) The coverage per acre for soybeans shall be reduced 10 percent for any acreage not harvested.

3. Insurance period. Insurance shall attach at the time of planting to any insured acreage of any insured crop. Insurance shall cease with respect to any portion of the corn crop upon harvesting or with respect to any portion of any crop upon removal from the field, whichever is earlier. However, in no event shall insurance remain in effect (a) with respect to any crop later than the earlier of (i) when harvest of such crop is generally complete for the crop year, or (ii) October 31 in the case of wheat, and December 10 in the case of corn and soybeans of the calendar year in which the crop is normally harvested, unless such time is extended in writing by the Corporation, and (b) with respect to any insurance unit later than the date of submission of a claim for indemnity.

4. Fixed price used for valuing production. In determining any loss under the contract, production of each insurable crop shall be evaluated at the fixed price established by the Corporation for that crop and shown on the county actuarial table. However, any corn which will not meet the latest available requirements for a Commodity Credit Corporation loan or support because of poor quality due to insurable causes, and would not meet these requirements if properly handled, shall be evaluated at a value per bushel determined by the Corporation. Any harvested production of soybeans which will not grade No. 4 or better (determined in accordance with the Official Grain Standards of the United States) because of poor quality due to insurable causes, and would not meet these requirements if properly handled, shall be similarly evaluated.

Any threshed production of wheat which (1) does not grade No. 3 or better and does not grade No. 4 or 5 on the basis of test weight only (determined in accordance with the Official Grain Standards of the United States) because of poor quality due to insurable causes and would not meet these requirements if properly handled, and (2) has a value per bushel which is less than the lower of the fixed price or the Commodity Credit Corporation county loan rate for No. 5 wheat on the basis of test weight, shall be valued by the Corporation at a price not in excess of the fixed price: Provided, when the Commodity Credit Corporation county loan rate for No. 5 wheat on the basis of test weight is less than the fixed price, the total value of such production, as determined by the Corporation, shall be adjusted by dividing it by such loan rate and multiplying the result by the fixed price.

5. Insurance unit. An insurance unit means (a) all the insurable acreage of any one insured crop in the county in which the insured has 100 percent interest at the time of planting, or (b) all the insurable acreage of any one insured crop in the county which is owned by one person and is operated by the insured as a tenant at the time of planting, or (c) all insurable acreage of any one insured crop in the county which is owned by the insured and is rented to one tenant at the time of planting. Land rented for cash or for a fixed commodity payment shall be considered as owned by the lessee.

6. Claims for loss. (a) Any claim for loss on an insurance unit shall be submitted to the Corporation on a form prescribed by the Corporation not later than 60 days after the time of loss.

(b) It shall be a condition precedent to the payment of any loss that the insured (1) establish the production of the insured crop on the insurance unit and that such loss has been directly caused by one or more of the hazards insured against during the insurance period for the crop year for which the loss is claimed, and (2) furnish any other information regarding the manner and extent of loss as may be required by the Corporation.

In the case of a volunteer crop produced with an insured crop, the production of such volunteer crop shall be included in determining the production of the insured crop. However, any corn which will not meet the latest available requirements for a Commodity Credit Corporation loan or support because of poor quality due to insurable causes, and would not meet these requirements if properly handled, shall be evaluated at a value per bushel determined by the Corporation. Any harvested production of soybeans which will not grade No. 4 or better (determined in accordance with the Official Grain Standards of the United States) because of poor quality due to insurable causes, and would not meet these requirements if properly handled, shall be similarly evaluated.

Any threshed production of wheat which (1) does not grade No. 3 or better and does not grade No. 4 or 5 on the basis of test weight only (determined in accordance with the Official Grain Standards of the United States) because of poor quality due to insurable causes and would not meet these requirements if properly handled, and (2) has a value per bushel which is less than the lower of the fixed price or the Commodity Credit Corporation county loan rate for No. 5 wheat on the basis of test weight, shall be valued by the Corporation at a price not in excess of the fixed price: Provided, when the Commodity Credit Corporation county loan rate for No. 5 wheat on the basis of test weight is less than the fixed price, the total value of such production, as determined by the Corporation, shall be adjusted by dividing it by such loan rate and multiplying the result by the fixed price.

5. Insurance unit. An insurance unit means (a) all the insurable acreage of any one insured crop in the county in which the insured has 100 percent interest at the time of planting, or (b) all the insurable acreage of any one insured crop in the county which is owned by one person and is operated by the insured as a tenant at the time of planting, or (c) all insurable acreage of any one insured crop in the county which is owned by the insured and is rented to one tenant at the time of planting. Land rented for cash or for a fixed commodity payment shall be considered as owned by the lessee.

6. Claims for loss. (a) Any claim for loss on an insurance unit shall be submitted to the Corporation on a form prescribed by the Corporation not later than 60 days after the time of loss.

(b) It shall be a condition precedent to the payment of any loss that the insured, (1) establish the production of the insured crop on the insurance unit and that such loss has been directly caused by one or more of the hazards insured against during the insurance period for the crop year for which the loss is claimed, and (2) furnish any other information regarding the manner and extent of loss as may be required by the Corporation.

(c) Losses shall be determined separately for each insurance unit. The amount of loss with respect to any insurance unit shall be determined by (1) multiplying the planted acreage of the insured crop on the insurance unit (exclusive of any acreage to which insurance did not attach) by the applicable coverage(s) per acre, and the result by the insured interest, and (2) subtracting therefrom the insured interest in the value (determined in accordance with section 4 of this rider) of the total production to be counted for such acreage. However, if for the insurance unit, the premium computed for the planted acreage exceeds the premium computed for the acreage and interest shown on the acreage report, the amount of loss so determined shall be reduced proportionately. The total production to be counted for an insurance unit shall include all harvested production (including any harvested production of wheat from acreage initially planted for purposes other than for harvest as grain), except harvested production of corn from acreage not qualifying as harvested under the definition in section 8. In addition the production to be counted shall include any appraisals which the Corporation determines should be made for potential or unharvested production, poor farming practices, uninsured causes of loss, or acreage abandoned or put to another use without being released by the Corporation. Where any small grains are seeded with an insured growing small grain crop on acreage not released by the Corporation, all production shall be counted as the insured small grain on a weight basis. In the case of a volunteer crop produced with an insured crop, the production of such volunteer crop shall be included in determining the production of the insured crop. An appraisal of not less than the applicable coverage, minus the value (determined in accordance with section 4 of this rider) of any insured crop harvested, shall be made for acreage with a reduced yield due solely to any cause(s) not insured against or acreage abandoned or put to another use without being released by the Corporation.

(d) If the production from an insurance unit is commingled with the production from any other acreage and the insured fails to keep records satisfactory to the Corporation of the acreages involved and the production from each, the Corporation may (1) deny liability with respect to all insurance units involved for the crop year without affecting the insured's liability for premium(s), or (2) allocate the commingled production in such manner as it determines appropriate.

7. Date table.

Discount date: November 30.

Cancellation date: July 31.

Date by which county minimum participation requirement must be met for any crop year: September 30 following the cancellation date for the crop year.

8. Definitions. (a) "Harvest" with respect to any acreage of corn means picking from the stalk either by hand or machine or cutting for fodder or silage an amount of corn which is equal in value (determined in accordance with section 4 of this rider) to 10 percent or more of the harvested coverage for such acreage.

(b) "Harvest" with respect to any acreage of soybeans or wheat means the mechanical severance from the land of the matured crop for threshing where the crop has not been destroyed.

9. Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (d) of section 6 of the policy, if in any crop year a premium is earned and totals less than $20.00 the amount shall be increased to $20.00.

Approved: Beginning with the 1957 crop year.

§ 420.73–6 Carroll and St. Charles.

RIDER NO. 1 TO THE MULTIPLE CROP INSURANCE POLICY

(Applicable in Carroll and St. Charles Counties, Missouri, beginning with the 1957 crop year)

1. Insurable crops. Notwithstanding any other provisions of the contract, for the first crop year of the contract, the insurable crop(s) shall be those of the following designated by name on the application for insurance:

(a) Corn planted for harvest as grain. The contract will not provide insurance for true type silage corn, corn planted thick for silage or fodder purposes, sweet corn, popcorn, broom corn, corn planted for the development of hybrid seed corn, or any type of corn other than that normally regarded as field corn.

(b) Soybeans planted for harvest as beans in rows far enough apart to permit intertilling with a row cultivator. The contract will not provide insurance for soybeans planted for development of hybrid seed or planted in the same row or interplanted in rows with corn.

(c) Winter wheat planted for harvest as grain, excluding wheat planted with other small grains. (Insurance to attach the first crop year of the contract only if the application is filed on or before September 30 preceding the calendar year in which the crop for that crop year is normally harvested.)

For any subsequent crop year the designation of insurable crop(s) may be changed by the insured notifying the county office in writing prior to the cancellation date for the crop year the change is to become effective. Provided, however, corn, soybeans or wheat may be added as an insurable crop(s) under the contract by the insured notifying the county office in writing by September 30, preceding the calendar year in which the crop is normally harvested in the case of wheat and April 30 of the calendar year in which the crop is normally harvested in the case of corn and soybeans.

2. Existing crop insurance contract. If the application upon which this policy is issued is filed on or prior to September 30, 1956, the acceptance of such application shall cancel, effective beginning with the 1957 crop year, any wheat crop insurance contract between the insured and the Corporation. If such application is filed after September 30, 1956, any such wheat crop insurance contract shall remain in full force and effect for the 1957 crop year, but acceptance of such application shall cancel effective beginning with the 1958 crop year any wheat crop insurance contract between the insured and the Corporation.

3. Coverage per acre. (a) The coverage per acre for corn and wheat shall be reduced 50 percent for any acreage released by the Corporation and planted to a substitute crop.

(b) The coverage per acre for corn and wheat shall be reduced 10 percent for any acreage not harvested and not planted to a substitute crop.

(c) The coverage per acre for soybeans shall be reduced 10 percent for any acreage not harvested.

4. Insurance period. Insurance shall attach at the time of planting to any insured acreage of any insured crop. Insurance shall cease with respect to any portion of the corn crop upon harvesting and all other insured crops upon threshing or with respect to any portion of any crop upon removal from the field, whichever is earlier. However, in no event shall insurance remain in effect (a) with respect to any crop later than the earlier of (1) when harvest of such crop is generally complete for the crop year, or (11) October 31 in the case of wheat, and December 10 in the case of corn and soybeans of the calendar year in which the crop is normally harvested, unless such time is extended in writing by the Corporation, and (b) with respect to any insurance unit later than the date of submission of a claim for indemnity.

5. Fixed price used for valuing production. In determining any loss under the contract, production of each insurable crop shall be evaluated at the fixed price established by the Corporation for that crop and shown on the county actuarial table. However, any corn which will not meet the latest available requirements for a Commodity Credit Corporation loan or support because of poor quality due to insurable causes, and would not meet these requirements if properly handled, shall be evaluated at a value per bushel determined by the Corporation. Any harvested production of soybeans which will not grade No. 4 or better (determined in accordance with the Official Grain Standards of the United States) because of poor quality due to insurable causes, and would not meet these requirements if properly handled, shall be similarly evaluated.

Any threshed production of wheat which (1) does not grade No. 3 or better and does not grade No. 4 or 5 on the basis of test weight only (determined in accordance with the Official Grain Standards of the United States) because of poor quality due to insurable causes and would not meet these requirements if properly handled, and (2) has a value per bushel which is less than the lower of the fixed price or the Commodity Credit Corporation county loan rate for No. 5 wheat on the basis of test weight, shall be valued by the Corporation at a price not in excess of the fixed price: Provided, When the Commodity Credit Corporation county loan rate for No. 5 wheat on the basis of test weight is less than the fixed price, the total value of such production, as determined by the Corporation, shall be adjusted by dividing it by such loan rate and multiplying the result by the fixed price.

6. Insurance unit. An insurance unit means (a) all the insurable acreage of any one insured crop in the county in which the insured has 100 percent interest at the time of planting, or (b) all the insurable acreage of any one insured crop in the county which is owned by one person and is operated by the insured as a tenant at the time of planting, or (c) all insurable acreage of any one insured crop in the county which is owned by the insured and is rented to one tenant at the time of planting. Land rented for cash or for a fixed commodity payment shall be considered as owned by the lessee.

7. Claims for loss. (a) Any claim for loss on an insurance unit shall be submitted to the Corporation on a form prescribed by the Corporation not later than 60 days after the time of loss.

(b) It shall be a condition precedent to the payment of any loss that the insured, (1) establish the production of the insured crop on the insurance unit and that such loss has been directly caused by one or more of the hazards insured against during the insurance period for the crop year for which the loss is claimed, and (2) furnish any other information regarding the manner and extent of loss as may be required by the Corporation.

(c) Losses shall be determined separately for each insurance unit. The amount of loss with respect to any insurance unit shall be determined by (1) multiplying the planted acreage of the insured crop on the insurance unit (exclusive of any acreage to which insurance did not attach) by the applicable coverage(s) per acre, and the result by the insured interest, and (2) subtracting therefrom the insured interest in the value (determined in accordance with section 5 of this rider) of the total production to be counted for such acreage. However, if for the insurance unit, the premium computed for the planted acreage exceeds the premium computed for the acreage and interest shown on the acreage report, the amount of loss so determined shall be reduced proportionately. The total production to be counted for an insurance unit shall include all harvested production (including any harvested production of wheat from acreage initially planted for purposes other than for harvest as grain), except harvested production of corn from acreage not qualifying as harvested under the definition in section 9. In addition the production to be counted shall include any appraisals which the Corporation determines should be made for potential or unharvested production, poor farming practices, uninsured causes of loss, or acreage abandoned or put to another use without being released by the Corporation. Where any small grains are seeded with an insured growing small grain crop on acreage not released by the Corporation, all production shall be counted as the insured small grain on a weight basis. In the case of a volunteer crop produced with an insured crop, the production of such volunteer crop shall be included in determining the production of the insured crop. An appraisal of not less than the applicable coverage, minus the value (determined in accordance with section 5 of the rider) of any insured crop harvested, shall be made for acreage with a reduced yield due solely to any cause(s) not insured against or acreage abandoned or put to another use without being released by the Corporation.

(d) If the production from an insurance unit is commingled with the production from any other acreage and the insured fails to keep records satisfactory to the Corporation of the acreages involved and the production from each, the Corporation may (1) deny liability with respect to all insurance units involved for the crop year without affecting the insured's liability for premium(s), or (2) allocate the commingled production in such manner as it determines appropriate.

8. Date table.

Discount date: November 30.

Cancellation date: July 31.

Date by which county minimum participation requirement must be met for any crop year: September 30 following the cancellation date for the crop year.

9. Definitions. (a) "Harvest" with respect to any acreage of corn means picking from the stalk either by hand or machine or cutting for fodder or silage an amount of corn which is equal in value (determined in accordance with section 5 of this rider) to 10 percent or more of the harvested coverage for such acreage.

(b) "Harvest" with respect to any acreage of soybeans or wheat means the mechanical severance from the land of the matured crop for threshing where the crop has not been destroyed.

10. Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (d) of section 6 of the policy, if in any crop year a premium is earned and totals less than $20.00 the amount shall be increased to $20.00.

2. Existing crop insurance contract. If the application upon which this policy is issued is filed on or prior to September 30, 1956, the acceptance of such application shall cancel, effective beginning with the 1957 crop year, any wheat crop insurance contract between the insured and the Corporation. If such application is filed after September 30, 1956, any such wheat crop insurance contract shall remain in full force and effect for the 1957 crop year, but acceptance of such application shall cancel effective beginning with the 1958 crop year any wheat crop insurance contract between the insured and the Corporation.

Any threshed production of oats and any corn which will not meet the latest available requirements for a Commodity Credit Corporation loan or support because of poor quality due to insurable causes occurring within the insurance period, and would not meet these requirements if properly handled, shall be evaluated at a value per bushel determined by the Corporation. Land rented for cash or for a fixed commodity payment shall be considered as owned by the lessee.

7. Claims for loss. (a) Any claim for loss on an insurance unit shall be submitted to the Corporation, on a form prescribed by the Corporation, not later than 60 days after the time of loss.

(b) It shall be a condition precedent to the payment of any loss that the insured, (1) establish the production of the insured crop on the insurance unit and that such loss has been directly caused by one or more of the hazards insured against during the insurance period for the crop year for which the loss is claimed, and (2) furnish any other information regarding the manner and extent of loss as may be required by the Corporation.

The total production to be counted for an insurance unit shall include all harvested production (including any harvested production of barley, oats and wheat from acreage initially planted for purposes other than for harvest as grain), except harvested production of corn from acreage not qualifying as harvested under the definition in section 9. In addition the production to be counted shall include any appraisals which the Corporation determines should be made for potential or unharvested production, poor farming practices, uninsured causes of loss, or acreage abandoned or put to another use without being released by the Corporation. In the case of a volunteer crop produced with an insured crop, the production of such volunteer crop shall be included in determining the production of the insured crop. An appraisal of not less than the applicable coverage, minus the value (determined in accordance with section 5 of the rider) of any insured crop harvested, shall be made for acreage with a reduced yield due solely to any cause(s) not insured against or acreage abandoned or put to another use without being released by the Corporation.

(d) If the production from an insurance unit is commingled with the production from any other acreage and the insured fails to keep records satisfactory to the Corporation of the acreages involved and the production from each, the Corporation may (1) deny liability with respect to all insurance units involved for the crop year without affecting the insured's liability for premium(s), or (2) allocate the commingled production in such manner as it determines appropriate.

Chapter VIII—Commodity Stabilization Service (Sugar), Department of Agriculture

Subchapter G—Determination of Proportionate Shares

[Sugar Determination 850.30, Supp. 4]

CALIFORNIA PROPORTIONATE SHARE AREAS AND FARM PROPORTIONATE SHARES FOR 1956 CROP

Pursuant to the provisions of the Determination of Proportionate Shares for Farms in the Domestic Beet Sugar Area, 1956 Crop (20 F. R. 7159) as amended (20 F. R. 8772), (21 F. R. 986) and (21 F. R. 3670), the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation California State Committee has issued the bases and procedures for dividing the State into proportionate share areas and establishing individual farm proportionate shares from the allocation of 182,530 acres established for California by the determination. Copies of these bases and procedures are available for public inspection at the office of such Committee at 2020 Milvia Street, Berkeley, California, and at the offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committees in the sugar beet producing counties of California. These bases and procedures incorporate the following:

§ 850.34 California—(a) Proportionate share areas. California shall be divided into two proportionate share areas, one of which shall comprise all of California except Imperial County and the other shall be Imperial County. These areas shall be designated the "Northern Area" and the "Imperial Area", respectively. Acreage allotments for these areas shall be computed by applying to the planted sugar beet acreage record for each area a weighting of 75 percent to the average acreage for the crops of 1950 through 1954, as a measure of "past production", and a weighting of 25 percent to the largest acreage of any of the crops of 1950 through 1954, as a measure of "ability to produce", with a minimum of 107.19 percent of the 1955-crop planted acreage and with pro rata adjustments to a total of 182,530 acres. Acreage allotments computed as aforestated are established as follows: Northern Area—

142,799 acres, and Imperial Area—39,731 acres.

(b) Set-asides of acreage. Set-asides of acreage shall be made from area allotments as follows: Northern Area—2 percent each for new producers and appeals and 4 percent for adjustments in initial shares: Imperial Area—1.5 percent for new producers, 2 percent for appeals and 2 percent for adjustments in initial shares.

(c) Requests for proportionate shares. A request for each farm proportionate share shall be filed at the local ASC county office on form SU–100, Request for Sugar Beet Proportionate Share. The request shall be signed by the farm operator or owner (or legal representative) and shall be filed on or before the closing date for such filing, as provided in § 850.30.

(d) Establishment of individual farm proportionate shares.—(1) For new producers. Within the acreage set aside for new producers in each proportionate share area, proportionate shares shall be established in an equitable manner for farms to be operated during the 1956-crop year by new producers (as defined in § 850.30) by taking into consideration the availability and suitability of land, area of available fields, availability of irrigation water, adequacy of drainage, availability of production and marketing facilities and the production experience of the operator.

(2) For second-year producers. For each farm operated in the 1956-crop year by a second-year producer (as defined in § 850.30), an initial proportionate share shall be established equal to the initial 1955-crop share established for such farm.

(3) For old producers.—(i) Farm bases. For each farm whose operator is not a tenant in the 1956-crop season, a farm base will be computed from the planted sugar beet acreage record of the farm accruing to the landowner under the effective cropping arrangements by giving a weighting of 75 percent to the average acreage of the crops of 1950 through 1954, as a measure of "past production", and a weighting of 25 percent to the average acreage for the crops of 1952 through 1954, as a measure of "ability to produce". For each farm whose operator is a tenant in the 1956-crop season, the farm base shall be obtained by applying the aforestated weightings to the planted sugar beet acreage record of the operator, except that for a tenant-operator without a personal sugar beet production record in the 1950–54 period, the farm base shall be computed from the sugar beet acreage record accruing to the owner or owners of the land under the effective cropping arrangements.

(ii) Initial proportionate shares. Initial proportionate shares shall be established from farm bases in each area on a pro rata basis so that the total of the farm shares equals the area allotment less the prescribed set-asides and the initial shares of second-year producers.

(4) Adjustments in initial shares. Within the acreage available from the set-aside for adjustments, and from acreage of initial shares in excess of requested acreages in each proportionate share area, adjustments shall be made in initial farm proportionate shares so as to establish a proportionate share for each farm which is fair and equitable as compared with proportionate shares for all other farms in the locality by taking into consideration availability and suitability of land, area of available fields, availability of irrigation water, adequacy of drainage, availability of production and marketing facilities and the production experience of the operator. Such adjustments shall be made in the following order of precedence and subject to limitations as indicated: (i) Shares for growers with five years or less of production history in the 1950–54 period whose farm bases do not constitute fair representations of their past operations, such as where a former tenant becomes an owner-operator in 1956 on a farm with less history than his personal history), provided that the final share after adjustment shall not exceed that for a similar farm in the area on the basis of either personal or full land history; (ii) shares for growers with less than five years of production history in the 1950–54 period, provided that the final share after adjustment shall be limited generally to 85 percent of the average of the four-year plantings, 70 percent of the average of the three-year plantings, 55 percent of the average of two-year plantings, and 40 percent of single-year planting; provided further that these limits may be exceeded in special cases such as those involving a rotation plan, too small an acreage for economic operations or where a grower had one or more years of low plantings due to causes beyond his control; however, no grower's share may exceed his highest acreage in any one year during the base period; (iii) shares for growers with five years of production history in the 1950–54 period to correct for low plantings during one or more years of the base period, to fill out fields, and for other similar reasons, provided that the final share after adjustment shall not exceed the highest acreage in any one year of the base period; (iv) shares for second-year producers, to give consideration to the acreage of beets planted in 1955 and to establish final shares which are fair and equitable as compared to the farms operated by old producers in the area.

(5) Adjustments under appeals. Within the acreage set aside for making adjustments under appeals and any other acreage remaining unused in each proportionate share area, adjustments shall be made in proportionate shares under appeals to establish fair and equitable farm shares in accordance with the provisions of § 850.30 applicable to appeals.

(6) Adjustments because of unused acreage. To the extent of acreage available within the allotment for each proportionate share area from underplanting and failure to plant, and unused acreage from set-asides and other sources, adjustments shall be made in farm proportionate shares during the 1956-crop season. Insofar as practicable, acreage remaining unused in any area shall be reallotted to the other area wherein it may be used.

(7) Notification of farm operators. The farm operator shall be notified concerning the proportionate share established for his farm on form SU–103, Notice of Farm Proportionate Share—1956 Sugar Beet Crop, even if the acreage established is "none", and in each case of approved adjustment the farm operator shall be notified regarding the adjusted proportionate share on another form SU–103 if the adjustment results from an appeal, otherwise on a form SU–103–A or other similar written notice.

(8) Determination provisions prevail. The bases and procedures set forth in this section are issued in accordance with and subject to the provisions of § 850.30.

STATEMENT OF BASES AND CONSIDERATIONS

This supplement sets forth the bases and procedures established by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation California State Committee for determining farm proportionate shares in California in accordance with the determination of proportionate shares for the 1956 crop of sugar beets, as issued by the Secretary of Agriculture.

In general, the bases and procedures specified herein are the same as those which were effective in the State for the 1955 crop. California is again divided into two areas, which division is considered reasonable and appropriate considering geographical locations, the operation of sugar beet processing plants and the organization of advisory committees including grower and processor representatives. Farm proportionate shares of old producers are established under formulas which measure "past production" and "ability to produce" sugar beets. These standards are reflected in the initial farm shares established for second-year producers, which coincide with their initial 1955–crop shares, as provided under § 850.30. The procedure for establishing farm shares for new producers meets the related requirements of such section.

The bases and procedures for making adjustments in initial proportionate shares and for adjusting shares subsequently because of unused acreage and appeals are designed to provide a fair and equitable proportionate share for each farm of the total acreage of sugar beets required to enable the domestic beet sugar area to meet its quota and provide a normal carryover inventory.

[Sugar Determination 850.30, Supp. 6]

NORTH DAKOTA PROPORTIONATE SHARE AREAS AND FARM PROPORTIONATE SHARES FOR 1956 CROP

Pursuant to the provisions of the Determination of Proportionate Shares for Farms in the Domestic Beet Sugar Area, 1956 Crop (20 F. R. 7159), as amended (20 F. R. 8772), (21 F. R. 986) and (21 F. R. 3670), the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation North Dakota State Committee has issued the bases and procedures for dividing the State into proportionate share areas and establishing individual farm proportionate shares from the allocation of 35,006 acres established for North Dakota by the Determination. Copies of these bases and procedures are available for public inspection at the office of such Committee at 304 de Lendrecie Building, Fargo, North Dakota, and at the offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committees in the sugar beet producing counties of North Dakota. These bases and procedures incorporate the following:

§ 850.36 North Dakota—(a) Proportionate share areas. North Dakota shall be divided into two proportionate share areas comprising the separate sugar beet producing regions of the State, one of which is served by the American Crystal Sugar Company and the other by the Holly Sugar Corporation. These areas shall be designated the "Eastern Area" and the "Western Area," respectively. Acreage allotments for these areas shall be computed by applying to the planted sugar beet acreage record for each area a weighting of 85 percent to the average acreage for the crops of 1950 through 1954, as a measure of "past production," and a weighting of 15 percent to the largest acreage of any of the crops of 1950 through 1954, as a measure of "ability to produce," with pro rata adjustments to a total of 35,006 acres. Acreage allotments computed as aforestated are established as follows: Eastern Area—31,034 acres and Western Area—3,972 acres.

(b) Set-asides of acreage. Set-asides of acreage shall be made from area allotments as follows: Eastern Area—310 acres for new producers, 322.4 acres for appeals and 774.2 acres for adjustments in initial shares; Western Area—40 acres for new producers, 33 acres for appeals and 106.1 acres for adjustments in initial shares.

(c) Requests for proportionate shares. A request for each farm proportionate share shall be filed at the local ASC County Office on form SU–100, Request for Sugar Beet Proportionate Share. The request shall be signed by the farm operator or owner (or legal representative) and shall be filed on or before the closing date for such filing, as provided in § 850.30.

(d) Establishment of individual farm proportionate shares—(1) For new producers. Within the acreage set aside for new producers in each proportionate share area, proportionate shares shall be established in an equitable manner for farms to be operated during the 1956-crop year by new producers (as defined in § 850.30) by taking into consideration the availability and suitability of land, area of available fields, availability of irrigation water, adequacy of drainage, availability of production and marketing facilities and the production experience of the operator.

(2) For second-year producers. For each farm operated in the 1956-crop year by a second-year producer (as defined in § 850.30), an initial proportionate share shall be established equal to the initial 1955-crop share established for such farm.

(3) For old producers—(i) Farm bases—(a) Eastern Area. For each farm in the Eastern Area whose operator is not a tenant in the 1956-crop season, the farm base shall be established from the planted sugar beet acreage record of the farm accruing to the land owner under the effective cropping arrangements. For each farm in such area whose operator is a tenant in the 1956-crop season, the farm base shall be established from the planted sugar beet acreage record of the operator, provided that if both the person who was a crop-share tenant of land on which beets were planted in any year of such period and the person who was the owner of the same land file requests for proportionate shares, the acreage history of such land shall be divided between such tenant and owner on the basis of the effective crop shares. Such farm base shall be computed by giving a weighting of 75 percent to the average acreage of the crops of 1952 through 1954, as a measure of "past production", and a weighting of 25 percent to the largest acreage of the crops of 1952 through 1954, as a measure of "ability to produce", with minimum acreages as follows: If sugar beets were planted in all three years of the 1952–54 period, 90 percent of the 1953–54 average acreage; if sugar beets were planted in 1953 and 1954 only, 85 percent of the 1953–54 average acreage; and if sugar beets were planted in 1952 and 1954 or 1954 only, 75 percent of the 1954 acreage.

(b) Western Area. For each farm in the Western Area, the farm base shall be computed from the planted sugar beet acreage record of the farm by giving a weighting of 75 percent to the average acreage for the crops of 1950 through 1954, as a measure of "past production", and a weighting of 25 percent to the average acreage of the crops of 1953–54, as a measure of "ability to produce".

(ii) Initial proportionate shares. Initial proportionate shares shall be established from farm bases in each area on a pro rata basis so that the total of the farm shares equals the area allotment less the prescribed set-asides and the initial shares of second-year producers.

(4) Adjustments in initial shares. Within the acreage available from the set-aside for adjustments, and from acreage, of initial shares in excess of requested acreages in each proportionate share area, adjustments shall be made in initial farm proportionate shares for old producers and second-year producers so as to establish a proportionate share for each farm which is fair and equitable as compared with proportionate shares for all other farms in the area by taking into consideration availability and suitability of land, area of available fields, availability of irrigation water, adequacy of drainage, availability of production and marketing facilities and the production experience of the operator.

(5) Adjustments under appeals. Within the acreage set aside for making adjustments under appeals and any other acreage remaining unused in each proportionate share area, adjustments shall be made in proportionate shares under appeals to establish fair and equitable farm shares in accordance with the provisions of § 850.30 applicable to appeals.

(6) Adjustments because of unused acreage. To the extent of acreage available within the allotment for each proportionate share area from underplanting and failure to plant, and unused acreage from set-asides and other sources, adjustments shall be made in farm proportionate shares during the 1956-crop season. Insofar as practicable, acreage remaining unused in any area shall be reallotted to the other area wherein it may be used.

(7) Notification of farm operators. The farm operator shall be notified concerning the proportionate share established for his farm on form SU–103, Notice of Farm Proportionate Share—1956 Sugar Beet Crop, even if the acreage established is "none", and in each case of approved adjustment the farm operator shall be notified regarding the adjusted proportionate share on another form SU–103 if the adjustment results from an appeal, otherwise on a form SU–103–A or other similar written notice.

(8) Determination provisions prevail. The bases and procedures set forth in this section are issued in accordance with and subject to the provisions of § 850.30.

STATEMENT OF BASES AND CONSIDERATIONS

In general, the bases and procedures specified herein are the same as those which were effective in the State for the 1955 crop. PART 850—DOMESTIC BEET SUGAR PRODUCING AREA

INDIANA FARM PROPORTIONATE SHARES FOR 1956 CROP

Pursuant to the provisions of the Determination of Proportionate Shares for Farms in the Domestic Beet Sugar Area, 1956 Crop (20 F. R. 7159) as amended (20 F. R. 8772), (21 F. R. 986) and (21 F. R. 3670), the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Indiana State Committee has issued the bases and procedures for establishing individual farm proportionate shares from the allocation of 64 acres established for Indiana by the determination. Copies of these bases and procedures are available for public inspection at the office of such committee at 215 E. New York Street, Indianapolis, Indiana, and at the offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committees in the sugar beet producing counties of Indiana. These bases and procedures incorporate the following:

§ 850.48 Indiana—(a) Requests for proportionate shares. A request for each farm proportionate share shall be filed at the local ASC county office on form SU-100, Request for Sugar Beet Proportionate Share. The request shall be signed by the farm operator or owner (or legal representative) and shall be filed on or before the closing date for such filing, as provided in § 850.30.

(b) Establishment of individual farm proportionate shares. For each farm in Indiana for which a request for proportionate share is filed, the proportionate share shall be established from the State allocation of 64 acres so as to coincide with the acreage of 1956-crop sugar beets planted on such farm.

(c) Notification of farm operators. The farm operator shall be furnished a notice informing him that his proportionate share will coincide with his planted acreage.

(d) Determination provisions prevail. The bases and procedures set forth in this section are issued in accordance with and subject to the provisions of § 850.30.

STATEMENT OF BASES AND CONSIDERATIONS

This supplement sets forth the bases and procedures established by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Indiana State Committee for determining farm proportionate shares in Indiana in accordance with the determination of proportionate shares for the 1956 crop of sugar beets, as issued by the Secretary of Agriculture.

The acreage covered by bona fide requests for proportionate shares, as filed by old producers, second-year producers, and new producers, and the acreage of sugar beets actually planted are significantly smaller than the State allocation. This situation makes unnecessary the carrying out of considerable detailed procedure which would otherwise be required. It is unnecessary to apply a specific formula in computing farm shares, to make set-asides of acreage for new producers and appeals, and to make adjustments in farm shares to reflect ability to produce or to distribute unused acreage. Accordingly, this supplement provides for a distribution of acreage within the State allocation by specifying that individual farm proportionate shares shall equal the acreages planted on the various farms.

GENERAL INFORMATION

§ 1.1 Scope of rules. The rules in this part govern procedure before the Interstate Commerce Commission in proceedings under the Interstate Commerce Act and related acts, unless otherwise directed by the Commission in any proceeding.

§ 1.2 Liberal construction. The rules in this part shall be liberally construed to secure just, speedy, and inexpensive determination of the issues presented.

§ 1.3 Information; special instructions. Information as to procedure under the rules in this part, and instructions supplementing these rules in special instances, will be furnished upon application to the Secretary of the Commission, Washington, D. C.

§ 1.4 Communications and pleadings generally—(a) How addressed. All communications, including correspondence concerning matters referred to boards, should be addressed to the Commission unless otherwise specifically directed. All communications should clearly designate the docket number, if any, and short title. The person communicating shall state his address, the party he represents, and how response should be sent to him if not by first class mail.

(b) Timely filing required. Pleadings, requests, or other papers or documents required or permitted to be filed under this part must be received for filing at the Commission's offices at Washington, D. C., within the time limits, if any, for such filing. The date of receipt at the Commission and not the date of deposit in the mails is determinative.

(c) Disposition of; when defective. In any proceeding when upon inspection the Commission is of the opinion that a pleading, document, or paper tendered for filing does not comply with this part or, if it be an application, does not sufficiently set forth required material or is otherwise insufficient, the Commission may decline to accept the pleading, document, or paper for filing and may return it unfiled, or the Commission may accept it for filing and advise the person tendering it of the deficiency and require that the deficiency be corrected.

(d) Objectionable matter. The Commission may order any redundant, immaterial, impertinent, or scandalous matter stricken from any pleading, document, or paper filed with it.

§ 1.5 Definitions. As used in this part:

(a) The terms "act" and "part" mean the Interstate Commerce Act and the several parts thereof, respectively. The term "act" also means, unless the context otherwise indicates, any other statute which the Commission administers in whole or in part.

NOTE: References to parts designated by Roman numerals refer to the Interstate Commerce Act. References to "this part," "the rules in this part or to parts designated by Arabic numerals," refer to this Code.

(b) The term "proceeding" shall include: (1) An informal or formal "complaint" alleging violation of any provision of the act or of any regulation or requirement made pursuant to a power granted by such act, including petitions on the special docket; (2) an "application" for (i) the granting of any right, privilege, authority, or relief under or from any provision of the act or of any regulation or requirement made pursuant to a power granted by such act, or (ii) the consideration of any submission required by law to be made to the Commission; and (3) an "investigation" instituted or requested to be instituted by the Commission, including, among other, matters on the valuation and investigation-and-suspension dockets.

(c) The term "complainant" means a person filing a complaint; "defendant" means a carrier or other person against whom complaint is filed; "applicant" means a person filing an application; "respondent" means a person designated in an investigation; "protestant" means a person opposed to a tentative valuation, to the granting of an application, or to any tariff or schedule becoming effective; "intervener" means a person permitted to intervene as provided in § 1.72 and "petitioner" means any other person seeking relief otherwise than by complaint or application.

(d) The term "pleading" means a complaint, answer, reply, application, protest, motion (other than motion orally made at hearing or argument), petition, document supplementing oral hearing as described in § 1.86 and all documents filed under modified and shortened procedure.

(e) The term "practitioner" means a person authorized by the Commission to appear before it in a representative capacity.

(f) The term "officer," except as a different meaning is indicated in §§ 1.17 (b), 1.57 to 1.66, inclusive, 1.71 (a), and 1.78 (civil and corporate functionaries), includes: (1) a Commissioner, a board of employees (called an "employee board" in this part), an examiner, or special board composed of State representatives (called a "joint board" in this part), to which a proceeding (called "referred matter" in this part) is by order assigned or referred for hearing, consideration, or recommendation of an appropriate order thereon pursuant to provisions of law;[1] and (2) a Commissioner, an examiner, or other Commission employee before whom, without entry of an order of reference, a proceeding is assigned for hearing. The term "board" means either an employee board or a joint board as the context requires.

(g) The term "proposed report" means an officer's written statement of the issues, the facts, and the findings the officer proposes that the Commission should make, with the reasons therefor, but with no recommended order. Such term also means, and shall include, a "recommended decision" and a "tentative decision" as these last two terms are used in the Administrative Procedure Act.

(h) The term "report and recommended order" means an officer's written statement in a referred matter of the issues, the facts, the findings, reasons for such findings, and a recommended order. Such term also means, and shall include, an "initial decision" as the latter term is used in the Administrative Procedure Act.

(i) The term "officer's report" or "board's report" means a proposed report or report and recommended order.

(j) The term "shortened procedure" means the procedure specified in § 1.44 and rules therein mentioned. Such rules provide, upon written consent of the parties, and upon the Commission's initiative or its approval of a request therefor made prior to hearing by any party, for the filing and serving of pleadings in proceedings with a view to avoiding an oral hearing.

(k) The term "modified procedure" means the procedure specified in §§ 1.45 to 1.54, inclusive, which rules provide for the filing and serving of pleadings in proceedings with a view to limiting the matters upon which subsequent oral evidence, if any, will be introduced.

§ 1.6 Use of gender and number. Words importing the singular number may extend and be applied to several persons or things; words importing the plural number may include the singular; and words importing the masculine gender may be applied to females.

[1] Such as sections 17 and 205 of the Interstate Commerce Act.

PRACTITIONERS

§ 1.7 Register of practitioners. A register is maintained by the Commission in which are entered the names of all persons entitled to practice before the Commission. Corporations and firms will not be admitted or recognized.

§ 1.8 Practitioners' qualifications and classes. The following classes of persons whom the Commission finds, upon consideration of their applications, to be of good moral character and to possess the requisite qualifications to represent others may be admitted to practice before the Commission:

(a) Attorneys at law. Attorneys at law who are admitted to practice before the highest court of any State or Territory or the District of Columbia.

(b) Persons not attorneys. Any person not an attorney at law who is a citizen or resident of the United States and who shall satisfy the Commission that he is possessed of the necessary legal and technical qualifications to enable him to render valuable service before the Commission, and that he is otherwise competent to advise and assist in the presentation of matters before the Commission.

§ 1.9 Applications for admission to practice. An application under oath for admission to practice shall be addressed to the Commission, Washington, D. C., and must state the name, residence address, and business address of the applicant, and the time and place of his admission to the bar, or the nature of his qualifications. Such application shall also state whether the applicant has ever been suspended or disbarred as an attorney, or whether his right to practice has ever been revoked by any court, commission, or administrative agency, in any jurisdiction. Such application shall be accompanied by a certificate of the clerk of the court in which applicant is admitted to practice to the effect that he has been so admitted and is in good standing; or by a certificate signed by three or more practitioners as sponsors for the applicant, which certificate shall recite that applicant possesses all the requisite qualifications under this section, and the sponsors shall incorporate in their certificate a recommendation and motion that applicant be admitted to practice under this section.

§ 1.10 Additional certificates by practitioner's sponsors; hearing; abandonment of application. The Commission in its discretion may call upon the practitioners making such certificate for a full statement of the nature and extent of their knowledge of the qualifications of the applicant. If upon consideration of the papers filed by the applicant and the statements submitted by his sponsors, or otherwise, the Commission is not satisfied as to the sufficiency of the applicant's qualifications under these rules, it will so notify him by registered mail, whereupon he may request a hearing for the purpose of showing his qualifications. If he presents such request, the Commission will accord him a hearing. If he presents to the Commission no request for such hearing within 20 days after receiving the notification above referred to, his application shall be deemed to be withdrawn.

§ 1.11 Application fee. An application filed after this section becomes effective must be accompanied by a fee of $10. Payment must be made either in cash or by New York draft, certified check, express or postal money order payable to the order of the Treasurer of the United States. The fee will be returned if applicant is not admitted to practice.

§ 1.12 Practitioner's oath. No person shall be admitted to practice before the Commission until he shall have subscribed to an oath or affirmation that he will demean himself, as a practitioner before this Commission, uprightly, and according to law; and that he will support the Constitution of the United States and laws of the United States and will conform to the rules and regulations of the Commission.

§ 1.13 Denial of admission, censure, suspension, or disbarment of practitioners. The Commission may, in its discretion, deny admission, censure, suspend, or disbar any person who, it finds, does not possess the requisite qualifications to represent others, or is lacking in character, integrity, or proper professional conduct. Any person who has been admitted to practice may be suspended or disbarred only after he is afforded an opportunity to be heard. All persons, whether or not admitted to practice under § 1.9, must, in their representations before the Commission, conform to the code of ethics published by the Association of Interstate Commerce Commission Practitioners as of April 1, 1955, which code is reprinted in Appendix A to this part.

SPECIAL RULES RESPECTING BOARDS

§ 1.14 Special rules respecting boards—(a) Organization. After a joint board has been created it shall select one of its members to act as chairman for all purposes concerning matters which may be referred to it. In the event the member so selected is absent from any meeting of the joint board the members attending shall select one of such members, except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, temporarily to act as chairman.

(b) Waiver by absence of a joint-board member. The failure of a duly appointed member of a joint board to participate in any hearing after notice thereof on a matter referred to such joint board shall be considered to constitute, as to the matter referred, a waiver of action on the part of the State from which such member was appointed.

(c) Procedural rulings in case of disagreement. If the members of a board or a majority thereof in actual attendance at a hearing shall be unable to agree upon the disposition of a procedural question arising therein, the chairman (or acting chairman) of the board shall decide the question and rule or order accordingly.

(d) Form of board's report; service. For the sake of uniformity the board's report shall conform as nearly as may be practicable to the form of report issued by the Commission in similar cases. The board's report will be served by the Commission.

(e) Termination of joint board jurisdiction; subsequent procedure. The jurisdiction of a joint board over a referred matter shall be terminated in the event of: (1) service of a report as provided in paragraph (d) of this section; (2) submission of the board's conclusions without written report; (3) waiver of action in writing by appropriate authority of each State from which a member is entitled to be appointed; (4) failure of all members of the board to appear at the hearing; (5) failure of a majority of the board to agree; or (6) entry of order vacating the order of reference to the joint board. Except where a report is served as provided in paragraph (d) of this section, in which event the subsequent procedure will be as provided in § 1.96 and subsequent sections, a referred matter, after termination of joint-board jurisdiction, will be decided by the Commission or be made the subject of another officer's report on the record theretofore made or after such hearing or further hearing as may be required.

PLEADING SPECIFICATIONS GENERALLY

§ 1.15 Typographical specifications generally. Except as otherwise provided respecting applications (§ 1.38 (a)), exhibits (§ 1.84 (a)), and informal complaints (§ 1.24 (a)), all pleadings, documents, and papers to be filed under these rules shall be on opaque, unglazed, durable paper not exceeding 8½ by 11 inches. To permit binding in covers of uniform size, margins of at least 1½ and 1 inch, respectively, shall be allowed on the left and right margins. Binding shall be on the left margin. Reproduction may be by printing, printing by offset press, multigraphing, or mimeographing, or by any other process, provided the copies are clear and permanently legible. White-line blueprints which cannot be reproduced by photography are not acceptable. If directly typewritten, or if in facsimile reproduction of typewriting, the impression must be on one side of the paper and must be double-spaced, except that long quotations shall be single-spaced and indented. Nothing less in size than Elite type shall be used. If printed, adequate leading and nothing less than 10-point type shall be used, except that 8-point type may be employed in footnotes and in tabular matter where printing limitations so require. A pleading or brief in excess of 50 pages (except a pleading under modified or shortened procedure), including cover pages, indexes, and appendixes, must be printed. Printing by offset press will be accepted: Provided, That the type used is not reduced in size smaller than that required for typewritten documents and that where the pleading or brief exceeds 50 pages, the impression is on both sides of the paper. Failure to observe these specifications will result in rejection.

§ 1.16 Copies—(a) Generally. The original and 14 copies of every pleading, document, or paper permitted or required to be filed under this part shall be furnished for the use of the Commission, except as a different number is required under paragraph (b) of this section, or as otherwise provided respecting: answers (§ 1.35 (c)); applications (§§ 1.38 (b) and 1.40 (c)); complaints; formal (§§ 1.26 and 1.37) and informal (§§ 1.24 (a) and 1.25 (d)); depositions (§ 1.64); exhibits (§§ 1.84 (c) and 1.86); modified and shortened procedure (§§ 1.44 (c) and 1.52); petitions in intervention (§ 1.72 (d)); prepared statements (§ 1.77); protests in investigation-and-suspension proceedings (§ 1.42 (c)); replies (§ 1.23 (b)); and matters respecting oral argument (§ 1.98); subpenas (§ 1.56 (a)); time modification (§ 1.21 (b)), and transcript correction (§ 1.90 (b)).

(b) In bankruptcy proceedings. Except as otherwise provided in an application form or instruction (§ 1.38) and respecting exhibits (§1.84 (c)), the original and 19 copies of every pleading, document, or paper filed in a proceeding arising under the Uniform Bankruptcy Act shall be furnished for the use of the Commission.

§ 1.17 Attestation—(a) Practitioner's signature. If a party is represented by a practitioner each pleading, document, or paper of such party shall be signed in ink by one such practitioner whose address shall be stated. The signature of a practitioner constitutes a certificate by him that he has read the pleading, document, or paper; that he is authorized to file it; that to the best of his knowledge, information, and belief there is good ground for it; that it is not interposed for delay; and that with respect to a complaint he files it with the distinct knowledge and specific consent of complainant. A pleading document, or paper thus signed need not be verified or accompanied by affidavit except as otherwise provided respecting applications (§ 1.38), modified and shortened procedure (§§ 1.44 (c) and 1.50), and statements of claimed damages (§ 1.100).

(b) When no practitioner's signature. A pleading, document, or paper not signed by a practitioner must be signed in ink, the address of the signer shall be stated, and the facts alleged in a pleading must be verified under oath by the person in whose behalf it is filed. Signature and verification in such manner must be by at least one complainant if the pleading is a complaint. A pleading document, or paper filed on behalf of a corporation or other organization authorized to make complaint under the act, which is not signed by a practitioner must be signed in ink, and the facts alleged in a pleading must be verified by an executive officer of such corporation or organization.

§ 1.18 Affirmation in lieu of oath. Whenever under this part an oath is required, an affirmation in judicial form will be accepted in lieu thereof.

§ 1.19 Pleadings part of record. Recitals of material and relevant facts in a pleading filed prior to oral hearing in any proceeding, unless specifically denied in a counterpleading filed under these rules, shall constitute evidence and be a part of the record without special admission or incorporation therein, but if request is seasonably made, a competent witness must be made available for cross-examination on the evidence so included in the record. Pleadings may contain specific references to or quotation from the tariffs or schedules containing the several rates, fares, charges, schedules, classifications, regulations or practices alleged to be material.

§ 1.20 Amendments. Leave to file amendments to any pleading will be allowed or denied as a matter of discretion.

§ 1.21 Time—(a) Computation. In computing any period of time prescribed or allowed by this part, the day of the act, event, or default after which the designated period of time begins to run is not to be included. The last day of the period so computed is to be included, unless it is Saturday, Sunday or a legal holiday in the District of Columbia, in which event the period runs until the end of the next day which is neither a Saturday, Sunday nor a holiday. A half holiday shall not be considered as a holiday.

(b) Modification. Except as to the maximum time periods provided by law or specified in this part respecting informal complaints seeking damages (§ 1.25), any time period prescribed or permitted in this part may, upon request and for good and sufficient cause, be modified by the Commission in its discretion. Requests for extension or modifications of time must be served upon all parties of record at the same time and by the same method of communication as service is made on the Commission. A request for postponement of date for filing briefs or other documents must be filed not less than 10 days before the date in question, except in extraordinary circumstances, and where such requests are filed less than 10 days before the due date the petitioning party shall state the reasons for his failure to make such request within the prescribed 10 days. The original only of the request and certificate of service need be filed with the Commission. If granted, the party making the request shall promptly so notify all parties to the proceeding and so certify to the Commission.

(c) Five days additional. If the general office of a person party to a proceeding, or office of the practitioner representing him, is located at or west of El Paso, Tex., Salt Lake City, Utah, or Helena, Mont., five days shall be added for all parties to the time periods specified in the rules in this part when such rules are applied in any proceeding in which such person is a party.

§ 1.22 Service; pleadings and papers to show—(a) Generally. Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of this section, or as otherwise provided respecting applications (§ 1.38 (b)), formal complaints (§ 1.34), and informal complaints (§ 1.24 (b)), every pleading, document, or paper must, when filed, or tendered to the Commission for filing, include a certificate showing simultaneous service thereof upon all parties to the proceeding. Such service shall be made by delivery in person, or by first-class or air mail, or by express, properly addressed with charges prepaid, one copy to each party. Service shall be effected upon the parties to the proceeding by the same means of communication and class of service that is employed in making delivery to the Commission: Provided, however, That when delivery is made to the Commission in person, and it is not feasible to serve the other parties in person, service shall be made upon parties 1000 or more miles distant from the party effecting service by air mail and upon parties less than 1000 miles distant by first-class or air mail. When any party is represented by a practitioner, service upon such practitioner will be deemed service upon the party.

(b) Exceptions as to letter. Copies of letters to the Commission relating to oral argument (§ 1.98) and subpenas (§ 1.56 (a)) need not be served upon other parties to the proceeding.

§ 1.23 Replics—(a) Time for filing. Except that a reply to a reply is not permitted, and except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of this section and respecting answers (§ 1.35 (c)), modified and shortened procedure (§§ 1.44 (c) and 1.51), and briefs (§§ 1.92 and 1.93), an adverse party may file and serve a reply to any pleading permitted under the rules in this part within 20 days after filing at the Commission.

(b) Replies to petitions under rule 101 and exceptions. A reply to a petition filed under rule 101 seeking a change in a decision, order, or requirement may be filed and served within 20 days after the final date for filing such petitions, and a reply to exceptions filed under rule 96 may be filed and served within 20 days after the final date for filing such exceptions.

(c) Copies. The original of the reply should be accompanied by the same number of copies as required respecting the pleading to which the reply is responsive.

COMMENCEMENT OF PROCEEDINGS

§ 1.24 Informal complaints not seeking damages—(a) Form and content. Informal complaint may be by letter or other writing, and will be serially numbered and filed as of the date of its receipt. No form of informal complaint is suggested, but in substance the letter or other writing (original and one copy shall be filed) must contain the essential elements of a formal complaint as specified in §§ 1.28 and 1.30. It may embrace supporting papers.

(b) Correspondence handling. If the informal complaint appears to be susceptible of informal adjustment, a copy or a statement of the substance thereof will be transmitted by the Commission to each person complained of in an endeavor to have it satisfied by correspondence and thus obviate the filing of a formal complaint.

(c) Discontinuance without prejudice. A proceeding thus instituted on the informal docket is without prejudice to complainant's right to file and prosecute a formal complaint, in which event the proceeding on the informal docket will be discontinued.

§ 1.25 Informal complaints seeking damages—(a) Actual filing required. Notification to the Commission that an informal complaint may or will be filed later seeking damages is not a filing within the meaning of the statute except as provided in paragraph (e) of this section.

(b) Content. An informal complaint seeking damages, when permitted under the act, must be filed within the statutory period, and should contain such data as will serve to identify with reasonable definiteness the shipments or transportation services in respect of which damages are sought. Such complaint should state: (1) that complainant makes claim for damages, (2) the name of each individual claimant seeking damages, (3) the names of defendants against which claim is made, (4) the commodities, the rate applied, the date when the charges were paid, by whom paid, and by whom borne, (5) the period of time within which or the specific dates upon which the shipments were made, and the dates when they were delivered or tendered for delivery, (6) the points of origin and destination, either specifically or, where they are numerous, by definite indication of a defined territorial or rate group of the points of origin and destination and, if known, the routes of movement, and (7) the nature and amount of the injury sustained by each claimant.

(c) Statement of prior claim. If a complaint filed under paragraph (b) or (e) of this section contains a claim on any shipment which has been the subject of a previous informal or formal complaint to the Commission, reference to such complaint must be given.

(d) Copies. The original of an informal complaint seeking damages must be accompanied by copies in sufficient number to enable the Commission to transmit one to each defendant named.

(e) Special-docket proceedings. Where the act provides for an award of damages for violation thereof and a carrier is willing to pay them, or to waive collection of undercharges, petition for appropriate authority should be filed by the carrier on the special docket in the form prescribed by the Commission. If the petition is granted an appropriate order will be entered. Such petition, when not filed in connection with an informal complaint pending before the Commission, must be filed within the statutory period and will be deemed the equivalent of an informal complaint and an answer thereto admitting the matters stated in the petition. If a carrier is unable to file such petition within the statutory period and the claim is not already protected from the operation of the statute by informal complaint, a statement setting forth the facts may be filed by the carrier within the statutory period. Such statement will be deemed the equivalent of an informal complaint filed on behalf of the shipper or consignee and sufficient to stay the operation of the statute.

(f) Six months' rule. If an informal complaint seeking damages cannot be disposed of informally, or is denied, or is withdrawn by complainant from further consideration, the parties affected will be so notified in writing by the Commission. The matter in such complaint will not be reconsidered unless, within six months after the date such notice is mailed, either a formal complaint as to such matter is filed, or it is informally resubmitted on an additional fact basis.

Such filing or resubmission will be deemed to relate back to the date of the original filing, but reference to that date and the Commission's file number must be made in such resubmission or in the formal complaint filed. If the matter is not so resubmitted, or included in a formal complaint, as provided in this section, complainant will be deemed to have abandoned the complaint and no complaint seeking damages based on the same cause of action will thereafter be placed on file or considered unless itself filed within the statutory period.

§ 1.26 Formal complaints; copies—(a) Generally. The original of each formal complaint, amended or supplemental formal complaint, or cross complaint, must be accompanied by copies in sufficient number to enable the Commission to serve one upon each defendant, including each receiver or trustee, and retain six copies in addition to the original.

(b) Provision for State authorities. If complaint is made under part II, or respecting State-made rates (§ 1.30 (b)), sufficient copies in addition to those required under paragraph (a) of this section shall be furnished to permit the Commission to supply one to the appropriate authority in each of the States included in the scope of the complaint.

§ 1.27 Formal complaints; joinder—(a) Causes of action. Two or more grounds of complaint concerning the same principle, subject, or state of facts may be included in one complaint, but should separately be stated and numbered.

(b) Complainants. Two or more complainants may join in one complaint if their respective causes of action are against the same defendant or defendants and concern substantially the same alleged violation of the act and a like state of facts.

(c) Defendants. If complaint is made with respect to through transportation by continuous carriage or shipment, all persons subject to the act participating therein, and against which an order is sought, should be made defendants. If complaint is made of a classification or any provision thereof, ordinarily it will suffice to make defendants the persons operating one or more through routes between representative points of origin and destination.

(d) Correct designation of parties. The unabbreviated names of all parties complainant and defendant must be stated correctly.

§ 1.28 Formal complaints; allegations generally. A formal complaint should be so drawn as fully and completely to advise the parties defendant and the Commission in what respects the provisions of the act have been or are violated or will be violated, and should set forth briefly and in plain language the facts claimed to constitute such violation. If two or more sections or subsections of the act or requirements established pursuant thereto are alleged to be violated, the facts claimed to constitute violation of one section, subsection, or requirement should be stated separately from those claimed to constitute a violation of another section, subsection, or requirement whenever that can be done by reference or otherwise without undue repetition.

§ 1.29 Formal complaints; when damages sought. A formal complaint that includes a request for an award of damages should contain the information specified for an informal complaint seeking damages (§ 1.25, paragraphs (b) and (c)).

§ 1.30 Formal complaints; discrimination, preference, and prejudice—(a) Generally. A complaint that alleges the act is violated because of an undue or unreasonable preference or advantage, undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage, or unjust discrimination should specify clearly the particular elements stated in the act[1] as constituting such violation, and the facts which complainant relies upon to establish it.

(b) State-made rates. A complaint that brings in issue any rate, fare, charge, classification, regulation, or practice, made or imposed by authority of any State, upon the ground that it violates provisions of the act which prohibit undue or unreasonable advantage preference, or prejudice as between persons or localities in intrastate commerce and persons or localities in interstate or foreign commerce, or any undue, unreasonable or unjust discrimination against interstate or foreign commerce, should bring in issue the justness and reasonableness of the rate, fare, charge, classification, regulation, or practice applicable to the interstate or foreign commerce involved in such complaint. Such complaint should also bring in issue the question as to what should be the rate, fare, or charge, or the maximum or minimum, or maximum and minimum, thereafter to be charged, and the classification, regulation, or practice that should be established so as to remove any such advantage, preference, prejudice, or such unjust discrimination.

§ 1.31 Formal complaints; other specifications—(a) Tariff or schedule references. The several rates, fares, charges, schedules, classifications, regulations, or practices on which complaint is made should be set out by specific reference to the tariffs or schedules in which they appear, whenever that is practicable.

(b) States in which transportation occurs. A formal complaint under part II should specifically name the States in and through which the transportation which gives rise to the complaint is performed.

(c) Hearing place. A formal complaint should be accompanied by a statement of the place at which hearing is desired.

§ 1.32 Formal complaints; prayers for relief—(a) Generally. A formal complaint in which relief for the future is sought should contain a detailed statement of the relief desired. Relief in the alternative or of several different types may be demanded, but the issues raised in the formal complaint should not be broader than those to which complainant's evidence is to be directed at the hearing.

(b) Specific prayer for damages. Except under unusual circumstances, and for good cause shown, damages will not be awarded upon a complaint unless specifically prayed for, or upon a new complaint by or for the same complainant which is based upon any finding in the original proceeding.

§ 1.33 Amended and supplemental formal complaints. An amended or supplemental complaint may be tendered for filing by a complainant against a defendant or defendants named in the original complaint, stating a cause of action alleged to have accrued within the statutory period immediately preceding the date of such tender, in favor of complainant and against the defendant or defendants.

§ 1.34 Service of formal and cross complaints. The Commission will serve formal complaints. It will also serve supplemental, amended, and cross complaints when it has granted leave to file such pleadings. Such service will be made personally upon a carrier or freight forwarder or upon an agent thereof designated for purposes of service, or by mail addressed to the carrier or freight forwarder or to the agent thereof at the address filed. If no agent has been designated, service may be made by posting in the office of the Secretary of the Commission, and if the defendant be a carrier subject to part II of the act, by also posting in the office of the secretary or clerk of the motor-carrier regulatory board of the State wherein the motor carrier maintains headquarters. If the complaint involves only the lawfulness of rates, fares, charges, classifications, or practices, service in the manner indicated in the third sentence of this section may be made upon an attorney in fact of a carrier or freight forwarder who has filed a tariff or schedule in behalf of such carrier or freight forwarder, but such service will not be made upon a carrier subject to part I unless such carrier has failed to designate an agent for service in the city of Washington.

§ 1.35 Answers and cross complaints to formal complaints—(a) Generally. An answer may simultaneously be responsive to a formal complaint and to any amendment or supplement thereof. It should be drawn so as fully and completely to advise the parties and the Commission of the nature of the defense, including, if a departure from the requirements of section 4 (1) of the act is involved, the number of the particular application or order, if any, which protects such departure; and should admit or deny specifically and in detail each material allegation of the pleading answered. An answer may embrace a detailed statement of any counter-proposal which a defendant may desire to submit. Unless the issue is such that separate answers are required, answer for all defendants may be filed on their behalf by one defendant in one document, in which event the answer must show clearly the names of all defendants joining therein, and their concurrence.

(b) Cross complaints. A cross complaint alleging that other persons, parties to the proceeding, have violated the act or requirements established pursuant thereto, or seeking relief against them under the act, may be tendered for filing by a defendant with its answer.

(c) Time for filing; copies. Unless otherwise directed by the Commission, an answer to a complaint should be filed within 20 days after the day on which the complaint to which answer is filed was served. The original and six copies of an answer shall be filed with the Commission.

(d) When issue joined. If any defendant answers or fails to file and serve answer within the period specified in paragraph (c), issue thereby is joined as to such defendant.

§ 1.36 Motions to dismiss or to make more definite and certain—(a) As to complaint. Defendant may file with his answer, or with his statement under modified or shortened procedure, a motion that the allegations in the complaint be made more definite and certain, such motion to point out the defects complained of and details desired. Defendant may also file with his answer a motion to dismiss a complaint because of lack of legal sufficiency appearing on face of such complaint.

(b) As to answer. No replication to the answer shall be filed, but any party may file, within 10 days after the filing of an answer, or, in the case of modified or shortened procedure, complainant may file with his statement in reply, a motion that the answer, or defendant's statement, as the case may be, be made more definite and certain, such motion to point out the defects complained of and the details desired.

§ 1.37 Satisfaction of complaint. If a defendant satisfies a formal complaint, either before or after answering, a statement to that effect signed by the opposing parties must be filed (original only need be filed), setting forth when and how the complaint has been satisfied. This action should be taken as expeditiously as possible.

§ 1.38 Applications—(a) Forms and instructions. An application filed with the Commission shall be prepared in accord with and contain the information called for in the form of application, if any, prescribed by the Commission, or any instructions which may have been issued by the Commission with respect to the filing of an application.

(b) Copies; service. Copies of an application shall be furnished in such number, and be filed and served in the manner and upon the persons specified in the form or instruction.

§ 1.39 Applications; notice. Appropriate notice of the filing of an application will be given by the applicant or by the Commission to the States, to State authorities, or to other persons as may be required by the form or instruction or by the act.

§ 1.40 Protests against applications—(a) Content. A protest against the granting of any application shall set forth specifically the grounds upon which it is made and contain a concise statement of the interest of protestant in the proceeding.

(b) When filed. Any protest shall be filed with the Commission promptly after the application is filed. If the proceeding be one respecting which the Commission has issued a notice advising the public of the filing of the application, the protest shall be filed within the time specified in such notice. Failure to file a protest shall not prejudice subsequent participation in the proceeding.

(c) Copies; service. A protest filed under this section shall be served upon applicant and, unless otherwise specified in the public notice, the original and six copies of the protest shall be filed with the Commission.

(d) When rule disregarded. An application may be set for hearing without awaiting the filing of a protest or of a reply thereto, and also may be disposed of without regard to the prior paragraphs of this section unless the act provides that the particular application may be granted only upon hearing.

§ 1.41 Valuation proceedings; protests. A protest of a tentative valuation shall contain a concise statement of the essential elements of protest with particular reference to the matters in the tentative valuation concerning which protest is made and shall include a statement of the changes therein desired by protestant. When practicable each object of protest should be set up as a separate item in a separately numbered paragraph. Each item of protest against land values or areas must state the valuation section and zone on the Commission's maps in which the land is located. When protestant claims that property owned or used has been omitted, a full description of such property and its location must be included in the protest.

§ 1.42 Petitions for suspension of tariffs or schedules—(a) Content. The protested tariff or schedule sought to be suspended should be identified by making reference to the name of the publishing carrier, freight forwarder, or agent, to the Interstate Commerce Commission number, and to the specific items or particular provisions protested. Reference should also be made to the tariff or schedule, and the specific provisions thereof, proposed to be superseded. The protest should state the grounds in support thereof, indicate in what respect the protested tariff or schedule is considered to be unlawful, and state what protestant offers by way of substitution. Such protests will be considered as addressed to the discretion of the Commission and no protest shall include a prayer that it also be considered a formal complaint. Should a protestant desire to proceed further against a tariff or schedule which is not suspended, or which has been suspended and the suspension vacated, a separate later formal complaint or petition should be filed.

(b) When filed. Protests against, and requests for suspension of, tariffs or schedules filed under the act will not be considered unless made in writing and filed with the Commission at Washington, D. C. Such protests and requests for suspension shall reach the Commission at least 12 days before the effective dates of the tariffs, schedules, or parts thereof to which they refer, unless the protested publications were filed on less than 30-days notice under the authority of this Commission, in which event the protests should be filed not less than 5 days before such effective dates. In an emergency, telegraphic protests will be acceptable if received within the time limits herein specified, provided they also fully comply with paragraph (a) of this section and copies thereof are immediately telegraphed by protestants to the respondent carriers or their publishing agents. Six copies of such telegrams should immediately be mailed by the protestants to the Commission at Washington.

(c) Copies; service. Seven copies of each protest or reply filed under this section must be filed with the Commission and one copy of the protest simultaneously be served upon the publishing carrier, freight forwarder, or agent, and upon other persons known by protestant to be interested.

(d) Reply to protest. A reply to a protest filed under this section should be filed and served promptly.

§ 1.43 Service of investigation order; default where failure to comply. An order instituting an investigation will be served by the Commission upon respondents. If within a time period stated in that order a respondent fails to comply with any requirement specified therein respondent shall be deemed in default and to have waived any further hearing. Thereafter the investigation may be decided without further proceedings.

SHORTENED AND MODIFIED PROCEDURE

§ 1.44 Shortened procedure—(a) Consent; notice. In shortened procedure (see § 1.5 (j)) the Commission will request all the parties thereto to advise the Commission within a time to be specified by it whether they consent to presentation under shortened procedure. Such advice should include, if the party is to be represented by a practitioner, the name and address of such practitioner. If all parties consent to the procedure, they will be advised that it will be followed.

(b) Declination; hearing. If any party declines to consent to shortened procedure, such declination shall not affect or prejudice the right or interest of such party. The proceeding will thereupon be conducted under modified procedure or be set for oral hearing as the Commission may direct. At the request of any party, received prior to service of an officer's report in a proceeding being conducted under shortened procedure, the Commission in its discretion may set the proceeding for oral hearing.

(c) Other applicable rules. The provisions for modified procedure in §§ 1.46 (a), 1.47, 1.48, 1.49, 1.50, 1.51, 1.52, and 1.54 shall also apply to shortened procedure. The time periods specified in § 1.51 shall begin to run from the date the Commission advises the parties that shortened procedure will be followed.

§ 1.45 Modified procedure; how initiated—(a) Petition on Commission's initiative. Modified procedure (see § 1.5 (k)) will be ordered in a proceeding upon the Commission's initiative or upon its approval of a petition filed by any party that the modified procedure shall be observed.

(b) Order directing modified procedure. An order directing modified procedure will list the names and addresses of the persons who at that time are parties to the proceeding, and direct that they comply with the modified-procedure rules. As used in §§ 1.49, 1.51, and 1.53 (a) the term "complainant" shall comprehend the term "respondent" or "applicant," and the term "defendant" shall include the term "protestant," according as procedure under §§ 1.45 to 1.54, inclusive, may be ordered in a particular proceeding.

§ 1.46 Modified procedure; effect of order—(a) Relief from answer rule. Issuance of an order directing modified procedure shall relieve defendant from the obligation of answering as provided in § 1.35.

(b) Default where failure to comply. If within any time period provided in the modified-procedure rules a party fails to file a pleading required by those rules, or otherwise fails to comply therewith, such party shall be deemed to be in default and to have waived any further hearing. Thereafter the proceeding may be disposed of without further notice to the defaulting party, and without other formal proceedings as to such party.

§ 1.47 Modified procedure; intervention. Persons permitted to intervene under modified procedure shall file and serve pleadings in conformity with the provisions relating to the parties in whose behalf they intervene.

§ 1.49 Modified procedure; content of pleadings—(a) Generally. A statement filed under the modified procedure after that procedure has been directed shall state the facts and include the exhibits upon which the party relies. In addition, defendant's statement and complainant's statement in reply shall specify those statements of fact of the opposite party to which exception is taken, and include a statement of the facts constituting the basis for such exception. Complainant's statement of reply shall be confined to rebuttal of the defendant's statement.

(b) Exhibit identification. In addition to being in compliance with paragraphs (a) and (b) of § 1.84, an exhibit which is part of any pleading filed under modified procedure shall serially be numbered and bear the notation, properly filled out, in the upper right-hand corner: "Complainant (Defendant) ----------, Exhibit No. ----------, Witness ----------."

(c) Damages. If an award of damages is sought the paid freight bills or properly certified copies thereof should accompany the original of complainant's statement when there are not more than 10 shipments, but otherwise the documents should be retained.

§ 1.50 Modified procedure; attestation. The facts asserted in any pleading filed under modified procedure must be sworn to by persons having knowledge thereof, which latter fact must affirmatively appear in the affidavit. Except under unusual circumstances, such persons should be those who would appear as witnesses orally to substantiate the facts asserted should hearing become necessary. The original of any pleading filed under modified procedure must show the signature, capacity, and impression seal, if any, of the person administering the oath, and the date thereof.

§ 1.51 Modified procedure; when pleadings filed and served. Within 20 days from the date of an order requiring modified procedure, complainant shall serve upon the other parties a statement of all the evidence upon which it relies. Within 30 days thereafter defendant shall serve its statement. Within 10 days thereafter complainant shall serve its statement in reply. No further reply may be made by any party except by permission of the Commission.

§ 1.52 Modified procedure; copies of pleadings. The original and six copies of any statement made pursuant to § 1.51 shall be filed with the Commission. Subsequent pleadings are subject to § 1.54.

§ 1.53 Modified procedure; hearings—(a) Request for cross examination or other hearing. If cross examination of any witness is desired the name of the witness and the subject matter of the desired cross examination shall, together with any other request for oral hearing, including the basis therefor, be stated at the end of defendant's statement or complainant's statement in reply as the case may be.

(b) Hearing issues limited. The order setting the proceeding for oral hearing, if hearing is deemed necessary, will specify the matters upon which the parties are not in agreement and respecting which oral evidence is to be introduced.

§ 1.54 Modified procedure; subsequent procedure. Procedure subsequent to that provided in the modified-procedure rules shall be the same as that in proceedings not handled under modified procedure.

NOTICE OF HEARING; SUBPENAS; DEPOSITIONS

§ 1.55 Notice of hearing—(a) Assignment; service and posting of notice; requests for postponement. In those proceedings in which a hearing is to be held, the Commission will, by order or otherwise, assign a time and place for hearing. Notice of such hearing will be posted in the office of the Secretary of the Commission and will be served upon the parties and such other persons as may be entitled to receive notice under the act. A party should be prepared for hearing at its assigned time. Requests for postponement of dates thereof should be made sparingly, and will not be granted except for good and sufficient cause.

(b) Change of assignment. The Commission may confine the service of notice of a change of time or place assigned for hearing (other than by publication or posting), or of any adjourned, further, or supplemental hearing to those only who have indicated to the Commission a desire to be notified, at their own expense if telegraphic advice becomes necessary, of any such change.

§ 1.56 Subpenas—(a) Request; particularity. Unless directed by the Commission upon its own motion, a subpena to compel a witness to produce documentary evidence will be issued only upon petition, which must specify with particularity the books, papers, or documents desired, and the facts expected to be proved thereby. A request for issuance of a subpena other than to compel the production of documentary evidence may be made either by letter (original only need be filed with the Commission) or orally upon the record at a hearing.

(b) Issuance. A subpena will issue only upon signature by the Secretary or a member of the Commission.

(c) Service. The original subpena shall be exhibited to the person served, shall be read to him if he is unable to read, and a copy thereof shall be delivered to him by the officer or person making service.

(d) Return. If service of subpena is made by a United States marshal or his deputy, such service shall be evidenced by his return thereon. If made by any other person, such person shall make affidavit thereof, stating the date, time, and manner of service; and return such affidavit on, or with, the original subpena in accordance with the form thereon. In case of failure to make service the reasons for the failure shall be stated on the original subpena. The written acceptance of service of a subpena by the person named therein shall be sufficient without other evidence of return. The original subpena, bearing or accompanied by the required return, affidavit, statement, or acceptance of service, shall be returned forthwith to the Secretary of the Commission, or, if so directed on the subpena, to the officer presiding at the hearing at which the person subpenaed is required to appear.

(e) Witness fees. A witness who is summoned and responds thereto is entitled to the same fee as is paid for like service in the courts of the United States, such fee to be paid by the party at whose instance the testimony is taken at the time the subpena is served.

§ 1.57 Depositions; preliminary—(a) When permissible. The Commission will either upon its own initiative, or for good cause shown by a party to a proceeding, issue an order to take a deposition.

(b) Officer before whom taken. Within the United States or within a territory or insular possession subject to the dominion of the United States, depositions shall be taken before an officer authorized to administer oaths by the laws of the United States or of the place where the examination is held. Within a foreign country a deposition may be taken before an officer or person designated by the Commission, or agreed upon by the parties by stipulation in writing to be filed with the Commission.

(c) When taken. Unless under special circumstances and for good cause shown, no deposition shall be taken within 10 days prior to the assigned date of the hearing in such proceeding, and when the deposition is taken in a foreign country it shall not be taken within 30 days prior to such date of hearing.

(d) Fees. A witness whose deposition is taken pursuant to these rules and the officer taking same, unless he be employed by the Commission, shall be entitled to the same fee paid for like service in the courts of the United States, which fee shall be paid by the party at whose instance the deposition is taken.

§ 1.58 Depositions; petitions. A petition requesting an order to take a deposition shall be filed with due regard to the time periods specified in § 1.57 (c) and shall set forth the name and address of the witness, the place where, the time when, the name and office of the officer before whom, and the cause or reason why such deposition should be taken.

§ 1.59 Depositions; order; interrogatories—(a) Order. If the petition requesting an order to take a deposition is granted which action may be taken without awaiting the possible filing of a reply, the Commission will serve upon the parties an order which will name the witness whose deposition is to be taken, and specify the time when, the place where, and the officer before whom the witness is to testify, but such time and place, and the officer before whom the deposition is to be taken, so specified in the Commission's order, may or may not be the same as set out in the petition.

(b) Interrogatories. In lieu of participating in the oral examination, parties served with the order for the taking of a deposition may promptly transmit written interrogatories to the officer, who shall propound them to the witness and record the answers verbatim, but it is not necessary that such interrogatories be served upon the party at whose instance the deposition is taken.

§ 1.60 Depositions; recordation of testimony. The officer before whom the deposition is to be taken shall observe the provisions respecting appearances (§ 1.71 (a)), and typographical specifications (§ 1.15), put the witness on oath, and shall personally, or by some one acting under his direction and in his presence, record the testimony of the witness. The testimony shall be taken stenographically and transcribed unless the parties agree otherwise to record the evidence.

§ 1.61 Depositions; objections. All objections made at the time of the examination to the qualifications of the officer taking the deposition, or to the manner of taking it, or to the evidence presented, or to the conduct of any party, and any other objection to the proceedings, shall be noted by the officer upon the deposition. Evidence objected to shall be taken subject to the objections.

§ 1.62 Depositions; deponent's signature. When the testimony is fully transcribed or otherwise recorded the deposition of each witness shall be submitted to him for examination and shall be read to or by him. Any changes in form or substance which the witness desires to make shall be entered upon the deposition by the officer with a statement of the reasons given by the witness for making them. The deposition shall then be signed by the witness, unless the parties by stipulation waive the signing, or the witness is ill or cannot be found or refuses to sign. If the deposition is not signed by the witness, the officer shall state at the foot thereof the fact of the waiver or of the illness or absence of the witness, or the fact of the refusal to sign, together with the reason, if any, given therefor; and the deposition may then be used as fully as though signed, unless, on a motion to suppress, the Commission finds that the reasons given for the refusal to sign are sufficient to require rejection of the deposition in whole or in part.

§ 1.63 Depositions; officer's attestation. The officer shall certify on the deposition that the witness was duly sworn by him and that the deposition is a true record of the testimony given by the witness, and that the officer is not of counsel or attorney for any of the parties, and that he is not interested in the event of the proceedings.

§ 1.64 Depositions; return to Commission. The officer shall securely seal the deposition in an envelope endorsed with the title of the proceeding, and shall promptly send the original and one copy thereof, together with the original and one copy of all exhibits, by registered mail to the Secretary of the Commission. The deposition must reach the Commission not later than 5 days before the date of the hearing at which it is to be offered as evidence.

§ 1.66 Depositions; copies. Upon payment of reasonable charges therefor, the officer before whom the deposition is taken shall furnish a copy of it to any interested party or to the deponent.

§ 1.67 Depositions; inclusion in record. At the oral hearing, if one is held, the deposition shall be offered in evidence by the party at whose instance it was taken. If not offered by such party, it may be offered in whole or in part by the adverse party. If only part of a deposition is offered in evidence by a party, an adverse party may require him to introduce all of it, which is relevant to the part introduced, and any party may introduce any other parts. Such deposition shall be admissible in evidence subject to such objections as to competency of the witness, or to the competency, relevancy, or materiality of the testimony as were noted at the time of taking of said deposition, or are made at the time it is offered in evidence.

HEARINGS

§ 1.68 Prehearing conferences—(a) Purposes. Upon written notice by the Commission in any proceeding, or upon written or oral instruction of an officer, parties or their attorneys may be directed to appear before an officer at a specified time and place for a conference, prior to or during the course of a hearing, or in lieu of personally appearing to submit suggestions in writing, for the purpose of formulating issues and considering:

(1) The simplification of issues;

(2) The necessity or desirability of amending the pleadings either for the purpose of clarification, amplification, or limitation;

(3) The possibility of making admissions of certain averments of fact or stipulations concerning the use by either or both parties of matters of public record, such as annual reports and the like, to the end of avoiding the unnecessary introduction of proof;

(4) The procedure at the hearing;

(5) The limitation of the number of witnesses;

(6) The propriety of prior mutual exchange between or among the parties of prepared testimony and exhibits; and

(7) Such other matters as may aid in the simplification of the evidence and disposition of the proceeding.

(b) Facts disclosed privileged. Facts disclosed in the course of the prehearing conference are privileged and, except by agreement, shall not be used against participating parties either before the Commission or elsewhere unless fully substantiated by other evidence.

(c) Recordation and order. Action taken at the conference, including a recitation of the amendments allowed to the pleadings, the agreements made by the parties as to any of the matters considered and defining the issues, shall be recorded in an appropriate order, unless the parties enter upon a written stipulation as to such matters, or agree to a statement thereof made on the record by the officer.

(d) Objection to the order; subsequent proceedings. If an order is entered a reasonable time shall be allowed to the parties to present objections on the ground that it does not fully or correctly embody the agreements reached at such conference. Thereafter the terms of the said order or modification thereof, the written stipulation, or statement of the officer, as the case may be, shall determine the subsequent course of the proceedings, unless modified to prevent manifest injustice.

§ 1.69 Stipulations. Apart from the procedure contemplated by the prehearing provisions (§ 1.68), and upon permission granted, the parties may in the discretion of the officer, by stipulation in writing filed with the Commission at any stage of the proceeding, or orally made at the hearing, agree upon any pertinent facts in the proceeding. It is desired that the facts be thus agreed upon so far as and whenever practicable.

§ 1.70 Authority of officers. An officer may grant leave to amend or to file any pleadings, or to intervene, upon request tendered at the hearing, but in no event shall an officer grant such leave if thereby the issues would be so narrowed as to make a referred matter one which should properly be referred to a different officer. An officer shall have no power to decide any motion to dismiss the proceeding or other motion which involves final determination of the merits of the proceeding. The officer shall regulate the procedure in the hearing before him and take all measures necessary or proper for the efficient performance of the duties assigned him.

§ 1.71 Appearances; standard of conduct; absence from hearing—(a) Who may appear. Any individual may appear for himself, and any member of a partnership which is a party to any proceeding may appear for such partnership upon adequate identification. A bona fide officer or a full-time employee of a corporation, association, or of an individual may appear for such corporation, association, or individual by permission of the officer presiding at the hearing. A party also may be represented by a practitioner.

(b) Appearances. An appearance may be either general, that is, without reservation, or it may be special, that is, confined to a particular issue or question. When a practitioner enters an appearance at a hearing he will be expected to represent his client faithfully until the completion of the proceeding in which he has been retained, or until the completion of the part of the proceeding for which he has specially appeared. A practitioner who has entered his appearance at the hearing shall not be permitted to withdraw from the hearing, or wilfully to absent himself therefrom, except for good cause and, wherever practicable, only with the permission of the presiding officer. If a person desires to appear specially, he must expressly so state when he enters his appearance and at that time he shall also state the questions or issues to which he is confining his appearance; otherwise, his appearance will be considered as general.

(c) Standard of conduct. Contemptuous conduct by any person appearing at a hearing shall be ground for his exclusion by the presiding officer from the hearing.

§ 1.72 Intervention; petitions—(a) Content generally. A petition for leave to intervene must set forth the grounds of the proposed intervention, the position and interest of the petitioner in the proceeding, and whether petitioner's position is in support of or opposition to the relief sought. If the proceeding be by formal complaint and affirmative relief is sought by petitioner, the petition should conform to the requirements for a formal complaint.

(b) When filed. A petition for leave to intervene in any proceeding should be filed prior to or at the time the proceeding is called for hearing, but not after except for good cause shown.

(c) Broadening issues; filing. If the petitioner seeks a broadening of the issues and shows that they would not thereby by unduly broadened, and in respect thereof seeks affirmative relief, the petition should be filed in season to permit service upon and answer by the parties in advance of the hearing.

(d) Copies; service; replies. When tendered at the hearing, sufficient copies of a petition for leave to intervene must be provided for distribution as motion papers to the parties represented at the hearing. If leave be granted at the hearing, one additional copy must be furnished for the use of the Commission. When a petition for leave to intervene is not tendered at the hearing, the original and two copies of the petition shall be submitted to the Commission together with a certificate that service in accordance with § 1.22 has been made by petitioner. Any reply in opposition to a petition for leave to intervene not tendered at the hearing must be filed within 20 days after service. In the discretion of the Commission leave to intervene may be granted or denied before the expiration of the time allowed for replies.

(e) Disposition. Leave will not be granted except on averments reasonably pertinent to the issues already presented and which do not unduly broaden them. If leave is granted the petitioner thereby becomes an intervener and a party to the proceeding.

§ 1.73 Participation without intervention. In an investigation proceeding, in a proceeding for the issuance of a certificate of convenience and necessity for the abandonment of a line of railroad or its operation, in an application proceeding involving a motor carrier filed under section 5 of the act, in application proceedings under parts II, III, and IV, and in a proceeding of any one of the characters herein enumerated when heard on a consolidated record with a complaint proceeding, but in no other proceeding, an appearance may be entered at the hearing without filing a petition in intervention or other pleading, if no affirmative relief is sought, if there is full disclosure of the identity of the person or persons in whose behalf the appearance is to be entered, if the interest of such person in the proceeding and the position intended to be taken are stated fairly, and if the contentions will be reasonably pertinent to the issues already presented and any right to broaden them unduly is disclaimed. A person in whose behalf an appearance is entered in this manner becomes a party to the proceeding.

§ 1.74 Witness examination; order of procedure. Witnesses will be orally examined under oath before the officer unless their testimony is taken by deposition or the facts are presented to the Commission in the manner provided under modified or shortened procedure. In formal-complaint, application, and investigation proceedings complainant, applicant, and respondent, respectively, shall open and close at the hearing. Interveners shall follow the party in whose behalf the intervention is made. The foregoing order of presentation may be varied by the officer, who also shall designate the order of presentation in any other type of proceeding, of any other party to any proceeding, or of parties to several proceedings being heard upon a consolidated record.

§ 1.75 Evidence; admissibility generally. Any evidence which would be admissible under the general statutes of the United States, or under the rules of evidence governing proceedings in matters not involving trial by jury in the courts of the United States, shall be admissible in hearings before the Commission. The rules of evidence shall be applied in any proceeding to the end that needful and proper evidence shall be conveniently, inexpensively, and speedily produced, while preserving the substantial rights of the parties.

§ 1.76 Evidence; cumulative restriction. It shall be the duty of the officer before whom any proceeding is being heard to limit the number of witnesses whose testimony may be merely cumulative. And in order to enforce this section, the officer may require a clear statement on the record of the nature of the testimony to be given by any witness proffered.

§ 1.77 Evidence; prepared statements. With the approval of the officer, a witness may read into the record, as his testimony, statements of fact or expressions of his opinion prepared by him, or written answers to interrogatories of counsel, or a prepared statement of a witness who is present at the hearing may be received as an exhibit, provided that the statement shall not include argument; that before any such statement is read, or admitted in evidence the witness shall deliver to the officer, the reporter, and to opposing counsel as may be directed by the officer, a copy of such statement or of such interrogatories and his written answers thereto; and that the admissibility of the evidence contained in such statement shall be subject to the same rules as if such testimony were produced in the usual manner, including the right of cross-examination of the witness. Such approval ordinarily will be denied when in the opinion of the officer the memory or demeanor of the witness may be of importance.

§ 1.78 Evidence; official records. An official record or an entry therein, when admissible for any purpose, may be evidenced by an official publication thereof or by a copy attested by the officer having the legal custody of the record, or by his deputy, and accompanied with a certificate that such officer has the custody. If the office in which the record is kept is within the United States or within a territory or insular possession subject to the dominion of the United States, the certificate may be made by a judge of a court of record of the district or political subdivision in which the record is kept, authenticated by the seal of the court, or may be made by any public officer having a seal of office and having official duties in the district or political subdivision in which the record is kept, authenticated by the seal of his office. If the office in which the record is kept is in a foreign state or country, the certificate may be made by a secretary of embassy or legation, consul general, consul, vice consul, or consular agent or by any officer in the foreign service of the United States stationed in the foreign state or country in which the record is kept, and authenticated by the seal of his office. A written statement signed by an officer having the custody of an official record or by his deputy that after diligent search no record or entry of a specified tenor is found to exist in the records of his office, accompanied by a certificate as above provided, is admissible as evidence that the records of his office contain no such record or entry. This section does not prevent the proof of official records or of entry or lack of entry therein or official notice thereof by a method authorized by any applicable statute or by the rules of evidence.

§ 1.79 Evidence; entries in regular course of business. Any writing or record, whether in the form of an entry in a book or otherwise, made as a memorandum or record of any act, transaction, occurrence, or event, will be admissible as evidence thereof if it shall appear that it was made in the regular course of business, and that it was the regular course of business to make such memorandum or record at the time such record was made, or within a reasonable time thereafter.

§ 1.80 Evidence; documents containing matter not material. When material and relevant matter offered in evidence is in a document containing other matter not material or relevant, the offering party shall produce the document at the hearing, shall plainly designate the matter so offered, and shall accord to the officer and to participating counsel an opportunity to inspect it. Unless it is desired to read such matter into the record, and the officer so directs, true copies in proper form of the material and relevant matter taken from the document may be received as an exhibit, but other parties shall be afforded an opportunity to introduce in evidence, in like manner, other portions of such document if found to be material and relevant. The document itself will not be received.

§ 1.81 Evidence; documents in Commission's files—(a) In general. If any matter contained in a report or other document, not a tariff or schedule, open to public inspection in the files of the Commission is offered in evidence such report or other document need not be produced, but in other respects the provisions of § 1.80 will apply.

(b) Tariffs and schedules; official notice in investigation proceedings. If any matter contained in a tariff or schedule on file with the Commission is offered in evidence, such tariff or schedule need not be produced or marked for identification, but the matter so offered shall be specified with particularity in such manner as to be readily identified and may be received in evidence subject to check by reference to the original tariff or schedule. Official notice will be taken without offer or production of that portion of any tariff or schedule which is the subject matter of an order of investigation and suspension.

§ 1.82 Evidence; records in other Commission proceedings. If any portion of the record before the Commission in any proceeding other than the one on hearing is offered in evidence a true copy of such portion shall be presented for the record in the form of an exhibit unless:

(a) The party offering the same agrees to supply such copy later at his own expense, if and when required by the Commission; and

(b) The portion is specified with particularity in such manner as to be readily identified; and

(c) The parties represented at the hearing stipulate upon the record that such portion may be incorporated by reference, and that any other portion offered by any other party may be incorporated by like reference subject to paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section; and

(d) The officer directs such incorporation. Any such portion so offered, whether in the form of an exhibit or by reference, shall be subject to objection.

§ 1.83 Evidence; abstracts of documents. When documents, such as freight bills or bills of lading, are numerous, the officer may refuse to receive in evidence other than a limited number of such documents said to be typical. Instead he may instruct, if the proffer be for the purpose of proving damage, that introduction be deferred until there is opportunity to comply with § 1.100. If the proffer be for other purpose the officer may require the party in orderly fashion to abstract the relevant data from the documents, affording other parties reasonable opportunity to examine both the documents and the abstract, and thereupon offer such abstract in evidence in exhibit form.

§ 1.84 Evidence; exhibits—(a) Generally. Exhibits of a documentary character may have a maximum width of 22 inches by 12½ inches in height. Whenever practicable the sheets of each exhibit and the lines of each sheet should be numbered. If the exhibit consists of five or more sheets the first sheet or title-page should be confined to a brief statement of what the exhibit purports to show, with reference by sheet and line to illustrative or typical examples contained therein. The exhibit should bear an identifying number, letter, or short title which will readily distinguish it from other exhibits offered by the same party. It is desirable that, whenever practicable, rate comparisons and other evidence should be condensed into tables. Whenever practicable, especially in proceedings in which it is likely that many documents will be offered, all the documents produced by a single witness should be assembled and bound together, suitably arranged and indexed, so that they may be identified and offered as one exhibit. Exhibits should not be argumentative and should be limited to statements of fact, and be relevant and material to the issue, which can better be shown in that form than by oral testimony.

(b) Reference to tariff authority, routes, and distances. All exhibits showing rates, fares, charges, or other tariff or schedule provisions must, by appropriate Interstate Commerce Commission number reference, indicate the tariff or schedule authority therefor, and if distances are shown must also show the authority therefor and, by lines, highways, or waterways, and junction points, the routes over which the distances are computed; except that the routes over which the distances are computed need not be shown when such distances are specifically published in a tariff or schedule lawfully on file with the Commission, or definitely ascertainable from a tariff or schedule on file with the Commission showing rates prescribed by the Commission and based on short-line distances, or short-highway distances, provided the exhibit makes specific reference to such tariff or schedules as provided by this section.

(c) Copies. Unless the officer shall otherwise direct, the original and one copy of each exhibit of a documentary character shall be furnished for the use of the Commission—original to be delivered to the reporter, and the copy to the officer. If the hearing be before a board, a copy of the exhibit shall be furnished to each member of the board, unless the board otherwise directs. Unless the officer for cause directs otherwise, a reasonable number of copies shall be furnished to counsel in attendance at the hearing. Unless the officer shall otherwise direct, in proceedings under the Uniform Bankruptcy Act, the original and three copies of every exhibit of a documentary character shall be furnished for use of the Commission—original to be delivered to the reporter, and the three copies to the officer.

(d) Interchange prior to hearing. Whenever practicable, the parties should interchange copies of exhibits or other pertinent material or matter before or at the commencement of the hearing; and the Commission or presiding officer may so direct.

(e) When excluded how treated. In case an exhibit has been identified, objected to, and excluded, the officer will develop whether the party offering the exhibit withdraws the offer, and if so, permit the return of the exhibit to him. If the excluded exhibit is not withdrawn it should be given an exhibit number for identification and be incorporated in the record. Exhibit numbers once used for identification will not be duplicated thereafter.

§ 1.85 Record in referred matter unaffected by a second reference. If for any reason an order referring a matter to a particular officer is vacated and the matter referred to a different officer, any testimony already taken in such proceeding shall be part of the record along with any testimony which thereafter may be taken.

§ 1.86 Evidence; filing of subsequent to hearing; copies. Except as provided below or as expressly may be permitted in a particular instance, the Commission will not receive in evidence or consider as part of the record any documents, letters, or other writings submitted for consideration in connection with any proceeding after close of the hearing, and may return any such documents to the sender. Before the close of a hearing the officer may, at the request of a party or upon his own motion, or upon agreement of the parties, require that a party furnish additional documentary evidence supplementary to the existing record, within a stated period of time. Documentary evidence thus to be furnished will not be assigned an exhibit number at the hearing, but the document will be given an exhibit number at the time of filing and the parties accordingly advised. Unless otherwise directed by the officer, the original and one copy of such submission shall be filed with the Commission.

§ 1.87 Evidence; objections to. Formal exception to a ruling of an officer at a hearing is unnecessary. It is sufficient that a party, at the time the ruling is made or sought, make known to the officer on the record the action which he desires the officer to take or his objection to the action of the officer and his grounds therefor. An objection not pressed in brief will be considered as waived. Where no brief is filed an objection will be considered as waived if not pressed in exceptions or reply to exceptions, if filed, or in a separate petition dealing only with that objection.

§ 1.88 Oral argument before officer. If oral argument before the officer is desired, he should be so notified at or before the hearing and may arrange to hear the argument at the close of the testimony within such limits of time as he may determine, having regard to other assignments for hearing before him. Such argument will be transcribed and bound with the transcript of testimony, and will be available to the Commission for consideration in deciding the case. The making of such argument shall not preclude oral argument before the Commission and request therefor may be made as provided in § 1.98.

§ 1.89 Continuance for further hearing. A continuance may be granted by the presiding officer if it is impossible to conclude a hearing within the time available, or for any reason a continuance is necessary or advisable, but a joint board shall not set a date and place for a continued hearing without first consulting the Commission. If consultation with the Commission is impracticable, the hearing shall be adjourned by the joint board to such time and place as the Commission subsequently shall determine.

§ 1.90 Transcript of record—(a) Filing. After the close of the hearing the complete transcript of testimony taken and the exhibits shall be filed with the Commission.

(b) Corrections. A suggested correction in a transcript ordinarily will be considered only if offered not later than 20 days after the date each transcript is filed with the Commission. A copy of the letter (original only need be filed with the Commission) requesting the suggested corrections shall be served upon all parties of record and with 2 copies to the official reporter.

(c) No free copies. No free copies of transcript will be furnished to any party to any proceeding.

BRIEFS; REPORTS; ORAL ARGUMENT

§ 1.91 Briefs; content and arrangement—(a) Due date. The due date of each brief must appear on its front cover or title page.

(b) Table of contents; citations. A brief of more than 20 pages shall contain on its front flyleaves a table of contents and points made with page references, the table of contents to be supplemented by a list of citations, alphabetically arranged, with references to the pages where they appear.

(c) Sketch or chart. In proceedings wherein misrouting or undue prejudice or preference are alleged, the complainant should include as part of the brief a small sketch or chart adequately reflecting the situation.

(d) Evidence abstract. A brief filed after a hearing should contain an abstract of the evidence relied upon by the party filing it, preferably assembled by subjects, with reference to the pages of the record or exhibit where the evidence appears. The abstract should follow the statement of the case and precede the argument. In the event the party elects not to include a separate abstract in his brief, he should give specific reference to the portions of the record, whether transcript or otherwise, relied upon in support of the respective statements of fact made throughout the brief.

(e) Requested findings. Each brief should include such requests for specific findings, separately stated and numbered, as the party desires the Commission to make.

(f) Exhibit reproduction. Exhibits should not be reproduced in the brief, but may, if desired, be shown, within reasonable limits, in an appendix to the brief. Analyses of such exhibits should be included in the abstract of evidence under the subjects to which they pertain.

§ 1.92 Briefs; when officer's report is served. In a proceeding which has been the subject of hearing, and in which an officer's report is to be prepared and served, which fact will be stated by the officer on the record, only one brief shall be filed by each party. The officer shall fix for all parties the same time within which to file briefs. Reply briefs are not permitted at this stage.

§ 1.93 Briefs; when officer's report is not served. If no officer's report is to be prepared and served, which fact will be stated by the officer, in a proceeding which has been the subject of hearing the officer may, subject to variation for cause shown, fix times for filing and serving the respective briefs as follows: for the opening brief, 30 days from the close of hearing; for the brief of any opposing party, 15 days after the date fixed for the opening brief; for reply brief, 10 days after the date fixed for the brief of the opposing party; or he may fix the same time for filing and serving of briefs of all parties. Where the same time is fixed, within 15 days after expiration of the time so fixed reply briefs may be filed, and such briefs must be confined strictly to reply and contain no new matter: Provided, however, That no reply brief may be filed in an investigation-and-suspension proceeding.

§ 1.94 Briefs of interveners. Briefs of interveners shall be filed and served within the time fixed for the brief of the party in whose behalf the intervention is made or as may be otherwise directed by the officer.

§ 1.95 Officer's report; when and how served. After expiration of the time set for filing briefs, if the proceeding be one in which a hearing has been held, the officer's report will be prepared and served by mailing a copy to each party. An officer's report prepared in a proceeding in which a hearing has not been held will be served by mailing a copy to each party of record and to any other persons not parties to the proceeding who are believed to have an interest in the proceeding.

§ 1.96 Exceptions to officer's report—(a) Generally. Exceptions to the officer's report with respect to statements of fact or matters of law must be specific and must be stated and numbered separately. If exception is taken to conclusions in the report, the points relied upon to support the exception must be stated and numbered separately. When exception is taken to a statement of fact contained in the report, reference also must be made to the page or part of the record relied upon to support the exception and a corrected statement must be incorporated.

(b) When filed. Within 30 days after service of the officer's report, any party may file and serve exceptions thereto and reasons in support thereof. Replies may be served and filed as provided in § 1.23. In any case the Commission may, in its discretion, upon notice to the parties reduce or extend the time for filing exceptions or replies.

(c) Exceptions and request for hearing by person not party. If the proceeding is one in which no oral hearing has been held, any person not a party to the proceeding, but having an interest therein, may file and serve upon applicant, or complainant, as the case may be, exceptions to the officer's report and reasons in support thereof. A request for hearing may be included therein but the exceptions need not include a request for hearing if none is deemed necessary.

§ 1.97 Effect of exceptions or absence thereof—(a) Upon report and recommended order. The filing of exceptions to a recommended order operates to stay the effectiveness of the order and thereafter decision by the Commission will be made in due course. If no exception is filed to the recommended order and the Commission does not stay it, the recommended order becomes the order of the Commission upon expiration of the period for filing exceptions provided in § 1.96 (b), or of any postponement of such period, or postponement of the effective date of such order, and a notice stating that the recommended order has, giving the date, become the order of the Commission will be mailed to the parties by the Commission.

(b) Upon proposed report. A proposed report will not become the decision of the Commission through failure to file objections, but in the absence of exceptions or of ascertained error the officer's statement of the issues and of the facts ordinarily will be taken by the Commission as the basis of its decision.

§ 1.98 Oral argument before Commission—(a) Request; how made. If no officer's report is to be served, request for oral argument before the Commission must be made at hearing or by letter (original only need be filed with the Commission) within 10 days after the hearing. If an officer's report is to be served, the request for oral argument must be included as part of the exceptions brief or reply thereto.

(b) Request for time allotment. If the petition is granted a notice will be served by the Commission upon the parties setting the date for the oral argument. At least 10 days before that date any party desiring to participate in the oral argument must make request by letter (original only need be filed with the Commission) for an allotment of time. Only those making request in this manner will be permitted to participate.

ORDER COMPLIANCE; DAMAGE STATEMENTS

§ 1.99 Compliance with Commission's orders. When in consequence of proceedings under the act, the Commission has by its order directed a defendant or a respondent to do or desist from doing a particular thing, such defendant or respondent must notify the Commission on or before the date upon which such order becomes effective whether or not compliance has been made therewith. If a change in rates or schedules is required the notification must be given in addition to the filing of proper tariffs or schedules, and must specify the Interstate Commerce Commission numbers of the tariffs or schedules so filed.

§ 1.100 Statements of claimed damages based on Commission findings. When the Commission finds that damages are due, but that the amount cannot be ascertained upon the record before it, the complainant should immediately prepare a statement showing details of the shipments on which damages are claimed, in accordance with the form No 5. (See Appendix B.) The statement should not include any shipment not covered by the Commission's findings, or any shipment on which complaint was not field with the Commission within the statutory period. The filing of a statement will not stop the running of the statute of limitations as to shipments not covered by complaint or supplemental complaint. If the shipments moved over more than one route a separate statement should be prepared for each route, and separately numbered, except that shipments as to which the collecting carrier is in each instance the same may be listed in a single statement if grouped according to routes. The statement, together with the paid freight bills on the shipments, or true copies thereof, should then be forwarded to the carrier which collected the charges for verification and certification as to its accuracy. If the statement is not forwarded immediately to the collecting carrier for certification, a letter request from defendants that forwarding be expedited will be considered to the end that steps be taken to have the statement forwarded immediately. All discrepancies, duplications, or other errors in the statements should be adjusted by the parties and correct agreed statements submitted to the Commission. The certificate must be signed in ink by a general accounting officer of the carrier and should cover all of the information shown in the statement. If the carrier which collected the charges is not a defendant in the case its certificate must be concurred in by like signature on behalf of a carrier defendant. Statements so prepared and certified shall be filed with the Commission whereupon it will consider entry of an order awarding damages.

REHEARING; REARGUMENT; OR RECONSIDERATION

§ 1.101 Petitions for rehearing, reargument, or reconsideration—(a) In general. A petition seeking any change in a decision, order, or requirement of the Commission should specify whether the prayer is for reconsideration, reargument, rehearing, further hearing, modification of effective date, vacation, suspension, or otherwise.

(b) Rehearing or further hearing. When in a petition filed under this section opportunity is sought to introduce evidence, the evidence to be adduced must be stated briefly, such evidence must not appear to be cumulative, and explanation must be given why such evidence was not previously adduced.

(c) Modification of effective date. A petition under this section seeking only modification of the effective date of a decision, order, or requirement, or in the period of notice, or other period or date prescribed therein, must be filed seasonably, except that, in case of unforeseen emergency satisfactorily shown by petitioner, such relief may be sought informally by telegram or otherwise, provided like notice is simultaneously communicated to all parties of record.

(d) Reconsideration. If relief under this section other than under paragraphs (b) and (c) is sought, the matters claimed to have been erroneously decided and the alleged errors or relief sought must be specified with the particularity respecting exceptions as outlined in § 1.96 (a), as should also any substitute finding or other substitute requirement desired by petitioner.

(e) Time for filing. Except for good cause shown, and upon leave granted, petitions under this rule must be filed within 30 days after the date of service of a decision or order.

(f) Successive petitions on same grounds, not entertained. A successive petition under this section submitted by the same party or parties, and upon substantially the same grounds as a former petition, which has been considered and denied by the entire Commission will not be entertained.

(g) Petitions for reconsideration of appellate division decisions on review of board decisions. When an appellate division has denied a petition seeking a reversal, change, or modification of an original determination by a board of employees, any further petition for reconsideration by the same party or parties upon substantially the same grounds will not be entertained. If in the consideration of such a petition, however, by the appellate division, the previous determination of the board of employees has been reversed, changed, or modified, a further petition may be filed by any party to the proceeding adversely affected by the decision of the appellate division, within the time specified in paragraph (e) of this section, and the petition will be considered and disposed of by the same appellate division which passed upon the initial petition.

§ 1.102 Petitions not otherwise covered. When the subject matter of any desired relief is not specifically covered by the rules in this part, a petition seeking such relief and stating the reasons therefor may be served and filed.

SPECIAL RULES OF PRACTICE

§ 1.200 Special rules of practice governing the procedure of the Board of Suspension and Fourth Section Board. (a) The proceedings of the Board of Suspension and the Fourth Section Board shall be informal. No transcription of such proceedings will be made. Subpoenas will not be issued and, except when applications or petitions are required to be attested, oaths will not be administered.

(b) Petitions for reconsideration of the action of the Board of Suspension when tariffs or schedules have been suspended, and petitions for reconsideration of any action taken by the Fourth Section Board, may be filed by any interested party with the Commission for the attention of the designated appellate division within 30 days following receipt of notice of such action. The original and six copies of every pleading, document, or paper permitted or required to be filed under this section shall be furnished for the use of the Commission. In all other respects, such petitions and the answers thereto will be governed by the Commission's general rules of practice.

(c) When the Board of Suspension has declined to suspend a proposed tariff or schedule, or any part thereof, a petition in writing by any protestant or protestants may be filed with the Commission for reconsideration by the designated appellate division provided it reaches the Commission at least two work-days prior to the effective date of the tariff or schedule in question. For the purposes of this section, a work-day shall be considered any day except Saturday, Sunday, or a legal holiday in the District of Columbia. (A legal holiday of less than one day shall be considered a work-day within the meaning of this section.) Petitions submitted under this section shall be filed with the Secretary of the Commission by 4:00 p. m., United States Standard Time (or by 4:00 p. m., Local Daylight Saving Time if that time is observed in the District of Columbia). Telegraphic notice or the equivalent thereof must be given by the petitioners to the respondent or respondents. As no replies to the petitions for reconsideration are contemplated under this rule, petitioners will be expected, except in unusual circumstances, to rely wholly on the information previously filed with the Board of Suspension. Written or telegraphic communication in intelligible form requesting reconsideration will be sufficient. Such request shall contain the following prefatory statement: "This matter requires expedited handling under the Commission's Special Rules of Practice." A petition not timely filed shall be rejected by the Secretary.

§ 1.225 Special rules of practice governing the procedure of the Motor Carrier Board, as amended April 18, 1955. (a) The proceedings of the Motor Carrier Board shall be informal. No transcription of such proceedings will be made. Subpoenas will not be issued and, except when applications or petitions are required to be attested, oaths will not be administered.

(b) Petitions for reconsideration of the action of the Motor Carrier Board may be filed by any interested party with the Commission for the attention of the designated appellate division within 30 days following service of notice of such action. In all other respects, except as otherwise provided by paragraph (c) of this section, such petitions and the answers thereto will be governed by the Commission's general rules of practice.

(c) The original and four copies of every pleading, document, or paper permitted or required to be filed under this section, shall be furnished for the use of the Commission.

§ 1.240 Special rules governing notice of filing of applications by motor carriers of property or passengers under sections 5 (2) and 210a (b) of the Interstate Commerce Act and certain other procedural matters with respect thereto—(a) Scope of special rules. These special rules govern the filing and handling of (1) applications under section 5 (2) of the Interstate Commerce Act respecting control, lease, and unification of operating rights and properties of motor carriers of property or passengers, and (2) applications for temporary authority respecting the transportation of property or passengers under section 210a (b) of the act. Except as otherwise herein provided, the general rules of practice shall apply. Amendments to applications which broaden the scope of proposed operations are deemed to be "applications" for the purpose of this part. Such amendments will not be allowed if tendered after an application has been assigned for oral hearing.

(b) Notice to interested persons. Notice of the filing of such applications to interested persons shall be given by the publication of a summary of the authority sought in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Such summaries will be prepared by the Commission. No other notice by applicants to interested persons is required, except that applicants are not relieved from the obligations to file copies of applications with Governors, State Boards, and District Directors of the Commission's Bureau of Motor Carriers as required by the instructions which are a part of the prescribed form of application.

(c) Protests and requests for hearing. (1) Protests to the granting of an application shall be filed with the Commission within 30 days after the date notice of the filing of the application is published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(2) Failure seasonably to file a protest will be construed as a waiver of opposition and participation in the proceeding unless an oral hearing is held.

(3) In addition to other requirements of § 1.40 of the general rules of practice, protests shall include a request for a public hearing, if one is desired, and shall specify with particularity the facts, matters, and things relied upon, but shall not include issues or allegations phrased generally. Protests containing general allegations may be rejected.

(4) Any request for an oral hearing shall be supported by an explanation as to why the evidence to be presented cannot reasonably be submitted in the form of affidavits. The Commission will determine whether or not assignment of the application for hearing is necessary or desirable.

(5) Any interested person, not a protestant, desiring to receive notice of the time and place of any hearing, prehearing conference, taking of depositions, or other proceedings shall notify the Commission by letter or telegram within 30 days from the date of publication of the notice of the filing of the application.

(6) Except when circumstances require immediate action, an application for approval under section 210a (b) of the act of the temporary operation of motor carrier properties sought to be acquired in an application under section 5 (2) will not be disposed of sooner than 10 days from the date of publication of the notice of the filing of the application. If a protest is received prior to action being taken, it will be considered.

§ 1.241 Special rules governing notice of filing of applications by motor carriers of property or passengers and by brokers under sections 206, 209, and 211 of the Interstate Commerce Act and certain other procedural matters with respect thereto—(a) Scope of special rules. These special rules govern the filing and handling of applications for certificates, permits, and licenses respecting the transportation of property or passengers under sections 206, 209, and 211 of the Interstate Commerce Act. Except as otherwise herein provided, the general rules of practice shall apply. Amendments to applications which broaden the scope of proposed operations will not be allowed if tendered after notice of the filing of an application has been published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(b) Notice to interested persons. (1) Notice to interested persons of the filing of such applications shall be given by publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER of a summary, prepared by the Commission, of the authority sought.

(2) If an oral hearing or a prehearing conference is to be held, the date, hour, and place of the hearing or prehearing conference, together with the name of the examiner or number of the joint board before whom the matter is assigned, shall be made a part of the notice. Notice of a change in the time or place of hearing will be given as provided in paragraph (e) of this section, and may or may not be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(3) If the Commission, acting upon request of an applicant for handling without oral hearing or upon its own motion, determines that an oral hearing is not necessary, that fact shall be made a part of the notice. Such a proceeding is hereinafter referred to as a "no oral hearing proceeding."

No other notice by applicants to interested persons of the filing of the applications is required, except that applicants are not relieved from the obligation to file copies of applications with Governors, State Boards, and District Directors of the Commission's Bureau of Motor Carriers, as required by the instructions which are a part of the prescribed form of application.

(c) Protests to applications assigned for hearing. (1) Any person opposed to an application assigned for oral hearing need not file a formal protest, but may become a party protestant at the oral hearing provided he has notified the applicant and the Commission of his intention to protest the application. Such notification shall be made by letter or telegram dispatched so as to reach applicant's representative (or applicant, if no practitioner representing him is named in the notice of filing) at least 10 days prior to the date of hearing. Two dated copies of such notification simultaneously shall be mailed to the Commission.

(2) No person who fails to notify the applicant of his intention to protest will be permitted to intervene in a proceeding except upon a showing of substantial reasons in a petition submitted in accordance with Rule 72 of the general rules of practice.

(3) Any person opposed to an application assigned for prehearing conference may become a party protestant at the prehearing conference.

(4) Rule 73 of the general rules of practice relating to participation without intervention is inapplicable to proceedings subject to this paragraph.

(d) Handling of applications without oral hearing. (1) An applicant who believes his application is susceptible of handling without oral hearing may request such handling when the application is filed. If such a request is made, the applicant shall submit with his application verified statements of the facts to which his witnesses would testify at an oral hearing if one were held. Applicant shall furnish copies of his verified statements to interested persons upon request from such interested persons.

(2) Protests to the granting of an application in a no oral hearing proceeding shall be filed with the Commission within 30 days after the date notice of the filing of the application is published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(3) Failure seasonably to file a protest in a no oral hearing proceeding will be construed as a waiver of opposition and participation in the proceeding except as hereinafter provided in paragraph (d) (6) of this section.

(4) A protest in a no oral hearing proceeding shall include a request for an oral hearing, if one is desired, and shall specify with particularity the facts, matters, and things relied upon, but shall not include issues or allegations phrased generally. Protests containing general allegations may be rejected.

(5) The Commission will determine whether an assignment for oral hearing should be made.

(6) If it is determined that an oral hearing should be assigned, notice thereof (except as otherwise provided in paragraph (d) (8) of this section respecting hearings limited to cross-examination) will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Subsequent participation in such proceeding will be governed by the provisions of paragraph (c) of this section.

(7) If the Commission determines that assignment of an application for oral hearing is unnecessary, thereafter the procedure shall be in accordance with Rules 45 (b), 46 (b), 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, and 54 of the general rules of practice.

(e) Notice of changes in time or place of hearing. Those who file notice of opposition to an application and any person who requests notice of changes in the time or place of hearing will be informed of such changes if notice is given by mail. If telegraphic notice becomes necessary, notice of such changes will be given by telegram only to those who request telegraphic notice at their expense.

APPENDIX A—CODE OF ETHICS FOR PRACTITIONERS BEFORE THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION

PREAMBLE

No rules of conduct can be framed which will particularize all the duties of the practitioner in the varying phases of litigation or in his relations to clients, adversaries, other practitioners, the Commission and the public. The following canons of ethics are adopted as a general guide for those admitted to practice before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

It will be remembered that the practitioners before the Commission include (a) lawyers, who have been regularly admitted to practice law, and (b) others having traffic or other technical experience qualifying them to aid the Commission in administration of the Interstate Commerce Act and related acts of Congress. The former are bound by a broad code of ethics and unwritten rules of professional conduct which apply to every activity of a lawyer; for the latter, no code of ethics has been written heretofore. The following canons do not release the lawyer from any of the duties or principles of professional conduct by which lawyers are bound. They apply alike to all practitioners before the Commission and the setting forth therein of particular duties or principles of conduct should not be construed as a denial of the existence of others equally imperative although not specifically mentioned. The word "Commission" as used herein includes Divisions of the Commission, and the representatives of the Commission, whether members, examiners, or other employees connected with the matter in hand.

CANONS OF ETHICS

1. Standards of ethical conduct in courts of United States to be observed. These canons are in furtherance of the purpose of the Commission's rules of practice which enjoin upon all persons appearing in proceedings before it to conform, as nearly as may be, to the standards of ethical conduct required of practitioners before the courts of the United States; and such standards are taken as the basis for these specifications, modified in so far as the nature of the practice before the Commission requires.

2. The duty of the practitioner to and his attitude towards the Commission. It is the duty of the practitioner to maintain towards the Commission a respectful attitude, not for the sake of the temporary incumbent of the office, but for the maintenance of the importance of the functions he administers. In many respects the Commission functions as a Court, and practitioners should regard themselves as officers of that Court and strive to uphold its honor and dignity. The Commission, not being wholly free to defend itself is peculiarly entitled to receive the support of the practitioner against unjust criticism and clamor. Whenever there is proper ground for serious complaint of a member or employee of the Commission it is the right and duty of the practitioner to submit his grievances to the proper authorities. In such cases, but not otherwise, such charges should be encouraged and the person making them should be protected.

3. Punctuality and expedition. It is the duty of the practitioner not only to his client, but also to the Commission and to the public, to be punctual in attendance, and to be concise and direct in the trial and disposition of causes.

4. Attempts to exert political influence on the Commission. It is unethical for a practitioner to attempt to sway the judgment of the Commission by propaganda, or by enlisting the influence or intercession of members of the Congress or other public officers, or by threats of political or personal reprisal.

5. Attempts to exert personal influence on the Commission. Marked attention and unusual hospitality on the part of a practitioner to a Commissioner, examiner, or other representative of the Commission, uncalled for and unwarranted by the personal relations of the parties, subject both to misconstruction of motive and should be avoided. A self-respecting independence in the discharge of duty, without denial or diminution of the courtesy and respect due the official station is the only proper foundation for cordial personal and official relations between Commission and practitioners.

6. The selection of Commissioners. The nomination of Commissioners is a duty of the President, and confirmation, of the Senate. It is the duty of the practitioners in so far as they attempt to advise the appointing or confirming officers, to endeavor to prevent any consideration from outweighing fitness in the selection.

7. The practitioner's duty in its last analysis. No client, corporate or individual, however powerful, no cause, civil or political however important, is entitled to receive, and no practitioner should render, any service or advice involving disloyalty to the law or disrespect of its official ministers, or corruption of any person or persons exercising a public office or employment or private trust, or deception or betrayal of the public. In rendering any such improper service or advice the practitioner invites and merits stern and just condemnation. Correspondingly, he advances the honor of his calling and the best interests of his client when he renders service or gives advice tending to impress upon the client and his undertaking exact compliance with the strictest principles of moral law. He must also observe and advise his client to observe the statute law, although until a statute shall have been construed and interpreted by competent adjudication, he is free and is entitled to advise as to its validity and as to what he conscientiously believes to be its just meaning and extent. But above all he will find his highest honor in a deserved reputation for fidelity to private trust and to public duty, as an honest man and as a patriotic and loyal citizen.

8. Private communications with the Commission. In the disposition of contested proceedings brought under the Interstate Commerce Act the Commission exercises quasi-legislative powers, but it is nevertheless acting in a quasi-judicial capacity. It is required to administer the Act and to consider at all times the public interest beyond the mere interest of the particular litigants before it. To the extent that it acts in a quasi-judicial capacity, it is grossly improper for litigants, directly or through any counsel or representative, to communicate privately with a commissioner, examiner or other representative of the Commission about a pending cause, or to argue privately the merits thereof in the absence of their adversaries or without notice to them. Practitioners at all times should scrupulously refrain in their communications to and discussions with the Commission and its staff from going beyond ex parte representations that are clearly proper in view of the administrative work of the Commission.

9. Adverse influences and conflicting interests. It is the duty of a practitioner at the time of retainer to disclose to the client all the circumstances of his relations to the parties, and any interest in or connection with the controversy, which might influence the client in the selection of the person to represent or assist him.

It is unethical to represent conflicting interests, except by express consent of all concerned given after a full disclosure of the facts. Within the meaning of this canon a practitioner represents conflicting interests when, in behalf of one client, it is his duty to contend for that which duty to another client requires him to oppose.

The obligation to represent the client with undivided fidelity and not to divulge his secrets or confidences forbids also the subsequent acceptance of retainers or employment from others in matters adversely affecting any interest of the client with respect to which confidence has been reposed.

10. Joint association of practitioners and conflicts of opinion. A client's proffer of the assistance of additional practitioner should not be regarded as evidence of want of confidence, but the matter should be left to the determination of the client. A practitioner should decline association as colleague if it is objectionable to the practitioner first retained, but if the client should relieve the practitioner first retained, another may come into the case.

When practitioners jointly associated in a cause cannot agree as to any matter vital to the interest of the client, the conflict of opinion should be frankly stated to him for his final determination. His decision should be accepted by them unless the nature of the difference makes it impracticable for the practitioner whose judgment has been overruled to cooperate effectively. In this event it is his duty to ask the client to relieve him.

Efforts, direct or indirect, in any way to encroach upon the business of another practitioner are unworthy of those who should be brethern, but, nevertheless, it is the right of any practitioner, without fear or favor, to give proper advice to those seeking relief against an unfaithful or neglectful practitioner, generally after communication with the practitioner of whom the complaint is made.

11. Withdrawal from employment. The right of a practitioner to withdraw from employment, once assumed, arises only from good cause. Even the desire or consent of the client is not always sufficient. The practitioner representing him should not throw up the unfinished task to the detriment of his client except for reasons of honor or self-respect. If the client insists upon an unjust or immoral course in the conduct of his case, or if he persists over the practitioner's remonstrance in presenting frivolous defenses, or if he deliberately disregards an agreement or obligation as to fees or expenses, the practitioner may be warranted in withdrawing on due notice to the client, allowing him time to employ another. So also when a practitioner discovers that his client has no case and the client is determined to continue it; or even if he finds himself incapable of conducting the case effectively. Sundry other instances may arise in which withdrawal is to be justified. Upon withdrawing from a case after a retainer has been paid, he should refund such part of the retainer as has not been clearly earned.

12. Advising upon the merits of a client's cause. A practitioner should endeavor to obtain full knowledge of his client's cause before advising thereon, and he is bound to give a candid opinion of the merits and probable result of pending or contemplated litigation. He should beware of bold and confident assurances to clients, especially where employment may depend upon such assurance. Whenever the controversy will admit of fair adjustment, the client should be advised to avoid or to end the litigation.

13. Negotiations with opposing party. A practitioner should not in any way communicate upon the subject of controversy with a party represented by another practitioner except upon express agreement with the practitioner representing such party; much less should he undertake to negotiate or compromise the matter with him, but should deal only with the practitioner who represents the other party. It is incumbent upon the practitioner most particularly to avoid everything that may tend to mislead a party not represented by a practitioner, and he should not undertake to advise him as to the law.

14. Fixing the amount of the fee. In fixing fees, practitioners should avoid charges which overestimate their advice and services, as well as those which undervalue them. A client's ability to pay cannot justify a charge in excess of the value of the service, although his poverty may require a less charge, or even none at all.

15. Compensation, commission and rebates. A practitioner should accept no compensation, commissions, rebates, or other advantages from parties to the proceeding other than his client without the knowledge and consent of his client after full disclosure.

16. Contingent fees. Contingent fees should be such only as are sanctioned by law. In no case, except a charity case, should they be entirely contingent upon success.

17. Division of fees. No division of fees for services is proper, except with a member of the bar or with another practitioner, based upon a division of service or responsibility. It is unethical for a practitioner to retain laymen to solicit his employment in pending or prospective cases, and reward them by a division of fees, and such a practice cannot be too severely condemned.

18. Suing clients for fees. Controversies with clients concerning compensation are to be avoided in so far as compatible with self-respect and with the right to receive reasonable recompense for services; and lawsuits against clients should be resorted to only to prevent injustice, imposition or fraud.

19. Acquiring interest in litigation. The practitioner shall not purchase or otherwise acquire any pecuniary interest in the subject matter of the litigation which he is conducting.

20. Expenses. A practitioner may not properly agree with a client that the practitioner shall pay or bear the expenses of litigation. He may in good faith advance expenses as a matter of convenience but subject to reimbursement by the client.

21. Witnesses. A practitioner shall not undertake that the compensation of a witness shall be contingent upon the success of the cause in which he is called. If the ascertainment of truth requires that a practitioner should seek information from one connected with or reputed to be biased in favor of an adverse party, he is not thereby deterred from seeking to ascertain the truth from such person in the interest of his client.

22. Dealing with trust property. Money of the client or other trust property coming into the possession of the practitioner should be reported promptly, and, except with the client's knowledge and consent, should not be commingled with the practitioner's private property or be used by him.

23. How far a practitioner may go in supporting a client's cause. Nothing will operate more certainly to create or foster popular prejudice against practitioners as a class, and deprive them of that full measure of public esteem and confidence which belongs to the proper discharge of their duties than does the false claim, often set up by the unscrupulous in defense of questionable transactions, that it is the duty of the practitioner to do whatever may enable him to succeed in winning his client's cause.

The practitioner owes "entire devotion to the interest of the client, warm zeal in the maintenance and defense of his rights, and the exertion of his utmost learning and ability," to the end that nothing be taken or be withheld from him, save by the rules of law, legally applied. No fear of the disfavor of the Commission or public unpopularity should restrain him from full discharge of his duty. The client is entitled to the benefit of any and every remedy and defense that is authorized by the law of the land, and he may expect his counsel to assert every such remedy or defense. But it is to be steadfastly borne in mind that this great trust is to be performed within and not without the bounds of the law. Admission to the privilege of appearing before the Commission as representing another does not permit, much less does it demand of him for any client, violation of law or any manner of fraud or chicane. He must obey his own conscience and not that of his client.

24. Restraining clients from improprieties. A practitioner should use his best efforts to restrain and to prevent his clients from doing those things which he himself ought not to do, particularly with reference to their conduct towards the Commission, other practitioners, witnesses and suitors. If a client persists in such wrong-doing the practitioner should terminate their relations.

25. Ill-feeling and personalities between advocates. Clients, not their representatives, are the litigants. Whatever may be the ill-feeling existing between clients, it should not be allowed to influence practitioners in their conduct and demeanor toward each other or toward suitors in the case. All personalities between practitioners should be scrupulously avoided. In the trial of a cause it is indecent to allude to the personal history or the personal peculiarities and idiosyncracies of practitioners on the other side. Personal colloquies between practitioners which cause delay and promote unseemly wrangling should also be carefully avoided. Their statements should be addressed to the Commission.

26. Treatment of witnesses and litigants. A practitioner should always treat adverse witnesses and suitors with fairness and due consideration, and he should never minister to the malevolence or prejudice of a client in the trial or conduct of a cause. The client cannot be made the keeper of the practitioner's conscience in such matters. He has no right to demand that the practitioner representing him shall abuse the opposing party or indulge in offensive personalities. Improper speech is not excusable on the ground that it is what the client would say if speaking in his own behalf.

27. (None.)

28. Discussion of pending litigation in public press. Attempts to influence the action and attitude of the members and examiners of the Commission through propaganda, or through colored or distorted articles, in the public press, are more apt to react against than in favor of the parties resorting to such measures. On the other hand, it is not against the public interest or unfair to the Commission that the facts of pending litigation shall be made known to the public through the press in a fair and unbiased manner and in dispassionate terms. Practitioners should themselves avoid, and should counsel their clients against, giving to the public press any press notices or statements of a nature intended to inflame the public mind, to stir up possible hostility toward the Commission, or to influence the Commission's course and judgment as to pending or anticipated litigation. When the circumstances of a particular case appear to justify a statement to the public through the press, it is unethical to make it anonymously.

29. Candor and fairness. The conduct of practitioners before the Commission and with other practitioners should be characterized by candor and fairness. The non-technical character and liberality of the Commission's practice call for scrupulous observance of the principles of fair dealing and just consideration for the rights of others.

It is not candid or fair for a practitioner knowingly to misstate or misquote the contents of a paper, the testimony of a witness, the language or the argument of an opposing practitioner, or the language or effect of a decision or a text book; or, with knowledge of its invalidity to cite as authority a decision which has been overruled or otherwise impaired as a precedent or a statute which has been repealed; or in argument to assert as a fact that which has not been proved, or to mislead his opponent by concealing or withholding positions in his opening argument upon which his side then intends to rely.

It is dishonorable to deal other than candidly with the facts in taking the statements of witnesses, in drawing affidavits and other documents, and in the presentation of causes.

A practitioner should not offer evidence, which he knows the Commission should reject, in order to get the same before the Commission by argument for its admissibility, or arguments upon any point not properly calling for determination. He should not introduce into an argument remarks or statements intended to influence the by-standers.

These and all kindred practices are unethical and unworthy of a practitioner.

30. Right of practitioner to control the incidents of the trial. As to incidental matters pending the trial, not affecting the merits of the cause or working substantial prejudice to the rights of the client, such as forcing the opposing practitioner to trial when he is under affliction or bereavement, forcing the trial on a particular day to the injury of the opposing practitioner when no harm will result from trial at a different time, agreeing to extensions of time and the like, the practitioner and not the client, must be allowed to judge. In such matters no client has a right to demand that his practitioner shall be illiberal or do anything therein repugnant to the practitioner's sense of honor and propriety.

31. Taking technical advantage of opposing practitioner; agreements with him. A practitioner should not ignore known customs or practice of the Commission, even when the law permits, without giving timely notice to the opposing practitioner. In so far as possible, important agreements affecting the rights of clients should be reduced to writing; but it is dishonorable to avoid performance of an agreement fairly made because it is not reduced to writing.

32. Advertising, direct or indirect. The most worthy and effective advertisement possible is the establishment of a well-merited reputation for capacity and fidelity to trust. This cannot be forced, but must be the outcome of character and conduct. The publication or circulation of ordinary simple business cards, being a matter of personal taste or local custom, and sometimes of convenience, is not improper. But solicitation of employment by circulars or advertisements, or by personal communications or interviews, not warranted by personal relations, is unethical. It is equally unethical to procure business by indirection through touters of any kind. Indirect advertisement for employment by furnishing or inspiring newspaper comments concerning causes in which the practitioner has been or is engaged, or concerning the manner of their conduct, the magnitude of the interests involved, the importance of the practitioner's positions, and all other like self-laudation, lower the tone of the calling and are intolerable.

33. Professional card. The simple professional card mentioned in Canon 32 may with propriety contain only a statement of the practitioner's name (and those of his associates), occupation, address, telephone number, and special branch or branches of practice. Such cards may be inserted in reputable lists and may give authorized references, or name clients with their permission.

34. Stirring up litigation, directly or through agents. It is unethical for a practitioner to volunteer advice that a proceeding be brought before the Commission, except in rare cases where ties of blood, relationship or trust make it his duty to do so. Stirring up strife and litigation is not only unethical but it is indictable at common law. It is disreputable for a practitioner to hunt up defects or other causes of action and disclose them in order to be employed to bring complaint, or to breed litigation by seeking out those having claims for damages or any other grounds of action in order to secure them as clients, or to employ agents or runners for like purposes, or to pay or reward, directly or indirectly, those who bring or influence the bringing of such cases to his office to seek his services. No complaint should be brought before the Commission by a practitioner except with the distinct knowledge and specific consent of the client in the particular case. A duty to the public and to the Association devolves upon every member having knowledge of such practices upon the part of any practitioner, immediately to inform thereof to the end that the offender may be disciplined or disbarred.

35. Justifiable and unjustifiable litigation. The practitioner must decline to conduct a cause or to make a defense when convinced that it is intended merely to harass or to injure the opposing party, or to work oppression or wrong. But otherwise it is his right, and having accepted retainer, it becomes his duty, to insist upon the judgment of the Commission as to the merits of his client's claim. His appearance should be deemed equivalent to an assertion upon his honor that in his opinion his client's case is one proper for determination.

36. Responsibility for litigation. No practitioner is obliged to act either as adviser or advocate for every person who may seek to become his client. He has the right to decline employment. Every practitioner upon his own responsibility must decide what employment he will accept, what causes he will bring before the Commisison for complainants, or contest for defendants or respondents. The responsibility for advising as to questionable transactions, for bringing questionable proceedings, for urging questionable defenses is his alone. He cannot escape it by urging as excuses that he is only following his client's instructions, or that he is under a stated retainer or in the regular employment of his client.

37. Discovery of imposition and deception. When a practitioner discovers that some fraud or deception has been practiced, which has unjustly imposed upon the Commission or a party, he should endeavor to rectify it; first by advising his client to forego any advantage thus unjustly gained and, if his client refuses, by promptly informing the injured person or his counsel (practitioner), so that appropriate steps may be taken.

38. Upholding the honor of the calling. Practitioners should expose without fear or favor before the proper tribunals corrupt or dishonest conduct and should accept without hesitation employment against a practitioner who has wronged his client. The practitioner upon the trial of a cause in which perjury has been committed owes it to the Commission and to the public to bring the matter to the knowledge of the prosecuting authorities. The practitioner should aid in guarding the bar of the Commission against admission thereto of candidates unfit or unqualified because deficient in either moral character or education. A practitioner should propose no person for admission to practice before the Commission unless from personal knowledge or upon reasonable inquiry he sincerely believes and is able to vouch that such person possesses the qualifications prescribed in the Commission's rules of practice. He should strive at all times to uphold the honor and maintain the dignity of his calling and to improve not only the law but the administration of justice.

39. Intermediaries. The services of a practitioner should not be controlled or exploited by any lay agency, personal or corporate, which intervenes between client and practitioner. His responsibility and qualifications are individual. He should avoid all relations which direct the performance of his duties in the interest of such intermediaries. His relation to the client should be personal, and the responsibility should be direct to the client.

He may accept employment from any organization such as an association, club or trade organization, authorized by law to be a party to proceedings before the Commission, to render services in such proceedings in any matter in which the organization, as an entity, is interested. This employment should only include the rendering of such services to the members of the organization in respect to their individual affairs as are consistent with the free and untrammeled performance of his duties to the Commission.

Nothing in this canon shall be construed as conflicting with canon 17.

40. Retirement from public employment. A practitioner, having once held public office or having been in the public employ, should not after his retirement, accept employment as an advocate or adviser in the same proceeding or as to the same, or substantially the same, facts as were involved in any specific question which he investigated or passed upon in a judicial or quasi-judicial capacity while in such office or employ, whether the same or different parties are concerned.

41. Confidences of a client. The duty to preserve his client's confidences in the course of his employment outlasts the practitioner's employment, and extends as well to his employees. None of them should accept employment which involves the disclosure or use of these confidences, either for the private advantage of the practitioner or his employees or to the disadvantage of the client, without knowledge and consent of the client even though there are other available sources of such information. A practitioner should not continue employment when he discovers that this obligation prevents the performance of his full duty to his former or to his new client.

If a practitioner is falsely accused by his client, he is not precluded from disclosing the truth in respect to the false accusation. The announced intention of a client to commit a crime is not included within the confidences which a practitioner is bound to respect. He may properly make such disclosures as to prevent the act or protect those against whom it is threatened.

42. Partnerships-names. Partnerships among practitioners for the practice of their calling are very common and are not to be condemned. The rules of the Commission provide that corporations or firms will not be recognized. Practitioners before the Commission should therefore appear individually and not as members of partnerships. In the formation of partnerships care should be taken not to violate any law locally applicable; care should also be taken to avoid any misleading name or representation which would create a false impression as to the position or privileges of a member not locally admitted, or who is not duly authorized to practice, and as such amenable to discipline. No person should be held out as a practitioner or member who is not so admitted. No practitioner who is not admitted to practice in the courts should be held out in a way which will give the impression that he is so admitted. No false or assumed or trade name should be used to disguise the practitioner or his partnership. The continued use of the name of a deceased or former partner is or may be permissible by local custom, but care should be taken that no imposition or deception is practiced through this use. If a member of the firm becomes a Commissioner, or an Examiner or other employee of the Commission his name should not be retained in the firm name, as such retention may give color to the impression that an improper relation or influence is continued or possessed by the firm.

This canon does not inhibit the association of a practitioner with a mercantile, manufacturing, or other commercial institution, in the capacity of its representative or adviser.

43. Titles. No member of the Association not admitted to the bar shall use the title "Attorney" or "Counsel" but should use the title "Traffic Manager," "Practitioner before the Interstate Commerce Commission," "Registered Practitioner," or other appropriate title or designation.

SOURCE: AR 360-5, June 21, 1956.

§ 504.1 Definitions. (a) The term "public information" pertains to information concerning the Army which is released to the public. Such information is disseminated to provide the people of the United States with a factual report of Army activities, missions, and objectives, so as to create public understanding of the Army.

(b) A public information release is defined as any material, spoken, pictorial, or written, released to the general public to accomplish public information objectives of the Department of the Army.

§ 504.2 Authority and responsibilities. (a) The American public has the right of access to all unclassified information concerning the objectives and activities of the Army, the release of which is not prohibited by appropriate service regulations. The provision of such information is in the national interest and is an important function of command. The policy of the Department of the Army is that the discharge of this responsibility will be accomplished in a positive and anticipatory manner.

(b) Coordination and clearance of public information activities and material with appropriate agencies within the Army Establishment is the responsibility of all persons, commands, and agencies engaged in public information activities or proposing the public release of material subject to review. Where the material to be released consists of information from Department of the Army records, coordination will be effected with those agencies charged with responsibility for taking final action on behalf of the Secretary of the Army upon requests for information from, access to, or copies of such records. Material falling within the following broad categories is subject to additional clearance or coordination with the Department of Defense by the Chief of Information and Education, Department of the Army:

(1) Information concerning interservice activities and missions.

(2) Information concerning the foreign or military policy of the United States Government.

(3) Information concerning atomic energy; chemical, biological, or radiological warfare; guided missiles; or new developments in general.

(4) Discussions of the military policy of another service, or information pertaining to any activity under joint responsibility, or under the separate responsibility of another service.

(5) Information having overriding national defense policy implications.

§ 504.3 Public information operations in the field; objective. (a) The United States Army has an obligation to report on its activities to the American people. In order that they may be continuously informed of the activities and accomplishments of the Army, it is essential that, consistent with military security, the American people be given factual information relating to the:

(1) Missions and objectives of the Army and their support of national aims.

(2) Progress and accomplishments of the Army in the United States and oversea areas.

(3) Utilization of funds appropriated by Congress.

(4) Continuous effort of the Army to provide weapons, weapons systems, training, equipment, methods, and techniques having a margin of superiority which will assure success in battle.

(5) Necessity for maintaining an Army of sufficient strength to meet the requirements of national security, including oversea commitments.

(6) Relationship of the Army to the American people.

(7) Present and future requirements of the Army in men, money, and materials.

(8) Role of the Army in relation to the other services in protecting the nation.

(9) Identification of leaders and accomplishments of individuals and units.

(10) Activities in the public interest, to include resulting public benefits.

(11) Opportunities for advancement, individual development, and financial security afforded by the Army.

(12) The role of the reserve components in national defense and their need for continuous public support, particularly at the community level.

(b) In accomplishing these objectives, sound principles of community relations, press relations, and public relations will be observed. Commanders will take cognizance of the fact that publicity is only one element of any public relations program and will insure that members of their commands fully realize that each member of the Army shares in responsibility for individual maintenance of public confidence and support. Emphasis will be placed on the fact that such things as good human relations, good performance, and an individual code of honorable conduct form the foundation of favorable public opinion.

§ 504.4 Visits requested by media representatives. Cooperation with news media representatives requesting permission to visit an installation under Army jurisdiction for the purpose of obtaining information for public release may be given by and at the discretion of the installation commander. Such action may be taken without reference to the Chief of Information and Education, Department of the Army, provided that:

(a) Requests for such permission originate with a responsible editor or executive of the news media concerned.

(b) Requests initiated by a reporter or other representative of comparable status are investigated to the extent necessary to insure that the applicant is a representative of a recognized news agency, or is a bona fide free lance journalist.

§ 504.5 Travel of news media representatives to and from oversea areas at Government expense. (a) The general policies of the Department of the Army concerning nonreimbursable transportation of correspondents between the continental United States and oversea areas, including Alaska, via military aircraft or military surface craft are:

(1) News media representatives will not be furnished military transportation between the United States and oversea areas.

(2) The Army will not be placed in a position of competing with United States commercial transportation.

(3) Air transportation will not be provided for news media representatives on any given route if civil air carriers adequate to handle such traffic are in operation on that route.

(b) It is recognized that in unusual circumstances exception may be made to the general policies stated above where the travel is primarily of official concern to the Department of the Army, for compelling reasons such as:

(1) The Department of the Army desires to invite a group of correspondents on a trip to report on a matter of special interest to the Army.

(2) The military travel itself is a vital part of the story or stories to be covered as in air evacuation, maneuvers, or the movement of troops. In such cases the transportation furnished will be limited to the extent and duration of the assignment requiring military travel. All requests for such transportation will be carefully evaluated as to the importance of the coverage and the audience to be reached by the media.

(3) The story or stories to be covered are of an emergency nature and the coverage will be impaired or delayed, to the serious detriment of the national defense establishment, if military transportation is not provided.

(4) The proposed coverage is of unusual importance to the Department of the Army and will bring extraordinary benefits to the Army. The determination will be made, in cases where the coverage is of primary concern to the Army, by the Chief of Information and Education, Department of the Army, with the concurrence of the Deputy, Public Affairs, Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (L&PA).

(5) The proposed coverage is in an area not served by commercial transportation from and to the United States.

(c) Except in emergency cases where time or policy does not permit accreditation, no correspondent will be given military transportation until he is accredited to the Department of Defense. No Army agency will commit Government transportation to any requesting news agency or correspondent until the request has been approved by the Chief of Information and Education, Department of the Army.

(d) Correspondents furnished military transportation will be informed that they will be expected to pay for meals, hotel accommodations, or any other personal expenses incidental to the travel.

§ 504.6 Authorization to witness tests or photograph classified material. (a) Unless otherwise authorized by the Department of the Army, invitations to witness tests of new or modified arms or equipment of a classified nature, will be limited to those persons (in the military service and civilian technicians) intimately concerned with the research and development, production, adoption, or use of the article in question.

(b) Photographs or other information concerning new or newly modified arms or equipment will not be released without specific authorization by the Department of the Army.

§ 504.7 Army theme in commercial advertising. (a) The Army theme may be used in commercial advertisements provided the advertisement does not disclose classified military information, bring discredit on the military service, or express or imply Army approval of or preference for the products advertised over like products of another company. Army personnel on active duty may not indorse such products in such a way to involve the Army uniform, or their title or grade, or express or imply other official Army connotation.

(b) In cooperating with an advertiser, the Department of the Army does not assume responsibility for the accuracy of the advertiser's claims or for his compliance with laws protecting the rights of privacy of military personnel whose photographs, names, or statements appear in the advertisement.

§ 504.8 Army cooperation in commercial motion picture, radio, and television productions—(a) Motion pictures. (1) Commercial motion picture film scrips are certified for Army cooperation after approval by the Department of the Army and the Department of Defense. When a film script has been approved, agencies of the Department of the Army will cooperate with the company concerned. Cooperation will be at no cost to the Government; arrangements will be made for the reimbursement of any cost incurred. This cooperation may include furnishing technical advisors, access to locations, equipment, weapons, and troops. In the interest of economy, the use of military personnel and facilities will be included as a part of, or in conjunction with, normal training activities to the maximum practicable degree. As a pre-requisite to this cooperation, the Department of the Army is able to require that the film scrip and production reflect the Army's traditions, ideals, and devotion to the public service.

(2) Army cooperation in motion pictures produced by a foreign firm in an oversea command normally will be authorized in the manner outlined in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph. Oversea Army commanders may, however, authorize Army cooperation in such motion pictures when production schedules make proper and accurate portrayal of the Army dependent upon immediate cooperation.

(3) Commanders learning of motion picture projects concerning Army subjects that are being produced without the knowledge of the Department of the Army will report such information to the Department of the Army, ATTN: Chief of Information and Education.

(b) Radio and television. (1) Radio and television scripts and productions are certified for Army cooperation in the same manner as are motion pictures when proposed for, or subject to, release on a national scale, or when the subject matter thereof concerns information reserved to the review authority of the Department of the Army or the Department of Defense.

(2) A major commander may authorize Army cooperation in a radio or television production which is regional to his command in public interest and coverage. An installation commander has similar authority in the case of productions that are limited in public interest to his own local area.

(c) Legitimate stage productions. (1) Limited Army cooperation may be extended to legitimate stage productions, not classed as "little theater," in the same manner as indicated in certifying cooperation for motion pictures and television.

(2) Since legitimate stage productions for "little theater" normally are restricted to local audiences, commanders of installations in the vicinity of such activities may authorize cooperation in such productions in accordance with authority contained in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section. Such cooperation normally will consist of technical advice and informational assistance. However, if necessary to assure accuracy of presentation, commanders may provide necessary items of equipment, etc.

§ 504.9 Visits of media representatives to military installations and facilities of Department of Defense contractors. Subject to the provisions of §§ 505.17 to 505.20 of this subchapter and Subchapter E of Chapter I of this title, visits of media representatives, including those representing national media and representatives of advertisers, to military installations and the facilities of contractors engaged in work for the Army, may be authorized by the commanding officers and the Department of Defense contractors concerned.

§ 504.10 Release of information on nonbattle losses (accidents) occurring within the Continental United States. The Department of the Army policy is to reduce the minimum overall delay between the time of an accident and the release of information to the press.

(a) In cases of accidents within the confines of installations of the Armed Forces, public release of names and addresses of killed or injured military personnel may be withheld until such times as the next of kin can reasonably be expected to have received the official notification of the accident. In order to allay the anxiety of relatives of other personnel of the installation, however, every effort will be made to release such names and addresses at the same time that the news of the accident itself is released, or as soon thereafter as possible. In cases where the identification of victims of an accident involving more than one person introduces a delay in notifying some of the nearest of kin concerned, the names and addresses of individuals killed or injured will be released separately as notification is accomplished.

(b) In case of accidents outside the confines of installations of the Armed Forces:

(1) If military personnel figure in accidents involving civilian or military automobiles, trains, commercial or private aircraft, or in any other types of accidents with the exception of subparagraph (3) of this paragraph, the names and addresses of the military personnel should be released immediately upon positive identification.

(2) If the accidents involve military aircraft which crash in or upon the borders of cities or towns, or which cause civilian deaths or injuries or appreciable damage to property, the names and addresses of the military personnel should be released immediately upon positive identification.

(3) If the accidents involve military aircraft which crash in localities remote from populated areas involve no civilian deaths or injuries and cause no appreciable property damage, names and addresses of military personnel may be withheld until such time as the next of kin can reasonably be expected to have received notification of the accident.

(4) For the purpose of this section, an aircraft chartered by the Department of the Army for the exclusive use of the military, or by individual members of the Army for their exclusive use, will be considered to be military aircraft and the releasing of information relative to casualties will be governed accordingly.

(c) When circumstances permit, one-story coverage of accidents is desirable. Normally, information released will be substantially as follows:

(1) Statement that the accident has occurred.

(2) Location of the accident and the time.

(3) Names and addresses of the deceased or injured persons.

(4) In answer to questions on the cause of the accident, the customary reply will be that a board of officers will investigate and determine the exact cause. Unclassified information based upon approved finding of such boards may be made available to media.

(d) In all accidents, prompt action will be taken to safeguard items of Government property or projects which are classified.

This responsibility should be discharged with due consideration for reporters and photographers in the performance of their duties. Harmony and cooperation between public information officers and members of the press usually will promote fair and unsensational reporting of accident stories.

(e) Information regarding line of duty or misconduct status of individuals will not be released to the public except with the express approval of the Secretary of the Army or The Adjutant General.

§ 504.11 Release of information on casualties and nonbattle losses in oversea areas. The policy of the Department of the Army is to release information to news media on casualties (except missing in action, paragraph (a) (3) (iii) of this section) and nonbattle losses as soon as possible after the emergency addressees have been officially notified. Information will be released as follows:

(a) Casualties. (1) Immediately, if notification has been made by the oversea commander to the emergency addressee, or next of kin, residing within the oversea command.

(2) In all other cases, not less than 72 hours after dispatch of notification telegram by The Adjutant General.

(3) Casualties will be identified according to type, except missing in action, in news releases and the term "casualty" itself will be avoided in order to correct a popular tendency to construe "casualties" to mean "killed." News releases will identify casualties as:

(i) Total deaths.

(a.) Killed in action.

(b) Died of wounds received in action.

(ii) Wounded in action (with a subparagraph indicating percentage of wounded returned to duty based on medical records).

(iii) Missing in action—Notification will be made to next of kin only and should disclose no information other than the fact that the man is missing.

(4) In all cases pertaining to casualties, notification of the emergency addressee takes precedence over the release of such information to the public.

(5) The Adjutant General will furnish information concerning casualties to the Chief of Information and Education for dissemination to news media.

(b) Nonbattle losses. (1) Immediately, if notification has been made by the oversea commander to the emergency addressee, or next of kin, residing within the oversea command.

(2) In all other cases (except subparagraph (3) of this paragraph) not less than 48 hours after dispatch of report to The Adjutant General by the oversea commander, unless definite information is available that notification to the emergency addressee or next of kin has been accomplished.

(3) In those cases where local civil authorities have released the names of deceased personnel, theater commanders of military assistance advisory groups, military missions, or other Army organizations not under theater commands, may authorize release or confirmation. Such action will be taken only when necessary to preserve good press relations, and must be simultaneously reported to the Chief of Information and Education, Department of the Army.

§ 504.12 Release of aerial photographs. (a) Even though unclassified, official aerial photographs of military installations and other possible target areas will not be publicly released except as authorized by appropriate Department of the Army or Department of Defense authority. Requests for exceptions to this policy will be referred to the Chief of Information and Education, Department of the Army. In addition to this restriction on the release of such official aerial photographs, commanders will, when called upon for such advice by media, recommend against the taking or publishing by news media of aerial photographs of military installations and other possible target areas, stressing that compliance with this recommendation is voluntary but desirable in the interests of national security.

(b) The photographing of vital (classified) military installations without the permission of the commander of the installation concerned is punishable by law. The reproduction, publication, or sale of an aerial photograph of such installations is also an offense punishable by law unless such a photograph indicates it has been reviewed and cleared for release by the authority competent to accomplish the security review thereof (see Title 18, United States Code, Sections 795, 796, and 797, as implemented by Executive Order No. 10104, February 1, 1950, 15 F. R. 597). Where recourse to legal authority becomes necessary in connection with such requests, guidance should be obtained from the staff judge advocate or other legal officer of the command or installation concerned.

§ 504.13 Release of information concerning activation, reactivation, or inactivation of military installations. As security restrictions permit, accurate and timely information concerning activation, reactivation, or inactivation of military installations will be released at Department of the Army level. Release to Members of Congress will be made by the Chief of Legislative Liaison in advance of release to the public. After the Congress has been notified, the releases will be made through normal public information channels through the Office of Public Information, Department of Defense.

§ 504.14 Use by Department of the Army of personal letters or communications. Generally the writer of a personal letter or communication expects that the contents will be treated in a personal and confidential manner, or at least not released to the public. Therefore, in every case where it is proposed to release a letter or communication to the public, the consent of the writer thereof will be obtained in writing in advance of the release. In the event the writer is deceased, the written consent of the personal representative or the nearest of kin, as appropriate, will be obtained. In those cases where compliance with this policy is impracticable, request for exception will be submitted to the Department of the Army for determination.

§ 504.15 Release of information regarding travel by very important persons (VIPs).—(a) Definition. A very important person (VIP) is defined as an individual (civilian official, ranking member of an armed service, foreign government head, etc.) whose position is of such importance that his travels are of especial interest to public information media representatives.

(b) General. Normally there is no reason to classify the movement of VIPs. Unnecessary classification of the movement of VIPs, traveling in military aircraft, vessels, or other conveyances, or arriving at military bases results in conflicts with media representatives with consequent embarrassment to the Department of Defense and the military departments.

(c) Policy. (1) The movement of VIPs will not be classified, except where required in the interest of national security, or where it is deemed that adverse foreign reaction will result if information regarding the movement is released. Classification is authorized only when directed by the Secretary of the Army or the Secretaries of other military departments concerned, the Secretary of State or the Secretary of Defense, or higher authority.

(2) Itineraries of VIPs will be released in advance to commanders of installations and activities concerned, and normal media relations will be observed.

(3) Where the movement is not classified but the VIP does not desire media coverage, every effort will be made to comply with his wishes.

§ 504.16 Photography at courts-martial. (a) Department of the Army policy prohibits the photographing of prisoners, except for official purposes. Disregard of this policy could subject the Army to criticism on grounds of defamation, embarrassment, mental anguish, and similar charges.

(b) In cases of national public interest in matters of a nonclassified nature, certain photography in connection with court-martial is permitted.

(c) On receipt of requests from news media for permission to take photographs during the period of a trial by court-martial, commanders will be guided by the following:

(1) Photography of the interior of the courtroom may be permitted when personnel involved in the proceedings are not physically present therein.

(2) During the period of the trial, photography of the accused may be permitted at such times as he is out-of-doors in public view. At their option, members of the court or the accused, may be photographed in the room or rooms assigned to the press. Any photography of the accused will be accomplished only under appropriate circumstances, never in a courtroom, cell, cellblock, prison yard, or like area. A military prisoner will not be photographed when other prisoners are present nor be forced to pose for photographs, except for official purposes. Any photography permitted will not impede or interfere with the progress of the trial.

[SEAL] JOHN A. KLEIN,
Major General, U. S. Army,
The Adjutant General.

PART 99—STOCK PILING OF STRATEGIC AND CRITICAL MATERIALS

FLUORSPAR REGULATION: ACID GRADE FLUORSPAR PURCHASE PROGRAM

Sec.
99.401 Basis and purpose.
99.402 Definitions.
99.403 Purchases.
99.404 Specifications and price.

AUTHORITY: §§ 99.401 to 99.404 issued under sec. 4, 70 Stat. 580; Pub. Law 733, 84th Cong. Interpret or apply sec. 2, 70 Stat. 579; Pub. Law 733, 84th Cong.

§ 99.401 Basis and purpose. The purpose of this program for the purchase of acid grade fluorspar is to provide temporary assistance to fluorspar producers for an interim period to enable them to adjust production, largely related to defense programs, to normal competitive market conditions. This regulation interprets and implements the authority of the Administrator of General Services to purchase acid grade fluorspar pursuant to the Domestic Tungsten, Asbestos, Fluorspar, and Columbium-Tantalum Production and Purchase Act of 1956 (Public Law 733, 84th Congress), hereinafter referred to as the "act", and the delegation of authority thereunder to the Administrator of General Services by the Secretary of the Interior (21 F. R. 5872). The act authorizes the purchase, during the period ending on December 31, 1958, of not to exceed 250,000 short tons of newly mined acid grade fluorspar produced from ores mined in the United States, its Territories and possessions.

§ 99.402 Definitions. As used in §§ 99.401 to 99.404:

(a) "Fluorspar" means acid grade fluorspar.

(b) "Newly mined acid grade fluorspar" means acid grade fluorspar produced from ores mined subsequent to July 19, 1956.

§ 99.403 Purchases. Any person or firm desiring to participate in the program for the purchase of acid grade fluorspar pursuant to the act should make a request in writing to the Commissioner, Defense Materials Service, General Services Administration, Washington 25, D. C. The purchase of fluorspar will be made under contracts negotiated with individual persons or firms by the Defense Materials Service, General Services Administration. Limited funds presently available for the purchase of fluorspar pursuant to the act will require that such contracts be made initially only for such quantities as can be purchased with such funds. As additional funds become available, further contracts will be negotiated.

§ 99.404 Specifications and price. The following requirements of the act are applicable in the negotiation of contracts to be executed under this program:

(a) Fluorspar to be purchased shall meet chemical and physical requirements which are not less favorable to producers (sellers) than those set forth in the National Stockpile Material Specifications P-69a, dated February 13, 1952, copies of which may be obtained by writing to the Commissioner, Defense Materials Service, General Services Administration, Washington 25, D. C.

(b) The base price of fluorspar to be purchased shall be $53 per short dry ton f. o. b. carrier's conveyance at producer's (seller's) milling point for base quality fluorspar containing 97 percent calcium fluoride and 1 percent silica on a dry weight basis. The base price shall be adjusted by premiums or penalties which are not less favorable to producers than the following:

(1) The price shall be increased 1.1 percent for each 1 percent calcium fluoride above 97 percent, fractions pro rata, and, or

(2) The price shall be increased 4.2 percent for each 1 percent silica below 1 percent, fractions pro rata, and or

(3) The price shall be decreased 1.1 percent for each 1 percent calcium fluoride below 97 percent, fractions pro rata, and/or

(4) The price shall be decreased 4.2 percent for each 1 percent silica above 1 percent, fractions pro rata.

(c) For the purpose of determining the number of short dry tons (or fractions) upon which payment will be based, the dry weight, in pounds, shall be increased by one (1) per centum and the result divided by 2,000. Dry weight shall be determined by deducting from the delivery weight (out-turn U. S. Railroad Scale Weights) all moisture, as established by the certificates of analysis of the General Services Administration's sample.

Dated: September 21, 1956.

FRANKLIN G. FLOETE,
Administrator of General Services.

CLARENCE A. DAVIS,
Acting Secretary of the Interior.

TITLE 47—TELECOMMUNICATION

Chapter I—Federal Communications Commission

[Docket No. 11784; FCC 56-889]

[Rules Amdt. 3-26]

PART 3—RADIO BROADCAST SERVICES

TABLE OF ASSIGNMENTS; TELEVISION BROADCAST STATIONS (BISHOP, CALIFORNIA)

1. The Commission has under consideration its notice of proposed rule making issued in this proceeding on July 16, 1956 (FCC 56-682) and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on July 20, 1956 (20 F. R. 5451) proposing to assign Channel 19 or 23 to Bishop, California in response to a petition for rule making filed by the Inyo Broadcasting Company.

2. No comments were filed opposing the proposed amendment. In support of the proposal petitioner stated that there are no television assignments in the community of Bishop; that such an assignment would make possible television service to this community of about 3000 persons; and that either Channel 19 or 23 can be assigned in full conformance with the rules. The Commission is of the view that making a first television channel available to Bishop would serve the public interest.

3. Authority for the adoption of the proposed amendment is contained in sections 4 (i), 301, 303 (c), (d), (f) and (r) and 307 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

4. In view of the foregoing: It is ordered, That effective October 25, 1956, the Table of Assignments contained in § 3.606 of the Commission's rules and regulations is amended by adding the following:

Bishop, California	19

(Sec. 4, 48 Stat. 1066, as amended; 47 U. S. C. 154. Interprets or applies secs. 301, 303, 307, 48 Stat. 1081, 1082, 1083; 47 U. S. C. 301, 303, 307)

[Rules Amdt. 11-1]

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

1. By notice of proposed rule making of June 29, 1955 (FCC 55-737), the Commission proposed to amend its rules governing operation in the Power Radio Service to provide therein for the eligibility of communications common carriers having requirements for radio in connection with the performance of construction and maintenance activities. An order and further notice of proposed rule making in the above-entitled matter was adopted on September 7, 1955 (FCC 55-933). The date for filing comments was subsequently extended to December 8, 1955.

2. Of a total of fifty-nine comments received in this proceeding, the great majority are in opposition to the Commission's proposal. One (that of the Administrator, Rural Electrification Administration) favors it only if additional frequencies are allocated to the Power Radio Service. The United States Independent Telephone Association (USITA) generally favors the proposal; it states, however, that it has need for three two-frequency channels on a primary basis. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company (AT&T) comments, in part, that "should the telephone companies be made eligible in the Power Radio Service, we believe that frequencies should be designated specifically for their use to permit operation on an interference-free basis with respect to the utilities presently eligible in this service". AT&T further comments that "one frequency pair in the 40 Mc range and two frequency pairs in the 450 Mc range should be common throughout the United States in order to facilitate large area use in the construction, maintenance, and repair of long haul toll circuits as well as provide a common meeting ground for radio equipped vehicles which may be dispatched from the various telephone companies to a particular area of the country which has been subjected to floods, hurricanes or major disaster. Frequencies of the remaining channels need not be the same in all areas, but should, if possible, be common within a state area".

3. The National Committee for Utilities Radio (NCUR) concludes, in its comments, that the communications common carriers should not be made eligible under the Power Radio Service Rules. Its main objections to the proposal are encompassed in the following: (1) Incompatibility of the communications companies and the power utilities for purposes of effective coordination of frequency usage, and (2) impracticability of providing for the eligibility of additional persons without, simultaneously, remedying the frequency congestion problems which will result therefrom. Virtually all of the objections expressed in the remaining adverse comments can be reduced to one or both of the above generalizations.

In connection with the contention that the addition of such a large body of potential radio users to the Power Radio Service would result in overcrowding, it is emphasized that only by the most careful and cooperative coordination in the matter of frequency assignments have present licensees been able to accomplish even a moderately effective usage of the frequencies currently available in the Power Radio Service. Additionally, it is urged that, based on the number of power utilities which have not yet applied for authorizations, projection of potential future usage by persons already eligible for radio in the Power Radio Service indicates that the problem of overcrowding will become even greater. In the same regard, it is contended that the communications common carrier operations would closely parallel the areas and peak periods of present power radio users and that this could possibly result in chaotic conditions during periods of emergency.

4. Comments relative to the problem of effective frequency coordination between the power companies and the communications common carriers emphasize that coordination and effective usage have thus far been achieved by the combining of intensive urban type licensees with a relatively large number of limited-area, small usage licensees, all of which operate under the same fundamental concepts and purposes. It is stressed that those areas wherein coordination problems presently exist are those areas wherein the greatest concentration of common carrier usage can be expected to take place. It is also contended that the area-type coordination presently used is incompatible with the requirements of the communications common carriers, whose operations frequently spread over several states. This, it is alleged, along with the diversity of basic interests between the two groups, makes for incompatibility in the matter of cooperative and coordinated use of frequencies.

5. That the common carriers have need for radio facilities to be used in connection with construction and maintenance and repair operations, there is little doubt, and this need was expressly recognized in the Commission's proposed report and order in Docket 9703, released on October 29, 1954. Because the communications common carriers are engaged in industrial-type operations similar, in many respects, to the types of operation presently contemplated by the rules governing the Power Radio Service, the Commission retains its view (more fully expressed in its order and further notice of September 7, 1955) that their requirements can most properly be provided for by making them eligible in this Service. It was the Commission's original intention that, should the communications common carriers be ultimately made eligible in the Power Radio Service, all of the frequencies presently allocated to that Service would be available to them without immediate reservation. Thus, in the above order and further notice of proposed rule making, the Commission stated: "Further, the notice of proposed rule making goes only to the point of making the communications common carriers eligible in the Power Radio Service. The saturation of some existing Power Radio Service assignments and the degradation which might result from additional assignments are separate matters which are under active study and will not be prejudiced by the proceedings in this docket." However, because of the serious problems posed by the large number of adverse comments filed in this proceeding, the Commission feels that departure from its original proposal is here justified. Accordingly, the Commission is modifying the original proposal to the extent that it is presently making available to the communications common carriers only a selected number of frequencies; these frequencies have been selected with a view to providing for the carrier's immediate requirements and with a view to maintaining a status quo with respect to those frequencies which currently appear to be the most heavily loaded from the usage standpoint. The Commission is reserving judgment with respect to these most heavily loaded frequencies for the purpose of determining the saturation and degradation which might result were they also to be made available to the carriers. Not unrelated are the matters under consideration in the proceeding (Docket 11253) proposing reduced separations between certain of the Commission's presently assignable frequencies.

6. Consistent with the foregoing, a total of three two-frequency pairs (six frequencies) in the 450 Mc Industrial bands are being made available for assignment to the common carriers at this time. For the present, these frequencies will be shared with the other Industrial Radio Services, with further consideration to be given the matter in connection with the above-mentioned proceedings in Docket 11253. Admittedly, the number of frequencies being made available does not meet the stated requirements of the common carriers, and it does not satisfy their requests for the allocation of frequencies on a primary basis. The Commission believes, however, that the three frequency-pairs will meet the present requirements of the carriers; furthermore, these frequencies will permit of an interchange of equipment for the reason that they appear to be little used for mobile service operation and, consequently, readily available in most areas of the country.

It is anticipated that a large portion of the operational requirements of the communications common carriers will continue to be handled by means of wire line facilities. This consideration is a determining factor in the Commission's decision to limit availability, at this time, to 450 Mc frequencies only. The propagation characteristics of this frequency band make it readily adaptable for multiple receiver-transmitter operation to obtain wide area coverage. With this type of operation, extensive use of wire line or fixed radio facilities is mandatory; considering the extensive wire facilities of the common carriers, it is expected that multiple base stations and remote receivers can be installed to effect coverage which might otherwise dictate the use of frequencies located lower in the spectrum.

Because of the present, light, mobile service loading on the six 450 Mc frequencies being made available, it is expected that the problem of frequency coordination will not be particularly difficult. In any event, the Commission can see no reason why coordination between a gas company and a telephone company should be any more difficult to achieve than between the same gas company and a power company or city water department.

7. Comments from the Central Committee on Radio Facilities of the American Petroleum Institute, the Special Industrial Radio Service Association and the Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation are directed, in whole or in part, to the matter of proposed eligibility to conduct point-to-point operations in the Power Radio Service. The Commission is presented with no requirement for point-to-point use by the communications common carriers in this proceeding and, accordingly, is not providing for such use.

8. Comments of the Administrator, Rural Electrification Administration, in addition to giving qualified support to the Commission's original proposal, also request that sharing of frequencies and equipment be permitted between telephone and electric organizations. In connection therewith, the Administrator has attached to his comments a petition (already on file with the Commission) containing the details and rationale of this request. To consider the petition at this juncture would be to unnecessarily prolong the instant proceeding, with a resultant delay in satisfying the immediate requirements of the communications common carriers. In this connection, the Commission's decision to limit the number of frequencies available to the communications common carriers has increased the complexity of the problems presented by the petition. In view of the above, the Commission is deferring final action on the petition, and so much of the Administrator's comments as relates thereto, until a later date.

9. In view of all of the foregoing: It is ordered, Pursuant to the authority contained in §§ 303 (c), (f) and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, that effective October 29, 1956, Part 11 of the Commission's rules governing the Industrial Radio Services is amended as set forth below.

Adopted: September 19, 1956.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,
[SEAL] MARY JANE MORRIS,
Secretary.

Amend Part 11, rules governing the Industrial Radio Services as follows:

1. In § 11.251 (a), redesignate subparagraph (4) as paragraph subparagraph (5) and substitute a new paragraph subparagraph (4) to read as follows:

(4) Persons primarily engaged in offering a communications common carrier service by means of radio or wire line, for use by the general public or by the members of a cooperative organization.

2. In § 11.252 amend paragraph (a) preceding the frequency table to read as follows:

(a) The following frequencies are available for assignment to Base and Mobile Stations in the Power Radio Service (except those of communications common carriers eligible under § 11.251 (a) (4) or (5)) only:

3. In § 11.252, amend paragraph (b) preceding the frequency table to read as follows:

(b) The following frequencies are available for assignment to Base and Mobile Stations in the Power Radio Service (except those of communications common carriers eligible under § 11.251 (a) (4) or (5)) on a shared basis with other services:

4. In § 11.252, amend paragraph (d) preceding the frequency table to read as follows:

(d) Frequencies in the bands listed below are available for assignment to Base and Mobile Stations in the Power Radio Service (except those of communications common carriers eligible under § 11.251 (a) (4) or (5)) on a shared basis with other services, under the terms of a developmental grant only: The exact frequency and the authorized bandwidth will be specified in the authorization.

5. In § 11.253, amend paragraph (a) preceding the frequency table to read as follows:

(a) Subject to the condition that no harmful interference will be caused to reception of television channel number 4 or 5, the following frequencies are available for assignment to Operational Fixed Stations in the Power Radio Service (except those of communications common carriers eligible under § 11.251 (a) (4) or (5)) on a shared basis with other services:

6. In § 11.253, amend paragraph (b) preceding the frequency table to read as follows:

(b) Frequencies in the bands listed below are available for assignment to Operational Fixed Stations in the Power Radio Service (except those of communications common carriers eligible under § 11.251 (a) (4) or (5)) on a shared basis with other services, under the terms of a developmental grant only. The exact frequency and the authorized bandwidth will be specified in the authorization.

7. Amend paragraph (a) of § 11.254 to read as follows:

(a) The frequencies listed in paragraph (c) of this section are available for assignment to stations in the Power Radio Service (except those of communications common carriers eligible under § 11.251 (a) (4) or (5)) for developmental operation only (see Subpart E of this part), and are shared with other radio services.

8. Add a new § 11.255 to Subpart F to read as follows:

§ 11.255 Frequencies available for Base and Mobile Stations of communications common carriers. (a) The following frequencies are available for assignment to communications common carriers in the Power Radio Service for Developmental Operation (see Subpart E of this part) and are shared with other radio services:

Frequency pairs

Mc	Mc

(b) Not more than one pair of frequencies listed in paragraph (a) of this section will ordinarily be assigned for use by the stations of any single mobile service radio system, except upon adequate showing of need. Only one frequency of such pair will ordinarily be assigned to any Mobile Station and the lower frequency of that pair will not be assigned to such Mobile Station unless the system is designed for the single frequency method of operation and the same frequency is also assigned to an associated Base Station.
